For cause of action against the defendants, the plaintiffs, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as Receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, by direction of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, file this bill of complaint, and allege:

I.

That this bill of complaint is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney, et al., v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351; Equity, and Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company No. 1-N, Equity, now pending in this Court, and is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential possession of this Court in said causes, and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this Court in said causes.

That the matter and amount in controversy in this cause exceeds the sum or value of Three Thousand Dollars, exclusive of interest and costs.

That the causes of action herein stated arise under the constitution and laws of the United States.

That this Bill of Complaint is filed against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri for the purpose of restraining and enjoining said Commissions from prescribing and requiring these 7 plaintiffs to observe certain schedules of rates for the transportation and sale of natural gas in said states, which said rates are so unreasonably low as to be unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory, and amount to the taking of property in the possession and control of these plaintiffs without compensation and without due process of law; and to prevent and restrain said two Commissions and the Attorney-General of each of said States, and the Attorney and Counsel of each of said Commissions from interfering with plaintiffs' putting in reasonable rates until such time as some lawful authority approves a lawful schedule of rates, and to restrain and enjoin said Public Utilities Commission and said Public Service Commission from interfering with the interstate commerce conducted by these plaintiffs in the transportation, distribution and sale of natural gas produced in Oklahoma and transported and delivered to consumers in Kansas and Missouri.

That the causes of action herein set forth against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, the Attorney-General of each of said States, and the Attorney and Counsel of each of said Commissions, are united in order to promote the convenient administration of justice and for the reason that the relationship and the acts of the parties are and have been such that it is not practicable to present, hear and determine said causes other than in one court and at the same time.

II.

That the defendants, Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley and John M. Kinkel, are the duly appointed, qualified and acting members of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas; that the defendant S. M. Brewster, is the duly elected, qualified and 8 acting Attorney-General of the State of Kansas and the chief law officer of the State of Kansas; that the defendant, H. O. Castor, is the duly appointed, qualified and acting Attorney for the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas. That the defendant members of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and the defendant Attorney-General of the State of Kansas, and the defendant Attorney for the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, are charged by the laws of the State of Kansas with the duty and obligation of executing and enforcing all of the laws affecting public utilities and other property.

That the defendant, John T. Barker, is the duly elected, qualified and acting Attorney-General of the State of Missouri.

That the defendant, William G. Busby, is the duly appointed, qualified and acting Counsel of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri.

That the defendants, John M. Atkinson, Edwin J. Bean, John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw and Eugene McQuillan, are the duly appointed, qualified and acting members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri. That the defendant members of the Public Service Commission of Missouri and the defendant Attorney-General of the State of Missouri and the defendant Counsel of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are charged by the laws of the State of Missouri with the duty and obligation of executing and enforcing the laws of said State affecting public utilities and other property.

That the defendant Fidelity Title & Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and is trustee under a certain first mortgage and supplemental mortgages heretofore executed by the 9 Kansas Natural Gas Company on its property here involved.

That said Fidelity Title & Trust Company is complainant in two of the suits pending in this Court herein referred to.

That the defendant, the Delaware Trust Company, is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and is the trustee under a certain second mortgage executed and delivered by the Kansas Natural Gas Company covering part of the property here involved. That the said Delaware Trust Company is defendant in one of the suits herein mentioned.

That the Fidelity Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and is the trustee under a certain first mortgage and three supplemental mortgages executed and delivered by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, whose property, as hereinafter set forth, has been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is being operated by the plaintiff receivers.

That the Kansas City Pipe Line Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey. That all of the property of said Kansas City Pipe Line Company has heretofore been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is now in the possession of the Receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company. That said pipe lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company are of but little or no use unless they be operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That the Marnet Mining Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of West Virginia. That said Marnet Mining Company owns certain 10 property and pipe lines in the State of Oklahoma, which said pipe lines and property form a part of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, as will be more fully seen by reference to the files in the case of John L. McKinney, et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, et al., pending in this Court, the files of which case are hereby made a part of this petition by reference. That all of the property of the said Marnet Mining Company is of but little value if separated from the system of pipe lines operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That John F. Overfield is a citizen and resident of Montgomery County, Kansas, and was, on the 21st day of June, 1913, appointed Receiver of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in a proceeding had in that court, and is still such receiver.

That the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware and from 1904 to October, 1912, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas. That it has been duly admitted to do business in the State of Kansas as a foreign corporation. That it owns and operates a system, by lease and otherwise, of pipe lines extending from the counties of Roger, Wagoner, and Tulsa in the State of Oklahoma northerly to the Kansas-Oklahoma state line, and through the State of Kansas into the state of Missouri, with terminals at Joplin, Oronogo, Neck City, Nevada, Kansas City and St. Joseph in the State of Missouri, and Atchison, Leavenworth, Topeka, Galena, Pittsburg and Kansas City in the State of Kansas, and other points, which are more fully shown in the map herein referred to and filed with this petition. That since October, 1912, said system of pipe 11 lines has been in the control of and operated by receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That the defendant George F. Sharritt has potential possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the property under lease by it, within the states of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, as Receiver of this Court, under order of September 22, 1914, made and entered in the cases of John L. McKinney, et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, now pending in this Court, as will more particularly appear hereinafter.

III.

That said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs, are in the actual possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the property under lease to it, in the State of Kansas, as Receivers of said company appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in a proceeding had in said court as is more fully set forth herein.

That said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield are in the actual possession and control of the pipe line system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leased lines, located in the States of Oklahoma and Missouri as ancillary receivers of this Court under an appointment had in the cases of John L. McKinney, et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, now pending in this Court. That the files and papers of said last two mentioned cases are specifically referred to and incorporated by reference herein, for the reason that the volume of such records is so great that it is physically impossible to include them in this bill.

IV.

That on January 5, 1912, the Honorable John S. Dawson, then Attorney-General of the State of Kansas, as such Attorney-General, commenced an action in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, being case No. 13,476, in said court, entitled The State of Kansas v. The Independence Gas Company, a corporation. The Consolidated Gas, Oil & Manufacturing Company, a corporation, and Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation, defendants, for the purpose of ousting said corporations, and each of them, from the exercise of corporate powers and privileges within the State of Kansas, and for the appointment of receivers for said corporations for and on account of violations of the anti-trust and anti-monopoly laws of the State of Kansas, and for and on account of the abuses and misuse of the corporate powers and privileges of said corporations in seeking to control and monopolize the business of producing, purchasing, transporting and selling of natural gas in the State of Kansas, and of destroying competition in said business, and other corporate abuses; that said defendants were legally served with summons, and answered in said cause, and said cause was legally tried before the court on September 28th, 29th, and October 1st, 1912, and said cause at said time, submitted to the court for its determination; that afterwards and on February 15, 1913, the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, having fully considered the evidence, and being fully advised, entered its order finding the said defendants guilty as charged in the petition of the Attorney-General, and appointed these plaintiffs, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as Receivers for all of the property and assets of Kansas Natural Gas Company in the State of Kansas and elsewhere, and directed them forthwith to take possession of, and control and manage all of the said properties and assets of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and to carry on and conduct the business theretofore carried on and conducted by Kansas Natural Gas Company. That after said cause had been submitted to the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, on October 1, 1912, and to-wit, on October 7, 1912, one John L. McKinney, a stockholder, and the holder of certain of the second mortgage bonds of Kansas Natural Gas Company, filed a bill in this Court, No. 1351, Equity, alleging the insolvency of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and praying the appointment of receivers to take possession of, hold and manage its properties and assets; that on said day Kansas Natural Gas Company, by Eugene Mackey, its President, and its general attorney, John J. Jones, entered its voluntary appearance in said cause confessing the allegations of said bill, and consented to the appointment of receivers, and on October 9th, 1912, its President, Eugene Mackey, then of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Conway F. Holmes of Kansas City, Missouri, and George F. Sharitt, of Topeka, Kansas, were by said court appointed receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and immediately qualified and took possession of all properties of Kansas Natural Gas Company in the states of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and thereafter carried on the business theretofore conducted by Kansas Natural Gas Company of producing, purchasing, distributing and selling natural gas to the people of Kansas and Missouri.

That thereafter and within ten days of said 9th day of October, 1912, and pursuant to the requirements of Section 56 of Chapter 4 of the Judicial Code (Act of Congress of March 3, 1911) a certified copy of the bill of said John L. McKinney and of the said order of the court appointing said receivers were filed in the United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri and also in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Oklahoma.

That on February 3, 1913, suit was filed in this Court by the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, complainant, against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Delaware Trust Company, defendants, being No. 1-N, Equity, to foreclose a mortgage, under which it was trustee, on the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. On the same date, on motion the receivership theretofore existing by order of said court in suit No. 1351, wherein John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title & Trust Company were complainants and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Delaware Trust Company defendants, was extended on the same terms and conditions to said suit commenced by the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, and the receivers therein appointed were appointed receivers of the property described in the bill of complaint filed by the said Fidelity Title and Trust Company.

That thereafter in argument of the cause in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, the attention of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, was called to the fact of the appointment of said Federal receivers and of their possession of the property and assets of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and upon entering its decree on February 15, 1913, the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, ordered John S. Dawson, Attorney-General, and said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield as receivers, appointed by said court, to appear in this Court and urge the prior jurisdiction of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, over the subject matter, and the parties and the rights of the State of Kansas in said action, and that they pray a delivery of the property to the receivers appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas; that acting under said instruction, said state receivers employed counsel learned in the law, and made said application to this Court on February 18, 1913, praying for delivery of all property in the hands of the said federal receivers to the receivers appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas. That afterwards this Court rendered judgment thereon directing the delivery to said state receivers of all of the property of Kansas Natural Gas Company in Kansas; (206 Fed. 772). That said judgment was affirmed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit (209 Fed. 300), and said federal receivers, on January 1, 1914, delivered to said state receivers all of the property of Kansas Natural Gas Company situated in the State of Kansas.

That during the pendency of the aforesaid appeal and on July 10, 1913, the said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas made an order directing the federal receivers to extend their pipe lines in Oklahoma so as to secure additional gas, a copy of which order is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "G." On application by the Federal receivers to this Court for instruction, this Court on July 24, 1913, directed said receivers not to comply with the order of the said commission. (219 Fed. 614.)

That on the 6th day of December, 1913, an application was filed in said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in said cause therein pending, requesting the court to extend the receivership in said cause on the additional ground of insolvency, for the reason of the confessed insolvency made by Kansas Natural Gas Company in the United States District Court, and the court, upon being advised, sustained said application, and extended the receivership upon the additional ground of insolvency.

That on the 2nd day of January, 1914, the said Eugene Mackey, resigned as receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, appointed in the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and in the case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., and on the 9th day of January, 1914, said resignation was by this Court accepted and said Eugene Mackey was discharged as such receiver.

That on March 12, 1914, Conway F. Holmes, one of the two remaining receivers appointed by this Court, resigned as receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and such resignation was by this Court accepted and on said date the said George F. Sharritt was made the sole receiver of this Court for the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the properties operated by it for the District of Kansas, the Western District of Missouri and the Eastern District of Oklahoma, and the said George F. Sharritt ever since said date has been and now is such receiver.

That after said property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company within the State of Kansas was delivered to said state receivers on January 1, 1914, said state receivers, acting through their attorneys, made further application to this Court for the delivery of the remaining property of Kansas Natural Gas Company in the hands of said Federal receivers, which application was denied and on appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals, said order of this Court was reversed

(217 Fed. 187), and in accordance with the mandate of said Court of Appeals, this Court ordered its receiver, pursuant to the order set forth herein, to deliver to said state receivers of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, all of the property and assets of every kind and nature of Kansas Natural Gas Company situated in the states of Oklahoma and Missouri, excepting $50,000 in money retained by this Court, and on September 22, 1914, the possession of all property and assets of every kind and character of Kansas Natural Gas Company, except the $50,000 as aforesaid, was delivered by said Federal receiver to said state receivers as aforesaid, and since said time said state receivers have been conducting and carrying on the business theretofore carried on and conducted by the Federal receivers and by the Kansas Natural Gas Company prior to the appointment of the Federal receivers.

That the transcripts of the records in said above mentioned causes in the Circuit Court of Appeals, Eighth Circuit, to-wit, Kansas City Pipe Line Company v. Fidelity Title & Trust Company, No. 4202; Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Fidelity Trust Company v. Fidelity Title & Trust Company, et al., No. 4179; John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 4195; Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Fidelity Trust Company v. Fidelity Title & Trust Company, No. 4196; John L. McKinney et al. v. John M. Landon et al., No. 4008, and Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. John M. Landon et al., No. 4009, are hereby referred to and incorporated by reference herein for the reason that the volume of such transcripts and records is so great that it is physically impossible to include them in this bill.

That so much of said order of September 22, 1914, as is pertinent hereto, so made by this Court in said cause is as follows:

18 "It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that this Court through its said receiver, George F. Sharritt, shall retain the potential possession of the estates, properties and assets of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estates and contracts of and with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and Marnet Mining Company, situate in the States of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma or elsewhere in this the Eighth Judicial Circuit; but the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield and their successors shall have the right as Receivers to retain the actual possession, control and management of the estate, property, money, funds, assets and earnings of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estates and contracts of and with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and The Marnet Mining Company situated in the states of Missouri and

Oklahoma or elsewhere, under the terms and conditions expressed in the order of this Court made January 24, 1914, as modified herein; the intent hereof being, that if and when said State Court shall surrender, lose or abandon possession, jurisdiction or control over said properties or any part thereof (otherwise than a loss of control resulting from a sale or other disposition by order of said State Court) the same shall thereupon revert to the possession of the receiver of this Court; to the end that no other person, officer or court shall be enabled or permitted to seize, levy upon, possess, control or exercise jurisdiction over any of the estates, properties or assets of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estates and contracts of and with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company within this the Eighth Judicial Circuit except the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and its ancillary receivers and the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, receivers appointed by said Court, and that, by virtue of the prior right of 19 possession and jurisdiction of said Court to said properties situated in the State of Kansas and pursuant to and upon the terms and conditions provided for in said order of January 24, 1914, as herein modified; and said order of this Court dated January 24, 1914, together with this modification thereof and a certified copy of the order of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and of the receipt of said receivers pursuant to this order shall be filed in the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Oklahoma and the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Missouri, in the manner provided by Sec. 56 of the Judicial Code; and all persons, and officers and receivers appointed by other courts will take notice hereof and they are hereby restrained and enjoined from attempting to levy upon, seize, possess or control any of the properties of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estate and contracts of and with the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company, or any part thereof, situate in the States of Kansas, Missouri, or Oklahoma, or elsewhere in this the Eighth Judicial Circuit, and from molesting, disturbing or interfering with the actual possession and control of said properties by the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, receivers appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas."

That on or about January 9, 1915, this Court on application duly made, appointed said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield ancillary receivers in this court in said causes therein pending, for all the property and assets of the Kansas Natural Gas Company situated in the States of Missouri and Oklahoma. That thereupon said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield duly qualified as required by the orders of this Court and ever since said time have been and 20 now are the duly qualified and acting receivers of this Court for all the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company situated in the states of Missouri and Oklahoma.

V.

That on the 17th day of December, 1914, all parties concerned in said suits pending in the Federal and state courts, including the State of Kansas, the First and Second mortgage bondholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as Receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the Marnet Mining Company, entered into a certain agreement and stipulation called "Creditors' Agreement," which agreement is of record in said suits mentioned in both state and this Court and approved by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, a copy of which Creditors' Agreement is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "A," and made a part hereof.

That said Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of receivers, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas, and carrying on its said activities in the states of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri; that after the appointment of the receiver of this Court, said receivers continued and carried on the said business after the manner the same had been theretofore conducted by Kansas Natural Gas Company, and after the delivery of the property aforesaid, to said state receivers, as aforesaid, they continued to carry on said business theretofore conducted and carried on by said Federal receivers and by said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

21 That in carrying on said business as aforesaid, these plaintiff receivers carry on and conduct the same by the use of instrumentalities consisting of pipelines, gas wells, compressor stations, gathering lines, feed lines, measuring stations, regulation stations, and other devices commonly used in the gas business, and that said pipelines extend from the counties of Roger, Wagoner and Tulsa in the State of Oklahoma, northerly through the counties of Washington and Nowata, in the State of Oklahoma, through the State of Kansas, and into the State of Missouri, reaching terminals at Joplin, Oronogo, Neck City, Nevada, Kansas City and St. Joseph, in the State of Missouri; that the said pipelines extending through Kansas reach the cities of Atchison, Leavenworth, Topeka, Galena, Pittsburg and Kansas City, and points intermediate between the said last named points in the State of Kansas and the Kansas-Oklahoma state line. That the gas is taken from the wells where it is produced in the states of Oklahoma and Kansas, and piped at its own natural pressure into pipelines which transport it to the main pipelines or trunk lines extending from Oklahoma through Kansas, into Missouri. It is transported through said pipelines to the compressor stations, where it is compressed to a high pressure and made to flow freely through said pipelines by means of said compression to the next compressor station, where it is again compressed and made to flow through said pipeline to the next compressor station, where it is again compressed, and by this process of compression and recompression, it is transported through said pipelines to the consumers in the states of Kansas and Missouri. That each of said compressor stations is part of the unit system of transportation owned and operated by these plaintiffs, and are essential and necessary parts of said transportation system.

22 That said pipelines constitute one complete system, which cannot be operated separately or otherwise than as one unit. That said natural gas from the time it leaves the gas wells in Oklahoma until it is delivered to the consumers in the states of Kansas and Missouri and by them consumed, is in continuous course of transportation and at no time is it stored or is its transportation suspended. That plaintiffs begin in Oklahoma such transportation of natural gas with the intent and purpose that said natural gas shall be continuously moved and transported without interruption until it is delivered to consumers in Kansas and Missouri, and the same is true of the natural gas transported from Kansas to consumers in Missouri. That none of the natural gas transported by plaintiffs is produced in Missouri, and only 6% is both produced and delivered to consumers in Kansas.

That the natural gas is delivered to the consumers in the several cities by plaintiffs through distributing companies under written contracts of which those set out in the files and records in cases No. 1351 Equity, and No. 1-N, Equity, of this Court are typical. That the amount paid by the consumer for natural gas purchased, as measured by his meter, is divided between plaintiffs and the distributing company in payment of the services rendered by each according to the percentages set out in the contracts above referred to, and such amount includes the original cost of the product to plaintiffs plus the cost of transportation and profits, if any.

That of the total volume of natural gas obtained and transmitted by plaintiffs in carrying on said business, approximately 85% is obtained in Oklahoma and 15% in Kansas, and that the portion obtained from Kansas wells is piped and transmitted from said wells direct to the transporting pipelines employed by plaintiffs, and 23 is there, and immediately upon entering the same, inextricably commingled with the gas from Oklahoma wells, and cannot be thereafter separated or distinguished from the same; nor can such Kansas gas be controlled without interfering with the control and management of said Oklahoma gas, which is transmitted through and by means of said pipelines from the wells in Oklahoma in one continuous and uninterrupted journey to the consumers in Kansas and Missouri.

These plaintiffs further say that the business carried on and conducted by them as and in the manner aforesaid, is the carrying on of business and commerce among different states of the Union, to-wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, as confided to it by Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States, and is not subject to control, regulation or interference by the states of Kansas, or Missouri, or their officers.

VI.

That in March, 1911, the Legislature of the State of Kansas enacted Chapter 238, Laws of Kansas, 1911, which created the Public Utilities Commission and provided among other things as follows:

30. "Unless the Commission shall otherwise order, it shall be unlawful for any common carrier or public utility governed by the provisions of this act within this state to demand, collect or receive a greater compensation for any service than the charge fixed on the lowest schedule of rates for the same services on the 1st day of January, 1911."

20. "Whenever any common carrier or public utility governed by the provisions of this act shall desire to make any change
24 in any rate, joint rate, toll, charge or classification or schedule of charges, or in any rule or regulation or practice pertaining to the services or rates of any such public utility or common carrier, such public utility or common carrier shall file with the Public Utilities Commission a schedule showing the changes desired to be made and put in force by such public utility or common carrier, and such changes shall be plainly indicated by proper reference marks in amendments or supplements to existing tariffs, schedules or classifications or in new issues thereof. No change shall be made in any rate, toll, charge or classification or schedule of charges, joint rates or in any rule or regulation or practice pertaining to the service or rates of any such public utility or common carrier, without the consent of the commission, and within thirty days after such changes have been authorized by said Public Utilities Commission, then copies of all tariffs, schedules, and classifications, and all rules and regulations, shall be filed in every station, office or depot of every such public utility and every common carrier in this state, for public inspection."

That the Kansas Natural Gas Company and these plaintiff receivers have been unable to secure the permission of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas to raise the price of gas except as hereinafter stated.

That on January 1, 1911, rates were in effect for the sale and delivery of gas in accordance with the schedule marked Exhibit "C" hereto attached and made a part hereof.

That said Chapter 238 took effect the 22nd day of May, 1911, and provided among other things as follows:

25 Sec. 38. "If any common carrier or public utility governed by the provision of this act shall violate any of the provisions of this act, or shall do any act herein prohibited, or shall fail or refuse to perform any duty enjoined upon it in this act, or shall fail, neglect or refuse to obey any lawful requirement or order made by the commissioners, or any final judgment or decree made by any court upon appeal from any order of the commissioners, it shall, for every such violation, failure or refusal, forfeit and pay to the support of the common schools a sum not less than one hundred dollars and not more than one thousand dollars for such offense. Such forfeiture shall be enforced and collected by the attorney general in any court of competent jurisdiction. In construing and enforcing the provisions of this act, any act, omission or failure of any officer, agent or other person acting for or employed by any such public utility or common carrier while acting within the scope of his employment, shall in every case be deemed to be the act, omission or failure of such public utility or common carrier and every day during which any such public utility or common carrier or officer, agent, or employee thereof, shall fail to comply with any order or direction of the commissioner, or to perform any duty required or enjoined by this act, shall constitute a separate and distinct violation of the provisions of this act."

That said Chapter 238 is still in full force and effect and has not been amended or repealed in any wise.

That on December 30, 1912, this Court in the receivership suits herein pending fixed a schedule of prices for the sale of gas at various points supplied by the Federal receivers. This order provided for rates from fourteen cents at Caney, Kansas, to thirty-five cents at St.

26 Joseph, Missouri, and Atchison, Kansas, with a thirty-one cent rate at Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri. That such prices were rates charged distributing companies for gas measured by meter placed at the point where their systems connected with the lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That on January 4, 1913, this court modified the order of December 30, 1912, which order and modification is as follows:

"It is ordered that said order of December 30, 1912, be modified by eliminating the provisions requiring the receivers to shut off the supply of gas from the distributing companies, failing to elect in writing to take the gas at the rates specified in said order before the expiration of the ten-day period mentioned in said order.

And it is further ordered that the further hearing on the said petition be continued until the February, 1913, Rule Day of this Court.

It is also ordered that until the February, 1913, Rule Day of this Court all parties having any interest in this controversy, or who may be affected, and given leave, may come into this action by intervention or otherwise, to the end that the trust fund and properties, the interests of the distributing companies, the consumers of gas, and all persons concerned, may be considered, protected and preserved.

This cause is continued for further orders."

VII.

That in January, 1913, the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas filed a complaint with the said Commission bringing in as respondents the Kansas Natural Gas Company,

27 its receivers, and the distributing companies. That during the pendency of this proceeding the order of this Court increasing the price of natural gas was suspended. That in said proceeding before the Public Utilities Commission the receivers asked for permission to establish a certain schedule increasing the rates theretofore charged. That said Public Utilities Commission denied permission to increase the rates charged on January 1, 1911, and denied said petition and ordered the said receivers to maintain the schedule of rates in force on January 1, 1911, a copy of which order and opinion of said Public Utilities Commission is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "E" and made a part hereof.

That on April 9, 1915, these plaintiffs, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, filed before said Public Utilities Commission their complaint alleging that the schedule heretofore fixed by the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and then in force and effect was unreasonably low, non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory, and did not permit a reasonable return on the investment and did not permit said receivers to comply with the terms of said Creditors' Agreement heretofore referred to as Exhibit "A," and asked for permission of the Commission to put in force and effect a schedule of rates, a copy of which schedule is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "F" and made a part hereof. That on July 16, 1915, said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas rendered its opinion, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "H," and made a part hereof, authorizing an increase in the prices charged consumers in Kansas to twenty-eight cents (28c.) net, where the price then was twenty-five cents (25c.) per thousand cubic feet, but made such consent contingent upon the establishment of the same schedule

28 of rates in Missouri as provided in said opinion, and denied all other relief sought by the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield.

That on the 27th day of August, A. D. 1915, after hearing had, the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, enjoined the enforcement of said order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and ordered an establishment of a rate of thirty cents (30c.) per thousand cubic feet, all of which more fully appears in the findings of fact and the journal entry in said cause, a copy of which is hereto attached marked Exhibit "I" and made a part hereof.

That an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas by the said Public Utilities Commission from the order overruling its demurrer filed to the petition in the above case, which appeal was heard by the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas at the same time as the mandamus proceeding hereinafter mentioned.

That on August 17, 1915, H. O. Castor as Attorney for the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas filed a suit in mandamus in the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas against the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, Receivers, and the Judge of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, to require said receivers to maintain the schedule of rates promulgated by the said Public Utilities Commission and to require the said Judge of the said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, to vacate and set aside the order making the Public Utilities Commission a party defendant in the action pending in said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and to set aside the temporary restraining order in that action and to dismiss the suit against the Public Utilities Commission. That 29 the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield filed an answer in said cause. On October 4, 1915, the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas in an opinion which is reported in Volume 96 of the Kansas Reports, page 372, denied the writ against R. S. Litchfield and John M. Landon holding that the twenty-eight cent (28c.) rate prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission was unreasonable, non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory, and did not afford the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield sufficient revenue to pay operating expenses and to comply with the terms of said Creditors' Agreement hereto attached, marked Exhibit "A." Said Supreme Court, however, in the appeal case decided that the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, did not have jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission and reversed the order of said court.

VIII.

That thereafter on the 7th day of October, 1915, said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as receivers aforesaid, filed a petition for rehearing in the proceeding theretofore had before the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, asking for permission to put in a schedule of rates of thirty-seven cents (37c.) per thousand cubic feet outside of Montgomery County, Kansas, a copy of which petition for rehearing is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "J" and made a part hereof.

That in said petition for rehearing, the expenses and needs of said plant operated by said receivers were pointed out as well as the errors of the Commission in making the former computation. That hearing was had on said petition for rehearing, additional evidence introduced by said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield and the case submitted to the Commission on the 27th day of October, 30 1915. That on the 10th day of December, 1915, said Commission filed its opinion containing its findings of fact and conclusions thereon, and made its order in said case whereby it authorized the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield to file a schedule for the sale of natural gas through their distributing companies to take effect in the State of Kansas, to-wit: For domestic gas in Montgomery County, except Elk City, 23c. per thousand cubic feet; for domestic gas in Elk City, 25c. per thousand cubic feet; for boiler gas in Montgomery County, Kansas, 10c. per thousand cubic feet; for domestic gas in all other counties and cities other than those supplied by the Gunn Pipe Line 28c. per thousand cubic feet; for all consumers supplied by the Gunn pipe line 30c. per thousand cubic feet, and for all boiler gas except in Montgomery County, 12½c. per thousand feet. A copy of said order and opinion and the findings of said Public Utilities Commission is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "K" and made a part hereof. That said Exhibit "K" also contains the dissenting opinion of Commissioner Foley who held that the schedule was too low. That said Public Utilities Commission by said order and opinion denied the application of said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs herein, to put into effect the schedule of rates marked Exhibit "F" hereto attached.

IX.

That said findings of fact of said Commission contained in Exhibit "K" are erroneous and not supported by any evidence introduced on the original hearing or on the rehearing before said Commission in said matter.

That said findings of fact, opinion and order of said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas were not based on evidence introduced before the Commission but were based upon information given to the Commission by its clerks, accountants and engineers while not under oath, and whom plaintiffs were not afforded an opportunity to cross-examine as to the correctness of the information given, thus depriving plaintiffs of their property without due process of law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

That on page 7 of said Exhibit "K" the said Commission finds the total value of the company's property employed in the business of producing, transporting and distributing natural gas as of January 1, 1915, to be $8,994,811.03. That the only evidence before the Commission as to value of the property was that of its engineer, who found the value of the physical property as of January 1, 1915, to be $8,994,811.03. That said engineer testified that such valuation did not include "going value," "going concern value," or any value of the property for the cost of attaching the business or as a going concern. That the value of the property as found by the Commission does not include any going value. That plaintiffs are and were entitled to a return on the going value of said plant. That the fair and reasonable "going" value or development cost of said plant as a going concern as of January 1, 1915, was and is now not less than $2,637,400.

Plaintiffs aver that the fair and reasonable total value of said plant and property used and employed in the business of producing, transporting and distributing natural gas to the consumers in Kansas and Missouri as of January 1, 1915, was and now is more than the sum of $11,632,211, on which they are entitled to a return of ten per cent.

That the Commission in not allowing any intangible value for said property erred and thereby deprived these plaintiffs of property without due process of law. That the said Commission while in fact finding the value of said property as of January 1, 1915, to be $8,994,811.03, did consider only $7,083,605.64 as the total value on which plaintiffs were entitled to a return but in fact said Commission permitted a return on only $3,221,379.49 (see pages 7, 9, 12 and 16 of Exhibit "K").

That said Commission in its tables and opinion allows no value whatever for leaseholds that were conveyed to the Kansas Natural Gas Company by R. M. Snyder, T. N. Barnsdall, James O'Neil and others at the time of the organization of the Kansas Natural Gas Company who took in exchange for said leaseholds stock of the corporation. That said leaseholds were at such time of the fair and reasonable value of $6,000,000.

That said Commission in its opinion and findings erred in fixing the life of the plant and field to be twelve years instead of six years. That the true life of the plant, as elsewhere in this bill alleged, is in fact but six years from January 1, 1915.

That said Commission in its table No. 3 on page 13 of Exhibit "K" in ascertaining and attempting to ascertain the income derived from the production and distribution of natural gas included in the item of gas sales ($30,629,066.07) the item of gas produced ($6,023,792.16), thereby showing the total income prior to December 31, 1914, to be $6,023,792.16 more than it actually was. That said Commission in said Table No. 3 on page 13 charged operating expenses with gas produced from the leaseholds owned by the company in the sum of $6,023,792.16, and in income credited the company with the gas so produced in the same amount, thus making one charge offset the other and thereby giving the public 33 the benefit of over $6,000,000.00 worth of gas without charge.

That the reasonable value of gas produced from said leaseholds owned by the company up to and including December 31, 1914, was in excess of $10,000,000.00 instead of $6,023,792.16, as found by said Commission.

That said Commission in attempting to separate the property used in the production of natural gas from the property used in the transportation of natural gas erred in that the accounts of the company were not so separated and the whole was used in all the system of production and transportation of natural gas and all said property was employed in said business.

That said Commission erred (Table No. 5, page 18) in using four cents as the price of gas to be purchased in the future for the reason that the price of gas to be purchased is and will not be less than six cents per thousand cubic feet.

That said Commission erred (Table No. 5, page 18) in estimating the increased revenue to be obtained in the schedule put into effect after the order of December 10, 1915. That instead of the increase being $171,513.63, as found by the Commission, the increase in revenue after deducting losses in revenue will not amount to more than $75,059.53.

That the said Commission erred in estimating the amount of operating expenses and taxes at $510,536.14 (Table No. 5, page 18). That the true amount required for these purposes is $800,000.00 per year. That said Commission erred in omitting from said item of operating expenses the cost of obtaining the supply of gas, to-wit the cost of making extensions to new fields to secure the 34 necessary amount of gas which item amounts to and will amount to $500,000.00 for 1916 and $200,000.00 for each year thereafter.

That said Commission erred in its Table No. 5 (p. 18) in allowing depreciation on only $7,083,615.64, when it found the value of the plant to be $8,994,811.03, and the actual total value of said plant employed in said service is $11,632,211.

The Commission also erred in fixing the depreciation on a basis of twelve years from the true life of said plant is five years from January 1, 1916, in which time all but $1,500,000.00 of said total valuation of $11,632,211 must be amortized.

Said Commission erred in allowing a return upon the investment at the rate of six per cent per annum only instead of ten per cent per annum. That owing to the hazardous nature of the business any return less than ten per cent on the value of the property employed in said business is and will be unreasonable and confiscatory.

That the total fair value of the said plant in the possession and control of these plaintiffs employed and used for the purpose of transporting, producing and selling natural gas to consumers in Kansas and Missouri, and upon which these plaintiffs are entitled to a fair and reasonable return at the rate of not less than ten per cent per annum, exclusive of operating expenses, depreciation and repairs is $11,632,211.

That by reason of each and all of said errors plaintiffs are and will be deprived of property in their control and possession without due process of law and such property is and will be taken without compensation.

X.

That as evidence of the true value of the said property as above set forth, plaintiffs aver the value of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including operated and leased property in the State of Kansas as assessed for taxation by the State Tax Commission for said State for the year 1915, is and was $8,003,699.00; that the valuation of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the State of Missouri, as assessed by the taxing authorities for the year 1915, is and was $145,610.00. That the value of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the property leased to it, in the State of Oklahoma, as assessed by the taxing authorities for the year 1915, is and was $1,860,434.00; that the total assessed valuation of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company including the property operated and leased by it in the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, for the year 1915 is and was $10,009,743.00. That said assessed valuations show the proper proportion of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the possession of these plaintiffs lying and situated in each of the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

XI.

That to avoid complications and litigation with the State of Kansas and the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and additional financial loss and suits for penalties under the statutes heretofore set out, plaintiff receivers filed with the Public Utilities Commission a schedule of rates, but under protest.

That the schedule of rates which has been put into effect
 36 by the plaintiff receivers under the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, is as shown by Exhibit "M" hereto attached, and made a part hereof. That said schedule and tariff also show the rates in effect in Kansas prior to December 10, 1915.

That the net income above operating expenses, taxes, repairs and accrued depreciation has not at any time during the time the plant has been operated, amounted to a fair return on the investment.

XII.

That by reason of the decrease in the production of oil the miscellaneous revenue for 1915 and future years will be less than for previous years, the true and correct amounts of such differences being in the following table.

 of 1915—as compared with the same period in 1914:

Sales of Oil.....	$28,258.00

XIII.

That at the time the Kansas Natural Gas Company was organized expert engineers were sent into the gas fields to determine the 37 life of the fields. These engineers reported a length of life of the fields far in excess of what has proved to be their actual life. For a number of years after the Kansas Natural Gas Company was organized the supply of gas was furnished from the counties of Allen, Wilson and Montgomery in the State of Kansas, from leases owned by that corporation. These gas fields became largely exhausted at a much earlier date than the reports of expert engineers had led the corporation to believe probable and it became necessary to secure a supply from the State of Oklahoma. This involved the construction of new pipe lines, the erection of additional compressor stations and the piping of gas with its attendant leakage from much greater distance than was ever intended by the incorporators of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. The source of supply has been rapidly moving south in what is known as the "Mid-Continent Field" and the problem of purchasing a sufficient supply of gas to supply the market served by the transportation system operated by these plaintiffs has been fraught with great hazards, difficulties, cost and expense and it yearly requires a large sum of money to build extensions to the plant and secure supplies of gas from new sources and new fields in order to furnish the same amount of gas as was supplied the previous year. That the cost of gas has increased during the past year at least one cent (1c.) per thousand feet owing to the short duration of the gas pools and fields (see opinion and ruling of the Oklahoma Corporation Commission on Conservation of Gas, P. U. R. 1915-E 1001) and also by reason of two other trunk lines or transportation systems operating in and now diminishing the source of supply, a true and correct map showing said three trunk lines Kansas Natural, Quapaw & Wichita, and Oklahoma Natural, and the fleeting character of the pools, fields, the original and present 38 rock pressures and the competition for said gas, together with an analysis of said map in the Mid-Continent Gas Field is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "L" and made a part hereof by reference.

That now more than eighty-five per cent of the gas supplied by these plaintiffs to consumers in Kansas and Missouri is secured from Oklahoma. That owing to the financial condition of the Kansas Natural Gas Company very few leases have been purchased by that company or these plaintiffs in recent years but on the other hand practically all of the gas secured from Oklahoma has been purchased in Oklahoma at a specified rate per thousand feet. That of the gas so purchased five per cent is lost through leakage in gathering the same and transporting it from the wells to the trunk lines and compressors. That of the quantity delivered to the trunk lines and compressors only ninety per cent (90%) is delivered to the distributing systems in various towns and cities. That of the quantity delivered to the distributing systems less than eighty per cent (80%) is delivered to consumers. That all the evidence shows the probable life of the gas fields which may be profitably reached by the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is six years from January 1, 1915.

That the said period of six years stated as the life of said gas plant is also the determination of the creditors, bondholders, and the State of Kansas by its Attorney-General in making and executing the Creditors' Agreement heretofore attached to this petition as Exhibit "A." That said period of six years was adopted as the probable life of said gas plant by the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas in its opinion of July 16, 1915, heretofore attached as Exhibit "H."

39 That the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company at the end of said six years will have no value whatever except as scrap. That the machinery for its compressor stations has been built specially and at the end of the six years will be worth but little more than the cost of dismantling. That because of the fact that the pipelines are buried in the ground and are of special construction, not suitable for any other purpose, their value hardly exceeds the cost of removing them, that the correct scrap value of the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company at the end of the six-year period will not exceed $1,500,000.

That the difference between the total value of the plant as of date of January 1, 1915, and the scrap value at the end of the life of the plant is $10,132,211, which sum must be amortized in the five years from January 1, 1915, as the revenue for the year 1915, owing to the confiscatory rates plaintiffs have been obliged to maintain, have been insufficient to amortize any part of the plant value during 1915. That a revenue must be provided sufficiently large to provide an annual sum for amortization in addition to the operating expenses and repairs and a reasonable return on the property employed in the business. That it will require the sum of $500,000 for the first year and $200,000 per year for each of the succeeding four years in order to procure the annual additional supply of gas necessary to maintain the same volume of gas supplied to consumers as is now transported and distributed. That nothing less than ten per cent per annum is a fair and reasonable rate of return on the property employed and used in said business, considering the hazardous nature of said business. That the following table shows the true and correct amount of gross revenue which is necessary for these plaintiffs to obtain in order to meet operating expenses, repairs, secure 40 future gas supply and provide for the amortization of the plant in five years, and a fair return on the property employed in the service:

Showing revenue required and items thereof for the years 1916 and 1917:

XV.

That the correct amount of revenue which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce in the State of Kansas and the revenue which the rates now in existence will create in the State of Missouri, is shown by the following table:

Table.

Showing revenue that will be received from the State of Kansas by putting into force the Order of December 10, 1915, and the revenue that will be received from Missouri based on present 41 rates there. Assuming that the volume of business will be the same as in 1914.

From the State of Kansas.....	$1,400,696.81
From the State of Missouri.....	1,460,536.01
Total .....	$2,861,232.82
Revenue for 1914—All States.....	2,726,173.29
Increase in Kansas .....	135,059.53
Less Loss of Miscellaneous Revenue.....	60,000.00
Net Increase .....	75,059.53
Correct amount of total revenue in Kansas and Missouri under new Kansas rates.....	$2,801,232.82

The foregoing tables show that the revenue under the rates now in effect will produce but $2,801,232, after deducting for losses in miscellaneous and other revenue. That $5,140,696 revenue is required for the year 1916, and $4,698,845 for the year 1917 and each year thereafter during the remaining years of the life of the plant. That the present rates fall short of producing the required revenue by $2,339,464 for the year 1916, and $1,897,613 for the year 1917 and each year thereafter. That an increase of 1 cent per thousand cubic feet in the rate charged for natural gas sold in both Kansas and Missouri will give to these plaintiffs an additional revenue of approximately $75,000. Thus it is seen that even the rate of 37 cents at all points in Kansas, north of Montgomery County, and at all points in Missouri except St. Joseph (where 40 cents is now charged) will not be sufficient to give plaintiffs a fair return on the property employed in said business. Plaintiffs, however, ask no more than 37 cents at present.

XVI.

That all of the foregoing tables are typical of the years of the remaining life of said plant. That any lower schedule of rates in the state of Kansas than those set out in Exhibit "F" of this petition will be unreasonable, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory. That these plaintiffs have been deprived of property without compensation and without due process of law and will continue to be deprived of property without compensation and without due process of law in the transportation of gas to consumers in the state of Kansas unless the rates set out in Exhibit "F" are put into effect. On account of all of which, said order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void and in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and an interference with interstate commerce which is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, and which is confided to it by Section 8 to Article I of Constitution of the United States.

That the business of transporting, distributing and selling natural gas is not that of a common carrier and is not subject to the regulation or control or jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. That neither said Kansas Natural Gas Company nor said Federal receivers nor these plaintiffs have or do deliver or sell gas to domestic consumers in the State of Oklahoma or conduct or carry on any business of or as a public utility therein.

XVII.

43 That said order of December 10, 1915, of the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas provides and requires plaintiff receivers to furnish gas produced in Kansas to consumers in Kansas at such an unreasonably low rate as not to afford sufficient revenue to pay a fair return above operating expenses on the property employed in such service and thereby imposes a burden on the interstate commerce conducted by plaintiff receivers as part of said business of producing, transporting and distributing natural gas.

That plaintiffs have no adequate remedy in the premises except such relief as may be obtained by appealing to a court of equity to annul and hold void such arbitrary and confiscatory rates so prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and to restrain said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas from interfering with the plaintiffs putting in reasonable rates until such time as some lawful authority approves a lawful schedule of rates.

That it is desired by these plaintiffs to put into effect the schedule of rates set forth in Exhibit "F" attached to this bill so as to obtain reasonable compensation for gas transported and delivered to consumers in Kansas and to obtain a return on the property and investment of the Kansas Natural Gas Company used in such service. That these plaintiffs desire to put into effect a schedule of reasonable rates.

That so far as the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas has legal control over the rates charged to consumers in Kansas these plaintiff receivers are prevented and intimidated from putting into effect a schedule of reasonable rates and charges because of the highly excessive and unusually severe penalties provided in the aforesaid penalty statute (Section 38, Chapter 238, Laws of 44 Kansas, 1911) and because of the refusal of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas to consent to putting into effect the schedule of such rates and charges. That under the provisions of such penalty statute if plaintiff receivers should raise the schedule of rates to be collected and upon a judicial investigation into their right to do so it should be determined that plaintiff receivers' raise of said rates in excess of the schedule provided in said order of December 10, 1915, was not valid then the fines and penalties provided for failure to conform to said order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, at the minimum basis thereof would approximate for the period of one year only the enormous and prohibitory sum of $2,258,401,000. In fact, for the year from January 1, 1916, to January 1, 1917, the fines and penalties which might be imposed upon these plaintiff receivers under the conditions aforesaid would aggregate the exorbitant and confiscatory sum of $2,258,401,000. That the maximum amount of penalties which might be imposed during said time aforesaid would aggregate the confiscatory sum of $22,584,010,000. In this connection these plaintiff receivers state that they furnish gas through the distributing companies to 61,874 consumers per day in Kansas. Because of the constraint and intimidation of the unusual penalties these plaintiff receivers have been forced to keep in effect the requirements and schedules prescribed by said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas from time to time and the fines provided for failure to conform to said orders are so unusual and enormous as to force upon these plaintiff receivers an abandonment of the right to act independently of said void and illegal orders, and by virtue of such facts said orders of said Public Utilities Commission are void and unconstitutional as depriving these plaintiffs of their property

45 without due process of law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. In this connection plaintiffs allege that the penalties provided for the failure to conform to said orders of said Public Utilities Commission are so unusual, oppressive and unreasonable that the said plaintiffs are thereby precluded from the privilege of asserting their rights independently and challenging in the courts the validity of said orders except at the risk and with the chance of becoming subject to the unusual and excessive penalties aforementioned as the result of which situation these plaintiffs are denied the equal protection of the law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

XVIII.

Adequate relief at law from this situation would not be available to these plaintiffs and plaintiffs' resources and efforts would be absorbed in unnecessary and highly burdensome litigation. Because of which facts the said Kansas Natural Gas Company's property would be needlessly appropriated without due process of law.

XIX.

Plaintiffs further allege that all of the effects herein prescribed as operating on and against Kansas Natural Gas Company because of the unremunerativeness of the rates and charges fixed by said Public Utilities Commission and the unreasonable burdens of the penalty statutes provided in connection therewith and because of the direct interference with interstate commerce occasioned, apply and

46 continue to apply with like force and effect against the plaintiff receivers, officers of one of the courts of the United States, in their conduct and operation of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company under the laws of the United States, and by virtue of all of said facts said orders and refusal of said Commission to consent to the putting into effect of the schedule marked Exhibit "F," and the penalty statute provided in connection with changes and charges not made with the consent and approval of said Commission deprive these plaintiff receivers, as said receivers and as the legal representatives and trustees of the creditors, bondholders and stockholders of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, of their properties without due process of law and compel plaintiff receivers in their said representative capacity to deliver and transport gas to consumers within the state of Kansas for less than the actual cost of said service and therefore at an actual loss for each and every cubic foot of gas so supplied and transported.

XX.

That by said opinion of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas no return is provided on 54.52% of the property used in the transportation of natural gas. That the greater part of such property is located within the state of Kansas and beyond the jurisdiction and control of the Public Service Commission of the state of Missouri. That said Public Service Commission of Missouri in the fixing of rates for natural gas delivered in that state cannot take into consideration said property so located within the State of Kansas, and is not bound and will not be bound by the 47 percentages of allocation so fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas. That if the rates for natural gas in Kansas are fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and the rates in Missouri are fixed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri, a considerable part of the property of plaintiffs used in the production and transportation of natural gas will not be considered by either commission in determining the fair value of the property employed by plaintiffs in the production and transportation of natural gas, and these plaintiffs will, as a result thereof, be deprived of property without due process of law and will not be afforded equal protection of the law.

That the said Public Utilities Commission erred in attempting to separate the property used in the transportation of gas to consumers in Kansas from the property used in the transportation of gas to consumers in Missouri, for the reason that the property and plant is such that it cannot be operated or considered except as one unit. That the Circuit Court of Appeals for this Circuit in the case of Kansas City Pipe Line Company v. Fidelity Title & Trust Company, 217 Fed. 189, held that said property and plant must be treated and considered as one unit. That the State of Kansas through its Attorney General has recognized and insisted upon the same principle. That the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, has so decided.

That said decision of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas of December 10, 1915, is violative of such unity. That the Public Service Commission of Missouri insists and requires the observance of the rates heretofore fixed by franchises in the different cities of Missouri, while the Public Utilities Commission of 48 Kansas will not allow or permit plaintiffs to charge rates set forth and fixed in the franchises granted by the respective cities in Kansas.

That in determining what are reasonable rates to be charged in either Kansas or Missouri, because of the interstate character of the property employed, its location, the interstate character of the business conducted with such property, the unity of the plant and the necessity of continuing to conduct it as a unit, the divergent views and orders of the two rate fixing bodies in Kansas and Missouri, the property and plant of plaintiffs must be treated and considered as a whole.

That the demand of the consumers is rapidly increasing in both Kansas and Missouri, and with such increased demand the problem of supplying the additional gas and also the same amount as heretofore furnished is a serious one, requiring the building of extensions to pipe lines used in common in Oklahoma to supply such demand from the states of Kansas and Missouri. That the question of extending the pipe lines in Oklahoma and procuring additional gas to replace the diminishing supply requires permission to fix reasonable rates for both states at the same time. That as decided by this court in McKinney v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, 219 Fed. 614, no extensions can be made to the pipe lines in Oklahoma without the consent of the court. That neither the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas nor the Public Service Commission of Missouri has authority to require or permit such extensions.

XXI.

That the defendant Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri on or about the 27th day of September, 1915, held 49 a conference with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas in the City of Kansas City, Missouri. That after said conference the said John M. Atkinson, as Chairman of said Missouri Public Service Commission and for said Commission, announced that said Public Service Commission would not permit a higher rate to be charged in cities in the State of Missouri than was charged in border cities in the State of Kansas. That said Missouri Public Service Commission has ever since said announcement adhered to said policy so announced and has refused to permit an increase in the rates charged in the cities served by these plaintiff receivers in the state of Missouri because the rates charged in Kansas had not been raised.

That on the 13th day of September, 1915, schedules of rates were filed by the local distributing companies with the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri, prescribing a rate of 30 cents net for Oronogo and Carl Junction. That on the 30th day of October, 1915, said Public Service Commission suspended said schedules of rates and has ever since refused to permit said rates to be put into force and effect.

That the St. Joseph Gas Company is a distributing company through whose pipe lines within the city of St. Joseph natural gas supplied by plaintiffs is distributed to consumers in that city. That on September 30, 1914, the St. Joseph Gas Company of St. Joseph, Missouri, filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri a proposed new schedule effective November 1, 1914, whereby it sought to raise the rate on natural gas in the said City of St. Joseph from 40 cents to 60 cents per thousand cubic feet, net. That on October 19, 1914, said Public Service Commission issued an order suspending said rate and made further orders from time to time extending the suspension of said rate until on November 27, 1915, the said Commission rendered its opinion and findings of fact and order requiring said St. Joseph Gas Company to cancel said proposed new schedule of 60 cents.

That said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri found the return on the property employed by the St. Joseph Gas Company in the distribution of natural gas was 2.42%, and that said return was unreasonably low and confiscatory, but denied the increase on the ground that said St. Joseph Gas Company was paying to the Kansas Natural Gas Company 26 2-3 cents as the Kansas Natural Gas Company's proportion of the 40-cent rate, and that said amount of 26 2-3 cents was 10 cents more than the Kansas Natural Gas Company received as its proportion of the rate paid in the City of Atchison, Kansas, and other municipalities.

That said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri also denied said increase on the ground that the proportion of the rate received by the Kansas Natural Gas Company at St. Joseph for gas delivered to consumers in that city was higher than the proportion which said company received in border cities of Kansas.

That said cancellation of the proposed new rate of 60 cents for St. Joseph, Missouri, ordered by said Public Service Commission was in furtherance of its announced policy to permit no higher rate to be charged in Missouri than in the border cities of Kansas.

That said Public Service Commission of Missouri in said order directed the St. Joseph Gas Company to cancel its contract with these plaintiff receivers and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and to obtain a new contract under which said St. Joseph Gas Company should pay more than 17 cents per thousand cubic feet to these plaintiff receivers as their proportion of the rate to be charged for gas supplied to consumers in St. Joseph, Missouri. That pursuant to said order and direction the said St. Joseph Gas Company has instituted suit in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, to cancel said contract and secure in lieu thereof a contract as outlined by the said Public Service Commission of Missouri.

That the said sum of 26 2-3 cents per thousand cubic feet, which plaintiff receivers have been receiving as their proportion of the 40 cent rate charged for gas delivered to consumers in St. Joseph, is on the same basis as charged to other cities and other distributing companies and is received by virtue of contract similar to contracts with other distributing companies, to-wit, 66 2-3% of the rate charged consumers. That the 17 cents which the said Public Service Commission proposes to allow plaintiff receivers as their proportion is unreasonably low, non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory, and would amount to an undue preference in favor of consumers in St. Joseph and the St. Joseph Gas Company and would oblige plaintiff receivers to furnish greater service for a less sum to a city in Missouri than to cities in Kansas, contrary to the Act of Congress of October 15, 1914, called the "Clayton Law." That the transportation of gas to St. Joseph, Missouri, by plaintiff receivers requires the carrying and transportation of gas for a longer distance than to any other city served by said pipe line system operated by plaintiff receivers. That by reason of such longer distance the leakage is greater, the cost of transporting the gas is greater than the cost of transporting gas to other points supplied by these plaintiff receivers. That 26 2-3 cents per thousand cubic feet is unreasonably low, non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory for the services and property employed in transporting gas to St. Joseph, Missouri.

That any schedule or rate for natural gas below 37 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in the State of Missouri except St. Joseph, and 26 2-3 cents for plaintiffs' proportion of the gas delivered in St. Joseph, is and will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory. That the rates now prescribed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri are unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory.

That these plaintiffs have been deprived of property without compensation and without due process of law and will continue to be deprived of property without compensation and without due process of law in the transaction of gas to consumers in the State of Missouri. On account of all of which, said schedules of rates and the orders suspending the proposed new schedules of rates at the various points in Missouri made by the Public Service Commission of said state, are void and in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and an interference with interstate commerce which is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States and which is confided to it by Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

XXIII.

That plaintiffs have no adequate remedy in the premises except such relief as may be obtained by appealing to a court of equity to annul and hold void such arbitrary and confiscatory rates so prescribed by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and to restrain said Commission from interfering with the plaintiffs' putting in reasonable rates until such time as some lawful authority approves a lawful schedule of rates.

That it is desired by plaintiff receivers to put into effect reasonable rates for natural gas delivered to consumers in all cities in Missouri supplied by these plaintiff receivers, so as to obtain reasonable compensation for gas transported and delivered to consumers in Missouri and to obtain a return on the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the control of these plaintiff receivers, used in such service. That the present rates in effect in Missouri and prescribed by said Public Service Commission are not reasonable but are unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory.

XXIV.

That even if the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri accepts the basis of allocation of property used in the transportation of gas as between Kansas and Missouri made by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas in its opinion of December 10, 1915, the rates charged the Missouri cities (except Kansas City) supplied with natural gas will necessarily be higher than the rates charged to the border cities in Kansas as the gas must be transported further, the property used is more (as found by said Public Utilities Commission) and the leakage is greater.

That under the announced policy of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri to suspend all schedules of rates 54 proposing or attempting to put into force in Missouri cities rates higher than rates collected in the border cities of Kansas, the plaintiff receivers will be compelled to violate Section 2 of the Act of Congress of October 15, 1914, entitled "An Act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies and for other purposes" (commonly called the Clayton Law), by forcing plaintiff receivers to furnish greater services to cities in Missouri, (except Kansas City, Missouri,) at the same price charged for less services furnished to cities in Kansas.

That such violation will also subject these plaintiff receivers to the provision of Section 16 of said Act of October 15, 1914, and subject plaintiff receivers to innumerable suits and thereby needlessly dissipate the property in their control.

That the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has and does now threaten to suspend any rate or schedule proposed or attempted to be put into force in Missouri by plaintiff receivers or their agents, prescribing a higher proportion than 17 cents per thousand cubic feet as plaintiffs' proportion of the rate charged for gas delivered to consumers at St. Joseph, and a higher rate than 28 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered consumers at Kansas City and all other points in the state of Missouri supplied by these plaintiff receivers.

XXV.

That in March, 1913, the Legislature of the State of Missouri, enacted a certain law designated as the "Public Service Commission Act," which law is now in full force and effect in the State of 55 Missouri and provides among other things, as follows:

"Sec. 70. Power of Commission to Stay Increased Rate.— Whenever there shall be filed with the commission by any gas corporation, electrical corporation, water corporation or municipality any schedule stating a new rate or charge, or any new form of contract or agreement, or any new rule, regulation or practice relating to any rate, charge or service or to any general privilege or facility, the commission shall have, and it is hereby given, authority, either upon complaint or upon its own initiative without complaint, at once, and if it so orders without answer or other formal pleading by the interested gas corporation, electrical corporation, water corporation or municipality, but upon reasonable notice, to enter upon a hearing concerning the propriety of such rate, charge, form of contract or agreement, rule, regulation or practice, and pending such hearing and the decision thereon, the commission upon filing with such schedule, and delivering to the gas corporation, electrical corporation, water corporation or municipality affected thereby, a statement in writing of its reasons for such suspension, may suspend the operation of such schedule and defer the use of such rate, charge, form of contract or agreement, rule, regulation or practice, but not for a longer period than one hundred and twenty days beyond the time when such rate, charge, form of contract or agreement, rule, regulation or practice, would otherwise go into effect; and after full hearing, whether completed before or after the rate, charge, form of contract or agreement, rule, regulation or practice goes into effect, the commission may make such order in reference to such rate, charge, form of contract or agreement, rule, regulation or practice as would be proper in a proceeding initiated after the rate, charge, form of contract or agreement, rule, regulation or practice had become effective; Provided, that if any such hearing cannot be concluded within the period of suspension, as above stated, the commission may, in its discretion, extend the time of suspension for a further period not exceeding six months. At any hearing involving a rate sought to be increased after the passage of this act, the burden of proof to show that the increased rate or proposed increased rate is just and reasonable shall be upon the gas corporation, electrical corporation, water corporation or municipality, and the commission shall give to the hearing and decision of such questions preference over all other questions pending before it and decide the same as speedily as possible."

"Sec. 83. Forfeiture for Noncompliance with Order.—Every gas corporation, electrical corporation and water corporation, and the officers, agents and employes thereof shall obey, observe and comply with every order and decision of the commission under authority of this act so long as the same shall be and remain in force. Any such person or corporation, or any officer, agent or employe thereof, who knowingly fails or neglects to obey or comply with such order or decision, or any provision of this act, shall forfeit to the state of Missouri not to exceed the sum of one thousand dollars for each offense. Every distinct violation of any such order or decision of this act shall be a separate and distinct offense and in case of a continuing violation each day shall be deemed a separate and distinct offense."

"Sec. 85. Defense in Case of Excessive Charges for Gas, Water or Electricity.—If it be alleged and established in an action brought in any court for the collection of any charge for gas, electricity, or 57 water that a price has been demanded in excess of that fixed by the commission or by statute, in the municipality wherein the action arose, no recovery shall be had therein, but the fact that such excessive charges shall have been made shall be a complete defense to such action."

XXVI.

That these plaintiffs are prevented and intimidated from putting into effect a schedule of reasonable rates for gas supplied to all points in Missouri, because of the highly excessive and unusually severe penalties provided in the aforementioned penalty statute of the State of Missouri, and because of the suspension by the said Public Service Commission of Missouri of all proposed schedules, and the announced policy of said Commission, which it has adhered to, to suspend all rates and schedules of rates which are higher than the rates charged in the border cities of Kansas. That under the provisions of said penalty statute, if plaintiff receivers should raise the schedule of rates to be collected and upon a judicial investigation into their right to do so, it should be determined that plaintiff receivers' raise of said rates was not valid, then the fines and penalties provided for failure to conform to said orders of said Commission of Missouri, at the maximum basis thereof for the period of one year would approximate the enormous and the prohibitory sum of $29,272,540,000. In fact, for the year from January 1, 1916, to January 1, 1917, the fines and penalties which might be imposed upon these plaintiffs under the conditions aforesaid would aggregate the exorbitant and confiscatory sum of $29,272,540,000. In this connection these plaintiff receivers state that they furnish gas through the distributing companies to 80,196 consumers per day in the state of Missouri.

XXVII.

Because of the constraint and intimidation of said unusual penalties these plaintiffs have been forced to keep in effect the requirements and schedules prescribed by said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri from time to time, and the fines and penalties provided for failure to conform to said orders are so unusual and enormous as to force upon the plaintiffs an abandonment of their right to act independently of said void and illegal orders, and by virtue of such facts said orders of said Public Service Commission are void and unconstitutional as depriving these plaintiffs of their property without due process of law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. In this connection plaintiffs allege that the penalties provided for the failure to conform to said order of the said Public Service Commission are so unusual, oppressive and unreasonable that the said plaintiffs are thereby precluded from the privilege of asserting their rights independently and challenging in the courts the validity of said orders except at the risk and with the chance of becoming subject to the unusual and excessive penalties aforementioned as the result of which situation these plaintiffs are denied the equal protection of the law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Adequate relief at law from this situation would not be available to the plaintiffs and plaintiffs' resources and efforts would be absorbed in unnecessary and highly burdensome litigation. Because of which facts the said Kansas Natural Gas Company's properties would be needlessly appropriated without due process of law.

59 That by reason and virtue of all of said facts and acts of the said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the penalty statute of the State of Missouri provided in connection with changes and charges not made with the consent and approval of said Public Service Commission these plaintiffs are deprived of their property without due process of law and are compelled to transport and deliver gas to consumers in Missouri for less than the actual cost of said service, and therefore at an actual loss for each and every cubic foot of gas so supplied and delivered.

XXVIII.

That the application to the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas in 1913 resulted in no increase above twenty-five cents per thousand cubic feet. The application of April, 1915, resulted, on July 16, 1915, in an opinion that twenty-eight cents per thousand cubic feet north of Montgomery County, Kansas, was sufficient. On rehearing on December 10, 1915, permission was given to put these rates into effect, although the majority of the Commission found them excessive, and that any higher rate would be unjustified and an imposition upon the public.

XXIX.

That the low rates prescribed by the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri will take all or the greater part of the property now in the actual possession of John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, the plaintiffs, before the end of the six-year period set out in said Creditors' Agreement (Exhibit "A") as the duration 60 of their control and possession, and leave nothing to be turned over to George F. Sharitt as Receiver of this court and is an interference with the possession and control of this court over property potentially in its charge and custody.

XXX.

Plaintiffs are without adequate remedy at law in the premises hereinbefore set forth and will suffer irreparable injury unless accorded the injunctive relief herein prayed for.

XXXI.

Plaintiffs respectfully show to the court that all said circumstances above enumerated also deprive the Kansas Natural Gas Company of its property without due process of law, take its property without compensation and deny to it equal protection of the law, and apply with the same force and effect as they do to plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs respectfully show to the court that the said order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas of December 10, 1915, is void for the following reasons:

(a) Because the penalties provided for the infraction thereof are so enormous as to intimidate these plaintiffs and to force an abandonment of all rights to act independently thereof, and said order and act are therefore unconstitutional as depriving these plaintiffs of property without due process of law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

61 (b) Because said order and schedule is so unreasonably low as to be non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory, thereby depriving these plaintiffs of property without due process of law in contravention of Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

(c) Because said order is an interference with the transportation of gas in interstate commerce from the State of Oklahoma to consumers in Kansas, in contravention of Section 8 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States.

(d) Because the schedule of rates provided and required by said order to be maintained and kept in force is so unreasonably low, as applied to gas produced and sold within the State of Kansas as not to afford sufficient revenue to pay a fair return, above operative expenses, on the property employed in such service and thereby imposes a burden on the interstate commerce conducted by plaintiff receivers.

(e) Because said order and schedule of rates prescribed therein is so unreasonably low as to amount to the taking of and an interference with the property potentially in the possession of and under the control of this court.

(f) Because any rate lower than thirty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet in Kansas, north of Montgomery County, is so unreasonably low as to amount to the taking of property without due process of law and an interference with property potentially in the possession and control of this court.

XXXII.

62 Plaintiffs respectfully show that the refusal of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas to permit the plaintiff receivers to put into force and effect a schedule of reasonable rates, in so far as said Public Utilities Commission has control over gas delivered to consumers in the state of Kansas by these plaintiff receivers, is void for the following reason:

Because said refusal, in connection with the penalties provided for changing the rate without the consent of said Commission compel these plaintiff receivers to adhere to the schedule of rates prescribed by said Commission, which are so unreasonably low as to be non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory, thereby depriving these plaintiffs of their property without due process of law in contravention of Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Plaintiffs respectfully show unto the court that the orders of said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri in suspending the schedule of rates sought to be put into effect at Oronogo and Carl Junction, and attempting to reduce the proportion these plaintiffs are to receive for natural gas delivered at St. Joseph from 26 2-3 cents to 17 cents, and the announced policy of said Commission to allow no higher rate to be charged in Missouri than in the cities of Kansas, are void for the following reasons:

(a) Because the penalties provided for the infraction thereof are so enormous as to intimidate these plaintiffs and to force an abandonment of their rights to act independently thereof, and said orders and acts are therefore unconstitutional as depriving these plaintiffs of property without due process of law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

63 (b) Because said orders prescribe and require the keeping in effect of a schedule of rates so unreasonably low as to be unremunerative, confiscatory and non-compensatory, thereby depriving these plaintiffs of property without due process of law in contravention of Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

(c) Because said orders are an interference with the transportation of gas in interstate commerce from Oklahoma and Kansas through Kansas to consumers in Missouri in contravention of Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

(d) Because said orders and the rate required to be maintained by reason of said orders of said Commission are so unreasonably low as to amount to the taking of and an interference with the property potentially in the possession and control of this court.

(e) Because any sum less than 26 2-3 cents as plaintiffs' proportion of the rate charged for natural gas delivered to consumers at St. Joseph and any rate lower than thirty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet at all other points in Missouri served by these plaintiffs is so unreasonably low as to amount to the taking of property without due process of law and an interference with the property potentially in the possession and control of this court.

XXXIII.

Plaintiffs further allege and show to the Court that the defendant distributing companies above named obtain the gas distributed, delivered and sold by them to the consumers in the several cities in which they are doing business from plaintiffs as hereinbefore alleged; that said gas was originally furnished by the Kansas Natural Gas Company to said distributing companies under and pursuant to certain supply-contracts of record in this court in said creditors' suit and foreclosure suit upon which this bill is dependent as aforesaid; that said contracts have never been adopted by plaintiffs, but gas has been delivered pursuant to the established system of doing business prior to the appointment of plaintiffs as Receivers; that said contracts are improvident, wasteful and destructive of the estate in the hands of plaintiffs and the custody of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and this Court, and are a legal and equitable fraud upon the rights of the creditors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company; that said contracts were made and entered into by the parties thereto at a time when it was thought that an abundant supply of gas for cooking, lighting, heating, power and manufacturing purposes was available in and north of the northern part of Montgomery County, Kansas; that subsequent developments have demonstrated the necessity of carrying and transporting said gas from points far distant south of said location and from the state of Oklahoma; that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and these complainants have long been unable to furnish gas in sufficient quantities to enable said distributing companies to sell the same for manufacturing, power and boiler purposes, or even in sufficient quantities to sell the same for extensive domestic heating in the winter time; that contrary to public opinion, neither said Kansas Natural Gas Company nor said distributing companies nor plaintiffs ever agreed or undertook to furnish an uninterrupted and unlimited supply of natural gas in perpetuity or during the term of any franchise granted by the aforesaid cities or accepted by the aforesaid distributing companies, but it was on the contrary, at the time said contracts were entered into, foreseen, contemplated and provided for that there might and in all probability would be interruptions, shortages and a final failure and end to the supply of natural gas; that by reason thereof, each and all of said contracts contain substantially the following provision:

"However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part (meaning the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its predecessors in title and interest) does not, under this contract, undertake to furnish parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe-lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command, are capable of supplying."

Plaintiffs further allege that at the time said contracts were entered into and franchises granted for the distribution of said gas in the aforesaid cities it was a matter of common knowledge that said natural gas must be transported from the mid-continent gas field in southern Kansas or from more distant fields; that the grantees of said franchises, to-wit, the aforesaid defendant distributing companies, must of necessity obtain gas by purchase, contract or otherwise from some transportation company carrying gas from said fields; that said distributing companies would be wholly dependent upon such supply company; that said distributing companies could not on their own account contract with said cities or undertake to

66 furnish an uninterrupted, inexhaustible and continuous supply of natural gas under the terms of said franchises or for any given period of time at any given rate or schedule of rates; that by reason thereof, one of said franchises under which a large percentage of the total supply and distribution of natural gas was undertaken by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and these complainants expressly provides as follows:

"That should the supply of natural gas obtainable by the grantees reasonably accessible be at any time during the life of said ordinance inadequate to warrant them in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of said ordinance, said grantees shall not be longer required so to do."

That all of said ordinances were passed by said cities and accepted by said distributing companies with full knowledge of the foregoing facts and the conditions and provisions of said supply-contracts.

That by reason of the premises, plaintiffs and said Kansas Natural Gas Company and said distributing companies are no longer warranted in continuing to supply Natural Gas to said distributing companies for distribution and sale under said supply-contracts and under the terms and conditions of said ordinances.

Plaintiffs further allege that the defendant cities above named are municipal corporations, duly organized and existing under the statutes of the states of Kansas and Missouri, as indicated from their respective titles aforesaid; that natural gas is furnished by plaintiffs and distributed and sold as aforesaid in each and all of said defendant cities, under and pursuant to certain ordinances granting to said distributing companies the right to the use of the public ways of said cities therefor; that said cities have heretofore exercised the govern-

67 mental power of rate regulation by the passage of certain ordinances purporting to establish, regulate and fix the price and rate for the sale of natural gas in said several cities; that certain of said ordinances are in excess of powers conferred upon said cities by the State legislatures and all of said ordinances and the rates therein established and fixed are unreasonable, non-compensatory and confiscatory of the estate and property in the custody of plaintiffs and this court and the District Court of Montgomery County Kansas, and an interference with interstate commerce; that said cities are now claiming the governmental power of rate regulation and the right and power to fix, regulate determine and establish the rates, charges and compensation which plaintiffs shall receive for the natural gas furnished by them, that said cities and their respective mayors, city counselors, common councils and commissions are and have been for more than three years prior to the commencement of this action conducting or threatening injunctions, prosecutions and municipal police regulations, all with the purpose, design and intent to regulate, control and fix the price at which plaintiffs may sell natural gas furnished by them; that all of said acts, threats, ordinances and prosecutions and threatened prosecutions are an interference with interstate commerce conducted and carried on by plaintiffs, and usurpation and abuse of power by said defendant cities; that unless and except this Honorable Court shall restrain and enjoin said cities and their respective officers from prosecuting suits against complainants and the defendant distributing companies aforesaid, who deliver their gas to consumers thereof, plaintiffs and said distributing companies will be subjected to a multiplicity of suits, injunctions and prosecutions in State and municipal courts and subjected to great and irreparable damage, loss and expense, and will be without remedy in the premises.

(a) That said order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas of December 10, 1915, be declared void as confiscatory, non-compensatory and unremunerative, in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States.

(b) That the defendants S. M. Brewster, as Attorney General of the State of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel and C. F. Foley, as the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and H. O. Castor, as Attorney for said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, be enjoined from enforcing against plaintiffs said order of December 10, 1915, as to any of the penalty statutes provided in connection therewith for the non-observance of the orders of said Public Utilities Commission.

(c) That the defendants, S. M. Brewster, as Attorney General of the State of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel and C. F. Foley, as the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and H. O. Castor as Attorney for said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas be enjoined from in any manner or form interfering with plaintiffs putting in reasonable rates until such time as some lawful authority approves a lawful schedule of rates.

(d) That subpoena issue out of this honorable Court directed to all defendants requiring and commanding them, and each of them, to appear in this cause on a day certain and answer the several allegations in this Bill of Complaint contained, answer under oath being hereby expressly waived.

(e) That the defendants John T. Barker, as Attorney-General of the State of Missouri, William G. Busby as Counsel of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and the defendants John M. Atkinson, Edwin J. Bean, John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw and Eugene

69 McQuillan, as members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, be enjoined from enforcing against plaintiffs said orders of suspension or any of the penalty statutes in connection therewith for the non-observance of the orders of said Public Service Commission and also from in any manner or form interfering with plaintiffs putting in reasonable rates until such time as some lawful authority approves a lawful schedule of rates.

(f) That the defendants, Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel and C. F. Foley, as the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, be commanded to consent to and approve the putting into force and effect immediately by these plaintiff Receivers of reasonable rates and charges.

(g) That each, every and all of the defendants above named, and their respective officers, attorneys and counselors and agents, and their respective mayors, common councils, city attorneys, city councilors and representatives, and their successors in office, be restrained and enjoined from commencing, instituting or prosecuting in any other court or tribunal any suit or proceeding to litigate any of the matters herein complained of, arising or growing out of any of the transactions and matters herein alleged between these plaintiffs, or between the defendants, or either or any of them, until the final determination of this suit.

(h) That the defendant distributing companies and the defendant cities herein be restrained and enjoined from enforcing the contracts above referred to and from interfering with plaintiffs establishing and maintaining reasonable rates to consumers in Kansas and Missouri until reasonable rates are established by some competent authority, and from putting into effect the rates provided in Exhibit "F" and similar rates for cities in Missouri.

70 (i) Therefore, may it please your Honor to grant to plaintiffs a writ of injunction directed to the said Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley and John M. Kinkel, members of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, S. M. Brewster, Attorney-General of the State of Kansas, and to the said H. O. Castor, Attorney of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, John T. Barker, as Attorney-General of the State of Missouri, William G. Busby as Counsel of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and the defendants, John M. Atkinson, Edwin J. Bean, John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw and Eugene McQuillan, as members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and said defendant distributing companies and said defendant cities, their officers, agents, representatives, attorneys and counselor, to do and perform all things herein ordered and directed by this Court.

(j) That pending the final determination of the issues raised herein, said defendants, and each of them, their officers, agents, representatives and employees, be temporarily restrained and enjoined from doing any of the acts or things complained of herein and for which relief is demanded.

(k) Plaintiff prays for such other and further relief in the premises as to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just.

Opinion on Rehearing.

By the COMMISSION:

An opinion, embodying findings of the Commission in this case, was rendered on July 16, 1915. For reasons then stated no order was issued. On August 7, following some litigation growing out of the opinion and findings, a petition for rehearing, covering about twenty-two typewritten pages, was filed by complainants.

This petition sets forth many alleged errors in the calculations made and in the conclusions reached in the findings. Owing 84 to the numerous assignments of error, it is impracticable to consider them in detail: in fact, such consideration is wholly unnecessary, as a great deal of new testimony was introduced upon the rehearing, and the entire matter is now considered de novo.

Regarding many of the matters complained of there was no evidence in the record. Touching others the evidence was of such a character as to necessarily and obviously lead to slight inaccuracies in the calculations made, as well as in the conclusions reached; but, based upon the evidence then before the Commission, it is not at all apparent that any substantial error was made in either the calculations made or in the conclusions at which the Commission arrived.

It is alleged by the complainant that no provision was made in the opinion and findings for payment of a reasonable return upon any investment which may have been represented by the capital stock. However, it was plainly stated to the Commission at the hearing that no return was asked for upon the stock investment of the company; that all that was desired was sufficient income to fairly carry out the provisions of so-called "Creditor's Agreement." This agreement provides that:

"* * * creditors and lienholders against the property devoted to public use in said business, consent to the deferring of their right to foreclose and assert their several claims against said property, legal and equitable, and to have execution therefor, only upon the condition that their said investments and claims be returned, with interest, within said six-year period, or so much thereof as will properly secure the return of the balance."

The Commission, basing its conclusions upon the evidence then before it, endeavored only, as requested by complainants to 85 provide for carrying out the terms of this agreement.

In this connection attention is called to the statements in the record upon the original hearing made by the attorney for complainants:

"Commissioner Foley: I might say that my understanding is here that nothing was claimed for the capital stock so far as this rate fixing purpose is concerned. I do not know whether I am correct or not.

"Mr. Salathiel: We are not contending that the Kansas Natural Gas Company's stock does not represent value. It will be our contention it does, but we have made the statement that we are not asking the Commission to fix a rate that will allow a dividend on the stock."

In the discussion of the various phases of this question reference was made and consideration given to the insufficient supply of gas in many of the cities. The fact was developed that the supply during cold weather is inadequate to meet the demands of consumers, and that during a certain period each year the public, so far as it depends upon gas for fuel, is subject to great inconveniences and often to some suffering occasioned by lack of gas when it is most needed. The claim has been repeatedly made that such failure of supply is owing to the inadequacy of price. The testimony shows that by reason of the insufficiency of the transportation facilities of the complainants it is impossible to supply, regardless of the price, their consumers with sufficient fuel during the "peak load" periods when the temperature is low. This fact is conceded by the officers of the company. No price that could be fixed by the Commission would 86 enable complainants to keep their customers properly supplied during the periods of the greatest demands.

The angle from which the question before the Commission was considered upon the original presentation—namely, from the standpoint of the Creditors' Agreement—was chosen in conformity with the wish of complainants, as expressed upon the hearing and, as has been stated, at least one important factor, ordinarily and properly taken into account in rate-making investigations, was, at complainants' suggestion, ignored. Criticism may properly be directed against the Commission for accepting the suggestions of the complainant in this respect. As the method then adopted in dealing with the problem proved very unsatisfactory to complainants, we will now endeavor to consider the subject in harmony with the rules recognized by courts and commissions as properly applicable in rate-making controversies.

The Fair Value of the Property.

One of the first and most imperative essentials in rate-making is the fixing of a fair present value upon the property of the utility whose rates are under consideration, used and usable in the public service.

The complainants' plant has been in operation several years—a portion of it since 1905—and the principal additions were made between that date and 1910. Considering the plant as a whole a fair average date for the investment is January 1, 1907. It appears to have been successful as a revenue producer for several years, and in the opinion of the Commission it yet is successful in that respect. No complaint seems to be made of the inadequacy of its income until the failure of the gas supply in the company's wells and 87 in territory immediately adjoining its then existing pipe lines.

In attempting to determine the present value of the complainants' plant for rate-making purposes, we have endeavored to follow the principles laid down in the leading and most frequently cited authorities upon this subject. They are clearly outlined in Knoxville v. Knoxville Water Company, reported in 12 U. S., page 1, from which the following quotation is taken:

"Before coming to the question of profit at all the company is entitled to earn a sufficient sum annually to provide not only for current repairs, but for making good the depreciation and replacing the parts of the property when they come to the end of their life. The company is not bound to see its property gradually waste, without making provision out of earnings for its replacement. It is entitled to see that from earnings the value of the property invested is kept unimpaired, so that, at the end of any given term of years, the original investment remains as it was at the beginning. It is not only the right of the company to make such a provision, but it is its duty to its bond and stockholders, and, in the case of a public service corporation, at least, its plain duty to the public.

"If a different course were pursued the only method of providing for replacement of property which has ceased to be useful would be the investment of new capital and the issue of new bonds or stocks. This course would lead to a constantly increasing variance between present value and bond and stock capitalization,—a tendency which would inevitably lead to disaster either to the stockholders or to the public, or both. If, however, a company fails to perform this plain duty and to exact sufficient returns to keep the investment unimpaired, whether this is the result of unwarranted dividends 88 upon overissues of securities, or of omission to exact proper prices for the output, the fault is its own. When, therefore, a public regulation of its prices comes under question, the true value of the property then employed for the purpose of earning a return can not be enhanced by a consideration of the errors in management which have been committed in the past."

And in San Diego Land & Town Company v. Jasper et al., reported in 189 U. S., 47 Law Ed. 894, it is said:

"It no longer is open to dispute that, under the Constitution, what the company is entitled to demand in order that it may have just compensation, is a fair return upon the reasonable value of the property at the time it is being used for the public."

Aside from the physical value of the plant, ascertained by a consideration of the use which is now made of it, complainants claim a going value of $4,792,430. In the consideration of this question of going value as a separate item, it must not be forgotten that this property has been in the hands of receivers for between three and four years. That the plant, with the business attached, is worth much more than it would be without such business connections, may be freely conceded. Without its existing business, its distributing contracts, its customers, its established sources of supply, it would constitute, practically, only an accumulation of junk. The present value of the plant has been ascertained and determined as an entirety, taking into consideration the fact that it is a going concern in actual and successful operation. In fixing this value we have taken into account the fact that the plant is in operation, with more customers than it can properly serve.

89 Overhead charges, including engineering, taxes and interest during construction, were also taken into consideration by the Commission in its valuation of complainants' property.

Life of the Gas Field.

One exceedingly important factor in the valuation of this plant is the probable length of life of the gas fields which furnish the supply transported by its lines and sold in its markets. In the original opinion in this case, in compliance with the views of the complainants, and for the purpose of computations then made, the life of the gas fields which might furnish fuel to be carried through those pipe lines was arbitrarily fixed at six years from January 1, 1915; but in that opinion this language was used:

"* * * The entire business is so speculative in character, the extent of the supply is so uncertain, the other factors entering into the problem are so numerous, so indefinite and so intangible that nothing more than a rude approximation of the amortization period of complainants' system can be made. We have, therefore, adopted, for the present purposes, the estimate of the life expectancy of the plant made by those who prepared the Creditors' Agreement."

Based upon the history of the gas fields, their present condition and output, the existence of recent important discoveries of gas in marketable and paying quantities in the gas field of Kansas and Oklahoma known as the mid-continent field, it is the view of this Commission that the source of supply will not be exhausted within twenty years from January 1, 1907, and that the property of the 90 company will have value for the purpose of gas transportation for that period or more.

Upon the evidence before the Commission it is convinced that there is now an abundance of gas readily procurable within a reasonable distance from the company's lines; that during all the time of complainants' control of the company's property this condition has existed; that they have had at all times, and have now, means at their command sufficient to enable them to procure sources of abundant supply; but that, on account of a lack of reasonable business foresight and prudence, and on account of inefficiency of management, no supply adequate to the demands of their customers has been obtained.

The Producing Property.

For several years after commencing business the Kansas Natural Gas Company was a producing as well as a transporting and distributing utility. Primarily, it transported, distributed and marketed chiefly the production of its own wells and leaseholds, although it at all times purchased some gas from other producers. For some years past, however, it has purchased a major part of the gas carried and distributed through its lines, the volume of its own production diminishing accordingly.

In order to establish a fair present valuation upon the property of the company and to properly allocate the operating and other expenses it is deemed just and necessary to separate the production from the transportation and distribution branch of the business, and to consider each upon its own basis.

The total valuation of the company's property, found from the entire testimony, as of January 1, 1915, is $8,994,811.03. This includes all the property used and useful in production as well 91 as that used in transportation and distribution. Allocating this value upon the basis of its use there should be a separation of the property used for transportation from that used for production purposes. We therefore deduct from the whole the value of that property used only for production. This requires the elimination of the following items:

Wells .....	$605,539.20
Leaseholds .....	1,126,359.34
Drilling and pulling tools.....	3,660.00
Warehouses, tools used in connection with wells....	56,379.53
Proper proportion of overhead expenses.....	119,267.32
Total deductions .....	$1,911,205.39
Gross valuation .....	$8,994,811.03
Deduct value of property used for production purposes	1,911,205.39
Value of property used and useful for transportation and distribution purposes .....	$7,083,605.64

Allocate to Each State its Share of Property.

The company's lines, compressors and certain other property are used in transporting gas to the existing markets in both Kansas and Missouri. That gas is, of course, mixed in the pipe lines, and is drawn off at the most convenient point where the lines pass through or near a city served. The fair present value of the property used and useful in the service of the public for transportation and distribution purposes has been ascertained to be $7,083,605.64. As this property is used in serving the gas markets in both Kansas and Missouri its value should properly be divided upon some equitable basis according to the service furnished to each of those states.

The Supreme Court of the United States, in Simpson v. Shepherd, 230 U. S. 352, 57 L. Ed. 1511, appears to have furnished a guide to the proper rule in cases of this character.

"The total value of the property of an interstate carrier within a state, independently of revenue, should be divided as between its interstate and intrastate business in such state, when testing the reasonableness of state regulation of its intrastate rates, according to the use that is made of the property, assigning to each business that proportion of the total value of the property which will correspond to the extent of its employment in that business." (10th paragraph of syllabus in Simpson v. Shepherd, supra.)

"When rates are in controversy it would seem to be necessary to find a basis for division of the total value of the property independently of revenue, and this must be found in the use that is made of the property. That is, there should be assigned to each business that proportion of the total value of the property which will correspond to the extent of its employment in that business." (Ibid., 57 L. Ed., page 1566.)

It therefore becomes necessary to determine the extent of the employment of complainants' property in Kansas as compared with the extent of such employment in Missouri.

In ascertaining the value of the plant which should be allocated to each state upon the basis of its use, a complete analysis of the use of the property was made. The value of such portions of the plant as were used exclusively for the purpose of supplying gas to customers in Kansas was allocated and charged directly to the account of this State. A similar course was pursued in relation to service facilities required and used only in Missouri. The value of such portions as were used for the purpose of furnishing gas to the markets of both states was divided, in the case of each line, between the two states in the proportion that the volume of gas transported through such line and distributed in each state, respectively, bears to the entire volume passing through such line.

The value of headquarters, including the building and lot at Independence, and the overhead charges and expenses, interest during construction, taxes and organization cost, furniture, general stock, garage, etc., aggregating $463,803.23, has been distributed among the Company's several divisions on the basis of the proportion that the value of each division bears to the value of the whole, and in this manner is divided between Kansas and Missouri in proportion to its use.

The method employed and the result obtained in allocating to each state its proper share of the value of the plant used in transportation and distribution is shown by the following table I. From this it appears that of the total value of $7,083,605.64, the sum of $3,221,379.49, or 45.48 per cent, should be allocated and charged to Kansas and $3,862,226.15, or 54.52 per cent, to Missouri.

The Earnings and Cash Investment.

Having ascertained, as a fundamental factor, the value of the property and plant allocated to Kansas on the basis of its use, a resume of the operations of the company since commencing business, will, perhaps, be enlightening.

It seems proper to set aside from the earnings of the company a sum that will provide a return upon, and an ultimate amortization of, the investment in leases and wells.

In estimating the value of its leases, the company is entitled to be allowed, at its wells, the same price for its gas that it was obliged to pay to other producers, under similar conditions. In determining the value of its leases and wells, the mining properties should be credited with their net earnings, and thus this portion of the business, which is highly speculative, is placed upon a determinable basis.

On account of the presence of the leakage factor, it is not sufficient to deduct the amount of gas purchased from that sold, and conclude that the difference is the volume of production. When applied to a long period, during the greater portion of which accurate measurements were not made and no accurate reports recorded, the conclusion must, to some extent be an estimate.

From the testimony of the company's officers, from computations based upon measurements taken during a limited period, and from all the circumstances and evidence, the Commission has allowed in this calculation thirty-five per cent upon the gross amount of leakage and waste. This leakage we believe to be excessive and unnecessary, but because of the bad condition of the company's lines it possibly amounted to that figure, and while not justifying such waste, we accept it in this instance.

The following table shows the actual cash invested from new capital and from earnings, during each of the years, both for the transportation and production property. By the production side of the account is meant the amount invested in leases and gas-well material. Attention is called to the fact (which appears from the company's books, but is not disclosed by the table) that while the investment in transportation and distribution property is $11,926,812.97, and in production property $4,113,563.46, a total of $16,040,376.43, only $12,369,250 is new capital. The remainder, $3,671,126.43, was derived from earnings. As a general proposition, for rate-making purposes, investment from earnings is not entitled to be considered upon the same basis as new investment; but for the purposes of this investigation, allowance is made for this investment exactly the same as for new capital.

98 As the investment in the property used and useful for transportation and distribution purposes amounted January 1, 1915, to $11,926,812.97, and its value as of that date was $7,083,605.64, depreciation therefore to the amount of $4,843,207.33 must be provided for out of the earnings.

Value of the Leaseholds.

Regarding the production side of the property, the earnings from this branch of the business during 1914 scarcely exceeded the expenses of operation. Therefore, it may be fairly considered that the leaseholds have no present value, based upon past earning capacity, and that the only value remaining in the production property, beyond a speculative one, is represented by material now in the wells and warehouses, which on December 31, 1914, amounted to $263,013.01. The balance of the property investment, therefore, amounting to $3,820,550.45, must be amortized during the period prior to December 31, 1914, and charged against the earning of that period.

The foregoing table shows the total investments of the company of every character up to December 31, 1914, also the depreciation that should be provided for out of earnings, and the present value upon which it is entitled to earn a fair return.

We will now consider the results of the operations from the beginning of business until December 31, 1914, embodying a division between production and transportation, in the following table:

Transportation the Chief Business.

It will be noted that the total net operating income for the period under consideration is $18,634,135.59, and of this amount $3,022,773.35 is assigned to production and $15,611,362.24 is assigned to transportation, which includes two distributing plants.

Referring to table No. 2, it will be seen that it is necessary to provide for depreciation on production property $3,820,550.45, and when this is deducted it leaves a deficit in the production branch of the business of $797,777.10. This branch of the business not only paid no return, but the earnings were insufficient to amortize the investment. It may be claimed that an excessive amount has been charged to depreciation, but in view of the fact, as already stated, that 101 in 1914 the gas produced on the company's property just about paid the expenses of production, it would appear that the entire investment in leases should be eliminated. The conclusion is inevitable that the leases were not worth anything above the cash investment, in reality not worth that amount, and that, in addition to the stock issued, excessive sums were paid for them in cash.

It will be further noted that the transportation branch of the business, after providing for $4,843,207.33 depreciation (as per table No. 2), and also for $797,777.10 deficit in the production branch of the business, shows a net return of $9,970,377.81. This is equal to a return of 11.32 per cent per annum on the entire investment in both branches of the business for the full period of nine and one-half years. In this connection it should be remembered that all of the money invested in this property was obtained from the sale of six per cent bonds or from the earnings of the company.

In estimating revenue for future reasonable requirements, some definite basis of calculation must be adopted, and rates should be predicated upon the needs thus shown. The Commission has based such estimates and calculations upon the report of operation for 1914, the last complete year of operation.

Summary of 1914 Business.

In the following table, No. 4, is given a summary of the operations for 1914, with a division between production and transportation. As the property used in supplying natural gas to consumers in Kansas is all that can properly be considered in establishing rates within its borders, it becomes necessary to assign to this state a proper proportion of earnings, expenses and value of the property 102 used, and this has been done on the basis of use.

The volume of gas sold, together with that used in compressor stations in 1914, was 18,199,544 thousand cubic feet. To meet this demand, which is net, a much larger volume must be furnished at the wells. In its calculations, the company has assumed a loss of five per cent in the field lines and ten per cent in the trunk lines. The loss in distributing lines should not exceed, on the average, twenty per cent, and in fact the distributing loss from all causes should be reduced far below this allowance. However, computations have been made upon the assumption that of gas received into the field lines, ninety-five per cent was either marketed or delivered to trunk lines and compressors; that of the quantity delivered to trunk lines, ninety per cent was either marketed from them or delivered to distributing systems; and of the quantity delivered to distributing systems, eighty per cent was delivered to consumers.

104      Commenting briefly upon some features of the immediately preceding table, the company's figures show a deficit of $174,-484.30, but this is after deducting from net earnings the sum of $460,616.90 for interest on bonds and expenses in connection with the same, and the further sum of $725,653.34 for retiring that amount of the principal of bonds. Neither of these items is proper to be included in expenses and can not be considered when calculating a return on the value of the property used and useful in the conduct of the business, but are given to show the disposition made of the net income from operation, which amounted to $960,058.14, not including depreciation. It should be further stated that there was an expense of $28,663.90 for taxes upon a large sum of money on hand before the distribution under the terms of the Creditors' Agreement. This should be deducted for future estimate, as it will not be necessary to provide that item again.

There is also included receivership expenses at $137,463.11. This sum covered a period of about two years, during which there were unusually heavy expenditures because of litigation. It is unnecessary to provide such a large sum for future requirements. When this company was operated under the direction of its own officers, their salaries, for performing services similar to those performed by the receivers and their attorneys, were as follows:

President .....	$15,000.00	per year.
General manager .....	12,000.00	" "
Attorney .....	5,200.00	" "
Add for their expenses .....	7,800.00	" "

Total .....	$40,000.00	per year.

105      This would seem to be ample under ordinary conditions and is the sum used in the estimate for future needs.

Estimates of Future Revenues.

In the former opinion the Commission authorized the following net rates: Domestic gas in Montgomery county, 20 cents per thousand cubic feet; in counties outside of Montgomery county, not supplied by the Gunn pipe line, 28 cents per thousand; in counties supplied by the Gunn pipe line, 30 cents, and for all boiler gas 12½ cents per thousand.

For reasons apparent at this time we believe that the domestic rate in Montgomery county should have been correspondingly increased as it was in other counties, and that it should be 23 instead of 20 cents per thousand.

Basing the future needs of the company upon the 1914 business, and using the rates provided in the former opinion with the change in Montgomery county suggested, we find the estimated revenues as follows:

†This item is placed here to balance an equal sum included in the expenditures. It is a bookkeeping entry

Regarding the requirements shown in the foregoing table, provision is made for procuring 25,671,445 thousand cubic feet at a price of four cents per thousand cubic feet on the selling basis. The average price is taken from the actual purchase in 1915. As 107 the price in 1914 averaged 3.93 cents, and for the first nine months of 1915 was four cents, the allowance of four cents is deemed reasonable.

We have provided $590,300 for the annual depreciation, which is the amount required to fully amortize the entire investment during the estimated life of the property. In addition to this, $200,000 is allowed for working capital, and interest at six per cent per annum is computed on this sum. After allowing a return of six per cent upon that portion of the value of the property allocated to Kansas, and providing for all of the above requirements an annual net surplus of $147,848.14 remains.

This means that after completely amortizing the remainder of the investment that was not amortized prior to December 31, 1914, the investors will receive a net return of 10.46 per cent per annum on their money while invested.

In providing for depreciation, nothing has been deducted for the salvage value of the property at the end of its estimated life nor has anything been deducted for the warehouse stock assigned to the transportation branch of the business. In the computations, it has been assumed that the entire plant, including the warehouse stock, will be wiped out at the end of the twenty-year period. This, of course, is an assumption. At that time, it may still be a valuable going concern, or it may be junk. Time only can determine that fact. But in either event, it will have cost the owners nothing.

A Summary.

To summarize, the foregoing tables show: That up to December 31, 1914, those who put their money in this property received a net return of 11.32 per cent per annum, after depreciation was 108 fully provided for. This left the sum of $7,376,618.65 as the remaining investment. Returns upon this amount and its ultimate amortization must depend upon the future revenues. In estimating what these revenues may be we have taken the business of 1914 as a basis. The business of the company for that year was not so good as it had been during prior years nor was it so favorable as during the first nine months of 1915. Upon this conservative basis, however, the estimates show that the owners will, during the estimated life of the company, receive back every cent that they have put into the property from all sources and a net return of 10.46 per cent per annum on their money while invested. All of such money having been obtained from the sale of six per cent bonds or from the earnings of the company.

It clearly appears that this company, with the rates now in force is making handsome returns on the invested capital.

In the former opinion, however, the Commission authorized an increase of three cents per thousand cubic feet for domestic gas in the territory outside of Montgomery county and that not supplied by the Gunn pipe line. That supplied by the Gunn pipe line was fixed at 30 cents and a rate of  $12\frac{1}{2}$  cents per thousand cubic feet for boiler gas.

This was a substantial increase over the prevailing prices. There was grave doubt as to whether increasing the rate for domestic gas above 25 cents per thousand cubic feet would result in an increased revenue; but the weight of the evidence is that such increase could be made without material loss of business, and the Commission is of the opinion that it will increase the revenues of the company.

The Rates Authorized.

In the last hearing there was no evidence submitted that indicated a necessity for any increase in the rates over those provided in the former opinion, except in the domestic rate for Montgomery county. We have, therefore, concluded that the following net rates should be authorized:

For domestic gas in Montgomery county, 23 cents per thousand cubic feet except at Elk City, where the present rate of 25 cents is to remain; boiler gas in said county 10 cents per thousand cubic feet.

In all other counties except those supplied by the Gunn pipe line 28 cents per thousand cubic feet; in the counties supplied by the Gunn pipe line, the present rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and on all boiler gas, except in Montgomery county,  $12\frac{1}{2}$  cents per thousand cubic feet.

In the opinion of the Commission the per cent of return provided on the capital in the foregoing estimates is excessive. But to enable the company, beyond any doubt, to have abundant funds on hand to make all necessary extensions of its lines and to obtain a sufficient supply of gas for its patrons, it has authorized these rates, which under normal and ordinary conditions, judging the future by the past, will provide such returns. But to provide any higher rates in our opinion, would be unjustified and an imposition upon the public.

We realize that the estimates as to the future revenue of a business of this character are necessarily more or less uncertain. The discovery of productive gas fields adjacent to the company's pipe lines is possible. This would greatly reduce the cost of gas and render the rates provided excessive. Or the expense of obtaining the gas may materially increase, so as to make greater revenues necessary.

Such contingencies depend upon future developments.

If any such contingencies shall arise, or if after the rates authorized have been fairly tested they do not bring adequate returns or if expensive extensions of its pipe lines make necessary the investment of additional capital the Commission will gladly consider any evidence that may be submitted to it that would justify further changes.

Its purpose is to carefully protect the rights of invested capital in this property, and at the same time properly guard the interests of the public.

Minimum Bills.

Touching the question of minimum monthly rates and charges, it is believed that the minimum bill for monthly service should be uniform throughout the territory served; that each consumer should be required to pay for service and readiness to serve a monthly minimum of fifty cents; that the complainants should receive their contract share of all collections; for gas actually delivered and the residue of the minimum bill where there is any, shall be retained by the distributing company. Collection rules and the rules relating to loss arising from uncollectible accounts should remain as at present until further order.

The Commission adheres to its views heretofore expressed to the effect that the furnishing of so-called "free gas" to cities, though in compliance with ordinances, is a species of patent discrimination against customers who are required to pay scheduled rates and should be promptly discontinued.

An order will issue in accordance with the findings herein made.

111 Review of Company's Legal Difficulties.

Before closing this opinion we believe it is proper to give a brief résumé of the controversies, legal and otherwise, that have placed this company in its present situation. The records of the courts and the reports of the accountant for the Commission show that on July 13, 1910, suit was brought by the Independence Power and Manufacturing Company and others in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, asking for the specific performance of a certain contract which the Independence Power and Manufacturing Company had entered into with one of the predecessors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, whereby the manufacturing company, or its predecessor was to be furnished gas for a certain time at two cents per thousand cubic feet and after that time at three cents per thousand cubic feet.

This suit also asked for a mandatory injunction compelling the Kansas Natural Gas Company to furnish this gas. T. S. Salathiel, O. P. Ergenbright and Henry C. Solomon were attorneys for the plaintiff and the temporary injunction asked by them was allowed July 13, 1910, by Judge Flannelly. The price of gas so furnished, however, to be fixed on the final determination of the case.

The gas company immediately removed the case to the United States district court for the district of Kansas, and thereupon filed a demurrer to the petition of the manufacturing company, which Judge John C. Pollock sustained. This was in August 1910. Chester I. Long was then employed as an attorney by the manufacturing company, and Mr. Solomon apparently retired from the case.

On May 13, 1911, the case was dismissed without prejudice by the attorneys for the plaintiff.

112 It appears that the attorneys for the manufacturing company, or some of them, then appeared before John S. Dawson, attorney-general of Kansas, and suggested to him the bringing of a suit of ouster against the Kansas Natural Gas Company, alleging that it was a trust and doing business in violation of the anti-trust law of the state.

The attorney-general, in the name of The State of Kansas, filed such a suit on January 5, 1912; and he employed as special assistant attorney-general, Chester L. Long, T. S. Salathiel and O. P. Ergenbright, all of whom were attorneys for the Independence Manufacturing Company, and who had failed in the Federal court to establish the claim of the manufacturing company against the gas company. In the meantime, on October 9, 1912, certain bondholders, doubtless preferring that if a receiver were appointed it be done by the Federal court rather than by Judge Flannelly, who had granted the injunction in favor of the manufacturing company, applied to Judge Pollock for the appointment of receivers for the gas company. This he did on October 9, 1912. Judge Flannelly also appointed receivers on February 15, 1913.

Two Sets of Receivers Fight for the Property.

Then proceeded the litigation between the two sets of receivers for the possession of the property, which ultimately resulted in the state receivers' obtaining such possession after approximately a year's litigation. The Federal court directed its receivers to turn over the property to Judge Flannelly's receivers, allowing the Federal receivers and their attorneys $100,379.21 as fees, expenses and compensation for services they had performed while the property was in their possession, and directed them to retain $50,000 for contingencies, which they still have. The remainder of the money and property was turned over to the state receivers.

On February 15, 1913, immediately after Judge Flannelly appointed the state receivers, he authorized them to employ Chester L. Long, T. S. Salathiel and O. P. Ergenbright, all of whom had been attorneys for the manufacturing company, as attorneys for the receivers; and also on the same date he authorized the appointment of John S. Dawson, attorney-general, who had brought the ouster suit, and John H. Atwood, of Kansas City, as additional attorneys for the receivers. Other attorneys were employed at later dates.

So it appears in the evolution of events, that Judge Flannelly, who granted the temporary injunction asked for by the manufacturing company to compel the gas company to furnish it gas under the contract heretofore referred to, which was set aside by the Federal court upon the petition of the attorney-general, placed the gas company in the hands of a receiver under the state antitrust law, and at once authorized the receivers which he appointed to employ the attorneys of the manufacturing company, and John S. Dawson, the attorney-general, as attorneys for the receivers.

During the first year of the management of the gas company by the receivers, he authorized the receivers to pay fees to these attorneys as follows:

John S. Dawson, $8,325; Chester I. Long, $13,325; T. S. Salathiel, $13,325; O. P. Ergenbright, $13,325; and John H. Atwood, $13,500.

Some time after the appointment of the state receivers, a claim was filed in the receivership proceedings by the manufacturing company against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its predecessors for the fulfillment of the contract for gas at two 114 cents per thousand cubic feet. It appears that it has since been proposed by the representatives of the manufacturing company to withdraw this claim on the payment of $150,000.

On December 17, 1914, an effort was made to settle all controversies between the creditors of the gas company, the Federal and state receivers and Judge Flannelly's court in an agreement known as the "Creditors' Agreement." In the conference that resulted in this agreement there appeared for the State of Kansas, John S. Dawson, attorney-general; for the bondholders and creditors were S. S. Mehard, Randall Morgan, Chas. Flood Smith, J. W. Dana, and others, and for the receivers F. J. Fritch, T. S. Salathiel, O. P. Ergenbright, John H. Atwood and Chester I. Long, attorneys. In this agreement appears the following provision:

"Upon due notice and opportunity to be heard, the court shall determine the rights of the Independence Manufacturing and Power Company."

So it appears that the manufacturing company was able by this agreement to keep alive its claim against the gas company, which the Federal court had decided was not valid; and it is left to Judge Flannelly, who originally granted the temporary injunction for the manufacturing company and appointed the state receivers, to determine what sums shall be given to that company.

The attorneys for the state receivers have been allowed, for services rendered during the years 1913 and 1914, $65,900, and it is stated in the testimony in the case that the claims for the year 1915 have not yet been allowed. What such additional allowances may be no one but the court knows. None of the attorneys referred to have yet receipted in full for their fees.

Lawyers' Fees.

During the pendency of this litigation there has been $227,667.87 expended for both Federal and state receivers' salaries and expenses, including attorneys' fees; and it is proposed now by the present receivers to continue the administration of the affairs of this company for six years or indefinitely.

From the evidence it clearly appears that the Kansas Natural Gas Company was not put in the hands of the receivers because of any financial embarrassment that beset it. From 1905 to 1914, covering a period of about nine years, the company earned net 11.32 per cent on its investment.

The suit that resulted in the appointment of the receivers was brought by the attorney-general under the antitrust law in the name of the State, and that proceeding is still pending under that caption.

The administration of the property by the receivers has been disastrous to the company and its patrons. The litigation between the state and Federal receivers was exceedingly expensive and demoralizing to the business of the company. That was immediately followed by long, persistent and expensive litigation by the state receivers for increased rates.

Revenues Wasted.

In the meantime, while the receivers were engaged in this litigation and wasting the revenues of the company, its leaseholds were exhausted and they neglected to make proper effort to obtain an additional supply of gas necessary to meet the demands of the company's markets. Leases that were available for them were 116 obtained by other companies operating in the same field.

Now these receivers find themselves with an insufficient quantity of gas to supply the demands of their lines. They have large facilities for marketing gas, but not a sufficient supply of gas.

This is not because there is not an abundance of gas available, as there is to-day a larger supply of natural gas in the Mid-continent field in sight than at any period of its history. Other companies have obtained wells in this field and are furnishing their patrons in Kansas with an abundant supply at rates less than those fixed by the Commission for the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

The Wichita Natural Gas Company is fully supplying Wichita, Hutchinson and other cities in Central Kansas and Oklahoma with gas at 12½ cents for boiler and 27 cents for domestic uses, and has made no request to this Commission for an increase of rates.

There is every reason to believe that if the Kansas Natural Gas Company, under the receivership, had been competently and efficiently managed, it would to-day be able to supply all of the cities on its lines with a reasonable supply of gas with a fair profit at the rates which have prevailed in the past. But instead of doing this they have wasted their time and the resources of the company in legal controversies and excessive and in many instances unnecessary receivership expenses.

It is now proposed, apparently, from the testimony in this case, to continue the administration of the affairs of this corporation in the same way in the future for years. As heretofore stated, this company was placed in the hands of receivers not because of its insolvency, but upon a suit brought by the state against it for the violation of the antitrust law.

117 Property Should Be Given Back to Owners.

It is the opinion of the Commission that if the present owners of the property could satisfy the state authorities that they will operate the company in harmony with the laws of the state, and the affairs of the receivership could be wound up promptly and the property turned over to the owners, it would be able soon to fully supply its patrons with all the gas they require. But, if this is not done, unless the receivers completely change their methods of administration, a sufficient supply will not be furnished.

We believe that the best interests of this property and the public would be served by turning it over to its rightful owners, and requiring them to administer its affairs in a lawful manner.

Dissenting Opinion on Rehearing.

By FOLEY, Commissioner:

The writer regrets to feel himself obliged to differ from his colleagues in the conclusions reached upon this matter. To set forth the grounds upon which this difference of opinion rests appears wholly unnecessary. Cordially agreeing with much of the reasoning and many of the conclusions embodied in the opinion, the evidence has, nevertheless, wrought in my mind a conviction that the best interests of both the complainants and the gas-consuming public require a somewhat higher rate for gas than that provided by the order issued.

118 My judgment is that the net rate for domestic gas marketed in Montgomery county should be twenty-five cents per thousand cubic feet; that, to consumers served by that portion of the line and its off-shoots between Montgomery county and the Gunn line junction in Allen county the rate should be twenty-eight cents net; and that to all consumers in Kansas served by the Gunn line or by complainants' line north of the Gunn line junction a net rate of thirty cents should be charged. This is the present rate in Moran, Bronson and Fort Scott.

Conceding, if need be, that the past management of the company's property by the receivers has not been either efficient or economical and that excessive sums have been needlessly spent in litigation, those matters are now, in my judgment, beyond the control of this Commission. As stated by the Interstate Commerce Commission in an early case, "the law deals with the actual situation."

Complainants ask a net rate of thirty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet for all gas delivered for domestic consumption in Kansas outside of Montgomery county. So high a rate would probably defeat its purpose—the augmentation of revenue. Under past and existing service conditions it is doubtful whether any rate in excess of thirty cents net would increase the company's income much, if at all.

It is almost axiomatic that a public utility, in order to earn a maximum of revenue, must furnish service reasonably satisfactory to its patrons. This class of service is not now, and has not for some time been supplied by complainants. They confess themselves unable to supply the public demand during "peak load" periods in cold weather. In other words, when the public needs the service worst it fails. The quality of such service may be likened to that furnished by a bank which fails a depositor when he is in the sorest financial straits, or by a crowded street car, which on account of inability to perform further service leaves an intending passenger shivering upon a bleak corner during a driving storm.

While the value of the service to the consumer is not an accepted measure of the proper rate to be charged, yet it seems reasonable that the character and efficiency of the service affect the value of that actually rendered, and would be proper factors to consider in establishing a rate.

The pipe line serving Kansas City, Topeka and other northern territory is conceded to be inadequate for the transportation of a sufficient supply of gas in cold weather. A compressor station which was formerly operated at Scipio, near Garnett, and which was very essential to the proper service of customers north of that point, was dismantled, removed and reinstalled in Oklahoma. Altogether, the service in the northern portion of the territory in which the company markets its gas is very inefficient and unsatisfactory.

Nevertheless, under existing conditions, and taking into consideration all the facts and circumstances disclosed by the evidence, I entertain the belief that the rates should be increased substantially to the extent above indicated.

It is Therefore by the Commission Ordered, that the complainants are authorized to file with the Public Utilities Commission and collect the following schedule of net rates for the sale of natural gas by them, or through their distributing companies, to the public in the state of Kansas, to wit:

For domestic gas in Montgomery county, except Elk City, 23 cents per thousand cubic feet; for domestic gas in Elk City, 25 cents per thousand cubic feet; for boiler gas in Montgomery county, 10 cents per thousand cubic feet; for domestic gas in all other counties and cities other than those supplied by the Gunn Pipe Line, 28 cents per thousand cubic feet; and to all consumers supplied by the Gunn Pipe Line, 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and for all boiler gas, except in Montgomery county, 12½ cents per thousand cubic feet.

It is further ordered, that the parties hereto be authorized and permitted to make a minimum charge of 50 cents per month, per subscriber, for readiness to serve; that the complainants receive their contract share of the collections for gas actually delivered, and the residue of the minimum bill, when there is any, shall go to the distributing company. Collection rules and the rules relating to loss arising from uncollected accounts shall remain as at present until further ordered.

122 It is further ordered, that the parties hereto are hereby authorized and permitted to discontinue the furnishing or supplying of so-called free gas to cities, notwithstanding it may be furnished in compliance with ordinances or franchise agreements.

That the parties hereto are further authorized and permitted to discontinue the furnishing or supplying of free gas to any person or corporation for any reason whatsoever.

This order shall become operative and effective within thirty days after the service of a duly certified copy thereof.

"Boiler gas" for use under boilers, for making steam for power purposes at ten cents (10c.) per thousand cubic feet in Montgomery County, Kansas, and at twelve and one-half cents (12½c.) per thousand cubic feet at all points in Kansas outside of Montgomery County; provided, that the receivers will supply boiler gas only when, in their judgment, such use will not affect the domestic service. Gas used for purposes, or in a manner different than as herein provided, shall carry the domestic rate of the locality where used.

Two cents per thousand cubic feet will be added to the bills, but shall be deducted from the bills of all consumers who pay their bills on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month in which the service is rendered.

All gas heretofore furnished to any person, firm, corporation or municipality, without compensation, commonly called "free gas," is discontinued, and all such users heretofore using "free gas," shall be required to pay for gas furnished in the future for the uses for which said "free gas" was used, at the domestic rate herein provided for the city or locality wherein such gas is used; provided, that where gas is used for street lighting purposes, a charge will be made 126 for one thousand cubic feet of gas per month for each lamp having a single burner where gas is turned off during daylight hours, and for two thousand cubic feet left burning during the daylight hours; and a similar charge for each additional burner.

The foregoing schedule of rates and joint rates is made and filed by said receivers under protest against the establishment and enforcement thereof, but in obedience to, in compliance with, and only because of, the order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, made and entered on the 10th day of December, 1915; the grounds for this protest are, that said order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, is null and void because the business conducted by said receivers in the states of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, is interstate commerce, and said order an attempted regulation thereof; that as to the gas produced in Kansas, said rates are inadequate, insufficient, unremunerative, noncompensatory, confiscatory, wrongful and unlawful, and will not yield sufficient revenue to pay a fair return on the property employed in said service, and will deprive said receivers and all persons having rights therein, of property without due process of law, and imposes a burden upon the interstate commerce conducted by said receivers; that as to the gas produced in Oklahoma and sold in Kansas, such rates are inadequate, insufficient, unremunerative, noncompensatory, confiscatory, wrongful and unlawful, and the enforcement thereof an interference with interstate commerce.

JOHN M. LANDON,
R. S. LITCHFIELD,
Receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Co.

127 Consent is hereby given this — day of December, 1915, to put the foregoing schedule of rates into effect at the time in this schedule provided.

Docket 1035.

In the Matter of the Application for Approval of the Schedule Showing Changes in Rates and Joint Rates for Natural Gas Supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as Receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and of the Rules and Regulations Therewith Filed.

Order.

Be it Remembered that on this 28th day of December A. D. 1915, the application for approval of the schedule showing changes in rates and joint rates for natural gas supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as Receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and of the rules and regulations therewith filed, came duly on for consideration and order by the Commission, and the Commission, upon consideration thereof and being duly advised in the premises, finds that said schedule of rates and joint rates as filed, and the rules and regulations therewith filed, shall be approved with the modification of one of said rules as hereinafter set forth.

The Commission further finds that the proviso in relation to "boiler gas" and its use should be modified so as to read as follows:

"Provided, that the receivers will supply boiler gas to all users thereof upon application and without discrimination only when in their judgment such use will not affect the domestic service."

It is therefore by the Commission considered and ordered; that the said schedule showing changes in rates and joint rates 129 for natural gas supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield as Receivers for the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the rules and regulations therewith filed as above modified be and they hereby are ratified, approved and confirmed.

By order of the Commission.

Equity.

No. 136-N.

JOHN M. LONDON and R. S. LITCHFIELD, as Receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

VS.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al., Defendants.

Separate Answer of Kansas Natural Gas Company.

For its answer to the complaint of the plaintiffs herein and for affirmative relief against its co-defendants hereinafter asked and prayed for, Kansas Natural Gas Company alleges:

(1) That it is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of Delaware, and is a citizen of Delaware and is authorized to do business in Oklahoma and Missouri.

(2) Said defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, refers to the bill of complaint of plaintiffs herein, and to each and every paragraph thereof, and adopts the same as its own, and makes the same a part of this its answer by reference as if fully set out herein. That the matter and amount in controversy herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum and value of Three Thousand dollars ($3,000.00).

(3) This defendant further answering, alleges that a long time prior to the filing of Equity Cause No. 1351 entitled, John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Equity Cause No. 1-N Entitled, The Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Delaware Trust Company now pending in this court, this defendant was the owner of certain pipelines, 131 compressor stations, leases for oil and gas, leaseholds, oil and gas wells, field and gathering lines, and equipment for drilling and equipping oil and gas wells in the states of Oklahoma and Kansas, and the owners of the pipelines in the State of Missouri, and the owners of leases on certain pipelines, compressor stations, gas wells and equipment owned by the Marnet Mining Company, and certain other pipelines, compressor stations, leases, gas wells and equipment owned by Marnet Mining Company, a corporation of West Virginia, and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation of New Jersey, which it held and used in carrying on its business under certain lease contracts, copies of which are among the files in Equity case No. 1351 and Equity Case No. 1-N above referred to, and which are made a part of this answer by reference.

(4) That since its organization as a corporation, to-wit in 1904, this defendant was engaged in the business of producing, transporting and selling natural gas, and in operating pipelines therefor in the States of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and carrying on other activities incidental to the said business, and said business was conducted up to the 9th day of October, 1912, when receivers were appointed by this honorable court for all the property of this defendant situated in the States of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

That pipelines, compressor stations, leases, oil and gas wells, and instrumentalities used by this defendant, including those owned by it and those leased from Marnet Mining Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, in carrying on its said business, are so constructed, connected and related that they can be operated only as a unit.

132 (5) That at the time of the appointment of receivers for the property and assets of this defendant by this honorable court, the property of this defendant was incumbered by two certain trust deeds, one to the The Fidelity Title & Trust Company, as trustee, given to secure $4,000,000 of the first mortgage bonds of this defendant, of which at said time, there remained unpaid $1,600,000; and a certain other trust deed in favor of the Delaware Trust Company, upon which there remained unpaid $2,267,000 of said mortgage bonds; that at said time there was a trust deed upon the property of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company leased to this defendant, in favor of the Fidelity Trust Company, upon which there was then unpaid $2,500,000 first mortgage bonds; that at said time there was a trust deed upon the property of Marnet Mining Company leased to this defendant, upon which there remained unpaid $547,000 of first mortgage bonds; that this defendant had assumed and agreed to pay the said bonds secured by trust deeds upon the property of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Marnet Mining Company aforesaid, under the terms of said lease and agreements hereinbefore referred to, and made a part of this answer.

(6) That on December 17, 1914, this defendant joined with its several creditors and stockholders in making and executing the "Creditors' Agreement" referred to in paragraph V of the bill of complaint herein, by and through its president, Mr. Eugene Mackey. A copy of said "Creditors' Agreement" is attached to the bill of complaint herein as "Exhibit A," and is hereby referred to and made a part of this answer by reference as if fully set out herein.

133 That at the time of entering into said "Creditors' Agreement," the bonds of this defendant, secured by trust deeds aforesaid, were in default, and said trust deeds were subject to foreclosure, and were in the process of foreclosure; that certain of the bonds of Marnet Mining Company were in default, and the trust deeds securing the same were subject to foreclosure; that certain of the bonds of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company were in default, and a trust deed securing said bonds was subject to foreclosure; that one of the purposes, advantages and benefits to be accomplished by the making of said "Creditors' Agreement," was to procure an extension of the time for the payment of said bonds of this defendant, and the bonds of Marnet Mining Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company above referred to, and to prevent the filing of foreclosure suits for foreclosing said trust deeds, and to stay the prosecution of the said equity suits 1351 and 1-N above referred to, which were pending to foreclose the mortgages on this defendant's property.

That said "Creditors' Agreement" provided for the extension of the time for the payment of all said bonds, including those in process of foreclosure in said equity suits over a period of six (6) years, from January 1, 1915, and provided for the payment and retirement of one-sixth ( $1/6$ ) of each of said first mortgage bonds each year.

That it was further provided in said "Creditors' Agreement" that "The creditors and lienholders of Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, consent that $500,000.00 may be reserved during the year 1915 out of current earnings for said year, and $200,000.00 annually, thereafter, during the receivership, for extension, betterments and additional gas supply; the same to be expended only by order of court after notice to the creditors or their committee and opportunity to be heard, and upon condition that the properties are being operated upon a compensatory rate;"

134 That it is necessary in order to provide funds with which to meet the maturing obligations of the said several creditors of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and comply with the terms of the said "Creditors' Agreement" for the payment of the same within the six year period, that additional gas supply be provided sufficient to carry on said business during the six year period provided, and it is necessary in order to procure said gas supply, to make extensions of pipelines to new gas fields and to new gas wells, and to construct and equip compressor stations; that large sums of money will be required to procure such additional gas supply greatly in excess of the sums of money provided in said "Creditors' Agreement." That unless said extensions are made and funds provided for meeting the terms of said "Creditors' Agreement," to wit the payment of one-sixth of the first mortgage bonds of Kansas Natural Gas Company, Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Marnet Mining Company each year, said "Creditors' Agreement" will become forfeited and void, and the parties thereto released from the obligations and terms thereof, and will be put in statu quo and permitted to prosecute said equity suits, and to institute actions to foreclose their respective claims, and the property of this defendant will thereby be wasted and sacrificed by forced sale, and the usefulness and utility of the pipeline system operated by the complainants as receivers, will be destroyed by separate foreclosure and sale, and by the failure to procure gas supply sufficient to operate the same.

135 (7) This defendant, further answering says that the rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, defendant, and as indicated by the Public Service Commission of Missouri, defendant, as in the bill of complaint alleged, will not afford plaintiffs revenue sufficient to meet the accruing bond payments and the interest upon the bonds, and provide a gas supply for the six year period provided in said "Creditors' Agreement." That unless a compensatory and remunerative rate is established by some competent authority, or the said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of Missouri, defendants, are restrained from interfering with the plaintiffs, establishing and putting into effect reasonable rates, said plaintiff or this defendant will not be able to perform the terms, conditions and covenants of the "Creditors' Agreement," and make the bond payments as therein provided, and the terms of said "Creditors' Agreement" will become breached and each of the parties thereto will be released from the obligations thereof, and placed in statu quo, free to institute foreclosure suits and to prosecute the causes now pending to final judgment, foreclosure and sale of the properties of this defendant, to the great loss and detriment of this defendant and its stockholders. That the failure and refusal of said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of Missouri to authorize or establish compensatory rates in which plaintiffs may sell natural gas in the States of Kansas and Missouri, is jeopardizing the property rights, interests and securities of this defendant, and of its stockholders and bondholders, by preventing complainants from earning revenue sufficient to enable them to meet their obligations as fixed by said "Creditors' Agreement," thereby exposing the said properties to foreclosure or forced sale.

136 (8) That the rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, defendant, and at which gas might be sold in Kansas, are inadequate, unremunerative and confiscatory, and the enforcement of said rates and the employment of this defendant's property in carrying on said business at said rates, is wasting the property of this defendant, and this defendant is being deprived of its property without compensation, and without due process of law, in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

(9) That the property of this defendant owned and leased aforesaid, now in the possession and control, and being operated by the complainants as receivers, in carrying on the business of producing and purchasing gas in Oklahoma, and transporting the same to Kansas and Missouri, and the purchasing and producing gas in Kansas, and selling the same in Missouri, is an instrumentality of interstate commerce, and the business in which the said properties are employed aforesaid, and carried on by the plaintiff herein, is commerce between the states, and is interstate commerce and not subject to the jurisdiction, control or interference of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas nor the Public Service Commission of Missouri.

(10) That said orders of said defendants, the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of Missouri, prescribing rates and regulating the use of said property, and in refusing to permit defendants to make reasonable rates, are unlawful and void, and an interference with interstate commerce, and in violation of Section Eight (8) Article One (1) of the Constitution of the United States.

(11) That this defendant is without an adequate remedy at law.

137 Wherefore, the premises considered, this defendant prays the justment and decree of this court granting the relief prayed in plaintiff's bill of complaint, and permanently restraining and enjoining the defendants, and each of them, from interfering with plaintiff's putting into effect reasonable rates for the sale of gas in Kansas and Missouri, until such time as some competent authority shall establish reasonable, renumeration and compensatory rates, and this defendant will ever pray.

I of the bill.

II.

II of the bill, except the allegation that the "pipe-lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company are of little or no use unless they be operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company," as to which averment this defendant is Defendant admits that on December 17, 1914, the stipulation or Creditors' Agreement attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint was executed by the parties thereto, as stated in paragraph numbered V of the bill of complaint, and that natural gas is delivered to the consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, by this defendant as a distributing company under a written contract, and that the amount paid by the consumers for natural gas purchased as measured by his meter is divided between the plaintiffs and this defendant in payment of the services rendered by each according to the percentages set out in said contract, as alleged in said paragraph of the bill; as to the remaining averments thereof, this defendant is without knowledge and leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

Defendant admits the statement of facts in paragraph numbered XXXIII of the bill; but whether the contracts referred to therein are improvident, wasteful and destructive of the estate in the hands of plaintiffs and the custody of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and this Court; and whether said contracts are a legal and equitable fraud upon the rights of the creditors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company; and whether said contracts have never been adopted by the plaintiffs, this defendant is without knowledge and leaves plaintiffs to their proofs; but defendant avers that the supply-contract existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, providing for the supply of natural gas to this defendant, has never been disavowed.

Defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, further states that it has an interest in the subject of the action and arising out of the transactions which are the subject matter of the plaintiffs' suit set forth in the bill of complaint; that it also has an interest adverse to the plaintiffs and to certain defendants therein necessary to a proper and complete determination of the cause; and for its counterclaim against the plaintiffs and the defendants, Kansas Natural Gas Company and George Sharritt, Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company appointed by this court, states the following facts, to-wit:

That the defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, is a corporation, duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Kansas; and is engaged in the business of distributing and selling natural gas to the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, and their inhabitants, under and pursuant to the following described ordinances of said cities granting the use of the public streets for such purpose.

That on or about September 1, 1903, the mayor and councilmen of Kansas City, Kansas, duly passed, approved and caused to be published Ordinance No. 5637 of said city, entitled "An ordinance providing for the supplying of the City of Kansas City, Kansas, and its inhabitants with manufactured gas by the Wyandotte Gas Company, its successors and assigns, and repealing all ordinances in conflict herewith;" that said ordinance was duly accepted by the Wyandotte Gas Company, and thereafter duly assigned, sold, transferred and conveyed to The Wyandotte County Gas Company, and 155 said ordinance and all the franchises, rights and privileges therein granted are now owned and held by The Wyandotte County Gas Company; that said ordinance and franchises provided for the construction, maintenance and operation of a manufactured gas plant in the City of Kansas City, Kansas, and the furnishing of manufactured gas to said city and its inhabitants for a period of thirty years at the rate and price of $1.00 per thousand cubic feet; a true and correct copy of said Ordinance No. 5637 is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof.

That soon thereafter, on the advent of natural gas and on or about December 13, 1904, the mayor and councilmen of Kansas City, Kansas, duly passed, approved and caused to be published Ordinance No. 6051 of said city, entitled "An ordinance relating to, and providing for the supplying of the City of Kansas City, Kansas, and its inhabitants, with natural gas by the Wyandotte Gas Company, its successors and assigns;" that said ordinance and the franchises, rights and privileges therein granted was thereupon duly accepted by the Wyandotte Gas Company, and was on or about November, 1908, duly assigned, sold, transferred and conveyed to The Wyandotte County Gas Company, and said company is now the owner and holder of said ordinance and the franchises, rights and privileges therein granted.

That said ordinance provided that natural gas should be furnished "for lighting, heating, power and manufacturing purposes;" that the general domestic rates should commence at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet and increase from time to time to 35 cents per thousand cubic feet, and that the rates and charges for the natural gas 156 furnished and sold for power and manufacturing purposes might be determined by "special contracts with consumers at less than the general rates then in force, based upon the amount of gas used and the conditions of the contract;" that for the purpose of supplying said natural gas to the city and its inhabitants, the grantee might use its existing mains, pipes, reservoirs, holders and appliances, and temporarily "be relieved of any obligation to supply manufactured gas;" and said ordinance further provided that, "should the grantee find at any time hereafter during the life of this franchise, that the supply of natural gas at points contiguous to the mains from which it obtains its supply, or in the natural gas fields of southeastern Kansas, is inadequate to warrant it in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of this ordinance, it shall not be longer required so to do, but may proceed to furnish and supply manufactured gas in accordance with the terms and provisions of said Ordinance No. 5637;" a true and correct copy of said Ordinance No. 6051 is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "B" and made a part hereof.

That on or about March 21, 1905, the mayor and councilmen of the City of Rosedale, Kansas, duly passed, approved and caused to be published Ordinance No. 295 of the City of Rosedale, entitled "An Ordinance granting to R. A. Long and T. N. Barnsdall, their successors and assigns, for a period of twenty years, the right to acquire, lay, maintain, repair, replace, relay and remove mains and pipe lines and all necessary regulators and appliances for the transportation of natural and manufactured gas to, in and through the City of Rosedale, Kansas; together with the additional right

157 to use all streets, avenues and public grounds of the City of Rosedale, Kansas, for the purpose of laying mains and pipes to supply and deliver to the said City and the inhabitants thereof gas for manufacturing, heating, illuminating and all other purposes for which natural or manufactured gas is, or may be used, during said period;" that said ordinance was duly accepted by the grantees and has been since assigned, sold, transferred and conveyed to The Wyandotte County Gas Company and said company is now the owner and holder of said ordinance and all the franchises, rights and privileges therein granted.

That said franchise provides for the furnishing of natural gas for "manufacturing, heating, illuminating and all other purposes, natural or manufactured gas may be used," and fixes a schedule of general domestic rates commencing at 35 cents per thousand cubic feet and increasing from time to time to 50 cents per thousand cubic feet, with a proviso that the rates charged for said natural gas should never exceed the rates charged and collected in Kansas City, Kansas; a true and correct copy of said ordinance being hereto attached, marked Exhibit "C" and made a part hereof.

That The Wyandotte County Gas Company obtains its natural gas from the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, under and pursuant to a certain contract in writing dated February 1, 1906, and entered into by and between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation, and the Wyandotte Gas Company, a corporation, which said contract has been duly assigned by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company to and assumed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and by the Wyandotte Gas Company to and assumed by

The Wyandotte County Gas Company; a true and correct
158 copy of said contract is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "D" and made a part hereof.

Defendant states and shows to the Court that the whole project, plan and undertaking of the natural gas business of plaintiffs and defendants originally contemplated, undertook and provided for the furnishing, supply and sale of natural gas by defendant for three purposes, to-wit: First, lighting and cooking; second, domestic heating; third, boiler, power and manufacturing purposes; that the transportation lines and system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the distributing system of The Wyandotte County Gas Company were designed and constructed to that end; that the aforesaid franchises contemplated and provided for the sale of gas for said three purposes; that said franchises purported to fix schedules of rates for the sale of natural gas for domestic lighting, cooking and heating and consented to the sale of said natural gas for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes at special contract rates; that the aforesaid supply-contract contemplated and provided for the furnishing, distribution and sale of said natural gas for said three purposes, and made specific reference to said franchise ordinances and the purposes for which said natural gas was to be furnished, distributed and sold; that said contract set forth that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its associates were the owners of gas lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas from the gas fields in the state of Kansas to the City of Kansas City, Kansas, and that it was desirous of entering into a contract with defendant's predecessor for the transportation and supply of natural gas to said company; that the Wyandotte Gas Company was the owner of the aforesaid franchise ordinance in Kansas City, Kansas, granting the use of the public streets for the distribution of natural gas, said ordinance being referred to in said supply-contract and marked

Exhibit "1" and made a part thereof; that said Wyandotte 159 Gas Company was expecting to secure other franchise ordinances elsewhere in Wyandotte County, Kansas; and that:

"The party of the first part (Kansas Natural Gas Company) hereby agrees that it will, during the period of said ordinance, * * * supply and deliver * * * at a pressure of twenty (20) pounds at the point of delivery above mentioned (city limits), natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption as provided in this contract, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned. However, as the production of the gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents, interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the party of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the party of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the party of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all consumers.

"It is hereby agreed between the parties hereto that the party of the second part may make special contracts for the sale of natural gas for manufacturing purposes in said city of Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, at lower rates than those specified in said ordinances.

"In order to protect the domestic trade, however, the party of the second part may, without notice, if the supply of natural gas shall make it necessary to do so, reduce the amount of such gas to be furnished under any such special contracts or entirely stop the supply of the same, and the agreement of the party of the first part herein to furnish a full supply of natural gas shall not apply to such gas to be sold for manufacturing purposes if the same shall impair its ability to furnish a full supply under this contract as to pressure, etc., for the domestic trade, excepting, however, that the party of the second part shall always have a right to sell natural gas to manufacturers at the same rates and under the same terms and conditions as to domestic consumers, and the party of the second part agrees that any contract it makes to furnish gas to manufacturers shall contain provisions by which the party of the second part may without notice diminish the amount of gas supplied under such contract or entirely stop the same.

160 "So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the party of the second part agrees to buy from the party of the first part all the gas it may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said city of Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which it shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent of its gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said city of Kansas City or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent of such gross receipts."

Defendant states and shows to the Court that the franchise contracts existing between The Wyandotte Gas Company and the city of Kansas City, Kansas, and the city of Rosedale, Kansas, were exhibited and referred to in said supply-contract and made a part thereof, and that said franchise ordinances and said supply-contract must be read and construed together as constituting the agreement of the parties relative to the furnishing and supplying of natural gas and the purposes therefor, and that so read and construed, the said Kansas Natural Gas Company contracted, agreed and undertook to supply, furnish and deliver to the Wyandotte Gas Company, and its successors and assigns, "natural gas for lighting, heating, power and manufacturing purposes" in Kansas City, Kansas, and "for manufacturing, heating, illuminating and all other purposes for which natural or manufactured gas is or may be used" in Rosedale, Kansas, during the period and life of said franchises, and "at a pressure of twenty pounds at the point of delivery," "at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri," and "in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption as provided in this contract" and said ordinances included 161 therein by reference.

Defendant further avers that, at a very early point in the history of the natural gas business, the Kansas Natural Gas Company failed and defaulted in its undertaking to furnish to this defendant a sufficient supply of natural gas to meet the demands therefor for power, boiler and manufacturing purposes as aforesaid, or upon a competitive price and basis with other fuels used for like purposes; that soon thereafter the said company commenced to default in furnishing a sufficient quantity of gas and at sufficient pressure to fully supply the demand for domestic heating; that such failure and default has continued and increased in amount and duration from winter to winter from 1910 to the present time; that in the year 1910, The Wyandotte County Gas Company was supplied and therefore enabled to sell 1,596,285 thousand cubic feet of natural gas for power, boiler and manufacturing purposes at special contract rates; that the supply for such purpose decreased until 1913, after which time this defendant has received and been permitted to sell at special contract rates no power, boiler or manufacturing gas whatever; that in the winter of 1910-11, this defendant was furnished and enabled to sell on maximum demand days 13 million cubic feet of natural gas for domestic lighting, cooking and heating purposes; that the decrease and diminution in supply has continued until in the winter of 1915-16 this defendant is receiving and enabled to furnish and sell only 4 million cubic feet on maximum demand days; that the demand for said natural gas is very great and the number of consumers applying and meters installed is constantly increasing and the supply furnished by plaintiffs is constantly waning.

162 That the amount of natural gas furnished defendant by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, from year to year since the beginning of the natural gas business, for manufacturing, boiler and power purposes, sold at special contract rates, and the price per thousand cubic feet and the gross receipts therefor and the net income therefrom to this defendant is shown by the following table:

Defendant states and shows to the Court that by reason of the premises, it has lost all of its power, boiler and manufacturing natural gas business; that it has lost the major portion of its domestic heating and furnace natural gas business, and that it has lost a very considerable portion of its domestic lighting and cooking business; all by reason of the failure and default of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers to furnish, supply and deliver to this defendant an adequate, efficient and sufficient supply of 165 natural gas to meet the demands therefor, as per the terms, conditions and provisions of said supply-contract and the franchises referred to therein and made a part hereof.

Defendant further alleges and shows to the Court that the volume of business done and obtainable by it upon the supply of natural gas furnished by plaintiffs is wholly inadequate and insufficient to afford a fair return upon the reasonable value of the defendant's property used and useful in the service of the public at the rates and charges now in force in said cities; that said supply-contract was entered into and said franchises accepted, and the domestic rates therein set forth were put into effect and undertaken by this defendant, upon the representations and inducement of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and upon said contract that said company, its successors and assigns, including plaintiffs herein, would furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of natural gas to enable this defendant to furnish and sell the same in efficient and sufficient quantities for lighting, cooking, domestic heating, power, boiler and manufacturing purposes; that by reason of the failure and default of said company and its Receivers so to do, this defendant has heretofore and is now sustaining great and irreparable loss and damage; that its income from the limited sales of said scant supply of natural gas is only sufficient to pay current operating expenses and taxes with nothing for renewal reserve for depreciation, or for interest and business profits.

166 Defendant further alleges that its plant and distribution system is so located upon the Kansas Natural system, and said system is so constructed, maintained and operated, that in periods of extreme cold weather when the demand for heating and furnace gas is very great, the other cities and distributing companies upon the system receive from the mains of the Kansas Natural Gas Company a far greater proportion of the total supply of natural gas than they do in moderate weather; that by reason thereof, there is but little gas furnished this defendant in proportion to the number of meters in use in other cities and the number of meters in use in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas; that by reason thereof, in the year 1915 the returns for domestic sales from the meters in use in other cities ran as high as $37.75 per meter per year, while the returns for domestic sales from the meters in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale amounted to only $22.21 per meter per year, resulting in an inequitable apportionment and distribution of the available supply of natural gas and preferential and discriminatory service in favor of the consumers in other cities as against the consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas.

A table showing the number of meters in use, the sale per meter, the rate and the return per meter during the year 1914 in the various cities on the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is as follows:

Table.

City.	Number of meters.	Sales per meter.	Rate.	Return per meter.
Joplin .....	5,517	112,000	25¢	$28.00
Leavenworth .....	3,543	113,000	25¢	28.25
Lawrence .....	3,432	139,000	25¢	35.00
Topeka .....	11,241	90,000	25¢	22.50
Parsons .....	3,367	147,000	25¢	37.75
Atchison .....	2,524	105,000	25¢	26.25
Kansas City, Kansas	17,709	83,644	25¢	21.39

Defendant avers that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have continued to sell power and boiler gas in other cities in southeastern Kansas and Missouri since they have refused to permit this defendant to sell power and boiler gas in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas; that by reason thereof, the returns of this defendant have been greatly diminished and reduced and said company has been discriminated against in favor of other companies, cities, localities and consumers in that respect.

Defendant further avers that said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have from time to time held out inducements and promises to this defendant that it and they would be able 168 from time to time to furnish a better service and increased supply of natural gas; that by reason thereof, this defendant has borne and endured the losses and damages aforesaid, but can no longer afford so to do.

Defendant further states that by reason of the terms of said supply-contract providing for the proportionate division of the gross receipts for the sale of said natural gas, and the character and conduct of the business and the constant uncertainty and fluctuating amount of natural gas which the plaintiffs and said Kansas Natural Gas Company from time to time furnish to this defendant to meet the demands of its consumers, this defendant is unable to state, compute, estimate or determine either the volume of business that it is or will be able to do from time to time, or the price that it is or will be required to pay for the natural gas furnished to it by said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers; that the rates, charges and business of this defendant are subject to the control of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas; and that by reason of the premises this defendant is unable to ascertain and determine the proper rate to the consumers and is unable to make or present a case to the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas upon a sound basis either as to the cost of the natural gas to it or the amount of natural gas obtainable or the service that this defendant can promise its consumers; upon which cost, amount of gas and service alone the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas would be able to find the cost of distributing said gas and the reasonable, fair and proper rate to be charged the ultimate consumer.

169 That in the early part of 1913, this defendant filed before the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas a petition for leave to raise its rates sufficient to afford it a fair return upon the value of its property used and useful in the service of the public; that said petition and a vast volume of evidence thereon was heard by the Commission, said matter taken under advisement, and has never yet been decided, for the reason that it became involved and complicated with the application of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers for an increase in rates, now pending in this court and cause for review.

That by reason of the premises, it is necessary, to the end that this defendant may no longer be required to operate its property at a loss, that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers be required to furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of gas for all the purposes named in said contract, to-wit: lighting, cooking, domestic heating, boiler, power and manufacturing purposes.

Defendant further states and shows to the Court that it has no other main, adequate, full or complete remedy at law; that its rights and interests are embraced and involved in the cause of action set forth in the plaintiffs' bill of complaint; that it has an interest in the subject of the action and the relief demanded, and that it has an interest adverse to the plaintiffs and to certain of the defendants:

Wherefore, the premises considered, the defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, prays this Honorable Court that the plaintiffs, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the defendant, 170 George F. Sharritt, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, be ordered and required to furnish, supply and deliver to this defendant at or near the corporate limits of Kansas City, Kansas, at a pressure of twenty pounds, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in said contract and the franchise made a part thereof by reference, to-wit: for lighting, cooking, domestic heating, power, boiler and manufacturing purposes; and for a uniform and equitable apportionment and distribution of said gas; and for such other and further relief as to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just; and for its costs herein expended.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS;
S. M. Brewster, as Attorney-General of the State of Kansas, et al.,
Defendants.

Separate Answer of S. M. Brewster, as Attorney-General of the State of Kansas.

Said defendant, S. M. Brewster, as attorney-general of the State of Kansas, now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving to himself all and all manner of benefits and advantages of exceptions which may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, imperfections, and insufficiencies in the plaintiffs' said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto or unto so much or such parts thereof as this defendant is advised that it is material or necessary for him to make answer unto, answering says:

That this answer is divided into three principal parts, the first consisting of such defenses in point of law as arise upon the face of the bill of complaint on account of lack of jurisdiction of this court; of misjoinder; and of insufficiency of fact to constitute a valid cause of action in equity, as hereinafter more particularly appears, and upon which this defendant will ask for a hearing before the final hearing of this cause upon the facts; and second, a statement in answer to the averments of said bill of complaint, and a denial of such matters as are denied by this defendant; and third, a statement of affirmative matters which it is averred by this defendant constitute defenses to the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein.

First.

I.

Said defendant avers that this court is without jurisdiction of this cause for the reason that there is in this cause no controversy between citizens of different states in that said plaintiffs and many of said defendants, including this defendant, are citizens, residents and inhabitants of the State of Kansas; and for the further reason that this cause does not arise under the constitution or laws of the United States, or treaties made under their authority, in this, that the only grounds for the jurisdiction of this court attempted to be set forth in said bill of complaint are—

(a) That said bill of complaint is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1-N, now pending in this court;

(b) That the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas deprives said plaintiffs of property without due process of law, in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States; and

(c) That the rates fixed by said order are a burden upon and an interference with interstate commerce carried on by said plaintiffs.

And this defendant avers that none of said federal questions are presented by said bill for the reason that—

(a) Said bill of complaint is not dependent upon or ancillary to said causes No. 1351 and No. 1-N, for the reason that said plaintiffs bring said bill of complaint as receivers appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, and, as alleged in said bill, by order of said court, and as such receivers said plaintiffs are strangers to said cases pending in this court, and have no standing or right to file a bill of complaint dependent upon or ancillary to said cases; and that while said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as alleged in said bill of complaint, have been appointed ancillary receivers of the circuit court for the eighth judicial circuit of property in the eastern district of Oklahoma and the western district of Missouri, the rates fixed by said order do not affect the transactions or business of said ancillary receivers in Missouri or Oklahoma;

(b) That said order of December 10, 1915, does not deprive plaintiffs of property without due process of law, in violation of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, for the reason that none of the property referred to in said bill of complaint is the property of said plaintiffs; that plaintiffs are merely officers of the court, having neither the title to nor the possession of said property; and for the further reason that plaintiffs have, as alleged in said bill of complaint, voluntarily filed with said Public

Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas the schedule of rates authorized by said order of December 10, 1915, and have since charged said rates and accepted the benefits of said order; and that under chapter 238 of the Session Laws of Kansas of 1911 said rates became, when they were filed by said plaintiffs, the authorized rates of said plaintiffs, which could be changed only with the consent of said Public Utilities Commission, and said plaintiffs have not applied to said Commission for its consent to change said rates or to file different rates;

(c) That said order of December 10, 1915, does not impose a burden upon or constitute an interference with interstate commerce for the reason that the rate fixed in said order is the rate to be charged for the sale of gas, which is in itself a commodity, and is not a transportation charge; and that said plaintiffs, as receivers appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, who operate only in the State of Kansas, receive said gas at the Kansas state line and mingle the same with gas produced in Kansas, and sell the same through distributing companies to consumers, and that the rate fixed by said order is the rate to be charged to such consumers. That said order does not affect the rate to be charged for gas in Missouri, and in no wise affects interstate commerce; and that, as hereinafter more fully pointed out, it has been decided and adjudicated between said plaintiffs and the State of Kansas that the production and sale of gas in the manner in which it is produced and sold by plaintiffs does not constitute interstate commerce.

Further answering, this defendant avers that said plaintiffs are estopped to claim that said order of said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void for the reason that it imposes 175 a burden upon interstate commerce, because, by the stipulation, a copy of which is attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint herein as Exhibit A, and the validity and binding effect of which this defendant does not admit, which stipulation was signed by said plaintiffs, it is provided in paragraph three as follows:

"All parties hereto consent and agree that the receivers of this court, for and on behalf of and in the name of the legal and equitable owners of said property, may, as expeditiously as possible and whenever deemed advisable by the court, make such application and showing to the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and other public authorities, as may to the court and its receivers be deemed proper; and all parties hereto hereby tender to the court and the receivers all the aid, assistance, and information in their possession and under their control for the purpose of said application and hearing."

That thereupon said plaintiffs voluntarily filed with said Public Utilities Commission their application for authority to increase their rates, all as alleged in said bill of complaint, and that the action of the Utilities Commission complained of herein was taken upon said application, and that plaintiffs, having invoked the jurisdiction of said Commission, are now estopped to question its jurisdiction.

II.

This defendant above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, avers that said bill of complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, for that the plaintiffs in paragraphs I to XX, both inclusive, of their bill of complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said bill of complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against this answering defendant, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

176 This defendant, further answering, avers that in the paragraphs of plaintiffs' bill of complaint after paragraph XX, including the said paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, heretofore mentioned, plaintiffs aver and set forth that because the pipe lines and other property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company extend into Oklahoma and Missouri the same should be treated as a whole or as one unit, and that the character of its business is wholly interstate and not of a local character in Kansas; and that said Commissions of the States of Kansas and Missouri are jointly interested in allocating the value of the property used in such States for supplying gas, for the purpose of determining what is a legal charge or rate thereon for service; and that in paragraph XXI of said bill of complaint it is averred that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has determined that it will allow no rate or charge for supplying gas in the western cities of Missouri higher than is charged in the eastern cities of Kansas, and that said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has suspended certain rates sought to be put into operation by the plaintiffs herein as receivers of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company; and it is averred in paragraphs XXII to XXVII of said bill of complaint that the aforesaid acts of the Missouri Public Service Commission are unlawful and confiscatory, and that because said facts so averred in the said paragraphs after paragraph XX of said bill of complaint show that the causes of action and grounds for relief in equity attempted to be set forth as against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and their several attorneys and officers, are related to each other and of joint interest and concern to the plaintiffs and this defendant; but this answering defendant avers that said pretended causes of action are not related to each other to any extent that would allow them to be joined in one bill of complaint in this court, and that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri is not responsible for nor interested in any way in any action of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas or its attorneys and officers, and that this answering defendant has no common interest in the cause, or causes, of action, or the subject, or subjects, of the action, or the relief demanded in said bill of complaint, as to the causes of action attempted to be set up in the paragraphs succeeding paragraph XX of said bill of complaint, except paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, both inclusive, which constitutes a resumé of previous averments and statements made directly against this answering defendant in paragraphs I to XX of said bill, both inclusive, and constitute mere conclusions of law, and that there are no other averments or allegations in said bill of complaint which show that said causes of action, or any other causes of action attempted to be set forth in plaintiffs' bill of complaint, or any other of the several causes of action and grounds for complaint, can be properly joined in one bill of complaint in this court; and this defendant asks that upon hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the bill of complaint that said bill of complaint, for this reason, be dismissed against this answering defendant because of said misjoinder of causes of action therein.

This defendant above named, further answering the bill of complaint herein, avers that it does not appear from said bill of complaint why the Hon. John T. Barker, as attorney-general of the State of Missouri, is made a party to said bill of complaint, except upon the theory of law that it is the official duty of said attorney-general, under the general laws of said State, as its chief law officer, to enforce the laws thereof and all legal orders made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri establishing rates for public service corporations and public utilities, and this answering defendant, therefore, refers to paragraph I of this answer as to the nature of the causes of action alleged against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and its attorneys and officers, and makes the same a part of this paragraph of his answer, and further avers that there is a misjoinder of action as to this answering defendant and the said defendant John T. Barker as attorney-general of the State of Missouri, and asks that upon the hearing as to the points of law arising on the face of said bill of complaint it be determined that there is a misjoinder of causes of action for the reasons alleged in said paragraph I of this answer, and that for this reason this bill of complaint be dismissed as against this answering defendant.

This defendant above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, avers that said bill of complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, for that the plaintiffs, in paragraphs I to XX, both inclusive, of their bill of complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said bill of complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against this answering defendant, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory, and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

This answering defendant further avers that in paragraph XXXIII of the plaintiff's bill of complaint it is averred and set forth that the Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of the plaintiff receivers herein, had been delivering gas to certain distributing companies in Kansas and in Missouri under and by virtue of certain written contracts made by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company with said distributing companies, and certain contracts which are alleged to be typical ones are set forth and described in the said paragraph of the bill of complaint; and it is further averred that said contracts were made the basis of certain franchises granted by the defendant cities in the States of Missouri and Kansas to said distributing companies and to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the purpose of delivering and distributing gas in said Missouri and Kansas cities, and that said cities, both in Missouri and in Kansas, are attempting to regulate, control and fix the price at which the plaintiff may sell natural gas furnished by them to their patrons in violation of said contracts; and it is further averred and set forth that said contracts are illegal and unreasonable and should be set aside and the plaintiffs relieved from complying with the terms thereof, both as to the Kansas cities and towns situated in the State of Missouri.

179 This answering defendant further avers that this defendant has no common interest in the cause of action or the subject thereof, or the relief demanded, based on the facts averred in said paragraph XXXIII of the bill of complaint as to the defendant cities in the State of Missouri, and that neither in said paragraph XXXIII nor in any other part of the bill is it disclosed that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief in equity against the cities and distributing companies of the State of Missouri in which this answering defendant is interested or in any way related, and this defendant asks that upon the hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the bill of complaint that it be held that there is a misjoinder of causes of action as to the matters herein set forth, and that the bill of complaint for this reason be dismissed as against him.

IV.

The defendant, further answering, avers that it is disclosed upon the face of said bill of complaint that there is no controversy arising between the plaintiffs and this answering defendant, under the laws, constitution or treaties of the United States, that the plaintiffs are residents of the State of Kansas, deriving their authority to institute actions in courts of law from the courts and the laws of the State of Kansas, and that this court is therefore without jurisdiction to consider and determine the matters attempted to be set out in said bill of complaint; and this defendant further states that it appears upon the face of said bill of complaint that the rates complained of therein were put into effect voluntarily by the plaintiffs and that they can not be heard in this case to aver that the same are confiscatory and illegal.

V.

This defendant, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, avers that said bill of complaint reveals upon its face that this court is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the pretended causes of action therein averred, for the reason that it appears from said bill that the plaintiffs are not without adequate relief in the due course of law for any rights or remedies due them or for the redress of any wrongs complained of under the laws and the statutes of the State of Kansas, and that said plaintiffs have 180 not pursued the remedies provided for them by said laws, and that therefore said bill of complaint fails to show any equitable cause for relief in favor of the plaintiffs and against this answering defendant.

VI.

This defendant, for his further defense, avers that the bill of complaint and the record in this case reveal that the plaintiffs can not recover and are not entitled to the relief prayed for in said bill of complaint, on the grounds that the plaintiff receivers are engaged wholly in interstate commerce and that the properties of said company are instrumentalities of interstate commerce and not subject to the local law of the State of Kansas, the police power thereof, and not within the jurisdiction of the defendant Public Utilities Commission of said State, for the following reasons, to wit:

First, that it appears from said bill of complaint that said receivers were appointed in a proceeding had in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, upon a petition filed by the Honorable John S. Dawson, attorney-general of said State, January 5, 1912, against the Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., which said petition and all the files and proceedings of said case, to wit, No. 13476, are made a part of the bill of complaint and the record in this case, at paragraph 3 thereof; that said suit was begun by the attorney-general of the State of Kansas for the purpose of enforcing the criminal laws and the other statutes of Kansas imposing penalties against persons and corporations who, being engaged in local business in said State, had formed or entered into combinations with others in said local business in the restraint of trade or for the purpose of securing a monopoly therein, as well as for other purposes more fully set out in said bill of complaint at paragraph 4 thereof, and that said petition contained the following allegations, to wit:

"That plaintiffs allege that the above-named defendants, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation, et al., and each of them, have entered into a series of unlawful arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts, combinations with each other in violation of the laws of the State of Kansas with a view to prevent, and are done to prevent, full and free competition in the production and sale of natural gas 181 within the State of Kansas, which product is an article of domestic raw material produced in large quantities in Montgomery county, Kansas, and elsewhere in southern Kansas, and is an article of trade and commerce, and is an aid to commerce, which arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts and combinations are in restriction and restraint of the full and free operation of divers and various lines of legitimate business authorized and permitted by the laws of the State of Kansas, and are a perversion, misuse and abuse of the corporate powers and privileges granted to them, and each of them, by the State of Kansas, as above set forth, and all of which is more particularly set forth as follows:"

That said petition, after alleging the purchase of the Independence Gas Company, a corporation, and The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, a corporation, by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, contained the following allegation:

"That said The Independence Gas Company and The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, defendants, were at all times mentioned herein public service corporations of the State of Kansas and were without authority under the law to sell and dispose of their entire properties, franchises and means of performance of their duties to the public in and about the production, transportation, delivery and sale of natural gas to the inhabitants of the State of Kansas; * * * and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, in pursuance of said unlawful, wrong agreement, understanding, arrangement, purpose and intent, has ever since been and is now in exclusive possession and control, and claims to own all gas, gas leases, franchises and property of every kind and character, as aforesaid, that were used, owned and employed by said other corporations, defendants, and said partnership, in and about the production, transportation, distribution, delivery and sale of natural gas to the said inhabitants of the State of Kansas, but such possession and control by said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, is merely as agent or trustee."

To which petition the Kansas Natural Gas Company, May 21, 1912, filed its answer, in which it denied each and every, all and singular, the allegations and averments of the said petition, and this defendant avers that thereupon an issue was joined in said case as to whether the said Kansas Natural Gas Company was engaged in domestic or intra-state commerce in the State of Kansas, and that whether, being so engaged, it had violated the laws of the state made in con-182 formerly to and in pursuance of its police power prohibiting combinations in restraint of said trade.

This defendant further avers that a trial of said issue was had with the other issues of said cause, beginning September 30, 1912. The attorney-general for the State of Kansas, as attorney for the plaintiff in said cause, in defining the issues of said case, made the following statement:

"These defendants are charged civilly with perversion of their corporate privileges because they have entered into a combination and trust to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas, which product is an article of domestic raw material, an article of trade and commerce and an aid to commerce in this state."

The attorney for the defendant The Kansas Natural Gas Company in said cause, in his opening statement, said:

"We particularly deny that anything that is shown or that will be shown has any of the elements of a combination or trust or monopoly. I don't care to add anything further, but the questions to be read will show in detail, I think, more accurately than I could say it, just exactly what has transpired."

This defendant further avers that on the trial of said cause the Hon. T. J. Flannelly, judge of said court, who presided at said trial, determined all of the issues arising upon the pleadings and statements of the defendants against the contentions of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and held and determined it to be guilty of violating the laws and police regulations of the State of Kansas made for the purpose of prohibiting trusts and combinations in domestic commerce, and in passing upon the particular question raised by said pleadings as to whether said company was engaged in domestic commerce and had made a combination in restraint of said trade, the said Hon. T. J. Flannelly, in his opinion and findings filed in said cause, said:

"Is the defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a monopoly and has it and other defendant corporations entered into a trust and combination to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas?"

"Section 5185, General Statutes of Kansas (chap. 257, Laws of 1889) provides:

"That all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations made with a view or which tend to prevent full and free competition in the importation, transportation or sale of articles imported into this State, or in the product, manufacture, or sale of articles of domestic growth or product of domestic raw material, or for the loan or use of money, or to fix attorneys' or doctors' fees, and all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations, designed or which tend to advance, reduce or control the price or the cost to the producer or to the consumer of any such products or articles, or to control the cost or rate of insurance, or which tend to advance or control the rate of interest for the loan or use of money to the borrower, or any other services, are hereby declared to be against public policy, unlawful and void."

"This act was followed by the act of 1897, which the supreme court of the State of Kansas, in the case of State v. Lumber Company, 83 Kan. 399, said was intended by the legislature to supplement, not repeal, the law of 1889.

"In section 5142, General Statutes of Kansas, 1909, being section 1 of chapter 265, Laws of 1907, the legislature defines a trust as follows:

"A trust is a combination of capital, skill, or acts by two or more persons, firms, corporations, or associations of persons, or either two or more of them, for either, any or all of the following purposes:

First, to create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce, or aids to commerce, or to carry out restrictions in the full and free pursuit of any business authorized or permitted by the laws of this State. Second, to increase or reduce the price of merchandise, produce or commodities or to control the cost or rates of insurance. Third, to prevent competition in the manufacture, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to prevent competition in aids to commerce. Fourth, to fix any standard or figures whereby its price to the public shall be in any manner controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, use or consumption in this State. Fifth, to make or enter into or execute or carry out, any contract, obligation or agreement of any kind or description by which they shall bind or have to bind themselves not to sell, manufacture, dispose of or transport any article or commodity, or article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure; or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graded figure; or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article or commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others to preclude a free and unrestricted com-

184 petition among themselves or others in transportation, sale or manufacture of any such article or commodity; or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or unite any interests they have in connection with the manufacture, sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, that its price may in any manner be affected.'

"Section two of the same act provides:

"All persons, companies or corporations within this State are hereby denied the right to form or to be in any manner interested, either directly or indirectly, as principal, agent, representative, consignee or otherwise, in any trust as defined in section 1 of this act.'

"The decisions of the United States supreme court with reference to the national antitrust act have direct force and application in interpreting our own antitrust laws. The statute of this State in regard to monopolies and trusts is as broad in its terms as the Sherman antitrust act.

"That statute (the Sherman act)' says the supreme court of Kansas, 'differs in verbal phraseology but not in essential particular or effect from ours.

"State v. Smiley, 65 Kan. 240.'

"A violation of the Sherman antitrust act itself by a corporation doing business in this State would be a perversion and abuse of its corporate privileges. The laws of the United States, as far as civil suits are concerned, are a part of the State's system of jurisprudence.

"Mondou v. N. Y. H. R. Co., 32 Sup. Ct. 169.

"Clafflin v. Housman, 93 U. S. 130.

"One cannot read this record and examine these contracts, to which attention has been called in the foregoing statement, without reaching the conclusion that the whole purpose and design of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, from the very inception, has been to monopolize the production, transportation, sale and distribution of natural gas in the Kansas field. Not only was it the purpose and design to secure a monopoly, but the plans were successful, the purpose was accomplished, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company to-day almost completely dominates the situation; it practically controls the field of production, the field of transportation and the sale and distribution of natural gas in Kansas."

This defendant avers that the said court thereafter rendered its judgment upon said findings of fact and conclusions of law, and as a part thereof appointed the plaintiff receivers to receive and control the property in controversy herein as the officers of said court; that said judgment is unappealed from and in full force and effect, and that said receivers have acquiesced in the said judgment and the rules of law declared by the said court and acted in conformity therewith, and that therefore and thereby the fact that said corporation, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, was prior to the appointment of said receivers, and said receivers since then as the representatives of said corporation in continuing its said business have been, engaged in local or intrastate commerce and not wholly engaged in interstate commerce, and that the properties controlled by them are therefore not such instrumentalities of interstate commerce as withdraw all business done by the use of said properties in said State of Kansas from the control of the local laws of said State, the police power thereof, or from the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; that said facts having been fully adjudicated by the said court, and the said receivers having acted in conformity therewith and in pursuance of the principles of law followed and announced by the said court, and which thereby became the law of said case, are now estopped and barred from asserting anything contrary thereto in this cause.

This defendant, further answering, avers that as a part of said judgment the plaintiff receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, were directed to appear in the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N in equity, which case is fully referred to and set out in the bill of complaint herein, for the purpose of recovering the control and management of the physical property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, as is fully set out in the bill of complaint herein at paragraphs 3 and 4, and elsewhere, in said bill; that for the purpose of said appearance in said cause the attorney-general, acting on and in behalf of said receivers and under the direction of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, prepared and filed therein a petition for said purposes, which said petition contained the following averment, to wit:

"First, that on January 5, 1912, the State of Kansas, by its attorney-general, brought an action in the nature of quo warranto in the 186 district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, against The Independence Gas Company, The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas corporations, and Kansas Natural Gas Company, a Delaware corporation authorized to do business in Kansas, charging said corporations with misuse, perversion and abuse of their corporate privileges and with having connived and engaged in various illegal combinations in restraint of trade, in violation of the antitrust laws of the State of Kansas, and in violation of the National antitrust laws, which are a part of the civil jurisprudence of the State of Kansas, by which unlawful combinations the said Kansas Natural Gas Company had secured a monopoly of the source of gas supply and a monopoly of the sale and distribution of gas to the people of Kansas, and by which unlawful combination the selling price of gas, a product of domestic raw material, an article of commerce, and an aid to commerce, had been advanced and controlled by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and a true copy of the petition filed by the State of Kansas in said action is contained in an abstract filed herewith and made part hereof."

That thereafter the complainant in said cause and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company appeared in said cause and contested the averments of the petition filed by the said attorney-general on and in behalf of the plaintiff receivers herein, and that said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company filed, as paragraph 10 of their answer, the following averments, to wit:

"These complainants further allege that although the defendant the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is engaged in operating a pipe line within the State of Kansas for the transportation of natural gas from various sources of supply from localities within the State of Kansas to respective towns and cities within the State of Kansas, the pipe line of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its system likewise extends into the adjacent States of Missouri and Oklahoma, for the purpose of receiving and transporting gas through its pipe lines to cities in said states, and is therefore an interstate carrier, subject to the act of Congress of February 7, 1887, and its amendments. That by the judgment and order appointing receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the district court of Montgomery county, State of Kansas, in the proceedings by the State of Kansas instituted by the attorney-general as aforesaid, for a claimed violation of a penal statute of the State, constitute an exertion of the power of the State of Kansas, acting through and under the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, over interstate commerce, and is invalid and violative of the commerce clause of the constitution of the United States, and the district court of Montgomery county, 187 Kansas, was without jurisdiction to appoint receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in said proceedings by reason of said fact."

And this defendant avers that by the filing of said petition and answer an issue was made in said cause as to whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company at the time of the filing of the petition in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, by the State of Kansas through its attorney-general, heretofore referred to, was engaged in domestic commerce and not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and whether by reason of said fact the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, had the right, authority and jurisdiction, because of the violation of the local laws of said Kansas by said corporation, to appoint the plaintiff receivers as the officers of said court to take possession of said property, and whether as such officers they were now entitled to the possession of the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company as against certain receivers theretofore appointed in the said cause of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, heretofore set out and referred to in this answer and bill of complaint of the plaintiffs.

That said cause came on for trial on June 5, 1913, on said issues of law and fact, before the Hon. John A. Marshall, district judge of the United States sitting as such judge of the district court for the District of Kansas, and after hearing the testimony adduced by the said parties and being fully advised in the premises the court found in favor of the said petitioners, the plaintiffs herein, and against the said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, the complainants in said original action; that as a part of said decision the court filed written findings and a written opinion as to the law controlling said case, and as to this question the court said:

"Under the Kansas antitrust act (Gen. St. 1909, sec. 5146), which provides that every person or corporation within or without the state, violating its provisions within the state, shall be denied the right to do business in the state, and authorizes the enforcement of such provision 'by injunction or other proceeding,' a state court has power to appoint receivers of the property within the state of a foreign corporation charged with violation of the act, and under the state practice such remedy is not precluded because the legal relief of ouster is sought in the action.

188 "The appointment by a state court of a receiver of the property within the state of a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce does not amount to an unlawful interference with the right of such corporation to transact interstate commerce." (206 Fed. 777.)

This defendant, further answering, avers that the said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, complainants as aforesaid, excepted to the findings of the court and regularly took their appeal to the circuit court of appeals of the eighth district of the United States in said cause, and that thereafter said cause came regularly on for hearing and was decided by said court December 4, 1913, and it was there held and decided by the honorable circuit court of the said district that the opinion and decision of the district court of the United States, heretofore set forth, should be affirmed, and in determining the questions arising on said appeal the court, speaking by the Hon. Wm. C. Hook, circuit judge, said:

"A foreign corporation engaged in interstate and local commerce may be adjudged guilty of a violation of the antitrust laws of the state, its license to do business in the state may be canceled, and a receiver for all its property therein appointed under the general laws in aid of the enforcement of the judgment; and it is no defense that such property included instrumentalities used by it in conducting its interstate business, or that the corporation by the same course of conduct has also violated the similar laws of the United States." (209 Fed. 300.)

And again, at pages 306-7, the court further said:

"There remains for consideration the contention that as applied to this case, the antitrust statutes of the State conflict with the Sherman act (act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200]), and hence must give way. In this connection it is unimportant that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is a Delaware corporation instead of a corporation of Kansas. The character of its trade and commerce, interstate or local, determines the applicability of the antitrust laws of the nation or state and not the origin of its corporate existence. The term 'interstate corporation' is a convenient colloquialism but hardly accurate. In respect of the contention now being considered, the case would not be different had that company been organized under the laws of Kansas. Nor is it material that it transports some of the gas it deals in from Oklahoma into Kansas and from Kansas into Missouri by pipe lines. By express exemption it is not a common carrier subject to the interstate commerce act (act June 29, 1906, c. 3591 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1911, p. 1284], 34 Stat. 584), sec. 1, even would it matter were it otherwise. The point urged by counsel rests on the fact that the company is engaged in both interstate and local commerce and upon the assertion that the two are so intricately interwoven as to be inseparable. The claim of inseparable intricacy is not tenable. The two kinds of commerce are no more interinvolved than with most railroads of the country and many manufacturing and mercantile concerns. Whatever may be the origin and admixture of the commodity dealt in or the common use of the same plant, equipment, and instrumentalities, the two kinds of commerce are distinguishable. The company is in no better position than if it were an ordinary industrial and mercantile concern of Kansas producing, buying, shipping, and selling, locally and in other states, grains, oils, or other commodities which lose their particular identity in the mass of that which is dealt in. Again, the property and business of the company which are wholly within the State of Kansas are not negligible incidents to which the state antitrust statutes are being forced; much of its property, including that obtained from the other corporations, is located there and much of its business is there transacted. The action of the State of Kansas was directed to the violation of the state statutes. The decree of the state court was expressly confined to the matters within its jurisdiction and subject to the local laws. There was no attempt to enforce the Sherman act."

This defendant therefore further avers that by the aforesaid decisions and holding of the courts it has been fully determined and adjudicated that the plaintiff receivers are engaged in intrastate commerce subject to the local laws and police power of the State of Kansas and the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for said State, and that the plaintiffs are not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and that the properties under their control are not instrumentalities of interstate commerce of such nature as to deprive the defendants Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas of jurisdiction over it, and that said plaintiffs, having acquiesced in said holdings and principles of law announced by the courts in the said cases, and having in this cause alleged that this case is dependent upon and ancillary to the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, as averred in plaintiffs' bill of complaint, paragraph 1, which this defendant in no wise admits, and that said findings and principles of law having become the law of said cases, and of this case, and all of said matters having been fully determined, the plaintiffs are estopped from averring to the contrary herein, and from causing a retrial of said issues in this suit.

Second.

This defendant, having objected to the jurisdiction of this court arising upon the points of law disclosed upon the face of the bill of complaint, and having moved to dismiss this action for want of such jurisdiction, further answering, says:

I.

The above-named defendant denies that the bill of complaint herein is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, now pending in this court, and further denies that this action is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential possession of this court in said causes and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this court in said causes.

This defendant specifically denies that the matter and amount in controversy in this cause exceeds the sum or value of $3000 exclusive of interest and costs.

This defendant specifically denies that the causes of action, if any such be stated in the bill of complaint filed here, arise under the constitution or laws of the United States.

This defendant does not know for what purpose the bill of complaint was filed herein, but nevertheless denies that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas have fixed rates which are unreasonably low or that are unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory, or which amount to the taking of the property in the possession and control of these plaintiffs without just compensation and without due process of law, or that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas have issued any order interfering with interstate commerce.

This defendant denies that there is any relationship and acts of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the attorneys and counselors of said Commissions, either now or at any 191 time, such that it is practicable to present here and determine said causes in one suit in this court, but alleges that plaintiffs' pretended causes of action against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are wholly different and can not be joined as one cause of action, nor can the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri be joined as parties defendant in the same cause of action, nor are the pretended causes of action against the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the attorney-general of the State of Kansas such that they can be joined in one cause of action, nor can the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the attorney-general of the State of Kansas be joined in one cause of action such as is attempted in the suit at bar.

II.

This defendant admits that the defendants Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley and John M. Kinkel are the duly appointed, qualified and acting members of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; that the defendant S. M. Brewster is the duly elected, qualified and acting attorney-general of the State of Kansas and the chief law officer of the State of Kansas; that the defendant H. O. Caster is the duly appointed, qualified and acting attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas. That the defendant members of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and the defendant attorney-general for the State of Kansas, and the defendant attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are charged by the laws of the State of Kansas with the duty and obligation of executing and enforcing all of the laws affecting public utilities and other property.

This defendant has no knowledge as to who is the attorney-general of Missouri and who constitute the members and officers of the Public Service Commission of Missouri.

This defendant admits that the defendant Fidelity Title and Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing 192 under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, and is trustee under a certain first mortgage and supplemental mortgages heretofore executed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company on its property here involved. That said Fidelity Title and Trust Company is complainant in two of the suits pending in this court referred to in the bill of complaint.

This defendant admits that the defendant The Delaware Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and is the trustee under a certain second mortgage executed and delivered by the Kansas Natural Gas Company covering a part of the property here involved. That the said Delaware Trust Company is defendant in one of the suits mentioned in the bill of complaint.

This defendant admits that the Fidelity Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and is the trustee under a certain first mortgage and three supplemental mortgages executed and delivered by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, whose property has been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is being operated by the plaintiff receivers.

This defendant admits that the Kansas City Pipe Line Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey. That all of the property of said Kansas City Pipe Line Company has heretofore been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is now, so far as it is situated in Kansas, in the possession of the plaintiff receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, but denies "that said pipe lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company are of little or no use unless they be operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

This defendant admits that the Marnet Mining Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of West Virginia, that said Marnet Mining Company owns certain property and pipe lines in the State of Oklahoma, which said pipe lines and property form a part of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but denies "that all of the property of the said Marnet Mining Company is of but little value if separated from the system of pipe lines operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

193 This defendant admits that John F. Overfield is the receiver of the property of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as in the bill of complaint alleged.

This defendant admits that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and from 1904 to October, 1912, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas. That it has been duly admitted to do business in the State of Kansas as a foreign corporation. That it owns and operates a system, by lease and otherwise, of pipe lines extending from the counties of Rogers, Wagoner and Tulsa, in the State of Oklahoma, northward to the Kansas-Oklahoma State line, and through the State of Kansas into the State of Missouri, with terminals at Joplin, but denies that they have terminals in Kansas City and Nevada, Mo., but admits that they have a line extending to St. Joseph in the State of Missouri, and Atchison, Leavenworth, Topeka, Galena, Pittsburg and Kansas City in the State of Kansas, and other points, which are more fully shown in the map referred to in the bill of complaint and filed with said bill. That since October, 1912, said system of pipe lines has been in the control of and operated by receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

This defendant admits the issuance of the order of September 22, 1914, made and entered in the cases of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, but deny that the said George F. Sharitt is in the possession or control, actually or potentially, of any property involved in this suit by virtue of such order or otherwise.

III.

This defendant admits that the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs, are in the actual possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the property under lease to it in the State of Kansas, as receivers of said company, appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, and admits that the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield are in the actual possession and control of the pipe-line system of the Kansas

Natural Gas Company, including leased lines located in the 194 States of Oklahoma and Missouri, but denies that they are in such possession as ancillary receivers of this court, but alleges that they are in the actual possession of such property in Oklahoma and Missouri, as receivers appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas.

IV.

This defendant admits the allegation of the fourth division of the bill of complaint.

V.

This defendant admits that on the 17th day of December, 1914, the first and second mortgage bondholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the plaintiff receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, and the Marnet Mining Company, entered into a certain agreement and stipulation called "Creditors' Agreement," a copy of which agreement is attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint as Exhibit A. But this defendant specifically denies that the State of Kansas was a party to or affected by such agreement, and this defendant specifically denies the matter and things set up in said creditors' agreement.

This defendant admits that said Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of receivers, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas, and carrying on its said activities in the States of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri; that after the appointment of the receivers by this court said receivers continued and carried on the said business after the manner the same had been theretofore conducted by Kansas Natural Gas Company, and after the delivery of the property aforesaid to said State receivers they continued to carry on said business theretofore conducted and carried on by said federal receivers and by said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

This defendant specifically denies all other allegations in the fifth subdivision of said bill of complaint, except such as are hereafter in this subdivision specifically admitted.

This defendant alleges that in carrying on said business as aforesaid these plaintiff receivers procured a part of their gas from wells in Wagoner, Rogers and Tulsa counties, Oklahoma, piping 195 the same northward into and through the gas fields of Kansas, where the same is so commingled in the pipe lines conveying the same with gas produced in Kansas that it is impossible to separate or distinguish that produced in Oklahoma from that produced in Kansas; and, after being so commingled and mixed, it is conveyed northward from city to city throughout the State, and is drawn off by the numerous cities along its lines within the State of Kansas at such times and in such quantities as the individual consumers desire; that the gas in being so transported is, by means of compressor stations, packed into the transportation lines as reservoirs and is at all times subject to be drawn off by the various distributing companies serving the several towns along said pipe line, and when the said gas is drawn off by the said distributing companies from the transportation lines there is no way of telling whether it was produced in Kansas or in Oklahoma, but is drawn off by said distributing companies from the mass of said gas stored in the transportation lines for sale and distribution to the consumers in the various cities.

This defendant specifically denies that only six per cent of the gas delivered to consumers in Kansas is produced in Kansas. This defendant specifically denies that the business carried on and conducted by the plaintiff receivers is the carrying on of business and commerce among different states of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, or that the same is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, as confided to it by section 8 of article 1 of the constitution of the United States, and alleges that the business conducted by the plaintiff receivers is subject to the control and regulation of the States of Kansas and Missouri.

That on August 17, 1915, H. O. Caster, as attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, filed a suit in mandamus in the Supreme court of the State of Kansas against the plaintiff receivers herein; a copy of the application for such writ is attached to this answer and made a part hereof and marked Exhibit A. That notice was duly had upon the plaintiff receivers, as defendants in such action, and in due time they filed in said court their answer and return; a copy of such answer and return is attached to and made a part of this answer, marked Exhibit B. That, as shown by said answer and return, the plaintiff receivers herein, as defend-196 ants in said action, allege that the business so conducted by them was the carrying on of business and commerce among the different States of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and that it was exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, as confided to it by section 8 of article 1 of the constitution of the United States. Upon hearing duly had in such action and being well advised in the premises, the supreme court of the State of Kansas, in such action, being case No. 20324 of the files of said court, duly filed its opinion (96 Kan. 372) and order, to the effect that the business as conducted by the plaintiff receivers was not the carrying on of business and commerce among the different States of the Union, and was not under the control of the Congress of the United States, but that the same was under the control of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; a copy of the opinion of the supreme court of the State of Kansas in such action is attached hereto and made a part of this answer, marked Exhibit C. Such order was not appealed from or reversed and is still in full force and effect.

That this defendant, therefore, alleges that it has been adjudicated in an action wherein these plaintiffs as receivers and the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas were parties, that the business as conducted by the plaintiff receivers was not the carrying on of a business or commerce among the different States of the Union and was not under the control of the Congress of the United States, but that the same was under the control of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and that such question has been fully and finally adjudicated and determined and is res adjudicata as between all the parties to this suit.

VI.

The defendant admits all of the allegations of fact contained in the sixth subdivision of the bill of complaint herein, except with reference to the alleged orders of this court purported to have been made on December 30, 1912, and on January 4, 1913, with reference to which orders this defendant alleges that this court had no power, authority or jurisdiction to make any such alleged orders; and that if such orders were made, as alleged in said bill of complaint, they were wholly illegal and void; and this court, recognizing that said 197 orders of December 30, 1912, and of January 4, 1913, were made without jurisdiction and were wholly null and void, has never pretended to enforce the same.

VII.

This defendant specifically denies each and all of the allegations in the seventh subdivision of plaintiffs' bill of complaint, except such as are in this division of the answer admitted.

This defendant admits that the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, in January, 1913, filed a complaint with the said commission, wherein the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers and the distributing companies were respondents. After a hearing upon such application the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas made and filed its order and opinion, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit E. That on April 9, 1915, the plaintiff receivers filed before the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas their complaint and schedule of rates, requesting an order of the Public Utilities Commission permitting them to increase the rates which they might charge for natural gas furnished by them to their consumers in Kansas. A copy of such complaint is attached to this answer as a part — Exhibit A, and a true copy of the original schedule of rates then filed is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit F. That upon July 16, 1915, after a full hearing upon said complaint, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas rendered its opinion, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit H.

That thereafter, in the action pending in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, brought by the plaintiff receivers against the Public Utilities Commission et al. as defendants, an order was made by said court overruling the demurrer of the Public Utilities Commission to the petition filed in such case. An appeal was taken from this order to the supreme court of the State of Kansas by the Public Utilities Commission.

That on August 17, 1915, H. O. Carter, as attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, filed a suit in mandamus in the supreme court of the State of Kansas against the plaintiff receivers herein and the judge of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, to require the said receivers to maintain efficient and sufficient service in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas, and to require the said judge of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, to vacate and set aside an order making the Public Utilities Commission a party defendant in the action pending in the said district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, wherein the said receivers were appointed to set aside the temporary restraining order issued by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, in that action, and to dismiss the suit against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas.

That the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield made their return and answer in said mandamus case. That on the 22d day of September, 1915, a hearing was had on said mandamus action in the supreme court of the State of Kansas, which said action was consolidated with the appeal taken from the decision of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, overruling the said demurrer.

That thereafter, and on the 11th day of October, 1915, the supreme court of the State of Kansas rendered its opinion and final judgment in said actions, which opinion is reported in volume 96 of the Kansas Reports at page 372, and a copy of which said opinion and judgment is hereto attached, marked Exhibit C and made a part hereof. Said judgment has never been appealed from nor reversed, and is still in force and effect.

VIII.

This defendant denies all of the allegations of fact contained in the eighth subdivision of the bill of complaint, except such as are specifically admitted in this subdivision of the answer.

This defendant admits that on the 7th day of October, 1915, the plaintiff receivers filed with the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas a petition for rehearing, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit J. That later, and on the 10th day of December, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, after due notice and after a full and final hearing thereon, made and filed its opinion and order, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit K. (Plaintiffs' bill, 222.)

199 Thereafter, and on the 22d day of December, 1915, the plaintiff receivers acquiesced in said order of said Commission and consented to and accepted the benefits thereof by filing a schedule of rates and rules in accordance with the permission therein given, a copy of which said schedule is attached to the bill of complaint and marked Exhibit M, and hereinafter set out for the convenience of the court. And thereafter, and on the 28th day of December, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas made and entered its order approving said schedule of rates and rules, and said schedule of rates became the lawful rates for the sale of gas by said plaintiff receivers within the State of Kansas, and said rules became the lawful rules under which said gas should be supplied. And thereafter the said plaintiff receivers put into force and effect said schedule of rates and have been ever since, and now are, charging rates in accordance with said schedule to their consumers in the State of Kansas, and accepting the benefits of said order of said Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, except that in the cities of Atchison, Topeka, Lawrence and Galena, and at Parsons and Pittsburg, the plaintiffs are failing to observe the said schedule approved by order of the Public Utilities Commission dated the 28th day of December, 1915, as to furnishing free gas to said cities, and in the cities of Independence and Coffeyville plaintiffs are not charging and collecting the rates prescribed in said order from their consumers in said cities.

IX.

This defendant denies each and all of the allegations in subdivision nine of the bill of complaint filed herein, except such as are admitted in this subdivision of the answer.

This defendant alleges that the opinion and order of the Public Utilities Commission, referred to in said bill of complaint as Exhibit K, were made and entered after a full and complete hearing had before said Commission, and are based upon the evidence there adduced, and that the plaintiff receivers were present by their attorneys at all sessions of said Commission and participated in said hearing and had ample and full opportunity of presenting all evidence which they desired and full opportunity of cross-examining all witnesses, and that no evidence was considered by the 200 Commission in making the findings of fact contained in said Exhibit K except such evidence as was so produced at said hearing.

This defendant denies that said engineer testified that he did not include going value or going-concern value or any value of the property for the cost of attaching the business or as a going concern, or that said engineer did not allow values for said items, and denies that the fair and reasonable going value of development cost of said plant was on January 1, 1915, or now is $2,637,400, and denies that the fair and reasonable value of said plant and property was on January 1, 1915, or now is more than the sum of $11,632,211, and denies that said plaintiffs are entitled to a return of ten per cent upon the investment in said property, and denies that said Commission did not allow any intangible value in connection with said property, and denies that said Commission did not consider more than $7,083,605.64 as the total value on which plaintiffs were entitled to earn a return, and denies that said Commission allowed no value for leaseholds derived by conveyance from Snyder, Barnsdall and O'Neil, and denies that said leaseholds were at the time of their conveyance of the reasonable value of $6,000,000, and denies that the life of said plant is only six years from January 1, 1915, and alleges that said Commission in said Exhibit K, in ascertaining the income derived from the production of natural gas, showed said income to be $6,023,792.16 more than it actually was, but that this fact did not change the net income for the reason that an equal amount was included in the expenses of producing said gas in addition to the actual expense, thereby offsetting said item, and denies that the effect of this was to give the public the benefit of over $3,000,000 worth of gas without charge, and denies that the reasonable value of gas produced from said leaseholds up to and including December 1, 1914, was in excess of $6,023,792.16, and denies that said Commission erred in separating the property used in the production of natural gas from the property used in its transportation, and denies that the Commission erred in using 4 cents as the price to be paid for gas to be purchased in the future, and denies that such price will in the future be not less than 6 cents per thousand cubic feet, and denies that the Commission erred in estimating the increased revenue to be obtained on the schedule put in effect after the order of December 10, 1915, and denies that such increased 201 revenue will be not more than $75,059.53, and denies that said Commission erred in estimating and fixing the amount of operating expenses and taxes as $510,536.14, and denies that the true amount required for these purposes is $800,000 per year, and denies that said Commission omitted any items of operating expenses; and this defendant denies that expenditures for making extensions to new fields are proper items of operating expense, and admits that the same were not included as such in the computations in Exhibit K, and denies that it will be necessary to expend $500,000 in the year 1916, and denies that it will be necessary to spend $200,000 in each year thereafter for such extensions; and this defendant denies that the Commission allowed depreciation only on $7,083,615.64, and denies that the true life of said plant is five years from January 1, 1916, and denies that $11,632,211, less $1,500,000, must be amortized during said time, and denies that said Commission allowed a return of only 6 per cent upon said investments, and denies that a return of less than 7 per cent on the value of the property employed in said business is unreasonable and confiscatory, and denies that the sum of $11,632,211 is the fair and reasonable value of the property upon which plaintiffs are entitled to earn a reasonable rate of return; and defendant alleges that the true facts as to all of said matters are as hereinafter set forth in the third division of this answer.

X.

This defendant does not know and is therefore unable to state the facts concerning the alleged valuations of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the States of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, as set out in the tenth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XI.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff receivers filed with the Public Utilities Commission the schedule of rates mentioned in the eleventh subdivision of said bill of complaint for the purpose of avoiding complications and litigations with the State of Kansas and the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and financial loss and suits for penalties under the statute of the State of 202 Kansas, but allege the fact to be that the order of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas relating thereto merely gave the plaintiff receivers permission to file such schedule of rates and was not mandatory, and that such schedule was filed by the plaintiff receivers solely for the purpose of securing the benefit which would accrue to them in the increased price for natural gas sold by them, as such permission would be given when such schedule was filed, and that the laws of the State of Kansas would not in any manner have subjected the plaintiff receivers to complication, litigation, financial loss or suit for penalties if such schedules had not been filed.

This defendant specifically denies that the net income above operating expenses, taxes, repairs and accrued depreciation has not at any time during the time the plant in question has been operated amounted to a fair return on the investment.

XII.

This defendant specifically denies that there has been any decrease in gas pressure in the year 1915 as compared with the year 1914, and denies that the miscellaneous revenues for 1915 are less than those of 1914, and denies that future years will be less than for previous years, and denies that the table set out in the twelfth division of the bill of complaint correctly shows a comparison of the miscellaneous revenues for ten months of 1915 as compared with the same period of 1914.

XIII.

This defendant does not know whether or not expert engineers were employed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company to determine the life of the gas field, and does not know what investigations were made concerning said gas fields, or what reports, if any, were made by said engineers to the Kansas Natural Gas Company or to any other person.

This defendant alleges that there is now and has been since the formation of the Kansas Natural Gas Company an ample supply of natural gas adjacent to its lines, which it could have secured without unreasonable expense.

This defendant denies the correctness of the map showing the trunk lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Quapaw and 203      Wichita Gas Companies, and Oklahoma Natural Gas Company, together with the analysis of said map, attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit L, and denies that the cost of gas has increased during the past year at least one cent per thousand cubic feet, owing to the short duration of the gas pools and fields. This defendant has no knowledge of the exact per cent of the gas which is supplied by plaintiff to consumers in Kansas or Missouri which is secured from Oklahoma, but admits that a large per cent is there purchased.

This defendant denies that, owing to the financial condition of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, very few leases have been purchased by that company or by plaintiff receivers or that practically all of the gas secured from Oklahoma has been purchased in Oklahoma at a special rate per thousand feet, but alleges the fact to be that with proper and prudent management the company would have been financially able to at all times make necessary and proper arrangements for procuring leases for the purchase of gas.

This defendant does not know the per cent of gas which is lost through leakage, as alleged in said bill of complaint, but alleges that if a large per cent thereof, as claimed in said bill of complaint, is actually so lost, that it is on account of the defective conditions of the lines of the plaintiff receivers or of such distributing companies, and that the Public Utilities Commission, in its opinion and order, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, marked Exhibit K, made due allowance for said leakage.

This defendant denies that all of the evidence shows that the probable life of the gas fields which may be profitably reached by the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is six years from January 1, 1915, but alleges that the evidence shows and the fact is that the probable life of such gas field will be much longer than such six years.

This defendant specifically denies that the said six years as the life of said gas plant is also determined by the State of Kansas in the creditors' agreement, and denies that said period of six years was adopted as the probable life of said gas plant by the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas in its opinion of July 16, 1915, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint and marked Exhibit H.

This defendant specifically denies that the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company at the end of six years will have no value whatever, except as scrap; but alleges, as stated above, the life of said gas fields and said plant is much longer than said six years, and that said plant at the end of such period will have a large and going value; and he further denies that at the end of said six-year period, or at the end of the life of said gas fields and the usefulness of said gas plant, the scrap value will not exceed $1,500,000, but alleges that at such time such value will largely exceed such sum.

This defendant further denies that the difference between the total value of the plant as of date January 1, 1915, and the scrap value at the end of the life of the plant is $10,132,211; and denies that such sum must be amortized in five years from January 1, 1915; and denies that the revenues for the year 1915 have been insufficient to amortize any part of the plant value during 1915; and denies that it will require the sum of $500,000 for the first year and $200,000 per year for each of the succeeding four years in order to procure the annual additional supply of gas necessary to maintain the same volume of gas supplied to consumers as is now transported and distributed; and denies that nothing less than ten per cent per annum is a fair and reasonable rate of return on the property employed and used in said business; and denies that the table therein set out shows the true and correct amount of gross revenue which is necessary for this plant to obtain in order to meet operating expenses, repairs, secure future gas supply and provide for the amortization of the plant and a fair return on the property employed in the service.

XV.

This defendant denies that the table set out in the fifteenth division of plaintiffs' bill of complaint shows the correct amount of revenues which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce in the State of Kansas, and the revenues which the rates now in existence will produce in the State of Missouri; but alleges that table 5 in exhibit K to said complaint shows the correct amount of revenues which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce.

This defendant further denies all the other allegations of the fifteenth division of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XVI.

This defendant denies that the tables set out in the thirteenth and fifteenth subdivisions of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint are typical of the years of the remaining life of said plant; and further denies that any lower schedule of rates in the State of Kansas than those set out in Exhibit F of this petition will be unreasonable, unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory, or that the plaintiff receivers have been deprived of property without just compensation and without due process of law, or that they will continue to be so deprived of property in the transportation of gas to consumers in the State of Kansas unless the rates set out in such Exhibit F are put into effect; and this defendant denies that the said order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void or in contravention of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States and in interference with interstate commerce; and he further alleges that the question as to whether the business conducted by the plaintiff receivers is or is not a business or commerce between various States of the Union has been fully and finally adjudicated adverse to the claim of the plaintiff receivers, as if fully set out in the fifth and seventh subdivisions above.

This defendant does not know whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company or said federal receivers have or do deliver or sell gas to domestic consumers in the State of Oklahoma or conduct or carry on any business of or as a public utility therein, but denies that plaintiffs carry on such business in said State.

XVII.

This defendant specifically denies that the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas provides and requires plaintiff receivers to furnish gas produced in Kansas to consumers in Kansas at such an unreasonably low rate as not to afford sufficient revenue to pay a fair return above operating expenses on the property employed in such service, and thereby imposes a burden upon interstate commerce; but alleges the fact to be that the said receivers are not engaged in interstate commerce, as is fully set out in subdivision five of this answer.

This defendant denies that the plaintiffs have no adequate remedy in the premises, except such relief as may be obtained by applying to a court of equity; but alleges the fact to be that the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission was a permissive order, and that these plaintiff receivers availed themselves of the authority therein granted to increase the rate at which gas is sold by them to their consumers within the State of Kansas; that said schedules of rates were voluntarily filed by said plaintiff receivers, and upon their approval by the Public Utilities Commission became the legal rates, which could not be changed without first having obtained the authority of the Public Utilities Commission, and that the plaintiffs' only remedy was by such application.

This defendant specifically denies all the other allegations of subdivision seventeen of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XVIII.

This defendant denies the allegations of the eighteenth subdivision of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XIX.

This defendant specifically denies every allegation of fact contained in the nineteenth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XX.

This defendant specifically denies every allegation of fact contained in the twentieth subdivision of the bill of complaint, but alleges that he does not know what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of such Commission, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXI.

This defendant admits that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri held a conference with the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas at Kansas City, Mo., on or about the 27th day of September, 1915.

207 This defendant specifically denies each and every other allegation of fact in such twenty-first subdivision of the bill of complaint, except that he does not know what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri or what is the power and authority of such Commission, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXII.

This defendant states that he is not informed and does not know concerning what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the effect of such orders, if any have been made, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant, and specifically denies that any schedule or rate for natural gas below 37 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in Missouri, except St. Joseph, and that 26  $\frac{2}{3}$  cents for plaintiffs' proportion of gas delivered in St. Joseph is and will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory.

XXIII.

This defendant denies that plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law in the State of Missouri.

This defendant states that he does not know what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of such Commission, and he does not know what is the desire of the plaintiffs receivers with reference to the furnishing of gas within the State of Missouri, or concerning the reasonableness of the rates charged in such State, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXIV.

This defendant denies all of the allegations of fact contained in the 24th subdivision of the bill of complaint, except that he states that he does not know what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the 208 power and authority of such Commission, or what action such Commission has taken or proposes to take relative to gas supplied within that State by plaintiff receivers, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXV.

This defendant does not know and can not state concerning the alleged statutes of the State of Missouri which are set out in the twenty-fifth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XXVI.

This defendant does not know and can not state what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the effect of such orders, or the penalties provided for violating such orders, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXVII.

This defendant does not know and can not state what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the effect of such orders, and does not know whether or not the plaintiffs have an adequate relief at law under the statutes of the State of Missouri, but denies that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXVIII.

This defendant admits that the application to the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas in 1912 resulted in no increase above 25 cents per thousand cubic feet, and that the application of April 9, 1915, resulted, on July 16, 1915, in an opinion that 28 cents per thousand cubic feet north of Montgomery county, Kansas, was sufficient, and that upon rehearing on December 10, 1915, permission was given the plaintiff receivers to put into effect the rates set out in Exhibit K attached to the bill of complaint, but 209 denies that a majority of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas found such rates to be excessive.

XXIX.

This defendant does not know what rates, if any, have been prescribed for the sale and distribution of gas in the State of Missouri by these plaintiffs, but alleges that the rates permitted by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas to be filed by authority of its order of December 10 are just and reasonable and will yield plaintiffs a just and reasonable return upon their property used and useful and devoted to the public use in the supplying natural gas to their consumers in the State of Kansas, and do not in any way interfere with the possession and control of this court over property potentially in its charge and custody.

XXX.

This defendant denies that the plaintiffs are without adequate remedy at law in the premises in the bill of complaint set forth, and denies that plaintiffs will suffer irreparable injury unless accorded the injunctive relief in the bill of complaint prayed for.

XXXI.

That the thirty-first subdivision of plaintiffs' bill of complaint consists of mere conclusions based upon previous averments of fact in said bill of complaint, all of which have been fully answered by the defendant herein, and which the defendant specifically denies.

XXXII.

This defendant alleges that the allegations of the thirty-second subdivision of the bill of complaint, so far as the same relate to orders made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, are mere conclusions based upon allegations of fact theretofore made in such bill of complaint, all of which have been fully answered, but which this defendant now again specifically denies.

This defendant does not know what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of that Commission, or the effect upon the plaintiff receivers of any orders which it may have made, but denies 210 that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against this defendant.

XXXIII.

This defendant admits that the defendant distributing companies are furnishing gas to consumers in Kansas under contracts originally made with the Kansas Natural Gas Company, which contracts were assumed and adopted by the plaintiff receivers, and ever since their appointment the plaintiff receivers have been furnishing gas under the terms of such supply contracts; that such contracts were valid and binding in every respect and were entered into by all the parties with a full knowledge of all of the facts relating thereto, and that with careful and competent management the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff receivers would have been and would now be fully able to supply all the gas which they may have been required to furnish under the terms of such contracts.

This defendant specifically denies that any of the defendant cities within the State of Kansas are attempting in any manner to establish the rates at which gas is to be sold within said cities, or establish and provide the rules and regulations governing the sale and distribution thereof, but alleges the fact to be that the said distributing companies are the agents of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the sale and distribution of said gas, and are under the control and supervision of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas.

This defendant is not informed and has no knowledge that any contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and said distributing companies or any franchises granted by the defendant cities to said Kansas Natural Gas Company contain any provisions similar to those averred and set out in paragraph XXXIII of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint, or of which the same are typical; and further avers that if such provisions are contained in any of the said contracts or franchises that they are not sufficiently identified in plaintiffs' bill of complaint to enable the defendant to determine the truth of said averments.

This defendant specifically asks that the plaintiffs be put upon their proof as to such allegations and to all of the other averments of fact in the thirty-third subdivision of the said bill of complaint.

Third.

This defendant, having fully traversed and answered the bill of complaint filed herein, further answering, says:

I.

That in 1903 R. M. Snyder and associates formed a copartnership, known as the New York Oil and Gas Company, and acquired nearly 18,000 acres of gas leases, upon which they developed a supply of gas and secured a franchise to use the streets and alleys of Independence, Kan., to supply gas to the citizens thereof. During the same year said Snyder and associates obtained from the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company and the Independence Gas Company, corporations then owning a plant for the sale and distribution of gas in the city of Independence, an option to buy said plant in Independence and some 80,000 acres of leases located principally in the counties of Montgomery and Chautauqua, in Kansas, paying for said option the sum of $10,000. The full purchase price for said property was to be $550,000. During the same year R. N. Barnsdall and James O'Neil acquired about 90,000 acres of leases and brought in some producing gas wells thereon, located principally in Allen, Neosho, Wilson and Labette counties, Kansas, and organized the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

In 1904 the said Barnsdall and Snyder and their associates consolidated their propositions and increased the stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company from $6,000,000 to $12,000,000, and each group of associates transferred to the Kansas Natural Gas Company their various properties herein enumerated; the said Barnsdall and associates received for their property $6,000,000 of the capital stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Snyder and his associates received the remaining $6,000,000 of said capital stock. Said Snyder and associates received in addition thereto the sum of $900,000 in money, $540,000 of which was to be devoted to the payment of the balance of the purchase price of the properties of the Independence Gas Company and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company; that the $900,000 paid to Snyder and his associates was realized from the sale of the first mortgage bonds of the Kansas

212 Natural Gas Company; that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company thereafter acquired other leases, all of which said leases cost the said Kansas Natural Gas Company not to exceed $4,100,000, and said sum includes the value of all material used in the wells; and this defendant alleges that all of the said leaseholds in the aggregate have not, during the time herein mentioned, been worth to exceed $4,000,000; that the value of the gas and oil marketed from said leases during all the years from the organization of the Kansas Natural Gas Company up to December 31, 1914, was not in excess of $6,652,944.83, and that the expenses in connection with the production of said oil and gas so sold from said leases was at least $3,630,171.48.

That the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company are in fact subsidiary companies to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the property of the three companies is one contiguous whole and all used in producing and transporting natural gas from the Mid-Continent gas fields to the consumers within the States of Kansas and Missouri; that all of said property will be hereafter referred to as one property under the name of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. The following table shows the amount of capital stock and bonds issued by each of these three companies:

Kansas Natural:

Common stock .....	$12,000,000
First-mortgage bonds .....	4,000,000
Second-mortgage bonds .....	4,000,000

Kansas City Pipe Line Company:

Stock .....	4,500,000
Bonds .....	4,745,000

Marnet Mining Company:

Stocks .....	2,500,000
Bonds .....	2,000,000

The statement shows that these companies have issued bonds of the face value of $14,745,000, for which they received $13,404,250. Of this amount $1,035,000 was invested by the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the bonds of the Marnet Mining Company, leaving a balance of $12,369,250 outside money actually received from the sale of said bonds.

Defendant alleges that table 2 of Exhibit K of the bill of complaint is a statement showing the true and correct investment and property at the close of each year, together with the accrued depreciation and the net investment and division as between the transportation and production property of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company from the time it actually began business to December 31, 1914, a copy of which said table is herein set out for the convenience of the court.

II.

This defendant further answers and alleges that from the time the said Kansas Natural Gas Company began its business, April 15, 1908, to December 31, 1914, that its revenues derived from its business were ample and sufficient to properly amortize its transportation and production property, to adequately maintain the same, and 215 afforded the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, above such proper depreciation and maintenance, a return of 11.32 per cent per annum on the entire investment in said properties, as is more fully shown by tables 3 and 4, set out in Exhibit K attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, and which for the convenience of the court are here set out.

III.

This defendant, further answering, alleges that the value of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company as a going concern in the hands of the plaintiff receivers, as found by the engineer of the Commission, on the 1st day of January, 1915, was $8,994,811.03; that said valuation is made up of the production and transportation properties of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company; that the following items, which compose the production property of the said company, are as follows:

Wells .....	$605,539.20
Leaseholds .....	1,126,359.34
Drilling and pulling tools .....	3,660.00
Warehouses, tools used in connection with wells....	56,379.53
Proper proportion of overhead expenses,.....	119,205.39
Total deductions .....	$1,911,205.39

216 That for a number of years the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and at the present time the receivers thereof, have purchased a large percentage of the gas sold and distributed by said gas company and receivers; that said plaintiff receivers are now purchasing at least 75 per cent of all gas transported and sold or distributed by them, and are producing from their said leases not to exceed 25 per cent of the gas so transported, sold or distributed.

This defendant alleges that the value of said leases and wells is speculative and can not be definitely fixed, for the reason that should said wells on said leases become exhausted in the near future, then the value of said leases would be much less than the present value thereof assigned to them by the Commission's engineer; that should additional wells, furnishing considerable quantities of gas, be brought in in the near future, then the real value of said leases would be considerably greater than the said assigned value; and for these reasons this defendant alleges that the said producing property in the hands of the said receivers should be separated from the total value of the property in the hands of said receivers, and that the said receivers should be allowed for the gas actually produced by them from said leases the same price which they are compelled to pay in the open market for gas; that by so dividing said property the value of said leases and wells is automatically, accurately and correctly fixed, and provides the plaintiffs at all times with a reasonable rate for the gas produced therefrom.

This defendant alleges that the value of said wells, leaseholds, drilling and pumping tools, and warehouse tools used in connection with such wells, and a proper proportion of the overhead expense in the aggregate, was estimated by the engineer of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas to be $1,911,205.39, as of January 1, 1915.

This defendant further alleges that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas had no way of actually arriving at the true value of said leases, wells and other producing property other than as is herein explained, and therefore they assigned to it the estimated value placed thereon by the Commission's engineer, to wit, $1,911,205.39, for the purposes of the aforesaid division between the transportation and production properties, and deducted that amount from the total value of said property as found by the said engineer.

217 This defendant further alleges that the present fair and reasonable value of the property used and useful for the transportation and distribution of natural gas in both Kansas and Missouri, and now in the possession of the plaintiff receivers, was, on January 1, 1915, the amount found by the Commission's engineer, less the said value of the leaseholds and other producing property assigned by Commission's engineer, to wit, the sum of $7,083,605.64.

Said Commission had jurisdiction over only the property used in Kansas, and sought to provide only a reasonable return thereon to the receivers on such property as was used for supplying its consumers in Kansas, and in order to accomplish this result it divided the value of the whole transportation property between Kansas and Missouri, as aforesaid, according to the uses made thereof in supplying the customers of the plaintiffs in the States of Kansas and Missouri. The method employed by said Commission in making such division is fully and completely set out in Table 1 of Exhibit K, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, but which is for the convenience of the court herein set out.

That the fair value of the transportation property used in transporting gas from the places of production to consumers within the State of Kansas, as shown by said table, is $3,221,379.49, which said amount this defendant alleges is a fair value of the property in the possession of the plaintiff receivers used and useful in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas, and amounts to 45.48 per cent of the value of the transportation property.

This defendant further alleges that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company began making its investments in the year 1905, and continued making such investments up to January 1, 1915; that a fair average date of the total investment is January 1, 1907, and that the life of said transportation property, from the first day of January, 1915, is not less than 12 years in the field in which it is now employed, and the defendant alleges that notwithstanding the uncertainty of the supply of gas in parts of the Mid-continent field, the amount of gas now being transported through said transportation property and available for said purposes to the plaintiff receivers is not greatly diminished from the largest amount heretofore transported by them through said lines, and was greater in 219 the year of 1915 than in the year of 1914, and that the said Mid-Continent gas field is being constantly developed and extended and its total production at the present time is greater than in the past, and its full extent and capacity for production is still unknown.

This defendant alleges that the order of the Public Utilities Commission of December 10, 1915, is based upon the past history and present condition of said Mid-Continent gas field and is not predicated upon a speculative decrease in the production of the said Mid-Continent gas field, and that the said basis is the only legal, fair and certain method of fixing said values and rates; that said rates complained of by the plaintiff receivers in their said bill of complaint were not, and could not legally be fixed by said Commission for a specific number of years, but are based upon the conditions as they actually exist at the present time, and should other and different conditions prevail at some future time, as is predicted by plaintiffs in their bill of complaint, then it would become the duty of the defendant, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, upon proper application, to fix rates applicable to that time and those conditions.

IV.

Plaintiff receivers in their bill of complaint rest their claim for the future needs of gas, their future operating expenses and maintenance, upon the amount of gas transported and sold by them during the year 1914, except that for the year 1916 they allege that they should be entitled to $500,000 for the extension of their pipe lines into other gas fields, alleging that the same is a proper maintenance charge, but which this defendant alleges to be a capital charge.

This defendant alleges that during the year 1914 the plaintiffs transported and delivered to their consumers in the States of Kansas and Missouri 18,199,544 M. cu. ft., and said amount is fully shown by the following table:

Sold from field lines.....	678,717 M. cu. ft.
Used in compressor stations.....	1,409,413 "
Sold from main-line taps.....	277,838 "
Sold through dist. companies.....	15,833,576 "
Total .....	18,199,544 M. cu. ft.

220 That to supply the same amount of gas in the future as was supplied during the year 1914 these plaintiff receivers would not need to buy or produce in excess of 25,671,445 M. cu. ft., making allowance for all leakage and waste in the same per cents as alleged in plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

This defendant further alleges that the plaintiff receivers during the first nine months of the year 1915 sold more gas than during the similar months for 1914 and at only a slight increase in cost, as is more fully shown in detail by the following table:

*Includes expense Oklahoma field, which has been deducted from the expense of gas purchased and added to operating expense in other tables. This is not the actual price at the wells.

That the plaintiff receivers are able to purchase a sufficient quantity of gas at not to exceed four cents per thousand cubic feet at the wells, and that said receivers have not and are not paying for gas on the average to exceed four cents per thousand cubic feet at the wells, based upon the pressure at which said receivers sell gas to their consumers.

This defendant further answering alleges that the total operating expenses of the said receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company's property for the year 1914 were $841,289.88, but that said operating expenses included the sum of $28,663.90 taxes paid by said receivers on a large sum of money on hand, which said sum has since 221 been distributed under the so-called creditor's agreement, and that said sum so paid for taxes should be eliminated from an estimate for future operating expenses.

That the receivership expenses for the year 1914 were $137,463.11, which, however, cover a period of more than two years and include the costs of expensive litigation, a large part of which said amount should not be allowed for future operating expenses.

This defendant alleges that a reasonable amount for the services and expenses of said receivers and attorneys is not in excess of $40,000 per annum.

This defendant alleges that the total operating expenses and taxes, based on the same expenses for the year 1914, should not be in excess of $812,625.98 per annum; that the total operating expenses of the entire plant operated in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, including a proper allowance for gas purchased, treating the gas produced upon the company's leases the same as that purchased, is not in excess of $1,936,794.67; that the total operating expense of the said plant after deducting therefrom the amount of expenses incurred directly in the production of gas, and in addition thereto a proper proportion of expense common to both the production and transportation, is not to exceed $1,626,652.83, which said amount is the total expense of obtaining, transporting and distributing gas; that the said $1,626,652.83 should be divided between Kansas and Missouri according to the use made of said property in transporting and delivering gas to plaintiffs' consumers within the States of Kansas and Missouri respectively.

That on this basis that portion of said expense which should be assigned to the State of Kansas would not exceed the sum of $780,269.57, all of which said allegations in reference to said operating expenses is more fully shown by the following table:

(7) Divided between Kansas and Missouri on the basis of all gas sold and used, compressor gas being divided on basis of use. This assigns to Kansas 50.06 per cent, Missouri 49.94 per cent.

V.

223 This defendant further answering alleges that the fair present value of the property in the possession and under the control of these receivers, and used and useful for transporting and distributing gas, as of January 1, 1915, is not in excess of $7,083,606.64.

That the fair life expectancy of said property is at least twelve years from said January 1, 1915; that the amount necessary to completely amortize the present value of the said plant during the said life expectancy is not to exceed $500,300 per annum, which said amount should be divided between the States of Kansas and Missouri on the basis of the use of said property in transporting and distributing gas to the plaintiff receivers' customers within the said States of Kansas and Missouri; i. e., 45.48 per cent should be assigned to Kansas and 54.52 per cent should be assigned to Missouri, as is more fully set out in paragraph three of the third division of this answer.

That upon this basis the amount properly to be charged to the State of Kansas is not in excess of $268,468.44 per annum.

This defendant alleges that the total operating expenses and depreciation of said property properly assigned to Kansas is not in excess of $1,048,738.01 per annum, as is more fully and completely shown by Table No. 5 of plaintiffs' Exhibit K, attached to said bill of complaint; that part of said table showing the same is, for the convenience of the court, herein set out, and is as follows:

Table No. 3.—Kansas Natural Gas Company.

*The division of these items between Kansas and Missouri has been made on the basis of the use of the property. A table showing complete details of the method and values used is given as Table 1, exhibit K. This division assigns to Kansas 45.48% and to Missouri 54.52%.

This defendant alleges that the plaintiffs are entitled to a rate which will pay all necessary operating expenses and properly amortize the property under their control used and useful in transporting and distributing gas to their consumers within the State of Kansas during the life expectancy of said property and provide a reasonable return upon the fair value of the said property so used, and that the public should not be required to pay a higher rate.

This defendant alleges that during the year 1914 these plaintiff receivers sold to their consumers within the State of Kansas (a small amount of gas used in compressor stations was treated as a sale) gas of the value of $1,223,827.52 at the rates then in effect. On December 10, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission rendered its opinion and entered its order complained of by these plaintiff receivers in their bill of complaint.

Thereafter and on the 22d day of December, 1915, complainant receivers filed with the defendant, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, the following schedule of rates and rules:

"Notice to Consumers and Distributing Companies:

"Take notice that on and after the December, 1915, meter readings, at or near the close of the month of December, after the filing of this schedule with the Public Utilities Commission, John M. Landon and R. S. " 'Boiler Gas' for use under boilers, for making steam for power purposes at ten cents (10c) per thousand cubic feet in Montgomery county, Kansas, and at twelve and one-half cents (12½c) per thousand cubic feet at all points in Kansas outside of Montgomery county; provided, that the receivers will supply boiler gas only when, in their judgment, such use will not affect the domestic service. Gas used for purposes or in a manner different than as herein provided, shall carry the domestic rate of the locality where used.

"Two cents per thousand cubic feet will be added to the bills, but shall be deducted from the bills of all consumers who pay their bills on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month in which the service is rendered.

"All gas heretofore furnished to any person, firm, corporation or municipality, without compensation, commonly called 'free gas' is discontinued, and all such users heretofore using 'free gas' shall be required to pay for gas furnished in the future for the uses for which said 'free gas' was used, at the domestic rate herein provided 226 for the city or locality wherein such gas is used: Provided, that where gas is used for street lighting purposes, a charge will be made for one thousand cubic feet of gas per month for each lamp having a single burner where gas is turned off during daylight hours, and for two thousand cubic feet if left burning during the daylight hours; and a similar charge for each additional burner.

"The foregoing schedule of rates and joint rates is made and filed by said receivers under protest against the establishment and enforcement thereof, but in obedience to, in compliance with, and only because of the order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, made and entered on the 10th day of December, 1915; the grounds for this protest are, that said order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas is null and void because the business conducted by said receivers in the State of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri is interstate commerce, and said order an attempted regulation thereof; that as to the gas produced in Kansas, said rates are inadequate, insufficient, unremunerative, noncompensatory, confiscatory, wrongful and unlawful, and will not yield sufficient revenue to pay a fair return on the property employed in said service, and will deprive said receivers and all persons having rights therein of property without due process of law, and imposes a burden upon the interstate commerce conducted by said receivers; that as to the gas produced in Oklahoma and sold in Kansas, such rates are inadequate, insufficient, unremunerative, noncompensatory, confiscatory, wrongful and unlawful, and the enforcement thereof an interference with interstate commerce.

JOHN M. LANDON,
R. S. LITCHFIELD,

Receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Co."

Which said schedule of rates and rules on the 28th day of December, 1915, were approved by the defendant, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, a copy of which said order is here set out for the convenience of the court:

"Be it Remembered: That on this 28th day of December, A. D. 1915, the application for approval of the schedule showing changes in rates and joint rates for natural gas supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and of the rules and regulations therewith filed, came duly on for consideration and order by the Commission; and the Commission, upon consideration thereof, and being duly advised in the premises, finds that said schedule of rates and joint rates, as filed, and the rules and regulations therewith filed, should be approved, with the modification of one of said rules as hereinafter set forth.

227 "The Commission further finds that the proviso in relation to 'boiler gas' and its use should be modified so as to read as follows:

"Provided, that the receivers will supply boiler gas to all users thereof, upon application and without discrimination, only when, in their judgment, such use will not affect the domestic service."

"It is therefore by the Commission considered and ordered: That the said schedule showing changes in rates and joint rates for natural gas supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the rules and regulations therewith filed, as above modified, be and they hereby are ratified, approved and confirmed.

"By order of the commission.

That under the rates so filed and now in effect these plaintiff receivers will receive for the same quantity of gas sold and delivered the sum of $171,513.63 more than they received in 1914, or a total of $1,385,341.15. After paying all necessary operating expenses and taxes, including the amount paid for gas and the amount necessary to properly amortize the property, these plaintiff receivers will have a net return upon their Kansas business of $346,603.14, or 10.46 per cent, which is more fully shown by the latter part of Table 5 in Exhibit K attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, and which for the convenience of the court is herein set out:

228 This defendant alleges that the rates authorized by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas in its order of December 10, 1915, and now in force and effect, yield these plaintiff receivers sufficient revenue to pay all necessary operating expenses, including the purchase of gas, to properly amortize the property and to pay a fair rate of return upon the value of the property used and useful and devoted to the public use by said receivers in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas, and to provide a reasonable margin to meet any future unforeseen contingency.

VII.

This defendant, further answering, alleges that while the order of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas of December 10, 1915, and which plaintiff receivers are here attempting to set aside, is based upon the business of the said complainant receivers for the year 1914, but that the said complainant receivers, as is shown by the first nine months of their 1915 business, are able to purchase, transport and distribute a much larger quantity of gas than was purchased, transported and distributed by them during the year 1914, without materially increasing their said operating expenses, taxes and depreciation, and will be able to earn a much larger return than hereinbefore set out.

VIII.

This defendant, further answering, alleges that these plaintiff receivers have not properly and efficiently managed the said properties in their possession and under their control, but have wasted the revenues of the company in interminable and expensive lawsuits. The leaseholds have been exhausted, and they have neglected to make proper effort to obtain an additional supply of gas necessary to meet the demands of the company's markets. Leases that were available for them have been obtained by other companies operating in the same field. That said receivers are now failing and neglecting to secure an adequate quantity of gas to supply their customers.

This defendant alleges that the rates authorized by the Public Utilities Commission in its said order of December 10 will produce more revenue to these plaintiff receivers than any higher rate; that the present schedule of rates filed by the receivers under the authority of the said order of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are reasonable and lawful and will prove themselves so to be if these receivers will in good faith operate the said plant in their possession and under their control for a reasonable length of time.

This defendant denies that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief whatsoever, or any part of the relief in said bill of complaint demanded, and alleged that the plaintiffs have no standing in this court or in any court of equity.

And defendant prays in all things the same benefit and advantages of this, his answer, as if he had moved to dismiss said bill of complaint, and that a hearing be granted them upon the issues of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, as set forth in the first division of this answer, and that the bill of complaint be dismissed as against this defendant.

Second, that should the bill of complaint not be dismissed as against this defendant before a final hearing of this cause this defendant prays that the bill of complaint be dismissed as against him, and that he go hence without day, and that he have judgment for his costs.

JOHN M. LANDON and R. S. LITCHFIELD, as Receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiffs,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION FOR THE STATE OF KANSAS; Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley, and John M. Kinkel, as the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; H. O. Caster, as Attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, et al., Defendants.

These defendants, above named, now and at all times hereafter, saving and reserving to themselves all and all manner of benefits and advantages of exceptions which may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, imperfections and insufficiencies in the plaintiffs' bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto, or unto so much or such parts thereof as these defendants are advised that it is material or necessary for them to make answer unto, answering, say:

That this answer is divided into three principal parts, the first consisting of such defenses in point of law as arise upon the face of the bill of complaint on account of misjoinder and insufficiency of fact to constitute a valid cause of action in equity, as hereinafter more particularly appears, and upon which these defendants above named will ask for a hearing before the final hearing of this cause upon the facts; and second, a statement in answer to the averments of said bill of complaint and a denial of such matters as are denied by these defendants; and third, a statement of affirmative matters which it is averred by these defendants constitute defenses to the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein.

First.

I.

These defendants above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, aver that said bill of complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, for that the plaintiffs in paragraphs 1 to XX, both inclusive, of their bill of complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said bill of complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against these answering defendants, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

These defendants, further answering, aver that in the paragraphs of plaintiffs' bill of complaint after paragraph XX, including the said paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, heretofore mentioned, aver and set forth that because the pipe lines and other property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company extend into Oklahoma and Missouri, that the same should be treated as a whole or as one unit, and that the character of its business is wholly interstate and not of a local character in Kansas; and that said Commissions of the States of Kansas and Missouri are jointly interested in allocating the value of the property used in such State- for supplying gas, for the purpose of determining what is a legal charge or rate thereon for service; and that in paragraph XXI of said bill of complaint it is averred that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has determined that it will allow no rate or charge for supplying gas in the western cities of Missouri higher than is charged in the eastern cities of Kansas, and that said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has suspended certain rates sought to be put into operation by the plaintiffs herein as receivers of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company; and it is averred in paragraphs XXII to XXVII of said bill of complaint that the aforesaid

233 acts of the Missouri Public Service Commission are unlawful and confiscatory, and that because of said facts so averred in the said paragraphs after paragraph XX of said bill of complaint show that the causes of action and grounds for relief in equity attempted to be set forth as against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and their several attorneys and officers, are related to each other and of joint interest and concern to the plaintiffs and these several defendants; but these answering defendants aver that said pretended causes of action are not related to each other to any extent that would allow them to be joined in one bill of complaint in this court, and that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri is not responsible for nor interested in any way in any action of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas or its attorneys and officers, and that these answering defendants have no common interest in the cause, or causes, of action, or the subject, or subjects, of the action, or the relief demanded in said bill of complaint, as to the causes of action attempted to be set up in the paragraphs succeeding paragraph XX of said bill of complaint, except paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, both inclusive, which constitutes a résumé of previous averments and statements made directly against these answering defendants in paragraphs I to XX of said bill, both inclusive, and constitute mere conclusions of law, and that there are no other averments or allegations in said bill of complaint which show that said causes of action, or any other causes of action attempted to be set forth in plaintiffs' bill of complaint, or any other of the several causes of action and grounds for complaint, can be properly joined in one bill of complaint in this court; and these defendants ask that upon hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the bill of complaint that said bill of complaint, for this reason, be dismissed against these answering defendants because of said misjoinder of causes of action therein.

II.

These defendants above named, further answering the bill of complaint herein, aver that it does not appear from said bill of complaint why the Hon. John T. Barker, as attorney-general of the State of Missouri, is made a party to said bill of complaint, except upon the theory of law that it is the official duty of said attorney-general, under the general laws of said State, as its chief law officer, to enforce the laws thereof and all legal orders made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri establishing rates for public service corporations and public utilities, and these answering defendants, therefore, refer to paragraph I, of this answer, as to the nature of the causes of action alleged against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and its attorneys and officers, and makes the same a part of this paragraph of their answer, and further aver that there is a misjoinder of action as to these answering defendants and the said defendant John T. Barker as attorney-general of the State of Missouri, and asks that upon the hearing as to the points of law arising on the face of said bill of complaint it be determined that there is a misjoinder of causes of action for the reasons alleged in said paragraph I of this answer, and that for this reason this bill of complaint be dismissed as against these answering defendants.

III.

These defendants above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, aver that said bill of complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, for that the plaintiffs, in paragraphs I to XX, both inclusive, of their bill of complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said bill of complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against these answering defendants, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory, and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

The answering defendants further aver that in paragraph XXXIII of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint it is averred and set forth that the Kansas Natural Gas Company prior to the appointment of the plaintiff receivers herein had been 235 delivering gas to certain distributing companies in Kansas and in Missouri under and by virtue of certain written contracts made by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company with said distributing companies, and certain contracts which are alleged to be typical ones are set forth and described in the said paragraph of the bill of complaint; and it is further averred that said contracts were made the basis of certain franchises granted by the defendant cities in the States of Missouri and Kansas to said distributing companies and to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the purpose of delivering and distributing gas in said Missouri and Kansas cities, and that said cities, both in Missouri and in Kansas, are attempting to regulate, control and fix the price at which the plaintiff may sell natural gas furnished by them to their patrons in violation of said contracts; and it is further averred and set forth that said contracts are illegal and unreasonable and should be set aside and the plaintiffs relieved from complying with the terms thereof, both as to the Kansas cities and towns situated in the State of Missouri.

These answering defendants further aver that these defendants have no common interest in the cause of action or the subject thereof, or the relief demanded, based on the facts averred in said paragraph XXXIII of the bill of complaint as to the defendant cities in the State of Missouri, and that neither in said paragraph XXXIII nor in any other part of the bill is it disclosed that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief in equity against the cities and distributing companies of the State of Missouri in which these answering defendants are interested or in any way related, and these defendants ask that upon the hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the bill of complaint that it be held that there is a misjoinder of causes of action as to the matters herein set forth, and that the bill of complaint for this reason be dismissed as against them.

IV.

These defendants further answering aver that it is disclosed upon the face of said bill of complaint that there is no controversy arising between the plaintiffs and these answering defendants, under the laws, constitution or treaties of the United States, that the plaintiffs are residents of the State of Kansas, deriving their authority to 236 institute actions in courts of law from the courts and the laws of the State of Kansas, and that this court is therefore without jurisdiction to consider and determine the matters attempted to be set out in said bill of complaint; and these defendants further state that it appears upon the face of said bill of complaint that the rates complained of therein were put into effect voluntarily by the plaintiffs and that they can not be heard in this case to aver that the same are confiscatory and illegal.

V.

These defendants further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein aver that said bill of complaint reveals upon its face that this court is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the pretended causes of action therein averred, for the reason that it appears from said bill that the plaintiffs are not without adequate relief in the due course of law for any rights or remedies due them or for the redress of any wrongs complained of under the laws and the statutes of the State of Kansas, and that said plaintiffs have not pursued the remedies provided for them by said laws, and that therefore said bill of complaint fails to show any equitable cause for relief in favor of the plaintiffs and against these answering defendants.

VI.

The defendants for their further defense aver that the bill of complaint and the record in this case reveal that the plaintiffs can not recover and are not entitled to the relief prayed for in said bill of complaint, on the grounds that the plaintiff receivers are engaged wholly in interstate commerce and that the properties of said company are instrumentalities of interstate commerce and not subject to the local laws of the State of Kansas, the police power thereof, and not within the jurisdiction of the defendant Public Utilities Commission of said State, for the following reasons, to wit:

First, that it appears from said bill of complaint that said receivers were appointed in a proceeding had in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, upon a petition filed by the Honorable John S. Dawson, attorney-general of said State, January 5, 1912, against the Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., which said petition and all the files and proceedings of said case, to wit, No. 13,476, 237 are made a part of the bill of complaint and the record in this case, at paragraph 3 thereof; that suit said was begun by the attorney-general of the State of Kansas for the purpose of enforce-ing the criminal laws and the other statutes of Kansas imposing penalties against persons and corporations who, being engaged in local business in said State, had formed or entered into combinations with others in said local business in the restraint of trade or for the purpose of securing a monopoly therein, as well as for other purposes more fully set out in said bill of complaint at paragraph 4 thereof, and that said petition contained the following allegations, to wit:

"That plaintiffs allege that the above-named defendants, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation, et al., and each of them, have entered into a series of unlawful arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts, combinations with each other in violation of the laws of the State of Kansas with a view to prevent, and are done to prevent, full and free competition in the production and sale of natural gas within the State of Kansas, which product is an article of domestic raw material produced in large quantities in Montgomery county, Kansas, and elsewhere in southern Kansas, and is an article of trade and commerce, and is an aid to commerce, which arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts and combinations are in restriction and restraint of the full and free operation of divers and various lines of legitimate business authorized and permitted by the laws of the State of Kansas, and are a perversion, misuse and abuse of the corporate powers and privileges granted to them, and each of them, by the State of Kansas, as above set forth, and all of which is more particularly set forth as follows:"

That said petition, after alleging the purchase of the Independence Gas Company, a corporation, and The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, a corporation, by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, contained the following allegation:

"That said The Independence Gas Company and The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, defendants, were at all times mentioned herein public service corporations of the State of Kansas and were without authority under the law to sell and dispose of their entire properties, franchises and means of performance of their duties to the public in and about the production, transportation, delivery and sale of natural gas to the inhabitants of the State of Kansas;
 * * * and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, in pursuance of said unlawful, wrong agreement, understanding,
 238 arrangement, purpose and intent, has ever since been and is now in exclusive possession and control, and claims to own all gas, gas leases, franchises and property of every kind and character, as aforesaid, that were used, owned and employed by said other corporations, defendants, and said partnership, in and about the production, transportation, distribution, delivery and sale of natural gas to the said inhabitants of the State of Kansas, but such possession and control by said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, is merely as agent or trustee."

To which petition the Kansas Natural Gas Company, May 21, 1912, filed its answer, in which it denied each and every, all and singular, the allegations and averments of the said petition, and these defendants aver that thereupon an issue was joined in said case as to whether the said Kansas Natural Gas Company was engaged in domestic or intra-state commerce in the State of Kansas, and that whether, being so engaged, it had violated the laws of the state made in conformity to and in pursuance of its police power prohibiting combinations in restraint of said trade.

The plaintiffs further aver that a trial of said issue was had with the other issues of said cause, beginning September 30, 1912. The attorney-general for the State of Kansas, as attorney for the plaintiff in said cause, in defining the issues of said case, made the following statement:

"These defendants are charged civilly with perversion of their corporate privileges because they have entered into a combination and trust to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas, which product is an article of domestic raw material, an article of trade and commerce and an aid to commerce in this state."

The attorney for the defendant The Kansas Natural Gas Company in said cause, in his opening statement, said:

"We particularly deny that anything that is shown or that will be shown has any of the elements of a combination or trust or monopoly. I don't care to add anything further, but the questions to be read will show in detail, I think, more accurately than I could say it, just exactly what has transpired."

These defendants, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and H. O. Caster its attorney, further aver that on the trial of said cause the Hon. T. J. Flannelly, judge of said court, who presided at said trial, determined all of the issues arising upon the pleadings and statements of the defendants against the contentions of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and held and determined it to be guilty of violating the laws and police regulations of the State of Kansas made for the purpose of prohibiting trusts and combinations in domestic commerce, and in passing upon the particular question raised by said pleadings as to whether said company was engaged in domestic commerce and had made a combination in restraint of said trade, the said Hon. T. J. Flannelly, in his opinion and findings filed in said cause, said:

"Is the defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a monopoly and has it and other defendant corporations entered into a trust and combination to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas?"

"Section 5185, General Statutes of Kansas (chap. 257, Laws of 1889) provides:

"That all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations made with a view or which tend to prevent full and free competition in the importation, transportation or sale of articles imported into this State, or in the product, manufacture, or sale of articles of domestic growth or product of domestic raw material, or for the loan or use of money, or to fix attorneys' or doctors' fees, and all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations, designed or which tend to advance, reduce or control

the price or the cost to the producer or to the consumer of any such products or articles, or to control the cost or rate of insurance, or which tend to advance or control the rate of interest for the loan or use of money to the borrower, or any other services, are hereby declared to be against public policy, unlawful and void.'

"This act was followed by the act of 1897, which the supreme court of the State of Kansas, in the case of State v. Lumber Company, 83 Kan. 399, said was intended by the legislature to supplement, not repeal, the law of 1889.

"A trust is a combination of capital, skill, or acts by two or more persons, firms, corporations, or associations of persons, or either two or more of them, for either, any or all of the following purposes: First, to create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce, or aids to commerce, or to carry out restrictions in the full and free pursuit of any business authorized or permitted by the laws of this State. Second, to increase or reduce the price of merchandise, produce or commodities or to control the cost or rates of insurance. Third, to prevent competition in the manufacture, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to prevent competition in aids to commerce. Fourth, to fix any standard or figures whereby its price to the public shall be in any manner controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, use or consumption in this State. Fifth, to make or enter into or execute or carry out, any contract, obligation or agreement of any kind or description by which they shall bind or have to bind themselves not to sell, manufacture, dispose of or transport any article or commodity, or article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure; or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graded figure; or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article or commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others to preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or others in transportation, sale or manufacture of any such article or commodity; or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or unite any interests they have in connection with the manufacture, sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, that its price may in any manner be affected.'

"Section two of the same act provides:

"All persons, companies or corporations within this State are hereby denied the right to form or to be in any manner interested, either directly or indirectly, as principal, agent, representative, consignee or otherwise, in any trust as defined in section 1 of this act.'

"The decisions of the United States supreme court with reference to the national antitrust act have direct force and application in interpreting our own antitrust laws. The statute of this State in regard to monopolies and trusts is as broad in its terms as the Sherman antitrust act.

"That statute (the Sherman act)' says the supreme court of Kansas, 'differs in verbal phraseology but not in essential particular or effect from ours.

241 "State v. Smiley, 65 Kan. 240.'

"A violation of the Sherman antitrust act itself by a corporation doing business in this State would be a perversion and abuse of its corporate privileges. The laws of the United States, as far as civil suits are concerned, are a part of the State's system of jurisprudence.

"Mondou v. N. Y. H. R. Co., 32 Sup. Ct. 169.

"Clafflin v. Housman, 93 U. S. 130.

"One cannot read this record and examine these contracts, to which attention has been called in the foregoing statement, without reaching the conclusion that the whole purpose and design of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, from the very inception, has been to monopolize the production, transportation, sale and distribution of natural gas in the Kansas field. Not only was it the purpose and design to secure a monopoly, but the plans were successful, the purpose was accomplished, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company to-day almost completely dominates the situation; it practically controls the field of production, the field of transportation and the sale and distribution of natural gas in Kansas."

These defendants, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and H. O. Caster, its attorney, aver that the said court thereafter rendered its judgment upon said findings of fact and conclusions of law, and as a part thereof appointed the plaintiff receivers to receive and control the property in controversy herein as the officers of said court; that said judgment is unappealed from and in full force and effect, and that said receivers have acquiesced in the said judgment and the rules of law declared by the said court and acted in conformity therewith, and that therefore and thereby the fact that said corporation, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, was prior to the appointment of said receivers, and said receivers since then as the representatives of said corporation in continuing its said business have been, engaged in local or intrastate commerce and not wholly engaged in interstate commerce, and that the properties controlled by them are therefore not such instrumentalities of interstate commerce as withdraw all business done by the use of said properties in said State of Kansas from the control of the local laws of said State, the police power thereof, or from the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; that said facts having been fully adjudicated by the said court, and the said receivers having acted in conformity therewith and in pursuance of the principles of law followed and announced by the said court, and which 242 thereby became the law of said case, are now estopped and barred from asserting anything contrary thereto in this cause.

These defendants, further answering, aver that as a part of said judgment the plaintiff receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, were directed to appear in the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N in equity, which case is fully referred to and set out in the bill of complaint herein, for the purpose of recovering the control and management of the physical property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, as is fully set out in the bill of complaint herein at paragraphs 3 and 4, and elsewhere, in said bill; that for the purpose of said appearance in said cause the attorney-general, acting on and in behalf of said receivers and under the direction of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, prepared and filed therein a petition for said purposes, which said petition contained the following averment, to wit:

"First, that on January 5, 1912, the State of Kansas, by its attorney-general, brought an action in the nature of quo warranto in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, against The Independence Gas Company, The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas corporations, and Kansas Natural Gas Company, a Delaware corporation authorized to do business in Kansas, charging said corporations with misuse, perversion and abuse of their corporate privileges and with having connived and engaged in various illegal combinations in restraint of trade, in violation of the antitrust laws of the State of Kansas, and in violation of the National antitrust laws, which are a part of the civil jurisprudence of the State of Kansas, by which unlawful combinations the said Kansas Natural Gas Company had secured a monopoly of the source of gas supply and a monopoly of the sale and distribution of gas to the people of Kansas, and by which unlawful combination the selling price of gas, a product of domestic raw material, an article of commerce, and an aid to commerce, had been advanced and controlled by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and a true copy of the petition filed by the State of Kansas in said action is contained in an abstract filed herewith and made part hereof."

That thereafter the complainant in said cause and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company appeared in said cause and contested the averments of the petition filed by the said attorney-general on and in behalf of the plaintiff receivers herein, and that said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company filed, as paragraph 10 of their answer, the following averments, to wit:

"These complainants further allege that although the defendant the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is engaged in operating a pipe line within the State of Kansas for the transportation of natural gas from various sources of supply from localities within the State of Kansas to respective towns and cities within the State of Kansas, the pipe line of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its system likewise extends into the adjacent States of Missouri and Oklahoma, for the purpose of receiving and transporting gas through its pipe lines to cities in said states, and is therefore an interstate carrier, subject to the act of Congress of February 7, 1887, and its amendments. That by the judgment and order appointing receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the district court of Montgomery county, State of Kansas, in the proceedings by the State of Kansas instituted by the attorney-general as aforesaid, for a claimed violation of a penal statute of the State, constitute an exertion of the power of the State of Kansas, acting through and under the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, over interstate commerce, and is invalid and violative of the commerce clause of the constitution of the United States, and the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, was without jurisdiction to appoint receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in said proceedings by reason of said fact."

And these defendants, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and H. O. Caster, its attorney, avers that by the filing of said petition and answer an issue was made in said cause as to whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company at the time of the filing of the petition in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, by the State of Kansas through its attorney-general, heretofore referred to, was engaged in domestic commerce and not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and whether by reason of said fact the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, had the right, authority and jurisdiction, because of the violation of the local laws of said Kansas by said corporation, to appoint the plaintiff receivers as the officers of said court to take possession of said property, and whether as such officers they were now entitled to the possession of the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company as against certain receivers theretofore appointed in the said cause of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, heretofore set 244 out and referred to in this answer and bill of complaint of the plaintiffs.

That said cause came on for trial on June 5, 1913, on said issues of law and fact, before the Hon. John A. Marshall, district judge of the United States sitting as such judge of the district court for the District of Kansas, and after hearing the testimony adduced by the said parties and being fully advised in the premises the court found in favor of the said petitioners, the plaintiffs herein, and against the said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, the complainants in said original action; that as a part of said decision the court filed written findings and a written opinion as to the law controlling said case, and as to this question the court said:

"Under the Kansas antitrust act (Gen. St. 1909, sec. 5146), which provides that every person or corporation within or without the state, violating its provisions within the state, shall be denied the right to do business in the state, and authorizes the enforcement of such provision 'by injunction or other proceeding,' a state court has power to appoint receivers of the property within the state of a foreign corporation charged with violation of the act, and under the state practice such remedy is not precluded because the legal relief of ouster is sought in the action.

"The appointment by a state court of a receiver of the property within the state of a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce does not amount to an unlawful interference with the right of such corporation to transact interstate commerce." (206 Fed. 777.)

These defendants, further answering, aver that the said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, complainants as aforesaid, excepted to the findings of the court and regularly took their appeal to the circuit court of appeals of the eighth district of the United States in said cause, and that thereafter said cause came regularly on for hearing and was decided by said court December 4, 1913, and it was there held and decided by the honorable circuit court of the said district that the opinion and decision of the district court of the United States, heretofore set forth, should be affirmed, and in determining the questions arising on said appeal the court, speaking by the Hon. Wm. C. Hook, circuit judge, said:

"A foreign corporation engaged in interstate and local commerce may be adjudged guilty of a violation of the antitrust laws of the state, its license to do business in the state may be canceled, and a receiver for all its property therein appointed under the general laws in aid of the enforcement of the judgment; and it is no defense that such property included instrumentalities used by it in conducting its interstate business, or that the corporation by the 245 same course of conduct has also violated the similar laws of the United States." (209 Fed. 300.)

And again, at pages 306-7, the court further said:

"There remains for consideration the contention that as applied to this case, the antitrust statutes of the State conflict with the Sherman act (act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200]), and hence must give way. In this connection it is unimportant that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is a Delaware corporation instead of a corporation of Kansas. The character of its trade and commerce, interstate or local, determines the applicability of the antitrust laws of the nation or state and not the origin of its corporate existence. The term 'interstate corporation' is a convenient colloquialism but hardly accurate. In respect of the contention now being considered, the case would not be different had that company been organized under the laws of Kansas. Nor is it material that it transports some of the gas it deals in from Oklahoma into Kansas and from Kansas into Missouri by pipe lines. By express exemption it is not a common carrier subject to the interstate commerce act (act June 29, 1906, c. 3591 [U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1911, p. 1284], 34 Stat. 584), sec. 1, even would it matter were it otherwise. The point urged by counsel rests on the fact that the company is engaged in both interstate and local commerce and upon the assertion that the two are so intricately interwoven as to be inseparable. The claim of inseparable intricacy is not tenable. The two kinds of commerce are no more interinvolved than with most railroads of the country and many manufacturing and mercantile concerns. Whatever may be the origin and admixture of the commodity dealt in or the common use of the same plant, equipment, and instrumentalities, the two kinds of commerce are distinguishable. The company is in no better position than if it were an ordinary industrial and mercantile concern of Kansas producing, buying, shipping, and selling, locally and in other states, grains, oils, or other commodities which lose their particular identity in the mass of that which is dealt in. Again, the property and business of the company which are wholly within the State of Kansas are not negligible incidents to which the state antitrust statutes are being forced; much of its property, including that obtained from the other corporations, is located there and much of its business is there transacted. The action of the State of Kansas was directed to the violation of the state statutes. The decree of the state court was expressly

These defendants therefore further aver that by the aforesaid decisions and holding of the courts it has been fully determined and adjudicated that the plaintiff receivers are engaged in intrastate commerce subject to the local laws and police power of the State of Kansas and the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for said State, and that the plaintiffs are not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and that the properties under their control are not instrumentalities of interstate commerce of such nature as to deprive the defendants Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas of jurisdiction over it, and that said plaintiffs, having acquiesced in said holdings and principles of law announced by the courts in the said cases, and having in this cause alleged that this case is dependent upon and ancillary to the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, as averred in plaintiffs' bill of complaint, paragraph 1, which these defendants in no wise admit, and that said findings and principles of law having become the law of said cases, and of this case, and all of said matters having been fully determined, the plaintiffs are estopped from averring to the contrary herein, and from causing a retrial of said issues in this suit.

Second.

These defendants, having objected to the jurisdiction of this court arising upon the points of law disclosed upon the face of the bill of complaint, and having moved to dismiss this action for want of such jurisdiction, further answering, say:

I.

The above-named defendants deny that the bill of complaint herein is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, now pending in this court, and further deny that this action is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential pos-

247 session of this court in said causes and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this court in said causes.

These defendants specifically deny that the matter and amount in controversy in this cause exceeds the sum or value of $3000 exclusive of interest and costs.

These defendants specifically deny that the causes of action, if any such be stated in the bill of complaint filed here, arise under the constitution or laws of the United States.

These defendants do not know for what purpose the bill of complaint was filed herein, but nevertheless deny that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas have fixed rates which are unreasonably low or that are unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory, or which amount to the taking of the property in the possession and control of these plaintiffs without just compensation and without due process of law, or that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas has issued any order interfering with interstate commerce.

These defendants deny that there is any relationship and acts of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the attorneys and counsel of said Commissions, either now or at any time, such that it is practicable to present here and determine said causes in one suit in this court, but allege that plaintiffs' pretended causes of action against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are wholly different and can not be joined as one cause of action, nor can the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri be joined as parties defendant in the same cause of action, nor are the pretended causes of action against the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas such that they can be joined in one cause of action, nor can the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas be joined in one cause of action such as is attempted in the suit at bar.

II.

These defendants admit that the defendants Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley and John M. Kinkel are the duly appointed, qualified and acting members of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; that the defendant S. M. Brewster is the duly elected, qualified and acting attorney-general of the State of Kansas and the chief law officer of the State of Kansas; that the defendant H. O. Caster is the duly appointed, qualified and acting attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas. That the defendant members of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and the defendant attorney-general for the State of Kansas, and the defendant attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are charged by the laws of the State of Kansas with the duty and obligation of executing and enforcing all of the laws affecting public utilities and other property.

These defendants have no knowledge as to who is the attorney-general of Missouri and who constitute the members and officers of the Public Service Commission of Missouri.

These defendants admit that the defendant Fidelity Title and Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, and is trustee under a certain first mortgage and supplemental mortgages heretofore executed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company on its property here involved. That said Fidelity Title and Trust Company is complainant in two of the suits pending in this court referred to in the bill of complaint.

These defendants admit that the Delaware Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and is the trustee under a certain second mortgage executed and delivered by the Kansas Natural Gas Company covering a part of the property here involved. That the said Delaware Trust Company is defendant in one of the suits mentioned in the bill of complaint.

These defendants admit that the Fidelity Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and is the trustee under a certain first mortgage and three supplemental mortgages executed and delivered by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, whose property has been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is being operated by the plaintiff receivers.

These defendants admit that the Kansas City Pipe Line Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey. That all of the property of said Kansas City Pipe Line Company has heretofore been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is now, so far as it is situated in Kansas, in the possession of the plaintiff receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, but deny "that said pipe lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company are of little or no use unless they be operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

These defendants admit that the Marnet Mining Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of West Virginia, that said Marnet Mining Company owns certain property and pipe lines in the State of Oklahoma, which said pipe lines and property form a part of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but deny "that all of the property of the said Marnet Mining Company is of but little value if separated from the system of pipe lines operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

These defendants admit that John F. Overfield is the receiver of the property of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as in the bill of complaint alleged.

These defendants admit that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and from 1904 to October, 1912, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas. That it has been duly admitted to do business in the State of Kansas as a foreign corporation. That it owns and operates a system, by lease and otherwise, of pipe lines extending from the counties of Rogers, Wagoner and Tulsa, in the State of Oklahoma, northward to the Kansas-Oklahoma State line, and through the State of Kansas into the State of Missouri, with terminals at Joplin, but deny that they have terminals in Kansas City and Nevada, Mo., but admit that they have a line extending to St. Joseph in the State of Missouri, and Atchison, Leavenworth, Topeka, Galena, Pittsburg and Kansas City in the State of Kansas, and other points, which are more fully shown in the map referred to in the bill of complaint and filed with said bill.

That since October, 1912, said system of pipe lines has been 250 in the control of and operated by receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

These defendants admit the issuance of the order of September 22, 1914, made and entered in the cases of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, but deny that the said George F. Sharitt is in the possession or control, actually or potentially, of any property involved in this suit by virtue of such order or otherwise.

III.

These defendants admit that the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs, are in the actual possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the property under lease to it in the State of Kansas, as receivers of said company, appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, and admit that the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield are in the actual possession and control of the pipe-line system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including leased lines located in the States of Oklahoma and Missouri, but deny that they are in such possession as ancillary receivers of this court, but allege that they are in the actual possession of such property in Oklahoma and Missouri, as receivers appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas.

IV.

These defendants admit the allegation of the fourth division of the bill of complaint.

V.

These defendants admit that on the 17th day of December, 1914, the first and second mortgage bondholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the plaintiff receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, and the Marnet Mining Company, entered into a certain agreement and stipulation called "Creditors' Agreement," a copy of which agreement is attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint as Exhibit A. But these defendants specifically deny that the State of 251 Kansas was a party to or affected by such agreement, and these defendants specifically deny the matter and things set up in said creditors' agreement.

These defendants admit that said Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of receivers, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas, and carrying on its said activities in the States of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri; that after the appointment of the receivers by this court said receivers continued and carried on the said business after the manner the same had been theretofore conducted by Kansas Natural Gas Company, and after the delivery of the property aforesaid to said State receivers they continued to carry on said business theretofore conducted and carried on by said federal receivers and by said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

These defendants specifically deny all other allegations in the fifth subdivision of said bill of complaint, except such as are hereafter in this subdivision specifically admitted.

These defendants allege that in carrying on said business as aforesaid these plaintiff receivers procured a part of their gas from wells in Wagoner, Rogers and Tulsa counties, Oklahoma, piping the same northward into and through the gas fields of Kansas, where the same is so commingled in the pipe lines conveying the same with gas produced in Kansas that it is impossible to separate or distinguish that produced in Oklahoma from that produced in Kansas; and, after being so commingled and mixed, it is conveyed northward from city to city throughout the State, and is drawn off by the numerous cities along its lines within the State of Kansas at such times and in such quantities as the individual consumers desire; that the gas in being so transported is, by means of compressor stations, packed into the transportation lines as reservoirs and is at all times subject to be drawn off by the various distributing companies serving the several towns along said pipe line, and when the said gas is drawn off by the said distributing companies from the transportation lines there is no way of telling whether it was produced in 252 Kansas or in Oklahoma, but is drawn off by said distributing companies from the mass of said gas stored in the transportation lines for sale and distribution to the consumers in the various cities.

These defendants specifically deny that only six per cent of the gas delivered to consumers in Kansas is produced in Kansas. These defendants specifically deny that the business carried on and conducted by the plaintiff receivers is the carrying on of business and commerce among different states of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, or that the same is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, as confided to it by section 8 of article

1 of the constitution of the United States, and allege that the business conducted by the plaintiff receivers is subject to the control and regulation of the States of Kansas and Missouri.

That on August 17, 1915, H. O. Caster, as attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, filed a suit in mandamus in the supreme court of the State of Kansas against the plaintiff receivers herein; a copy of the application for such writ is attached to this answer and made a part hereof and marked Exhibit A. That notice was duly had upon the plaintiff receivers, as defendants in such action, and in due time they filed in said court their answer and return; a copy of such answer and return is attached to and made a part of this answer, marked Exhibit B. That, as shown by said answer and return, the plaintiff receivers herein, as defendants in said action, allege that the business so conducted by them was the carrying on of business and commerce among the different States of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and that it was exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, as confided to it by section 8 of article 1 of the constitution of the United States. Upon hearing duly had in such action and being well advised in the premises, the supreme court of the State of Kansas, in such action, being case No. 20324 of the files of said court, duly filed its opinion (96 Kan. 372) and order, to the effect that the business as conducted by the plaintiff receivers was not the carrying on of business and commerce among the different States of the Union, and was not under the control of the Congress of the United States, but that the same was under the control of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; a copy of the opinion of the supreme court of the State of Kansas in such action is 253 attached hereto and made a part of this answer, marked Exhibit C. Such order was not appealed from or reversed and is still in full force and effect.

That these defendants, therefore, allege that it has been adjudicated in an action wherein these plaintiffs as receivers and the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas were parties, that the business as conducted by the plaintiff receivers was not the carrying on of a business or commerce among the different States of the Union and was not under the control of the Congress of the United States, but that the same was under the control of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and that such question has been fully and finally adjudicated and determined and is res adjudicata as between all the parties to this suit.

VI.

The defendants admit all of the allegations of fact contained in the sixth subdivision of the bill of complaint herein, except with reference to the alleged orders of this court purported to have been made on December 30, 1912, and on January 4, 1913, with reference to which orders these defendants allege that this court had no power, authority or jurisdiction to make any such alleged orders; and that if such orders were made, as alleged in said bill of complaint, they were wholly illegal and void; and this court, recognizing that said orders of December 30, 1912, and of January 4, 1913, were made without jurisdiction and were wholly null and void, has never pretended to enforce the same.

These defendants specifically deny each and all of the allegations in the seventh subdivision of plaintiffs' bill of complaint, except such as are in this division of the answer admitted.

These defendants admit that the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, in January, 1913, filed a complaint with the said commission, wherein the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers and the distributing companies were respondents. After a hearing upon such application the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas made and filed its order and opinion, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit E. That on April 9, 1915, the plaintiff receivers 254 filed before the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas their complaint and schedule of rates, requesting an order of the Public Utilities Commission permitting them to increase the rates which they might charge for natural gas furnished by them to their consumers in Kansas. A copy of such complaint is attached to this answer as a part — Exhibit A, and a true copy of the original schedule of rates then filed is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit F. That upon July 16, 1915, after a full hearing upon said complaint, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas rendered its opinion, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit H.

That thereafter, in the action pending in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, brought by the plaintiff receivers against the Public Utilities Commission et al. as defendants, an order was made by said court overruling the demurrer of the Public Utilities Commission to the petition filed in such case. An appeal was taken from this order to the supreme court of the State of Kansas by the Public Utilities Commission.

That on August 17, 1915, H. O. Caster, as attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, filed a suit in mandamus in the supreme court of the State of Kansas against the plaintiff receivers herein and the judge of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, to require the said receivers to maintain efficient and sufficient service in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas, and to require the said judge of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, to vacate and set aside an order making the Public Utilities Commission a party defendant in the action pending in the said district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, wherein the said receivers were appointed to set aside the temporary restraining order issued by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, in that action, and to dismiss the suit against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas.

That the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield made their return and answer in said mandamus case. That on the 22d day of September, 1915, a hearing was had on said mandamus action in the supreme court of the State of Kansas, which said action was consolidated with the appeal taken from the decision of the 255 district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, overruling the said demurrer.

That thereafter, and on the 4th day of October, 1915, the supreme court of the State of Kansas rendered its opinion and final judgment in said actions, which opinion is reported in volume 96 of the Kansas Reports at page 872, and a copy of which said opinion and judgment is hereto attached, marked Exhibit C and made a part hereof. Said judgment has never been appealed from nor reversed, and is still in force and effect.

VIII.

These defendants deny all of the allegations of fact contained in the eighth subdivision of the bill of complaint, except such as are specifically admitted in this subdivision of the answer.

These defendants admit that on the 7th day of October, 1915, the plaintiff receivers filed with the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas a petition for rehearing, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit J. That later, and on the 10th day of December, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, after due notice and after a full and final hearing thereon, made and filed its opinion and order, a copy of which is attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit K. (Plaintiffs' bill, 222.)

Thereafter, and on the 22d day of December, 1915, the plaintiff receivers acquiesced in said order of said Commission and consented to and accepted the benefits thereof by filing a schedule of rates and rules in accordance with the permission therein given, a copy of which said schedule is attached to the bill of complaint and marked Exhibit M, and hereinafter set out for the convenience of the court. And thereafter, and on the 28th day of December, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas made and entered its order approving said schedule of rates and rules, and said schedule of rates became the lawful rates for the sale of gas by said plaintiff receivers within the State of Kansas, and said rules became the lawful rules under which said gas should be supplied. And thereafter the said plaintiff receivers put into force and effect said schedule of rates and have been ever since, and now are, charging rates in accordance with said schedule to their consumers in the State of Kansas, and accepting the benefits of said order of said Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, except that in the cities of Atchison, Topeka, Lawrence and Galena, and at Parsons and Pittsburg, the plaintiffs are failing to observe the said schedule approved by order of the Public Utilities Commission dated the 28th day of December, 1915, as to furnishing free gas to said cities, and in the cities of Independence and Coffeyville plaintiffs are not charging and collecting the rates prescribed in said order from their consumers in said cities.

IX.

These defendants deny each and all of the allegations in subdivision nine of the bill of complaint filed herein, except such as are admitted in this subdivision of the answer.

These defendants allege that the opinion and order of the Public Utilities Commission, referred to in said bill of complaint as Exhibit K, were made and entered after a full and complete hearing had before said Commission, and are based upon the evidence there adduced, and that the plaintiff receivers were present by their attorneys at all sessions of said Commission and participated in said hearing and had ample and full opportunity of presenting all evidence which they desired and full opportunity of cross-examining all witnesses, and that no evidence was considered by the Commission in making the findings of fact contained in said Exhibit K except such evidence as was so produced at said hearing.

The defendants deny that said engineer testified that he did not include going value or going-concern value or any value of the property for the cost of attaching the business or as a going concern, or that said engineer did not allow values for said items, and deny that the fair and reasonable going value or development cost of said plant was on January 1, 1915, or now is $2,637,400, and deny that the fair and reasonable value of said plant and property was on January 1, 1915, or now is more than the sum of $11,632,211, and deny that said plaintiffs are entitled to a return of ten per cent upon the investment in said property, and deny that said Commission did not allow any intangible value in connection with said property, and deny that said Commission did not consider more than $7,083,605.64 as the total value on which plaintiffs were entitled to earn a return, and deny that said Commission allowed no value for leaseholds derived by conveyance from Snyder, Barnsdall and

and deny that the life of said plant is only six years from January 1, 1915, and allege that said Commission in said Exhibit K, in ascertaining the income derived from the production of natural gas, showed said income to be $6,023,792.16 more than it actually was, but that this fact did not change the net income for the reason that an equal amount was included in the expenses of producing said gas in addition to the actual expense, thereby offsetting said item, and deny that the effect of this was to give the public the benefit of over $6,000,000 worth of gas without charge, and deny that the reasonable value of gas produced from said leaseholds up to and including December 1, 1914, was in excess of $6,023,792.16, and deny that said Commission erred in separating the property used in the production of natural gas from the property used in its transportation, and deny that the Commission erred in using 4 cents as the price to be paid for gas to be purchased in the future, and deny that such price will in the future be not less than 6 cents per thousand cubic feet, and deny that the Commission erred in estimating the increased revenue to be obtained on the schedule put in effect after the order of December 10, 1915, and deny that such increased revenue will be not more than $75,059.53, and deny that said Commission erred in estimating and fixing the amount of operating expenses and taxes as $510,536.14, and deny that the true amount required for these purposes is $800,000 per year, and deny that said Commission omitted any items of operating expenses; and these defendants deny that expenditures for making extensions to new fields are proper items of operating expense, and admit that the same were not included as such in the computations in Exhibit K, and deny that it will be necessary to expend $500,000 in the year 1916, and deny that it will be necessary to spend $200,000 in each year thereafter for such extensions; and these defendants deny that the Commission allowed depreciation only on $7,083,615.64, and deny that the true life of said plant is five years from January 1, 1916, and deny that $11,632,211, less $5,500,000, must be amortized during said time, and deny that said Commission allowed a return of only 6 per cent upon said investments, and deny that a return of less than 7 per cent on the value of the property employed in said business is unreasonable and confiscatory, and deny that the sum of $11,632,211 is the fair and reasonable value of the property upon which plaintiffs are entitled to earn a reasonable rate of return; and defendants allege that the true facts as to all of said matters are as hereinafter set forth in the third division of this answer.

These defendants do not know and are therefore unable to state the facts concerning the alleged valuations of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the States of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, as set out in the tenth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XI.

These defendants deny that the plaintiff receivers filed with the Public Utilities Commission the schedule of rates mentioned in the eleventh subdivision of said bill of complaint for the purpose of avoiding complications and litigations with the State of Kansas and the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and financial loss and suits for penalties under the statute of the State of Kansas, but allege the fact to be that the order of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas relating thereto merely gave the plaintiff receivers permission to file such schedule of rates and was not mandatory, and that such schedule was filed by the plaintiff receivers solely for the purpose of securing the benefit which would accrue to them in the increased price for natural gas sold by them, as such permission would be given when such schedule was filed, and that the laws of the State of Kansas would not in any manner have subjected the plaintiff receivers to complication, litigation, financial loss or suit for penalties if such schedules had not been filed.

These defendants specifically deny that the net income above operating expenses, taxes, repairs and accrued depreciation has not at any time during the time the plant in question has been operated amounted to a fair return on the investment.

XII.

These defendants specifically deny that there has been any decrease in gas pressure in the year 1915 as compared with the year 1914, and deny that the miscellaneous revenues for 1915 are less than those of 1914, and deny that future years will be less than for previous years, and deny that the table set out in the twelfth division of the bill of complaint correctly shows a comparison of the miscellaneous revenues for ten months of 1915 as compared with the same period of 1914.

XIII.

These defendants do not know whether or not expert engineers were employed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company to determine the life of the gas field, and do not know what investigations were made concerning said gas fields, or what reports, if any, were made by said engineers to the Kansas Natural Gas Company or to any other person.

These defendants allege that there is now and has been since the formation of the Kansas Natural Gas Company an ample supply of natural gas adjacent to its lines, which it could have secured without unreasonable expense.

These defendants deny the correctness of the map showing the trunk lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Quapaw and Wichita Gas Companies, and Oklahoma Natural Gas Company, together with the analysis of said map, attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit L, and deny that the cost of gas has increased during the past year at least one cent per thousand cubic feet, owing to the short duration of the gas pools and fields. These defendants have no knowledge of the exact per cent of the gas which is supplied by plaintiff to consumers in Kansas or Missouri which is secured from Oklahoma, but admit that a large per cent is there purchased.

These defendants deny that, owing to the financial condition of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, very few leases have been purchased by that company or by plaintiff receivers or that practically all of the gas secured from Oklahoma has been purchased in Oklahoma at a specified rate per thousand feet, but allege the fact to be that with proper and prudent management the company would have 260 been financially able to at all times make necessary and proper arrangements for procuring leases and for the purchase of gas.

The defendants do not know the per cent of gas which is lost through leakage, as alleged in said bill of complaint, but allege that if a large per cent thereof, as claimed in said bill of complaint, is actually so lost, that it is on account of the defective conditions of the lines of the plaintiff receivers or of such distributing companies, and that the Public Utilities Commission, in its opinion and order, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, marked Exhibit K, made due allowance for said leakage.

The defendants deny that all of the evidence shows that the probable life of the gas fields which may be profitably reached by the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is six years from January 1, 1915, but allege that the evidence shows and the fact is that the probable life of such gas field will be much longer than such six years.

The defendants specifically deny that the said six years as the life of said gas plant is also determined by the State of Kansas in the Creditors' Agreement, and deny that said period of six years was adopted as the probable life of said gas plant by the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas in its opinion of July 16, 1915, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint and marked Exhibit H.

These defendants specifically deny that the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company at the end of six years will have no value whatever, except as scrap; but allege, as stated above, the life of said gas fields and said plant is much longer than said six years, and that said plant at the end of such period will have a large and going value; and they further deny that at the end of said six-year period, or at the end of the life of said gas fields and the usefulness of said gas plant, the scrap value will not exceed $1,500,000, but allege that at such time such value will largely exceed such sum.

261 These defendants further deny that the difference between the total value of the plant as of date January 1, 1915, and the scrap value at the end of the life of the plant is $10,132,211; and deny that such sum must be amortized in five years from January 1, 1915; and deny that the revenues for the year 1915 have been insufficient to amortize any part of the plant value during 1915; and deny that it will require the sum of $500,000 for the first year and $200,000 per year for each of the succeeding four years in order to procure the annual additional supply of gas necessary to maintain the same volume of gas supplied to consumers as is now transported and distributed, and deny that nothing less than ten per cent per annum is a fair and reasonable rate of return on the property employed and used in said business; and deny that the table therein set out shows the true and correct amount of gross revenue which is necessary for this plant to obtain in order to meet operating expenses, repairs, secure future gas supply and provide for the amortization of the plant and a fair return on the property employed in the service.

XV.

These defendants deny that the table set out in the fifteenth division of plaintiffs' bill of complaint shows the correct amount of revenues which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce in the State of Kansas, and the revenues which the rates now in existence will produce in the State of Missouri; but alleges that table 5 in exhibit K to said complaint shows the correct amount of revenues which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce.

These defendants further deny all the other allegations of the fifteenth division of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XVI.

These defendants deny that the tables set out in the thirteenth and fifteenth subdivisions of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint are typical of the years of the remaining life of said plant; and further deny that any lower schedule of rates in the State of Kansas than those set out in Exhibit F of this petition will be unreasonable, unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory, or that the plaintiff receivers have been deprived of property without just compensation and without due process of law, or that they will continue to be so deprived of property in the transportation of gas to consumers in the State of Kansas unless the rates set out in such Exhibit F are put into effect; and these defendants deny that the said order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void or in contravention of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States and in interference with interstate commerce; and they further allege that the question as to whether the business conducted by the plaintiff receivers is or is not a business or commerce between various States of the Union has been fully and finally adjudicated adverse to the claim of the plaintiff receivers, as if fully set out in the fifth and seventh subdivisions above.

These defendants do not know whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company or said federal receivers or the plaintiff herein have or do deliver or sell gas to domestic consumers in the State of Oklahoma or conduct or carry on my business of or as a public utility therein.

XVII.

These defendants specifically deny that the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas provides and requires plaintiff receivers to furnish gas produced in Kansas to consumers in Kansas at such an unreasonably low rate as not to afford sufficient revenue to pay a fair return above operating expenses on the property employed in such service, and thereby imposes a burden upon interstate commerce; but allege the fact to be that the said receivers are not engaged in interstate commerce, as is fully set out in subdivision five of this answer.

These defendants deny that the plaintiffs have no adequate remedy in the premises, except such relief as may be obtained by applying to a court of equity; but allege the fact to be that the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission was a permissive order, and that these plaintiff receivers availed themselves of the authority therein granted to increase the rate at which gas is sold by them to their consumers within the State of Kansas; that said schedules of rates were voluntarily filed by said plaintiff receivers, and upon their approval by the Public Utilities Commission became the legal rates, which could not be changed without first having obtained the authority of the Public Utilities Commission, and that the plaintiffs' only remedy was by such application.

These defendants specifically deny all the other allegations of subdivision seventeen of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XVIII.

These defendants deny the allegations of the eighteenth subdivision of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XIX.

These defendants specifically deny every allegation of fact contained in the nineteenth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XX.

These defendants specifically deny every allegation of fact contained in the twentieth subdivision of the bill of complaint, but allege that they do not know what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of such Commission, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXI.

These defendants admit that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri held a conference with the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas at Kansas City, Mo., on or about the 27th day of September, 1915.

These defendants specifically deny each and every other allegation of fact in such twenty-first subdivision of the bill of complaint, except that they do not know what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of such Commission, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXII.

These defendants state that they are not informed and do not know concerning what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the effect of such orders, if any have been made, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants and specifically deny that any schedule or rate for natural gas below 37 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in Missouri, except St. Joseph, and that 26  $\frac{2}{3}$  cents for plaintiffs' proportion of gas delivered in St. Joseph is and will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory.

XXIII.

These defendants deny that plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law in the State of Missouri.

These defendants state that they do not know what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of such Commission, and they do not know what is the desire of the plaintiff receivers with reference to the furnishing of gas within the State of Missouri, or concerning the reasonableness of the rates charged in such State, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXIV.

These defendants deny all of the allegations of fact contained in the 24th subdivision of the bill of complaint, except that they state that they do not know what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the power and authority of such Commission, or what action such Commission has taken or proposes to take relative to gas supplied within that State by plaintiff receivers, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXV.

These defendants do not know and can not state concerning the alleged statutes of the State of Missouri which are set out in the twenty-fifth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XXVI.

These defendants do not know and can not state what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the effect of such orders, or the penalties provided for violating such orders, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXVII.

These defendants do not know and can not state what orders, if any, have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the effect of such orders, and do not know whether or not the plaintiffs have an adequate relief at law under the statutes of the State of Missouri, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXVIII.

These defendants admit that the application to the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas in 1912 resulted in no increase above 25 cents per thousand cubic feet, and that the application of April 9, 1915, resulted, on July 16, 1915, in an opinion that 28 cents per thousand cubic feet north of Montgomery county, Kansas, was sufficient, and that upon rehearing on December 10, 1915, permission was given the plaintiff receivers to put into effect the rates set out in Exhibit K attached to the bill of complaint, but deny that a majority of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas found such rates to be excessive.

XXIX.

These defendants do not know what rates, if any, have been prescribed for the sale and distribution of gas in the State of Missouri by these plaintiffs, but allege that the rates permitted by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas to be filed by authority of its order of December 10 are just and reasonable and will yield plaintiffs a just and reasonable return upon their property used and useful and devoted to the public use in the supplying natural gas to their consumers in the State of Kansas, and do not in any way interfere with the possession and control of this court over property potentially in its charge and custody.

XXX.

These defendants deny that the plaintiffs are without adequate remedy at law in the premises in the bill of complaint set forth, and deny that plaintiffs will suffer irreparable injury unless accorded the injunctive relief in the bill of complaint prayed for.

266

XXXI.

That the thirty-first subdivision of plaintiffs' bill of complaint consists of mere conclusions based upon previous averments of fact in said bill of complaint, all of which have been fully answered by the defendants herein, and which the defendants specifically deny.

XXXII.

These defendants allege that the allegations of the thirty-second subdivision of the bill of complaint, so far as the same relate to orders made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, are mere conclusions based upon allegations of fact theretofore made in such bill of complaint, all of which have been fully answered, but which these defendants now again specifically deny.

These defendants do not know what orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or what is the power and authority of that Commission, or the effect upon the plaintiff receivers of any orders which it may have made, but deny that any orders which may have been made by such Public Service Commission are material to any cause of action presented in the bill of complaint against these defendants.

XXXIII.

These defendants admit that the defendant distributing companies are furnishing gas to consumers in Kansas under contracts originally made with the Kansas Natural Gas Company, which contracts were assumed and adopted by the plaintiff receivers, and ever since their appointment the plaintiff receivers have been furnishing gas under the terms of such supply contracts; that such contracts were valid and binding in every respect and were entered into by all the parties with a full knowledge of all of the facts relating thereto, and that with careful and competent management the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff receivers would have been and would now be fully able to supply all the gas which they may have been required to furnish under the terms of such contracts.

These defendants specifically deny that any of the defendant cities within the State of Kansas are attempting in any manner to establish the rates at which gas is to be sold within said cities, or establish and provide the rules and regulations governing the sale and distribution thereof, but allege the fact to be that the said distributing companies are the agents of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the sale and distribution of said gas, and are under the control 267 and supervision of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas.

The defendants are not informed and have no knowledge that any contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and said distributing companies or any franchises granted by the defendant cities to said Kansas Natural Gas Company contain any provisions similar to those averred and set out in paragraph XXXIII of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint, or of which the same are typical; and further aver that if such provisions are contained in any of the said contracts or franchises that they are not sufficiently identified in plaintiffs' bill of complaint to enable the defendants to determine the truth of said averments.

The defendants specifically ask that the plaintiffs be put upon their proof as to such allegations and to all of the other averments of fact in the thirty-third subdivision of the said bill of complaint.

Third.

These defendants, having fully traversed and answered the bill of complaint filed herein, further answering, say:

I.

That in 1903 R. M. Snyder and associates formed a copartnership, known as the New York Oil and Gas Company, and acquired nearly 18,000 acres of gas leases, upon which they developed a supply of gas and secured a franchise to use the streets and alleys of Independence, Kan., to supply gas to the citizens thereof. During the same year said Snyder and associates obtained from the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company and the Independence Gas Company, corporations then owning a plant for the sale and distribution of gas in the city of Independence, an option to buy said plant in Independence and some 80,000 acres of leases located principally in the counties of Montgomery and Chautauqua, in Kansas, paying for said option the sum of $10,000. The full purchase price for said property was to be $550,000. During the same year R. N. Barnsdall and James O'Neil acquired about 90,000 acres of leases and brought in some producing gas wells thereon, located principally in Allen, Neosho, Wilson and Labette counties, Kansas, and organized the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

In 1904 the said Barnsdall and Snyder and their associates consolidated their propositions and increased the stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company from $6,000,000 to $12,000,000, and each group of associates transferred to the Kansas Natural Gas Company their various properties herein enumerated; the said Barnsdall and associates received for their property $6,000,000 of the capital stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Snyder and his associates received the remaining $6,000,000 of said capital stock. Said Snyder and associates received in addition thereto the sum of $900,000 in money, $540,000 of which was to be devoted to the payment of the balance of the purchase price of the properties of the Independence Gas Company and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company; that the $900,000 paid to Snyder and his associates was realized from the sale of the first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company; that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company thereafter acquired other leases, all of which said leases cost the said Kansas Natural Gas Company not to exceed $4,100,000, and said sum includes the value of all material used in the wells; and these defendants allege that all of the said leaseholds in the aggregate have not, during the time herein mentioned, been worth to exceed $4,000,000; that the value of the gas and oil marketed from said leases during all the years from the organization of the Kansas Natural Gas Company up to December 31, 1914, was not in excess of $6,652,944.83, and that the expenses in connection with the production of said oil and gas so sold from said leases was at least $3,630,171.48.

That the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company are in fact subsidiary companies to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the property of the three companies is one contiguous whole and all used in producing and transporting natural gas from the Mid-Continent gas fields to the consumers within the States of Kansas and Missouri; that all of said property is in the actual possession and being operated by these plaintiff receivers as one property, and will be hereafter referred to as one property under the name of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. The following table shows the amount of capital stock and bonds issued by each of these three companies:

Kansas Natural:

Common stock .....	$12,000,000
First-mortgage bonds .....	4,000,000
Second-mortgage bonds .....	4,000,000

Kansas City Pipe Line Company:

Stock .....	4,500,000
Bonds .....	4,745,000

Marnet Mining Company:

Stocks .....	2,500,000
Bonds .....	2,000,000

The statement shows that these companies have issued bonds of the face value of $14,745,000, for which they received $13,404,250. Of this amount $1,035,000 was invested by the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the bonds of the Marnet Mining Company, leaving a balance of $12,369,250 outside money actually received from the sale of said bonds.

Defendants allege that table 2 of Exhibit K of the bill of complaint is a statement showing the true and correct investment and property at the close of each year, together with the accrued depreciation and the net investment and division as between the transportation and production property of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company from the time it actually began business to December 31, 1914, a copy of which said table is herein set out for the convenience of the court.

II.

These defendants further answer and allege that from the time the said Kansas Natural Gas Company began its business, April 10, 1904, to December 31, 1914, that its revenues derived from its business were ample and sufficient to properly amortize its transportation and production property, to adequately maintain the same, and afforded the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, above such proper depreciation and maintenance, a return of 11.32 per cent per annum on the entire investment in said properties, as is more fully shown by tables 3 and 4, set out in Exhibit K attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, and which for the convenience of the court are here set out.

III.

These defendants, further answering, allege that the value of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company as a going concern in the hands of the plaintiff receivers, as found by the engineer of the Commission, on the 1st day of January, 1915, was $8,994,811.03; that said valuation is made up of the production and transportation properties of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company; that the following items, which compose the production property of the said company, are as follows:

Wells .....	$605,539.20
Leaseholds .....	1,126,359.34
Drilling and pulling tools .....	3,660.00
Warehouses, tools used in connection with wells....	56,379.53
Proper proportion of overhead expenses.....	119,205.39
Total deductions .....	$1,911,205.39

273 That for a number of years the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and at the present time the receivers thereof, have purchased a large percentage of the gas sold and distributed by said gas company and receivers; that said plaintiff receivers are now purchasing at least 75 per cent of all gas transported and sold or distributed by them, and are producing from their said leases not to exceed 25 per cent of the gas so transported, sold or distributed.

These defendants allege that the value of said leases and wells is speculative and can not be definitely fixed, for the reason that should said wells on said leases become exhausted in the near future, then the value of said leases would be much less than the present value thereof assigned to them by the Commission's engineer; that should additional wells, furnishing considerable quantities of gas, be brought in in the near future, then the real value of said leases would be considerably greater than the said assigned value; and for these reasons these defendants allege that the said producing property in the hands of the said receivers should be separated from the total value of the property in the hands of said receivers, and that the said receivers should be allowed for the gas actually produced by them from said leases the same price which they are compelled to pay in the open market for gas; that by so dividing said property the value of said leases and wells is automatically, accurately and correctly fixed, and provides the plaintiffs at all times with a reasonable rate for the gas produced therefrom.

These defendants allege that the value of said wells, leaseholds, drilling and pumping tools, and warehouse tools used in connection with such wells, and a proper proportion of the overhead expense in the aggregate, was estimated by the engineer of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas to be $1,911,205.39, as of January 1, 1915.

These defendants further allege that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas had no way of actually arriving at the true value of said leases, wells and other producing property other than as is herein explained, and therefore they assigned to it the estimated value placed thereon by the Commission's engineer, to wit, $1,911,205.39, for the purposes of the aforesaid division between the transportation and production properties, and deducted that amount from the total value of said property as found by the said engineer.

274 These defendants further allege that the present fair and reasonable value of the property used and useful for the transportation and distribution of natural gas in both Kansas and Missouri, and now in the possession of the plaintiff receivers, was, on January 1, 1915, the amount found by the Commission's engineer, less the said value of the leaseholds and other producing property assigned by Commission's engineer, to wit, the sum of $7,083,605.64.

These defendants had jurisdiction over only the property used in Kansas, and sought to provide only a reasonable return thereon to the receivers on such property as was used for supplying its consumers in Kansas, and that in order to accomplish this result it divided the value of the whole transportation property between Kansas and Missouri, as aforesaid, according to the uses made thereof in supplying the customers of the plaintiffs in the States of Kansas and Missouri. The method employed by these defendants in making such division is fully and completely set out in Table 1 of Exhibit K, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, but which is for the convenience of the court herein set out.

That the fair value of the transportation property used in transporting gas from the places of production to consumers within the State of Kansas, as shown by said table, is $3,221,379.49, which said amount these defendants allege is a fair value of the property in the possession of the plaintiff receivers used and useful in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas, and amounts to 45.48 per cent of the value of the transportation property.

These defendants further allege that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company began making its investments in the year 1905, and continued making such investments up to January 1, 1915; that a fair average date of the total investment is January 1, 1907, and that the life of said transportation property, from the first day of January, 1915, is not less than 12 years in the field in which it is now employed, and the defendants allege that notwithstanding the uncertainty of the supply of gas in parts of the Mid-Continent field, the amount of gas now being transported through said transportation property and available for said purposes to the plaintiff receivers is not greatly diminished from the largest amount heretofore transported by them through said lines, and was greater in the year 1915 than in the year of 1914, and that the said Mid-Continent gas 276 field is being constantly developed and extended and its total production at the present time is greater than in the past, and its full extent and capacity for production is still unknown.

These defendants allege that the order of the Public Utilities Commission of December 10, 1915, is based upon the past history and present condition of said Mid-Continent gas field and is not predicated upon a speculative decrease in the production of the said Mid-Continent gas field, and that the said basis is the only legal, fair and certain method of fixing said values and rates; that said rates complained of by the plaintiff receivers in their said bill of complaint were not, and could not legally be fixed by these defendants for a specific number of years, but are based upon the conditions as they actually exist at the present time, and should other and different conditions prevail at some future time, as is predicted by plaintiffs in their bill of complaint, then it would become the duty of the defendant, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, upon proper application, to fix rates applicable to that time and those conditions.

IV.

Plaintiff receivers in their bill of complaint rest their claim for the future needs of gas, their future operating expenses and maintenance, upon the amount of gas transported and sold by them during the year 1914, except that for the year 1916 they allege that they should be entitled to $500,000 for the extension of their pipe lines into other gas fields, alleging that the same is a proper maintenance charge, but which these defendants allege to be a capital charge.

These defendants allege that during the year 1914, the plaintiffs transported and delivered to their consumers in the States of Kansas and Missouri 18,199,544 M. cu. ft., and said amount is fully shown by the following table:

Sold from field lines.....	678,717 M. cu. ft.
Used in compressor stations.....	1,409,413 "
Sold from main-line taps.....	277,838 "
Sold through dist. companies.....	15,833,576 "
Total .....	18,199,544 M. cu. ft.

277 That to supply the same amount of gas in the future as was supplied during the year 1914 these plaintiff receivers would not need to buy or produce in excess of 25,671,445 M. cu. ft., making allowance for all leakage and waste in the same per cents as alleged in plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

These defendants further allege that the plaintiff receivers during the first nine months of the year 1915 sold more gas than during the similar months for 1914 and at only a slight increase in cost, as is more fully shown in detail by the following table:

*Includes expense Oklahoma field, which has been deducted from the expense of gas purchased and added to operating expense in other tables. This is not the actual price at the wells.

That the plaintiff receivers are able to purchase a sufficient quantity of gas at not to exceed four cents per thousand cubic feet at the wells, and that said receivers have not and are not paying for gas on the average to exceed four cents per thousand cubic feet at the wells, based upon the pressure at which said receivers sell gas to their consumers.

These defendants further answering allege that the total operating expenses of the said receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company's property for the year 1914 were $841,289.88, but that said operating expenses included the sum of $28,663.90 taxes paid by said receivers on a large sum of money on hand, which said sum has since been distributed under the so-called creditors' agreement, and that said sum so paid for taxes should be eliminated from an estimate for future operating expenses.

That the receivership expenses for the year 1914 were $137,463.11, which, however, cover a period of more than two years and 278 include the costs of expensive litigation, a large part of which said amount should not be allowed for future operating expenses.

These defendants allege that a reasonable amount for the services and expenses of said receivers and attorneys is not in excess of $40,000 per annum.

These defendants allege that the total operating expenses and taxes, based on the same expenses for the year 1914, should not be in excess of $812,625.98 per annum; that the total operating expenses of the entire plant operated in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, including a proper allowance for gas purchased, treating the gas produced upon the company's leases the same as that purchased, is not in excess of $1,936,794.67; that the total operating expense of the said plant after deducting therefrom the amount of expenses incurred directly in the production of gas, and in addition thereto a proper proportion of expense common to both the production and transportation, is not to exceed $1,626,652.83, which said amount is the total expense of obtaining, transporting and distributing gas; that the said $1,626,652.83 should be divided between Kansas and Missouri according to the use made of said property in transporting and delivering gas to plaintiffs' consumers within the States of Kansas and Missouri respectively.

That on this basis that portion of said expense which should be assigned to the State of Kansas would not exceed the sum of $780,269.57, all of which said allegations in reference to said operating expenses is more fully shown by the following table:

V.

280        These defendants further answering allege that the fair present value of the property in the possession and under the control of these receivers, and used and useful for transporting and distributing gas, as of January 1, 1915, is not in excess of $7,083,-605.64.

That the fair life expectancy of said property is at least twelve years from said January 1, 1915; that the amount necessary to completely amortize the present value of the said plant during the said life expectancy is not to exceed $590,300 per annum, which said amount should be divided between the States of Kansas and Missouri on the basis of the use of said property in transporting and distributing gas to the plaintiff receivers' customers within the said States of Kansas and Missouri; i. e., 45.48 per cent should be assigned to Kansas and 54.52 per cent should be assigned to Missouri, as is more fully set out in paragraph three of the third division of this answer.

These defendants allege that the total operating expenses and depreciation of said property properly assigned to Kansas is not in excess of $1,048,738.01 per annum, as is more fully and completely shown by Table No. 5 of plaintiffs' Exhibit K, attached to said bill of complaint; that part of said table showing the same is, for the convenience of the court, herein set out, and is as follows:

*The division of these items between Kansas and Missouri has been made on the basis of the use of the property. A table showing complete details of the method and values used is given as Table 1, exhibit K. This division assigns to Kansas 45.48% and to Missouri 54.52%.

These defendants allege that the plaintiffs are entitled to a rate which will pay all necessary operating expenses and properly amortize the property under their control used and useful in transporting and distributing gas to their consumers within the State of Kansas during the life expectancy of said property and provide a reasonable return upon the fair value of the said property so used, and that the public should not be required to pay a higher rate.

These defendants allege that during the year 1914 these plaintiff receivers sold to their consumers within the State of Kansas (a small amount of gas used in compressor stations was treated as a sale) gas of the value of $1,223,827.52 at the rates then in effect. On December 10, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission rendered its opinion and entered its order complained of by these plaintiff receivers in their bill of complaint.

Thereafter and on the 22d day of December, 1915, complainant receivers filed with the defendant, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, the following schedule of rates and rules:

"Notice to Consumers and Distributing Companies:

"Take notice that on and after the December, 1915, meter readings, at or near the close of the month of December, after the filing of this schedule with the Public Utilities Commission, John M. Landon and R. S. " 'Boiler Gas' for use under boilers, for making steam for power purposes at ten cents (10c) per thousand cubic feet in Montgomery county, Kansas, and at twelve and one-half cents (12½c) per thousand cubic feet at all points in Kansas outside of Montgomery county; provided, that the receivers will supply boiler gas only when, in their judgment, such use will not affect the domestic service. Gas used for purposes or in a manner different than as herein provided, shall carry the domestic rate of the locality where used.

"Two cents per thousand cubic feet will be added to the bills, but shall be deducted from the bills of all consumers who pay their bills on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month in which the service is rendered.

"All gas heretofore furnished to any person, firm, corporation or municipality, without compensation, commonly called 'free gas' is discontinued, and all such users heretofore using 'free gas' shall be required to pay for gas furnished in the future for the uses for which said 'free gas' was used, at the domestic rate herein provided 283     for the city or locality wherein such gas is used: Provided, that where gas is used for street lighting purposes, a charge will be made for one thousand cubic feet of gas per month for each lamp having a single burner where gas is turned off during daylight hours, and for two thousand cubic feet if left burning during the daylight hours; and a similar charge for each additional burner.

"The foregoing schedule of rates and joint rates is made and filed by said receivers under protest against the establishment and enforcement thereof, but in obedience to, in compliance with, and only because of the order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, made and entered on the 10th day of December, 1915; the grounds for this protest are, that said order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas is null and void because the business conducted by said receivers in the States of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri is interstate commerce, and said order an attempted regulation thereof; that as to the gas produced in Kansas, said rates are inadequate, insufficient, unremunerative, noncompensatory, confiscatory, wrongful and unlawful, and will not yield sufficient revenue to pay a fair return on the property employed in said service, and will deprive said receivers and all persons having rights therein of property without due process of law, and imposes a burden upon the interstate commerce conducted by said receivers; that as to the gas produced in Oklahoma and sold in Kansas, such rates are inadequate, insufficient, unremunerative, noncompensatory, confiscatory, wrongful and unlawful, and the enforcement thereof an interference with interstate commerce.

JOHN M. LANDON,
R. S. LITCHFIELD,

Receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Co."

Which said schedule of rates and rules on the 28th day of December, 1915, were approved by the defendant, the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, a copy of which said order is here set out for the convenience of the court:

"Be it Remembered: That on this 28th day of December, A. D. 1915, the application for approval of the schedule showing changes in rates and joint rates for natural gas supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and of the rules and regulations therewith filed, came duly on for consideration and order by the Commission; and the Commission, upon consideration thereof, and being duly advised in the premises, finds that said schedule of rates and joint rates, as filed, and the rules and regulations therewith filed, should be approved, with the modification of one of said rules as hereinafter set forth.

284 "The Commission further finds that the proviso in relation to 'boiler gas' and its use should be modified so as to read as follows:

" 'Provided, that the receivers will supply boiler gas to all users thereof, upon application and without discrimination, only when, in their judgment, such use will not affect the domestic service.'

"It is therefore by the Commission considered and ordered: That the said schedule showing changes in rates and joint rates for natural gas supplied by John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, as receivers for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the rules and regulations therewith filed, as above modified, be and they hereby are ratified, approved and confirmed.

"By order of the Commission.

That under the rates so filed and now in effect these plaintiff receivers will receive for the same quantity of gas sold and delivered the sum of $171,513.63 more than they received in 1914, or a total of $1,385,341.15. After paying all necessary operating expenses and taxes, including the amount paid for gas and the amount necessary to properly amortize the property, these plaintiff receivers will have a net return upon their Kansas business of $346,603.14, or 10.46 per cent, which is more fully shown by the latter part of Table 5 in Exhibit K attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, and which for the convenience of the court is herein set out:

285 These defendants allege that the rates authorized by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas in its order of December 10, 1915, and now in force and effect, yield these plaintiff receivers sufficient revenue to pay all necessary operating expenses, including the purchase of gas, to properly amortize the property and to pay a fair rate of return upon the value of the property used and useful and devoted to the public use by said receivers in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas, and to provide a reasonable margin to meet any future unforeseen contingency.

VII.

These defendants, further answering, allege that while the order of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas of December 10, 1915, and which plaintiff receivers are here attempting to set aside, is based upon the business of the said complainant receivers for the year 1914, but that the said complainant receivers, as is shown by the first nine months of their 1915 business, are able to purchase, transport and distribute a much larger quantity of gas than was purchased, transported and distributed by them during the year 1914, without materially increasing their said operating expenses, taxes and depreciation, and will be able to earn a much larger return than hereinbefore set out.

VIII.

These defendants, further answering, allege that these plaintiff receivers have not properly and efficiently managed the said properties in their possession and under their control, but have wasted the revenues of the company in interminable and expensive lawsuits. The leaseholds have been exhausted, and they have neglected to make proper effort to obtain an additional supply of gas necessary to meet the demands of the company's markets. Leases that were available for them have been obtained by other companies operating in the same field. That said receivers are now failing and neglecting to secure an adequate quantity of gas to supply their customers.

These defendants allege that the rates authorized by the Public Utilities Commission in its said order of December 10 will produce more revenue to these plaintiff receivers than any higher rate; that the present schedule of rates filed by the receivers under the 286 authority of the said order of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are reasonable and lawful and will prove themselves so to be if these receivers will in good faith operate the said plant in their possession and under their control for a reasonable length of time.

These defendants deny that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief whatsoever, or any part of the relief in said bill of complaint demanded, and allege that the plaintiffs have no standing in this court or in any court of equity.

And defendants pray in all things the same benefit and advantages of this, its answer, as if it had moved to dismiss said bill of complaint, and that a hearing be granted them upon the issues of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, as set forth in the first division of this answer, and that the bill of complaint be dismissed as against these defendants.

Second, that should the bill of complaint not be dismissed as against these defendants before a final hearing of this cause these defendants pray that the bill of complaint be dismissed as against them, and that they go hence without day, and that they have judgment for their costs.

Wherefore, the premises considered, this defendant, George F. Sharritt, as Receiver of The Kansas Natural Gas Company, prays the judgment of this Court granting all the relief prayed for in plaintiff's bill of complaint herein, and that the defendants, and each of them, by restrained and enjoined from interfering with plaintiffs' putting into effect reasonable rates for the sale of gas in Kansas and Missouri until such time as some competent authority shall establish reasonably remunerative and compensatory rates; and this defendant will ever pray.

No. 136-N.

JOHN M. LANDON and R. S. LITCHFIELD, as Receivers of the Kansas
Natural Gas Company, Plaintiffs,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Answer and Counterclaim of Kansas City Gas Company.

Now comes the defendant, Kansas City Gas Company, and in answer to the bill of complaint filed herein, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

I.

Defendant admits the facts stated in paragraph numbered I of plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

II.

Defendant admits the statement of facts in paragraph numbered II of said bill, except the allegation that "the pipelines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company are of little or no use unless they be operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company," as to which averment this defendant is without knowledge, and leaves plaintiffs to make such proof thereof as they may be advised is material.

III.

Defendant admits the statement of facts in paragraph numbered III of the bill.

IV.

Defendant admits the statement of facts in paragraph numbered IV of the bill.

V.

Defendant admits that on December 17, 1914, the stipulation or Creditors' Agreement attached to plaintiffs' bill was executed by the parties thereto, as stated in paragraph numbered V of the bill, and that natural gas is delivered to the consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, by this defendant as a distributing company under a written contract, and that the amount paid by the consumers for natural gas purchased, as measured by his meter, is divided between the plaintiffs and this defendant in payment of the services rendered by each according to the percentages set out in said contract, as alleged in paragraph V of the bill; as to the remaining averments thereof, this defendant is without knowledge and leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

VI.

Defendant admits that on December 30, 1912, this Court, in the equity suits described in the plaintiffs' petition pending in this court, fixed a schedule of rates for the sale of gas at various points supplied by the Federal receivers then in charge of said property, and that said schedule provided for a price of 31 cents per thousand 306½ cubic feet to this defendant at the city gates, and that this defendant was served with a copy of said order and a notice of such rates by said Federal receivers, and that said order was thereafter suspended as alleged in the plaintiffs' bill; as to the remaining averments of said paragraph, this defendant is without knowledge and leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

VII.

Defendant is without knowledge of the facts averred in paragraph VII of the bill, and therefore leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

XIX.

Defendant is without knowledge of the facts averred in paragraph XIX of the bill, and therefore leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

XX.

Defendant admits that the demands of the consumers are increasing in Kansas City, Missouri, and with such increased demand the problem of supplying the additional gas and also the amount heretofore furnished is a serious one; as to the remaining averments of paragraph XX, this defendant is without knowledge, and leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

311 in the distribution and sale of natural gas; as to the remaining averments of paragraph numbered XXXI of the bill, this defendant is without knowledge, and therefore leaves plaintiffs to their proper proofs.

XXXII.

Defendant is without knowledge of the facts averred in paragraph numbered XXXII of the bill, and therefore leaves plaintiffs to such proof as they may be advised is material.

XXXIII.

Defendant admits the statement of facts in paragraph numbered XXXIII of the bill; except that, whether the contracts referred to therein are improvident, wasteful and destructive of the estate in the custody of the courts, and whether said contracts are a legal and equitable fraud upon the rights of the creditors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and whether said contracts have never been adopted by the plaintiffs, this defendant is without knowledge, and therefore leaves plaintiffs to their proofs; but defendant avers that the supply-contract existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the supply of natural gas to this defendant has never been disavowed and never was fraudulent in law or in fact.

1. Defendant, Kansas City Gas Company, further states that it has an interest in the subject of the action arising out of the transactions which are the subject matter of the plaintiffs' suit set forth in the bill of complaint; that it also has an interest adverse to the plaintiffs and to certain defendants therein necessary to a proper and complete determination of the cause; and for its counterclaim against the plaintiffs and the defendants, Kansas Natural Gas Company, and George F. Sharitt, Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company appointed by this Court, states the following facts, to-wit:

2. That the defendant, Kansas City Gas Company, is a corporation, duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Missouri; and is engaged in the business of distributing and selling natural gas to the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and its inhabitants, under and pursuant to the following described ordinance of said city granting the use of the public streets for such purpose.

3. That on or about September 27, 1906, the mayor and common council of Kansas City, Missouri, duly passed, approved and caused to be published ordinance No. 33887 of said city, entitled: "An ordinance authorizing Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assigns, to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants"; that said ordinance and the franchises, rights and privileges therein granted was thereafter duly accepted by the grantees and has been since duly assigned, sold, transferred and conveyed to the Kansas City Gas Company, and said company is now the owner and holder of said ordinance and all the franchises, rights and privileges therein granted; a true and correct copy thereof being hereto attached, marked Exhibit "A," and made a part hereof.

4. That said franchise provides that natural gas shall be furnished, delivered and sold for all public and private purposes, meaning thereby lighting, cooking, domestic heating, industrial and power, boiler, manufacturing and street lighting purposes; that the general domestic rates should commence at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet and increase from time to time to 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and that the rates and charges for natural gas furnished and sold for power, boiler and manufacturing purposes should be determined from time to time by "special contracts" conditioned upon the contract rates of consumers in other communities similarly situated; that for the purpose of supplying and distributing natural gas to said city and its inhabitants, the grantees, their successors and assigns, were "authorized to acquire the ownership or use or control, by purchase, lease, agreement or otherwise, of the pipes and property of the Kansas City, Missouri, Gas Company, the consent of the city being hereby given to said company, its successors and assigns, to make such transfer, lease or disposition of its pipes or property to the grantees, and during the time the pipes and property of said company shall be in the possession or under the control of the grantees, said company, its successors and assigns, shall be relieved of any obligation to supply manufactured gas."

5. That said ordinance, in section 20 thereof, contained the following provisions:

"And grantees covenant that their contract for gas supply is with the Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company (corporations), that under the terms thereof, after two years from the time natural gas is first furnished to Kansas City thereunder, the division of the gross income received for said gas between the distributing company and the supply company shall be in the proportion of thirty-seven and one-half cents out of each dollar to the former, and sixty-two and one-half cents to the latter; and covenant for themselves, their successors and assigns, that none of the terms of that contract agreement shall be changed without consent of Kansas City expressed by ordinance; and grantees agree for themselves, their successors and assigns, that if Kansas City shall acquire said plant and property they will on demand transfer free of cost to Kansas City all their rights under said contract; and grantees further agree to procure from said two corporations and file with the City Clerk within ninety days from the time this ordinance becomes a law, a written agreement in form to be approved by the City Counselor, agreeing that they (said two corporations) will, if Kansas City shall acquire said plant as aforesaid, upon demand, furnish and continue to furnish during the remaining period of this franchise gas to Kansas City on the same terms as they have agreed to furnish it to the grantees, their successors and assigns. If said proposed within agreement to be made by said two corporations is not filed with the City Clerk within the time specified this ordinance shall be null and void."

6. That said supply-contract has been approved by the city counselor in the manner provided for, and all the terms and provisions of said section above quoted have been complied with; and by reason thereof, this defendant cannot consent to any modification, alteration or change in said supply-contract without the consent and approval of the corporate authorities of Kansas City, Missouri, which has not been obtained.

7. That this defendant obtains its natural gas from the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers under and pursuant to certain contracts in writing above referred to in said ordinance, dated November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, party of the first part, and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, parties of the second part; which said contracts have been duly assigned, sold and transferred by the party of the first part to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the obligations thereof assumed by said company, and by the parties of the second part to the Kansas City Gas Company; true and correct copies of said contracts being hereto attached, marked Exhibits "B" and "C," respectively, and made a part hereof.

8. That before the Kansas Natural Gas Company went into the hands of receivers, it supplied gas under said contracts to this defendant, and ever since then the receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company have continued to supply this defendant with gas under said contracts, and said contracts have never been disavowed.

9. Defendant, Kansas City Gas Company, states and shows to the Court that the whole project, plan and scheme and undertaking of the natural gas business of plaintiffs and this defendant originally contemplated, undertook and provided for the furnishing and supply by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the distribution and sale by the Kansas City Gas Company of natural gas for three purposes, to-wit: First, lighting and cooking; second, domestic heating; third, boiler, power and manufacturing purposes; that the transportation lines and system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the distribution system of the Kansas City Gas Company were designed, planned and constructed to that end; that the aforesaid franchise granted by the City of Kansas City, Missouri, to the predecessors of the Kansas City Gas Company contemplated and provided for the sale of natural gas for all public and private uses, including the purposes aforesaid; that said franchise purported to fix a schedule of rates for domestic lighting, cooking and heating, and provided for the sale of said gas for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes at special contract rates.

10. That the aforesaid supply-contracts existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers contemplated and provided for the furnishing, distribution and sale of said natural gas for said three purposes, and made specific reference to said franchise ordinance and the provisions thereof for the sale of natural gas for all public and private purposes, including the three general purposes aforesaid; that said contracts set forth that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its associates were the owners of gas-lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas and a pipe-line for the conveying of natural gas from said fields to the city of Kansas City, Missouri, and that it was desirous of entering into contract with the predecessors of the Kansas City Gas Company for the transportation and supply of natural gas to said company and its predecessors; that said McGowan, Small and Morgan were the owners of the aforesaid franchise ordinance in Kansas City, Missouri, granting the use of the public streets for the distribution of natural gas, said ordinance being referred to in said supply-contract marked Exhibit "1," and made a part thereof.

11. That said supply-contracts further provided:

"1. The party of the first part hereby agrees that it will, during the period of such ordinance, or any extension or renewal thereof, or of any ordinance which may be obtained, either in the interest of the parties of the second part, or of their property, supply and deliver through its said pipe line or lines, to said parties of the second part or any successor in the ownership of the property for the distribution of gas for Kansas City, Missouri, at a pressure of twenty (20) pounds at the point of delivery above mentioned, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in this contract, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned.

However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all consumers.

2. It is hereby agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part may make special contracts for the sale of natural gas for manufacturing purposes in said city at lower rates than those specified in said ordinance.

In order to protect the domestic trade, however, the parties of the second part may, without notice, if the supply of natural gas shall make it necessary to do so, reduce the amount of such gas to be furnished under any such special contracts or entirely stop the supply of the same, and the agreement of the party of the first part herein to furnish a full supply of natural gas shall not apply to such gas to be sold for manufacturing purposes if the same shall impair its ability to furnish a full supply under this contract as to pressure, etc., for the domestic trade, excepting, however, that the parties of the second part shall always have a right to sell natural gas to manufacturers at the same rates and under the same terms and conditions as to domestic consumers, and the parties of the second part may without notice diminish the amount of gas supplied under such contract or entirely stop the same.

So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the parties of the second part agree to buy from the party of the first part all the gas they may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said city and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which they shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent of their gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said city of Kansas City, Missouri, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent of such gross receipts."

12. Defendant avers that the franchise ordinance No. 33887 of the city of Kansas City, Missouri, aforesaid, specifically referred to the source of supply and the contracts now existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the transportation and supply of natural gas; and that said supply-contracts referred to and exhibited said ordinance No. 33887 of Kansas City, Missouri; and that by reason thereof, said supply-contracts and said ordinance must be read and construed together as constituting the agreement between the parties relative to the furnishing 319 and supplying of natural gas and the purposes therefor, and that as so read and construed, the said Kansas Natural Gas Company contracted, agreed and undertook to supply, furnish and deliver to McGowan, Small and Morgan, Grantees, and their successors and assigns, the Kansas City Gas Company, the City of Kansas City, Missouri, consenting and agreeing thereto, natural gas for public and private use, including all lighting, cooking, domestic heating, industrial and power, boiler and manufacturing purposes, during the period of said franchise and "at a pressure of twenty pounds at the point of delivery," "at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri," and "in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in this contract."

13. Defendant further states and shows to the Court that at a very early point in the history of the natural gas business the Kansas Natural Gas Company failed and defaulted in its undertaking to furnish to this defendant, the Kansas City Gas Company, a sufficient supply of gas to be sold on special rate contracts for power, boiler and manufacturing purposes, as aforesaid; that soon thereafter said company commenced to fail and default in furnishing a sufficient quantity of natural gas and at sufficient pressure to fully supply the demand for domestic heating purposes; that such failure and default has continued and increased in amount and duration from winter to winter from 1910-11 to the present time; that in the year 1910, the Kansas City Gas Company was supplied by said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and thereby enabled to deliver and sell 970,389 thousand ceived and been permitted to sell no power, boiler or manufacturing gas whatever; that in the winter of 1910-11 this defendant was furnished by the Kansas Natural and thereby enabled to sell 55 million cubic feet of natural gas per day on maximum demand days; that the decrease and diminution in supply has continued until the present winter of 1915-16, when this defendant is receiving and is therefore enabled to furnish and sell only 16 million cubic feet of gas a day on maximum demand days; that the demand for such natural gas is very great and the number of consumers applying and meters installed is constantly increasing and the supply of natural gas by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers is constantly waning, and the pressure maintained and the amount of natural gas available is so unstable and unreliable that domestic heating stoves, furnaces and ranges, and industrial and cooking establishments have in very large part at this time ceased to use said natural gas.
320 cubic feet of gas for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes; that the supply for such purposes decreased from time to time until 1913, after which time this defendant has r

14. That the amount of natural gas furnished by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers from year to year since the beginning of the natural gas business, for manufacturing, boiler and power purposes sold at special contract rates by the Kansas City Gas Company, and the price per thousand cubic feet, and the gross receipts therefor, and the net income therefrom to the Kansas City Gas Company is shown by the following table:

16. Defendant avers that by reason of the premises it has lost all of its power, boiler and manufacturing gas business; that it has lost the major portion of its domestic heating and furnace gas business, and that it has lost a very considerable part of its domestic lighting and cooking business; all by reason of the failure and default of the 323      Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers to furnish, supply and deliver to the Kansas City Gas Company an adequate and sufficient supply of gas to meet the demands of its consumers, as per the terms, conditions and provisions of said supply-contracts and said franchise referred to therein and made a part thereof.

17. Defendant further avers that the volume of business obtainable and done by it upon the supply of natural gas furnished by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers is wholly inadequate and insufficient to afford a fair return upon the reasonable value of defendant's property used and useful in the service of the public at the rates and charges now in force in said city; that said supply-contracts were entered into and said franchise accepted, and the domestic rates therein set forth were put into effect and undertaken by this defendant, upon the representations and inducement of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its associates and upon the supply-contracts aforesaid, that said Company and its associates and their successors and assigns, including the Receivers, plaintiff herein, would at all times furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of natural gas to enable this defendant to furnish, distribute and sell the same in sufficient quantities for all proper and efficient lighting, cooking, domestic heating, furnace, industrial and power, boiler and manufacturing purposes; that by reason of the failure and default of said company and its Receivers so to do this defendant has heretofore and is now sustaining great and irreparable loss and damage; that it is being subjected to continuous and repeated criticisms, public assaults by the press and derogatory and damaging statements incurring public disfavor and ill-will; that its income from the limited sales and insufficient supply of gas is little more than 323¼ enough to pay current operating expenses and taxes, with nothing for renewal reserve for depreciation, or for interest and business profits.

18. Defendant further avers that the Kansas Natural transportation system is so constructed, maintained and operated that, in periods of extreme cold weather when the demand for heating and furnace gas is very great, the numerous other cities and distributing companies on said system receive from the mains of the Kansas Natural Gas Company a far greater proportion of the total supply available than they do in moderate weather; that by reason thereof, there is but little natural gas left for this defendant in proportion to the number of meters in use in the other cities compared with the number of meters in use in the city of Kansas City, Missouri; that by reason thereof, the returns from the domestic meters in use in said other cities in the year 1915 ran as high as $37.50 per year in some cases, while the returns from the meters in Kansas City, Missouri, due to shortage and inadequate service, as aforesaid, amounted to only $27.93 per year in 1915, resulting in an inequitable apportionment and distribution of the available supply of natural gas, and preferential and discriminatory service in favor of the consumers in other cities as against the consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

19. A table showing the number of meters in use, the sales per meter, the rate and the return per meter during the year 1914 in the various cities on the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is as follows:

Table

City.	Number of meters.	Sales per meter.	Rate.	Return per meter.
Joplin .....	5,517	112,000	25¢	$28.00
Leavenworth .....	3,543	113,000	25¢	28.25
Lawrence .....	3,432	139,000	25¢	35.00

Atchison .....	2,524	105,000	25¢	26.25
Kansas City, Missouri	58,381	97,030	27¢	26.61

20. That when natural gas was supplied in sufficient quantities to meet the demands of the consumers on the whole system, including Kansas City, Missouri, the consumption in Kansas City, Missouri, per meter, was substantially the same, if not greater, than in the other cities.

21. Defendant further avers that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have sold and continue to sell power, boiler and manufacturing gas at special contract rates in other cities in southeastern Kansas and southwestern Missouri since they have refused to permit this defendant to so sell power, boiler and manufacturing gas in Kansas City, Missouri; that by reason thereof, the net returns and income of this defendant have been greatly diminished and reduced and this defendant has been discriminated against in favor of other companies, cities, localities and consumers in that respect.

324 22. Defendant further states and shows to the Court that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have from time to time held out inducements and promises to this defendant that they would furnish a better, increased and more efficient and sufficient supply of natural gas; that by reason thereof, this defendant has borne and endured the losses in income, criticisms and damages aforesaid, but can no longer afford so to do, for the reason that this defendant is entitled in law and in equity and under existing contracts and franchises to demand and earn just compensation and fair returns upon its property used and useful in the service of the public.

23. Defendant further avers that this defendant never agreed nor undertook to furnish natural gas during the whole term of the aforesaid franchise ordinance No. 33887, but on the contrary, it was foreseen, contemplated and provided in said franchise ordinance that there might and in all probability would be, before the end of the term of said franchise, a final failure and end to the supply of natural gas, as follows:

"Should the supply of natural gas, obtainable by the grantees reasonably accessible, be at any time hereafter during the life of this ordinance inadequate to warrant them in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of this ordinance, * * * they shall not be longer required to do so."

24. That at the time said natural gas franchise ordinance was passed and accepted it was a matter of common knowledge that said natural gas must be transported from the Mid-Continent field in eastern Kansas or from more distant points; that the grantees of said franchise must obtain natural gas by purchase or contract from some transportation company carrying natural gas from said field;

325 that said grantees and their assignee, the Kansas City Gas Company, would be wholly dependent upon said supply company, and that they could not, on their own account, contract or undertake to furnish a supply of natural gas for the term of said franchise or for any given period of time at any given rates; that by reason thereof, said supply-contracts specifically provided that:

"However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying."

25. That said supply-contracts were referred to and made a part of said franchise-ordinance No. 33887, and said franchise-ordinance was referred to and made a part of said supply-contracts; that by reason thereof, the City of Kansas City, Missouri, is a party and privy in contract with the Kansas Natural Gas Company in said supply-contracts.

26. That said contracts and franchise were construed by the United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri in the case of Kansas City Gas Co. v. Kansas City et al., 198 Fed. 500, in a suit prosecuted by said City to force the Kansas City Gas Company to furnish more gas and at a higher pressure, wherein the Court said:

"The gas franchise or contract between the city and the gas company does not require the gas company to furnish gas in all desired quantities at all times or under all conditions. Natural gas is more or less elusive, unstable and uncertain. It is produced by nature in indeterminate quantities, not by man according to fixed or controllable laws of production, and if the supply of natural gas fails, that would constitute a defense for the gas company if it 326 has made all efforts to furnish the gas. Its situation is different from that of a company supplying artificial gas."

27. In the opinion the Court pointed out that the Kansas City Gas Company "does not control its source of supply"; that its supply is from the Kansas Natural Gas Company, "a distinct corporation with which it has a contract," referring to the contracts hereto attached; that said supply-contract was referred to in said ordinance; that "it was expressly approved by the city's legal department," and that the city was bound by the terms, conditions and provisions thereof.

28. That said contracts and ordinances were again construed by the Supreme Court of the State of Missouri in the case of State ex inf. v. Kansas City Gas Co., 254 Mo. 533, wherein it was held that the Kansas City Gas Company is not a transportation company obligated to furnish and supply natural gas, but a "natural gas distributing corporation," and its duty extends only to distributing such natural gas as may be furnished it by the Kansas Natural Gas Company. In the opinion, the Court said:

"A possible failure of natural gas in accessible regions, with a return to the use of artificial gas, was contemplated, or at least provided for in such contingency."

29. Defendant states that it is ready, willing and able to distribute all the natural gas demanded by its consumers that said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers will furnish and deliver to it at the corporate limits of Kansas City, Missouri, as provided for in said supply-contracts; that it is not warranted and can no longer afford to distribute and sell the limited, insufficient and inadequate supply of natural gas furnished and delivered to it by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiffs.

327 30. Defendant avers that by reason of the premises, the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers should be required by this Honorable Court to furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of natural gas for all the purposes contemplated and provided for in said supply-contracts and the ordinance made a part thereof by reference, to-wit: lighting, cooking, domestic heating, industrial and power, boiler and manufacturing purposes; and to discontinue and prevent the discrimination against this defendant as to the quantity of gas apportioned and supplied to it as aforesaid.

31. Defendant further states and avers that it has no other plain, adequate, full and complete remedy at law; that its rights and interests are embraced and involved in the cause of action set forth in the plaintiffs' bill of complaint; that it has an interest in the subject of the action and the relief demanded, and that it has an interest adverse to the plaintiffs and certain of the defendants, and that a decision of its rights is necessary to a complete determination of the cause set forth in the plaintiffs' bill; and by reason thereof, this defendant files this, its answer and counterclaim in this Honorable Court where alone full, adequate and equitable relief can be had.

Wherefore, the premises considered, the defendant, Kansas City Gas Company, prays this Honorable Court that the plaintiffs, the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the defendant, George F. Sharitt, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, be ordered and required to furnish, supply and deliver to this defendant at 328 or near the corporate limits of Kansas City, Missouri, at a pressure of twenty pounds, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in said contract and the franchise made a part thereof by reference, to-wit: for lighting, cooking, domestic heating, power, boiler and manufacturing purposes; and for a uniform and equitable apportionment and distribution of said gas; and for such other and further relief as to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just; and for its costs herein expended.

*Answer of Defendants John T. Barker, Attorney-General of the State of Missouri; William G. Busby, Counsel of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri; The Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and John M. Atkinson, Edwin J. Bean,

These answering defendants above named, now and at all times hereafter, saving and reserving to themselves all and all manner of benefits and advantages of exceptions which may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, imperfections and insufficiencies in the plaintiffs' said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto, or unto so much or such parts thereof as these defendants are advised that it is material or necessary for them to make answer unto, answering, say:

That this answer is divided into three principal parts, the first consisting of such defenses as rest upon want of lawful process on these defendants, and such other defenses in point of law as arise upon the face of the bill of complaint on account of misjoinder and insufficiency of fact to constitute a valid cause of action in equity, as herein after more particularly appears, and upon which these defendants above named will ask for a hearing before the final hearing of this cause upon the facts; and second, a statement in answer to the averments of said bill of complaint and a denial of such matters as are denied by these defendants; and third, a statement of affirmative matters which it is averred by these defendants constitute defenses to the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein.

First.

I.

These answering defendants above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, aver that said bill of complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, for that the plaintiffs in paragraphs I to XX, both inclusive, of their bill of complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said bill of complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and other Kansas defendants, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

These defendants, further answering, aver that in the paragraphs of plaintiffs' bill of complaint after paragraph XX, including the said paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, heretofore mentioned, aver and set forth that because the pipe lines and other property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company extend into Oklahoma and Missouri, that the same should be treated as a whole or as one unit, and that the character of its business is wholly interstate and not of a local character in Kansas and Missouri; and that said Commissions of the States of Kansas and Missouri are jointly interested in allocating the value of the property used in such State- for supplying gas, for the purpose of determining what is a legal charge or rate thereon for service; and that in paragraph XXI of said bill of complaint it is averred that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has determined that it will allow no rate or charge for supplying gas in the western cities of Missouri higher than is charged in the eastern cities of Kansas, and that said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has suspended certain rates sought to be put into operation by the plaintiffs herein as receivers of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company; and it is averred in paragraphs XXII to XXVII of said bill of complaint that the 332 aforesaid acts of the Missouri Public Service Commission are unlawful and confiscatory, and that because of said facts so averred in said paragraphs after paragraph XX of said bill of complaint show that the causes of action and grounds for relief in equity attempted to be set forth as against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and their several attorneys and officers, are related to each other and of joint interest and concern to the plaintiffs and these several defendants; but these answering defendants aver that said pretended cause or causes of action are not related to each other to any extent that would allow them to be joined in one bill of complaint in this court and that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas or its attorney or officers are not responsible for nor interested in any way in any action of the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri or its attorneys and officers, and that these answering defendants have no common interest in the cause or causes of action, or the subject or subjects, of the action, or the relief demanded in said bill of complaint, as to the causes of action attempted to be set up in said bill of complaint against said Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas or its attorneys or officers or the other Kansas defendants joined in said bill, and that there are no other averments or allegations in said bill of complaint which shows that said causes of action, or any other causes of action attempted to be set forth in plaintiffs' bill of complaint, or any other of the several causes of action and grounds for complaint, can be properly joined in one bill of complaint in this court; and these defendants ask that upon hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, that said bill of complaint, for this reason, be dismissed against these answering defendants because of said misjoinder of causes of action therein.

II.

These answering defendants above named, further answering the bill of complaint herein, aver that it does not appear from said bill of complaint why defendant John T. Barker, as Attorney-General of the State of Missouri, is made a party to said bill of complaint, except upon the theory of law that it is the official duty of said attorney-general, under the general laws of said State, as its chief law officer, to enforce the laws thereof and all legal orders made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri establishing rates for public service corporations and public utilities, but these answering de-333 fendants say that the Public Service Commission Law of Missouri, approved March 17, 1913, provides that all such orders of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri shall be enforced and defended by the Counsel of said Commission and that by reason thereof the defendant John T. Barker, as such attorney-general, is not a necessary or proper party defendant herein and these defendants move that this cause be dismissed, as to him.

III.

These answering defendants above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, aver that said bill of complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, for that the plaintiffs, in paragraphs I to XX, both inclusive of their bill of complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said bill of complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and other Kansas defendants, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory, and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

The answering defendants further aver that in paragraph XXXIII of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint it is averred and set forth that the Kansas Natural Gas Company prior to the appointment of the plaintiff receivers herein had been delivering gas to certain distributing companies in Kansas and in Missouri under and by virtue of certain written contracts made by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company with said distributing companies, and certain contracts which are alleged to be typical ones are set forth and described in the said paragraph of the bill of complaint; and it is further averred that said contracts were made the basis of certain franchises granted by the defendant cities in the States of Missouri and Kansas to said distributing companies and to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the purpose of delivering and distributing gas in said Missouri and Kansas cities, and that said cities, both in Missouri and Kansas, are attempting to regulate, control and fix the price at which the plaintiff may sell natural gas furnished by them to their patrons in violation of said contracts; and it is further averred and set forth that said contracts are illegal and unreasonable and should be set aside 334 and the plaintiffs relieved from complying with the terms thereof, both as to the Kansas cities and towns situated in the State of Missouri.

These answering defendants further aver that these defendants have no common interest in the cause of action or the subject thereof, or the relief demanded, based on the facts averred in said paragraph XXXIII of the bill of complaint as to the defendant cities in the State of Kansas, and that neither in said paragraph XXXIII nor in any other part of the bill is it disclosed that the plaintiff is entitled to any relief in equity against the cities and distributing companies of the State of Kansas in which these answering defendants are interested or in any way related, and these defendants ask that upon the hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the bill of complaint that it be held that there is a misjoinder of causes of action as to the matters herein set forth, and that the bill of complaint for this reason be dismissed as against them.

IV.

These answering defendants for their further defense aver that the bill of complaint and record herein reveal that they are and were at the time the subpoena herein was issued and served on them public officials of the State of Missouri, performing the duties of their respective offices within and for said State; that they are and were at such times citizens and residents of the Western District of Missouri, and not citizens or residents of the District of Kansas, and that said subpoena was served upon them outside of the District of Kansas, and in Cole County, State of Missouri, and is and was not a valid, legal, service of process upon these defendants in this cause; that this court is without jurisdiction of these defendants, and they move a dismissal of this cause as to these defendants.

V.

These answering defendants further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein aver that said bill of complaint reveals upon its face that this court is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the pretended causes of action therein averred, for the reason that it appears from said bill that the plaintiffs are not without adequate relief in the due course of law for any rights or remedies due them or for the redress of any wrongs complained of under the laws and the statutes of the State of Missouri, and that said plaintiffs have not pursued the remedies provided for them by said laws, and that therefore said bill of complaint fails to show any equitable cause for relief in favor of the plaintiffs and against these answering defendants.

VI.

These answering defendants for their further defense aver that the bill of complaint and the record in this case reveal that the plaintiffs cannot recover and are not entitled to the relief prayed for in said bill of complaint, on the grounds that the plaintiff receivers are engaged wholly in interstate commerce and that the properties of said company are instrumentalities of interstate commerce and not subject to the local laws of the States of Missouri and Kansas, the police power thereof, and not within the jurisdiction of the defendant Public Service Commission of said State of Missouri, for the following reasons, to wit:

First, that it appears from said bill of complaint that said receivers were appointed in a proceeding had in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, upon a petition filed by the Honorable John

S. Dawson, attorney-general of said State, January 5, 1912, against the Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., which said petition and all the files and proceedings of this case, to wit, No. 13,476, are made a part of the bill of complaint and the record in this case, at paragraph 3 thereof; that suit was begun by the attorney-general of the State of Kansas for the purpose of enforcing the criminal laws and the other statutes of Kansas imposing penalties against persons and corporations who, being engaged in local business in said State, had formed or entered into combinations with others in said local business in the restraint of trade or for the purpose of securing a monopoly therein, as well as for other purposes more fully set out in said bill of complaint at paragraph 4 thereof, and that said petition contains the following allegations, to wit:

"That plaintiffs allege that the above-named defendants, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation, et al., and each of them, have entered into a series of unlawful arrangements, contracts, 336 agreements, trusts, combinations with each other in violation of the laws of the State of Kansas with a view to prevent, and are done to prevent, full and free competition in the production and sale of natural gas within the State of Kansas, which product is an article of domestic raw material produced in large quantities in Montgomery county, Kansas, and elsewhere in southern Kansas, and is an article of trade and commerce, and is an aid to commerce, which arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts and combinations are in restriction and restraint of the full and free operation of divers and various lines of legitimate business authorized and permitted by the laws of the State of Kansas, and are a perversion, misuse and abuse of the corporate powers and privileges granted to them, and each of them, by the State of Kansas, as above set forth, and all of which is more particularly set forth as follows:"

That said petition, after alleging the purchase of the Independence Gas Company, a corporation, and The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, a corporation, by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, contained the following allegation:

"That said The Independence Gas Company and The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, defendants, were at all times mentioned herein public service corporations of the State of Kansas and were without authority under the law to sell and dispose of their entire properties, franchises and means of performance of their duties to the public in and about the production, transportation, delivery and sale of natural gas to the inhabitants of the State of Kansas; and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, in pursuance of said unlawful, wrong agreement, understanding, arrangement, purpose and intent, has ever since been and is now in exclusive possession and control, and claims to own all gas, leases, franchises and property of every kind and character, as aforesaid, that were used, owned and employed by said other corporations, defendants, and said partnership, in and about the production, transportation, distribution, delivery and sale of natural gas to the said inhabitants of the State of Kansas, but such posses-

To which petition the Kansas Natural Gas Company, May 21, 1912, filed its answer, in which it denied each and every, all and singular, the allegations and averments of the said petition, and these defendants aver that thereupon an issue was joined in said case as to whether the Kansas Natural Gas Company was engaged in domestic or intrastate commerce in the State of Kansas, and that whether, being so engaged, it had violated the laws of the state made in conformity to and in pursuance of its police power prohibiting combinations in restraint of said trade.

The plaintiffs further aver that a trial of said issue was had with the other issues of said cause, beginning September 30, 1912. The attorney general for the State of Kansas, as attorney for the plaintiff in said cause, in defining the issues of said case, made the following statement:

"These defendants are charged civilly with perversion of their corporate privileges because they have entered into a combination and trust to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas, which product is an article of domestic raw material, an article of trade and commerce and an aid to commerce in this state."

The attorney for the defendant The Kansas Natural Gas Company in said cause, in his opening statement, said:

"We particularly deny that anything that is shown or that will be shown has any of the elements of a combination or trust or monopoly. I don't care to add anything further, but the questions to be read will show in detail, I think, more accurately just exactly what has transpired."

These defendants further aver that on the trial of said cause the Honorable T. J. Flannelly, judge of said court, who presided at said trial, determined all of the issues arising upon the pleadings and statements of the defendants against the contentions of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and held and determined it to be guilty of violating the laws and police regulations of the State of Kansas made for the purpose of prohibiting trusts and combinations

338 in domestic commerce, and in passing upon the particular question raised by said pleadings as to whether said company was engaged in domestic commerce and had made a combination in restraint of said trade, the said Hon. T. J. Flannelly, in his opinion and findings filed in said cause, said:

"Is the defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a monopoly and has it and other defendant corporations entered into a trust and combination to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas?"

"Section 5185, General Statutes of Kansas. (chap. 257, Laws of 1889) provides:

"That all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations made with a view or which tend to prevent full and free competition in the importation, transportation or sale of articles imported into this State, or in the product, manufacture, or sale of articles of domestic growth or product of domestic raw material, or for the loan or use of money, or to fix attorneys' or doctors' fees, and all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations, designed or which tend to advance, reduce or control the price or the cost to the producer or to the consumer of any such products or articles, or to control the cost or rate of insurance, or which tend to advance or control the rate of interest for the loan or use of money to the borrower, or any other services, are hereby declared to be against public policy, unlawful and void.

"This act was followed by the act of 1897, which the supreme court of the State of Kansas, in the case of State v. Lumber Company, 83 Kan. 339, said was intended by the legislature to supplement, not repeal, the law of 1889.

"In section 5142, General Statutes of Kansas, 1909, being section 1 of chapter 265, Laws of 1907, the legislature defines a trust as follows:

"A trust is a combination of capital, skill, or acts by two or more persons, firms, corporations, or associations of persons, or either two or more of them, for either, any or all of the following purposes:

First, to create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce, or aids to commerce, or to carry out restrictions in the full and free pursuit of any business authorized or permitted by the laws of this State. Second, to increase or reduce the price of merchandise, produce or commodities or to control the cost or rates of insurance. Third, to prevent competition in the manufacture, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to prevent competition in aids to commerce. Fourth, to fix any standard or figures whereby its price to the public shall be in any manner controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, use or consumption in this State. Fifth, to make or enter into or execute or carry out, any contract, obligation or agreement of any kind or description by which they shall bind or have to bind themselves not to sell, manufacture, dispose of or transport any article or commodity, or article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure; or by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graded figure; or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article or commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others to preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or others in transportation, sale or manufacture of any such article or commodity; or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or unite any interests they have in connection with the manufacture, sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, that its price may in any manner be affected."

"Section two of the same act provides:

"All persons, companies or corporations within this State are hereby denied the right to form or to be in any manner interested, either directly or indirectly, as principal, agent, representative, consignee or otherwise, in any trust as defined in section I of this act.'

* * * * *

"The decisions of the United States Supreme Court with reference to the national antitrust act have direct force and application in interpreting our own antitrust laws. The statute of this 340 State in regard to monopolies and trusts is as broad in its terms as the Sherman antitrust act.

"That statute (the Sherman act)' says the supreme court of Kansas, 'differs in verbal phraseology but not in essential particular or effect from ours.

"State v. Smiley, 65 Kan. 240."

"A violation of the Sherman antitrust act itself by a corporation doing business in this State would be a perversion and abuse of its corporate privileges. The laws of the United States, as far as civil suits are concerned, are a part of the State's system of jurisprudence.

"Mondou v. N. Y. H. R. Co., 32 Sup. Ct. 169.

"Claffin v. Housman, 93 U. S. 130.

"One cannot read this record and examine these contracts, to which attention has been called in the foregoing statement, without reaching the conclusion that the whole purpose and design of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, from the very inception, has been to monopolize the production, transportation, sale and distribution of natural gas in the Kansas field. Not only was it the purpose and design to secure a monopoly, but the plans were successful, the purpose was accomplished, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company to-day almost completely dominates the situation; it practically controls the field of production, the field of transportation and the sale and distribution of natural gas in Kansas."

These defendants aver that the said court thereafter rendered its judgment upon said findings of fact and conclusions of law, and as a part thereof appointed the plaintiff receivers to receive and control the property in controversy herein as the officers of said court; that said judgment is unappealed from and in full force and effect, and that said receivers have acquiesced in the said judgment and the rules of law declared by the said court and acted

341 in conformity therewith, and that therefore and thereby the fact that said corporation, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, was prior to the appointment of said receivers, and said receivers since then as the representatives of said corporation in continuing its said business have been, engaged in local or intrastate commerce, and that the properties controlled by them are therefore not such instrumentalities of interstate commerce as withdraw all business done by the use of said properties in said States of Kansas or Missouri from the control of the local laws of said States, the police power thereof, or from the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, or the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri; that said facts having been fully adjudicated by the said court, and the said receivers having acted in conformity therewith and in pursuance of the principles of law followed and announced by the said court, and which thereby became the law of said case, are now estopped and barred from asserting anything contrary thereto in this cause.

These defendants, further answering, aver that as a part of said judgment the plaintiff receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, were directed to appear in the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, No. 1-N in equity, which case is fully referred to and set out in the bill of complaint herein, for the purpose of recovering the control and management of the physical property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, as is fully set out in the bill of complaint herein at paragraphs 3 and 4, and elsewhere, in said bill; that for the purpose of said appearance in said cause the attorney-general, acting on and in behalf of said receivers and under the direction of the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, prepared and filed therein a petition for said purposes, which said petition contained the following averment, to wit:

"First, that on January 5, 1912, the State of Kansas, by its attorney-general, brought an action in the nature of quo warranto in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, against The Independence Gas Company, The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas corporations, and Kansas Natural Gas Company, a Delaware corporation authorized to do business in Kansas, charging said corporations with misuse, perversion and abuse of their corporate privileges and with having connived and engaged in various illegal combinations in restraint of trade, in violation of the antitrust laws of the State of Kansas, and in violation of the National antitrust laws, which are a part of the civil jurisprudence of the State of Kansas, by which unlawful combinations the said Kansas Natural Gas Company had secured a monopoly of the source of gas supply and a monopoly of the sale and distribution of gas to the people of Kansas, and by which unlawful combination the selling price of gas, a product of domestic raw material, an article of commerce, and an aid to commerce, had been advanced and controlled by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and a true copy of the petition filed by the State of Kansas in said action is contained in an abstract filed herewith and made part hereof."

That thereafter the complainant in said cause and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company appeared in said cause and contested the averments of the petition filed by the said attorney-general on and in behalf of the plaintiff receivers herein, and that said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company filed, as paragraph 10 of their answer, the following averments, to wit:

"These complainants further allege that although the defendant the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is engaged in operating a pipe line within the State of Kansas for the transportation of natural gas from various sources of supply from localities within the State of Kansas to respective towns and cities within the State of Kansas, the pipe line of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its system likewise extends into the adjacent States of Missouri and Oklahoma, for the purpose of receiving and transporting gas through its pipe lines to cities in said states, and is therefore an interstate carrier, subject to the act of Congress of February 7, 1887, and its amendments. That by the judgment and order appointing receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the district court of Montgomery county, State of Kansas, in the proceedings by the State of Kansas instituted by the attorney-general as aforesaid, for a claimed violation of a penal statute of the State, constitute an exertion of the power of the State of Kansas, acting through and under the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, over interstate commerce, and is invalid and violative of the commerce clause of the constitution of the United States, and the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, was without jurisdiction to appoint receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in said proceedings by reason of said fact."

And these defendants aver that by the filing of said petition and answer an issue was made in said cause as to whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company at the time of the filing of the petition in the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, by the State of Kansas through its attorney-general, heretofore referred to, was engaged in domestic commerce and not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and whether by reason of said fact the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, had the right, authority and jurisdiction, because of the violation of the local laws of said Kansas by said corporation, to appoint the plaintiff receivers as the officers of said court to take possession of said property, and whether as such officers they were now entitled to the possession of the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company as against certain receivers theretofore appointed in the said cause of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, heretofore set out and referred to in this answer and bill of complaint of the plaintiffs.

That said cause came on for trial on June 5, 1913, on said issues of law and fact, before the Hon. John A. Marshall, district judge of the United States sitting as such judge of the district court for the District of Kansas, and after hearing the testimony adduced by the said parties and being fully advised in the premises the court found in favor of the said petitioners, the plaintiffs herein, and against the said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, the complainants in said original action; that as a part of said decision the court filed written findings and a written opinion as to the law controlling said case, and as to this question the court said:

"Under the Kansas antitrust act (Gen. St. 1909, sec. 6146), which provides that every person or corporation within or without the state, violating its provisions within the state, shall be denied the right to do business in the state, and authorizes the enforcement of such provision 'by injunction or other proceeding,' a state court has power to appoint receivers of the property within the state of a foreign corporation charged with violation of the act, and under 344 the state practice such remedy is not precluded because the legal relief of ouster is sought in the action.

"The appointment by a state court of a receiver of the property within the state of a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce does not amount to an unlawful interference with the right of such corporation to transact interstate commerce." (206 Fed. 777.)

These defendants, further answering, aver that the said John L. McKinney and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, complainants as aforesaid, excepted to the findings of the court and regularly took their appeal to the circuit court of appeals of the eighth district of the United States in said cause, and that thereafter said cause came regularly on for hearing and was decided by said court December 4, 1913, and it was there held and decided by the honorable circuit court of the said district that the opinion and decision of the district court of the United States, heretofore set forth, should be affirmed, and in determining the questions arising on said appeal the court, speaking by the Hon. Wm. C. Hook, circuit judge, said:

"A foreign corporation engaged in interstate and local commerce may be adjudged guilty of a violation of the antitrust laws of the state, its license to do business in the state may be canceled, and a receiver for all its property therein appointed under the general laws in aid of the enforcement of the judgment; and it is no defense that such property included instrumentalities used by it in conducting its interstate business, or that the corporation by the same course of conduct has also violated the similar laws of the United States." (209 Fed. 300.)

And again, at pages 306-7, the court further said:

"There remains for consideration the contention that as applied to this case, the antitrust statutes of the State conflict with the Sherman act (Act July 2, 1890, c. 647, 26 Stat. 209, U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 3200), and hence must give way. In this connection it is unimportant

345 that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is a Delaware corporation instead of a corporation of Kansas. The character of its trade and commerce, interstate or local, determines the applicability of the antitrust laws of the nation or state and not the origin of its corporate existence. The term 'interstate corporation' is a convenient colloquialism but hardly accurate. In respect of the contention now being considered, the case would not be different had that company been organized under the laws of Kansas. Nor is it material that it transports some of the gas it deals in from Oklahoma into Kansas and from Kansas into Missouri by pipe lines. By express exemption it is not a common carrier subject to the interstate commerce act (act June 29, 1906, c. 3591 U. S. Comp. St. Supp. 1911, p. 1284, 34 Stat. 584), sec. 1, even would it matter were it otherwise. The point urged by counsel rests on the fact that the company is engaged in both interstate and local commerce and upon the assertion that the two are so intricately interwoven as to be inseparable. The claim of inseparable intricacy is not tenable. The two kinds of commerce are no more interwoven than with most railroads of the country and many manufacturing and mercantile concerns. Whatever may be the origin and admixtures of the commodity dealt in or the common use of the same plant, equipment, and instrumentalities, the two kinds of commerce are distinguishable. The company is in no better position than if it were an ordinary industrial and mercantile concern of Kansas producing, buying, shipping, and selling, locally and in other states, grains, oils, or other commodities which lose their particular identity in the mass of that which is dealt in. Again, the property and business of the company which are wholly within the State of Kansas are not negligible incidents to which the state antitrust statutes are being forced; much of its property, including that obtained from the other corporations, is located there and much of its business is there transacted. The action of the State of Kansas was directed to the violation of the state statutes. The decree of the state court was expressly

These defendants therefore further aver that by the aforesaid decisions and holding of the courts it has been fully determined and adjudicated that the plaintiff receivers are engaged in intrastate commerce subject to the local laws and police power of the State of Kansas and the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for said State, and the plaintiffs are engaged in the same commerce in Missouri and subject to the said power of the State of Missouri and its said Public Service Commission, and that the plaintiffs are not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and that the properties under their control are not instrumentalities of interstate commerce of such nature as to deprive the defendants Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas or the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri of jurisdiction over it, and that said plaintiffs, having acquiesced in said holdings and principles of law announced by the courts in the said cases, and having in this cause alleged that this case is dependent upon and ancillary to the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1-X, Equity, as averred in plaintiffs' bill of complaint, paragraph 1, which these defendants in no wise admit, and that said findings and principles of law having become the law of said cases, and of this case, and all of said matters having been fully determined, the plaintiffs are estopped from averring to the contrary herein, and from causing a retrial of said issues in this suit.

VII.

These defendants, above named, further answering the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein, aver that said bill of complaint reveals upon its face that the plaintiffs cannot recover and are not entitled to the relief prayed for in said bill of complaint, for the reason that it appears from said bill, and particularly in paragraphs XXII and XXXII and the prayer thereof, that plaintiffs ask this Court to exercise a power beyond its jurisdiction, to wit: the power of making and prescribing rates and charges of a public utility corporation, which is exclusively a legislative power and function.

These answering defendants further aver that in paragraphs 347 XXII and XXXII of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint it is averred and set forth that any schedule or rate for natural gas below thirty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in the State of Missouri except St. Joseph, and twenty-six and two-thirds cents for plaintiffs' proportion of the revenue for gas delivered at St. Joseph, is and will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory; and it is further averred, set forth and prayed in sub-paragraphs (c) and (h) of the prayer of said bill of complaint that these answering defendants be restrained from interfering with plaintiffs putting into effect reasonable rates and from putting into effect the rates provided in Exhibit "F" to said bill of complaint and similar rates for cities in Missouri.

These answering defendants further aver that it thus appears from the face of plaintiffs' said bill that plaintiffs are not invoking the jurisdiction of this Court for the purpose of having declared the present rates and charges for natural gas supplied in the cities of the State of Missouri confiscatory, non-compensatory and unremunerative, but for the purpose of having this Court, by its order and decree, fix and establish rates for natural gas to be hereafter and in the future charged and exacted from the consumers in the said cities of Missouri, which said purpose and proposed action so averred and prayed for these answering defendants aver is not properly within the jurisdiction of this Court, but it is exclusively a legislative function and power, and that, therefore, said bill of complaint fails to show any equitable cause for relief properly cognizable by this Court.

Second.

These answering defendants, having objected to the jurisdiction of this court arising upon the points of law disclosed upon the face of the bill of complaint, and having moved to dismiss this suit for want of jurisdiction, further answering, say:

I.

The above-named defendants deny that the bill of complaint herein is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, now pending in this court, and further deny that this action is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential pos-348 session of this court in said causes and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this court in said causes.

These defendants specifically deny that the matter and amount in controversy in this cause exceeds the sum or value of $3000 exclusive of interest and costs.

These defendants specifically deny that the causes of action, if any such be stated in the bill of complaint filed here, arise under the constitution or laws of the United States.

These defendants do not know for what purpose the bill of complaint was filed herein, but nevertheless deny that the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri have fixed rates which are unreasonably low or that are unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory, or which amount to the taking of the property in the possession and control of these plaintiffs without just compensation and without due process of law, or that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has issued any order interfering with interstate commerce.

These defendants deny that there is any relationship and acts of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the attorneys and counsel of said Commission, either now or at any time, such that it is practicable to present here and determine said causes in one suit in this court, but allege that plaintiffs' pretended causes of action against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are wholly different and can not be joined as one cause of action, nor can the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri be joined as parties defendant in the same cause of action, nor are the pretended causes of action against the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas such that they can be joined in one cause of action, nor can the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas be joined in one cause of action such as is attempted in the suit at bar.

II.

These answering defendants admit that the defendants John M. Atkinson, Edwin J. Bean, John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw and Eugene McQuillin are or were at the time of the filing of this bill of complaint the duly appointed, qualified and acting members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri; that the defendant John T. Barker is the duly elected, qualified and acting attorney-general of the State of Missouri, but deny that he is a proper or necessary defendant herein; that the defendant William G. Busby was at the time of the filing of this bill of complaint the duly appointed, qualified and acting Counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri; that the defendant members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and the defendant Counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, are or were charged by the laws of the State of Missouri with the duty and obligation of executing and enforcing all of the laws affecting public utilities and other property.

These defendants admit that the defendant Fidelity Title and Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, and is trustee under a certain first mortgage and supplemental mortgages heretofore executed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company on its property here involved. That said Fidelity Title and Trust Company is complainant in two of the suits pending in this court referred to in the bill of complaint.

These defendants admit that the Delaware Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and is the trustee under a certain second mortgage executed and delivered by the Kansas Natural Gas Company covering a part of the property here involved. That the said Delaware Trust Company is defendant in one of the suits mentioned in the bill of complaint.

These defendants admit that the Fidelity Trust Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and is the trustee under a certain first mortgage and three supplemental mortgages executed and delivered by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, whose property has been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is being operated by the plaintiff receivers.

These defendants admit that the Kansas City Pipe Line Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey. That all of the property of said Kansas City Pipe Line Company has heretofore been leased to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and is now, so far as it is situated in Kansas, in the possession of the plaintiff receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, but deny "that said pipe lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company are of little or no use unless they be operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

These defendants admit that the Marnet Mining Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of West Virginia, and that said Marnet Mining Company owns certain property and pipe lines in the State of Oklahoma, which said pipe lines and property form a part of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but deny "that all of the property of the said Marnet Mining Company is of but little value if separated from the system of pipe lines operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

These defendants admit that John F. Overfield is the receiver of the property of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as in the bill of complaint alleged.

These defendants admit that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and from 1904 to October, 1912, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas. That it has been duly admitted to do business in the State of Kansas as a foreign corporation. That it owns and operates a system, by lease and otherwise, of pipe lines extending from the counties of Rogers, Wagoner and Tulsa, in the State of Oklahoma, northward to the Kansas-Oklahoma State line, and through the State of Kansas into the State of Missouri, which are more fully shown in the map referred to in the bill of complaint and filed with said bill. That since October, 1912, said system of pipe lines has been in the control of and operated by receivers of said Natural Gas Company.

These defendants admit the issuance of the order of September 22, 1914, made and entered in the cases of John L. McKinney et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust-Company, No. 1-N, Equity, but deny that the said 351 George F. Sharritt is in the possession or control, actually or potentially, of any property involved in this suit by virtue of such order or otherwise.

III.

These answering defendants admit that the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs, are in the actual possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the property under lease to it in the State of Kansas, as receivers of said company, appointed by the district court of Montgomery county, Kansas, and admit that the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield are in the actual possession and control of the pipe-line system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including leased lines located in the States of Oklahoma and Missouri, but deny that they are in such possession as ancillary receivers of this court, but allege that they are in the actual possession of such property in Oklahoma and Missouri, as receivers appointed by the district court of Montgomery, county, Kansas.

IV.

These answering defendants admit the allegation of the fourth division of the bill of complaint.

V.

These answering defendants admit that on the 17th day of December, 1914, the first and second mortgage bondholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the plaintiff receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, and the Marnet Mining Company, entered into a certain agreement and stipulation called "Creditors' Agreement," a copy of which agreement is attached to the plaintiffs' bill of complaint as Exhibit "A." But these defendants specifically deny that either the State of Kansas or the State of Missouri was a party to or affected by such agreement, and these defendants specifically deny the matters and things set up in said creditors' agreement.

These defendants specifically deny that the business carried on and conducted by the plaintiff receivers in the carrying on of business and commerce among different states of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, 352 Kansas and Missouri, or that the same is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States, as confided to it by section 8 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States, and allege that the business conducted by the plaintiff receivers is subject to the control and regulation of the States of Kansas and Missouri.

That on August 17, 1915, H. O. Caster, as attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, filed a suit in mandamus in the supreme court of the State of Kansas, against the plaintiff receivers herein; a copy of the application for such writ is attached to the answer of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas herein. That notice was duly had upon the plaintiff receivers, as defendants in such action, and in due time they filed in said court their answer and return; a copy of such answer and return is attached to and made a part of the answer of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas herein. That, as shown by said answer and return, the plaintiff receivers herein, as defendants in said action, alleged that the business so conducted by them was the carrying on of business and commerce among the different states of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and that it was exclusively under the control of the United States, as confided to it by section 8 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States. Upon hearing duly had in such action and being well advised in the premises, the supreme court of the State of Kansas, in such action, being case No. 20,324 of the files of said court, duly filed its opinion (96 Kan. 372) and order, to the effect that the business as conducted by the plaintiff receivers was not the carrying on of business and commerce among the different states of the Union, and was not under the control of the Congress of the United States, but that the same was under the control of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas; a copy of the opinion of the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas in such action is attached to the answer of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas herein.

And the defendants also especially deny that the plaintiff receivers are and have been engaged in interstate commerce in the sale and distribution of natural gas in the defendant cities of St. Joseph, Weston, Kansas City, Deerfield, Nevada, Carl Junction, Oronogo, or Joplin, Missouri, or other places in the State of Missouri; but defendants say that all of the natural gas which is or has been piped or transported to Missouri by the plaintiff receivers is delivered and sold by the plaintiffs to local distributing companies in above named Missouri towns and cities and therefore sold and distributed 353 by such local companies (and not by plaintiffs) to the consumers of such gas; that such gas is not transported, sold or delivered by the plaintiff receivers to the consumers in the State of Missouri but only to the local distributing companies as aforesaid and there is not a continuity of movement or transportation of such gas from the plaintiff receivers in Oklahoma or Kansas to the consumers in Missouri but such gas is received, stored, sold and delivered by such local companies or dealers to the consumers as an article of intrastate commerce under and pursuant to contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and such local companies and the franchises granted by the Missouri towns and cities to such local companies.

These defendants specifically deny all other allegations in the fifth subdivision of said bill of complaint, not herein specifically admitted.

VI.

These answering defendants admit all of the allegations of fact contained in the sixth subdivision of the bill of complaint herein, except with reference to the alleged orders of this court, purported to have been made on December 30, 1912, and on January 4, 1913, with reference to which orders these defendants allege that this court had no power, authority or jurisdiction to make any such alleged orders; and that if such orders were made, as alleged in said bill of complaint, they were wholly illegal and void; and this court, recognizing that said orders of December 30, 1912, and of January 4, 1913, were made without jurisdiction and were wholly null and void, has never pretended to enforce the same.

VII.

These answering defendants are without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph VII of the bill of complaint and therefore ask that plaintiffs be held to strict proof of any material allegation therein contained.

VIII.

These answering defendants are without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph VIII of the bill of complaint and therefore ask that plaintiffs be held to strict proof of any material allegations therein contained.

These answering defendants deny each and all of the allegations in subdivision nine of the bill of complaint filed herein, except such as are admitted in this subdivision of the answer.

These defendants allege that the opinion and order of the Public Utilities Commission, referred to in said bill of complaint as Exhibit K, were made and entered after a full and complete hearing had before said Commission, and are based upon the evidence there adduced, and that the plaintiff receivers were present by their attorneys at all sessions of said Commission and participated in said hearing and had ample and full opportunity of presenting all evidence which they desired and full opportunity of cross-examining all witnesses, and that no evidence was considered by the Commission in making the findings of fact contained in said Exhibit "K" except such evidence as was produced at said hearing.

The defendants deny that said engineer testified that he did not include going value or going-concern value or any value of the property for the cost of attaching the business or as a going concern, or that said engineer did not allow values for said items, and deny that the fair and reasonable going value or development cost of said plant was on January 1, 1915, or now is $2,637,400, and deny that the fair and reasonable value of said plant and property was on January 1, 1915, or now is more than the sum of $11,632,211, and deny that said plaintiffs are entitled to a return of ten per cent upon the investment in said property, and deny that said Commission did not allow any intangible value in connection with said property, and deny that said Commission did not consider more than $7,083,605.64 as the total value on which plaintiffs were entitled to earn a return, and deny that said Commission allowed no value for leaseholds derived by conveyance from Snyder, Barnsdall and

355 of their conveyance of the reasonable value of $6,000,000, and deny that the life of said plant is only six years from January 1, 1915, and allege that said Commission in said Exhibit "K," in ascertaining the income derived from the production of natural gas, showed said income to be $6,023,792.16 more than it actually was, but that this fact did not change the net income for the reason that an equal amount was included in the expenses of producing said gas in addition to the actual expense, thereby offsetting said item, and deny that the effect of this was to give the public the benefit of over $6,000,000 worth of gas without charge, and deny that the reasonable value of gas produced from said leaseholds up to and including December 1, 1914, was in excess of $6,023,792.16, and deny that said Commission erred in separating the property used in the production of natural gas from the property used in its transportation, and deny that the Commission erred in using 4 cents as the price to be paid for gas to be purchased in the future, and deny that such price will in the future be not less than 6 cents per thousand cubic feet, and deny that the Commission erred in estimating the increased revenue to be obtained on the schedule put in effect after the order of December 10, 1915, and deny that such increased revenue will be not more than $75,059.53, and deny that said Commission erred in estimating and fixing the amount of operating expenses and taxes as $510,536.14, and deny that the true amount required for these purposes is $800,000 per year, and deny that said Commission omitted any items of operating expenses; and these defendants deny that expenditures for making extensions to new fields are proper items of operating expense, and admit that the same were not included as such in the computations in Exhibit "K," and deny that it will be necessary to expend $500,000 in the year 1916, and deny that it will be necessary to spend $200,000 in each year thereafter for such extensions; and these defendants deny that the Commission allowed depreciation only on $7,983,615.64, and deny that the true life of said plant is five years from January 1, 1916, and deny that $11,632,211, less $1,500,000, must be amortized during said time, and deny that said Commission allowed a return of only six per cent upon said investments, and deny that a return of less than ten per cent on the value of the property employed in said business is unreasonable and confiscatory, and deny that the sum of $11,632,211 is the fair and reasonable value of the property upon which plaintiffs are entitled to earn a reasonable rate of return; and defendants allege that the true facts as to all of said matters are as set forth in this answer.

X.

These answering defendants do not know and are therefore unable to state the facts concerning the alleged valuations of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the States of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, as set out in the tenth subdivision of the bill of complaint.

XI.

These answering defendants are without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph XI of the bill of complaint and therefore ask that plaintiffs be held to strict proof of any material allegations therein contained.

XII.

These answering defendants specifically deny that there has been any decrease in gas pressure in the year 1915 as compared with the year 1914, and deny that the miscellaneous revenues for 1915 are less than those of 1914, and deny that future years will be less than for previous years, and deny that the table set out in the twelfth division of the bill of complaint correctly shows a comparison of the miscellaneous revenues for ten months of 1915 as compared with the same period of 1914.

XIII.

These answering defendants do not know whether or not expert engineers were employed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company to determine the life of the gas field, and do not know what investigations were made concerning said gas field, or what reports, if any, were made by said engineers to the Kansas Natural Gas Company or to any other person.

These defendants allege that there is now and has been since the formation of the Kansas Natural Gas Company an ample supply of natural gas adjacent to its lines, which it could have secured without unreasonable expense.

These defendants deny the correctness of the map showing the trunk lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Quapaw and Wichita Gas Companies, and Oklahoma Natural Gas Company, together with the analysis of said map, attached to the bill of complaint, marked Exhibit "L," and deny that the cost of gas has increased during the past year at least one cent per thousand cubic feet, owing to the short duration of the gas pools and fields. These defendants have no knowledge of the exact per cent of the gas which is supplied by plaintiff to consumers in Kansas or Missouri which is secured from Oklahoma, but admit that a large per cent is there purchased.

These defendants deny that, owing to the financial condition of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, very few leases have been purchased by that company or by plaintiff receivers or that practically all of the gas secured from Oklahoma has been purchased in Oklahoma at a specified rate per thousand feet, but allege the fact to be that with proper and prudent management the company would have been financially able to at all times make necessary and 357 proper arrangements for procuring leases and for the purchase of gas.

These defendants do not know the per cent of gas which is lost through leakage, as alleged in said bill of complaint, but allege that if a large per cent thereof, as claimed in said bill of complaint, is actually so lost, that it is on account of the defective conditions of the lines of the plaintiff receivers.

These defendants deny that all of the evidence shows that the probable life of the gas field which may be profitably reached by the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is six years from January 1, 1915, but allege that the evidence shows and the fact is that the probable life of such gas field will be much longer than six years.

These defendants specifically deny that the said six years as the life of said gas plant is also determined by the State of Kansas in the Creditors' Agreement, and deny that said period of six years was adopted as the probable life of said gas plant by the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas in its opinion of July 16, 1915, attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint and marked Exhibit H.

These defendants specifically deny that the plant of the Kansas Natural Gas Company at the end of six years will have no value whatever, except as scrap; but allege, as stated above, the life of said gas fields and said plant is much longer than said six years, and that said plant at the end of said period will have a large and going value; and they further deny that at the end of said six-year period, or at the end of the life of said gas fields and the usefulness of said gas plant, the scrap value will not exceed $1,500,000, but allege that at such time such value will largely exceed such sum.

at the end of the life of the plant is $10,132,211; and deny that such sum must be amortized in five years from January 1, 1915; and deny that the revenues for the year 1915 have been insufficient to amortize any part of the plant value during 1915; and deny that it will require the sum of $500,000 for the first year and $200,000 per year for each of the succeeding four years in order to procure 358 the annual additional supply of gas necessary to maintain the same volume of gas supplied to consumers as is now transported and distributed, and deny that nothing less than ten per cent per annum is a fair and reasonable rate of return on the property employed and used in said business; and deny that the table therein set out shows the true and correct amount of gross revenue which is necessary for this plant to obtain in order to meet operating expenses, repairs, secure future gas supply and provide for the amortization of the plant and a fair return on the property employed in the service.

XV.

These answering defendants deny that the table set out in the fifteenth division of plaintiffs' bill of complaint shows the correct amount of revenues which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce in the State of Kansas, and the revenues in which the rates now in existence will produce in the State of Missouri.

These defendants further deny all the other allegations of the fifteenth division of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XVI.

These answering defendants deny that the tables set out in the thirteenth and fifteenth sub-divisions of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint are typical of the years of the remaining life of said plant; and further deny that the plaintiffs have been or are engaged in interstate commerce in the production, transportation or sale of natural gas in either Oklahoma, Kansas or Missouri.

These defendants do not know whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company or said federal receivers or the plaintiff herein have or do deliver or sell gas to domestic consumers in the State of Oklahoma or conduct or carry on any business of or as a public utility therein.

And these defendants are also without knowledge of the allegations in said paragraph XVI in relation to rates in Kansas.

XVII.

These answering defendants are also without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph XVII of the bill and ask that plaintiffs be held to strict proof of the same.

359

XVIII.

These answering defendants are without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph XVIII of the bill of complaint and ask that the plaintiffs be held to strict proof of the same as against these defendants.

XIX.

These answering defendants are without knowledge of the facts stated in paragraph XIX of the bill and ask that plaintiffs be held to strict proof of the same.

XX.

These answering defendants specifically deny every allegation of fact contained in the paragraph XX of the bill of complaint.

XXI.

These answering defendants admit that John M. Atkinson and John Kennish, two of the five members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, held a conference with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas on the twenty-seventh day of September, 1915, but deny that after or as a result of such conference, the said John M. Atkinson, either for himself individually or for said Missouri Commission, announced or was authorized to announce that the said Missouri Commission would not permit a higher rate to be charged in the cities in the State of Missouri than was charged in the border cities in the State of Kansas, and these defendants deny that the said Missouri Commission has ever since such conference or announcement maintained or adhered to an arbitrary policy of not permitting an increase in rates in such Missouri towns and cities over and above such rates charged in the Kansas towns and cities. That the said statement or announcement of the said John M. Atkinson as intended, made and published in the Kansas City Times and Kansas City Journal on September 28, 1915, was simply that no increase in gas rates in the State of Missouri would be authorized by the said Missouri Commission until the Missouri towns and cities using natural gas were notified and had a "day in court," and then only when such increased rates were justified by the facts before the Commission.

360 These defendants further allege that the Public Service Commission Law of the State of Missouri provides that before the said Commission may fix the rates to be charged by any gas corporation it shall hold a hearing after having given all persons or corporations affected thereby notice and an opportunity to be heard; that in determining the rates to be charged for gas the Commission shall consider such evidence as is before it with due regard, among other things, to a reasonable average return upon the capital actually expended and to the necessity of making reservation out of the income for surplus and contingencies; that it is provided by said law that the findings, decisions and orders of said Commission shall be recorded in the office of the Commission and served upon every person and corporation to be affected thereby and shall be published in accordance with the provisions of such law and the rules of the Commission; that the said Commission and its members are without power or authority under said law to fix or establish rates to be charged for gas save and except in the manner provided in said law; and that the announcement, if made, of the policy of said Commission by the verbal statement of the said John M. Atkinson was not made as the legal or official announcement of the said Missouri Commission but as the announcement simply of the individual view or opinion of the said John M. Atkinson, and the same is and was not any legal basis for any cause of action whatever against the defendants herein.

These answering defendants further admit that on the thirteenth day of September, 1915, proposed schedules of rates to be effective November 1, 1915, were filed by the Carl Junction Gas Company and the Oronogo Gas Company, being local gas companies in the towns of Carl Junction, Missouri, and Oronogo, Missouri, respectively, with the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri, prescribing a rate of thirty cents net for said towns of Carl Junction and Oronogo, and that on the twenty-ninth day of October, 1915, said Public Service Commission suspended said schedules of rates for a period of one hundred twenty days from and including November 1, 1915, but defendants deny that the said Carl Junction Gas Company and Oronogo Gas Company are or were the agents of these plaintiffs and deny that the said Commission has ever since refused to permit said rates to be put into force and effect and deny that the suspension of said rates was because of any policy or plan by said Commission of not allowing higher rates in Missouri than in Kansas, as alleged by the plaintiffs.

361 These defendants further answering state that it is provided in and by section 70 of the Public Service Commission law of Missouri that upon the filing with said Commission by any gas company of a schedule stating a new rate that the said Commission shall have authority upon reasonable notice to enter on a hearing concerning the propriety of such new rate, and pending such hearing the said Commission may suspend the operation of such proposed new schedule for a period of not exceeding one hundred twenty days and that the said schedule of new rates filed by the said Carl Junction Gas Company and the Oronogo Gas Company were suspended by said Commission for a period of not exceeding one hundred twenty days only, and only pending such hearing by the Commission as to the propriety of such proposed rate, and was not definitely or finally suspended or canceled by the said Commission; that thereafter on the seventeenth day of January, 1916, and before the expiration of such period of suspension the said proposed schedules of new rates so filed by the said Carl Junction Gas Company and Oronogo Gas Company were by the voluntary act and election of such gas companies themselves canceled, withdrawn and dismissed from the files and records of the said Commission; all of which will more fully appear from a true certified copy of the order of said Commission suspending the said schedule filed by the Carl Junction Gas Company; a certified copy of the order of said Commission permitting the withdrawal or dismissal of the said schedule filed by the Carl Junction Gas Company; a certified copy of the order of said Commission suspending the schedule so filed by the Oronogo Gas Company, and a certified copy of the order of said Commission permitting the withdrawal or dismissal of such schedule filed by said Oronogo Gas Company; the said four exhibits being attached hereto and marked respectively "A," "B," "C" and "D."

These defendants further answering allege that this suit was commenced by the plaintiff receivers on the — day of December, 1915, while the legislative action or proceeding instituted by the said Carl Junction Gas Company and Oronogo Gas Company, by the filing of such schedules with said Missouri Commission, was pending and undetermined before the said Commission; that by reason of the pendency of the legislative investigation and determination by the said Missouri Commission into the propriety of the said proposed new schedule of gas rates at Carl Junction, Missouri, and Oronogo, Missouri, as aforesaid, and the fact that such legislative proceed-

362 ing in such State tribunal was undetermined and unfinished at the time of the commencement of this suit in the Federal court, the plaintiffs, even if such local gas companies were their agents, are and were without right, power or authority to institute and prosecute this suit against these defendants, and are also estopped and prohibited under and by virtue of the rule and law of comity obtaining between the Federal and State tribunals from instituting and prosecuting this suit against the defendants; and that as the said Missouri Commission made no final order or decision with reference to such proposed rates at Carl Junction, Missouri, and Oronogo, Missouri, and the fact that such proposed schedules were voluntarily withdrawn and dismissed by the said companies filing the same, the action of said State Commission in temporarily suspending the said schedules for the purpose only of an investigation and determination of the propriety of the same is and was no legal basis whatever for the institution and prosecution of this suit against these defendants.

These defendants further answering deny that the St. Joseph Gas Company is or was an agent or distributing company of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or of these plaintiff receivers at the city of St. Joseph, Missouri, but these defendants allege the fact to be that the said St. Joseph Gas Company is and was at all times mentioned in plaintiffs' bill a local, independent gas company at said city purchasing its supply of gas from these plaintiff receivers and itself selling and distributing the same to the consumers of the city of St. Joseph, Missouri.

These defendants further answering admit that on September 29, 1914, the said St. Joseph Gas Company filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri a proposed new schedule to be effective November 1, 1914, whereby it sought to raise the rate for natural gas in the said city of St. Joseph from 40 cents to 60 cents per thousand cubic feet; and admit that on October 19, 1914, the said Missouri Commission issued an order suspending said rate and made further orders from time to time extending the suspension of said rate pending an investigation and determination of the propriety of the same until November 27, 1915, when the said Missouri Commission after a hearing rendered its finding and opinion that the said St. Joseph Gas Company had failed by its evidence to justify such increase of the rate at St. Joseph, Missouri, and refused to issue its order permitting such increase.

These defendants further answering deny that the said Missouri Commission found that the return on the property employed 363 by the said St. Joseph Gas Company in the public service in the distribution and sale of natural gas alone was only 2.42 per cent, and deny that the said Commission refused the said increase of gas rates at St. Joseph, Missouri, because of any policy on the part of said Commission to not allow higher rates in the State of Missouri than in the State of Kansas; and deny that the said Missouri Commission in its said order directed the St. Joseph Gas Company to cancel its contract with these plaintiff receivers or with Kansas Natural Gas Company; and these defendants allege that they are without knowledge of the fact that the St. Joseph Gas Company has instituted suit in the District Court of Montgomery county, Kansas, to cancel said contract with the plaintiff receivers or with the Kansas Natural Gas Company and state that if such suit has been filed or prosecuted in the District Court of Montgomery county, Kansas, it has been done without notice to either the said Missouri Commission or the city of St. Joseph, Missouri, or the consumers of gas therein.

These defendants further answering deny that the sum of 26  $\frac{2}{3}$  cents per thousand cubic feet which the St. Joseph Gas Company has been paying the plaintiff receivers as the receivers' proportion of the 40 cent gas rate charged at St. Joseph, Missouri, is the same as paid by other local gas companies for such gas to the plaintiff receivers; deny that the 17 cents which the said Missouri Commission found was a reasonable price for the St. Joseph Gas Company to pay the plaintiff receivers for the gas consumed at St. Joseph, Missouri, is unreasonably low, noncompensatory, nonremunerative, or confiscatory, or would amount to an undue preference in favor of consumers of gas at St. Joseph, Missouri, in violation of the Act of Congress called the "Clayton Law"; deny that by reason of the longer haul or transportation of gas to St. Joseph, Missouri, there is any considerable difference in the leakage or in the cost of transportation than in the transportation of such gas by the plaintiff receivers to Atchison, Kansas, and other towns located similarly with St. Joseph, Missouri; and deny that the rate of 26  $\frac{2}{3}$  cents to the plaintiff receivers per thousand cubic feet is unreasonably low, noncompensatory, nonremunerative and confiscatory, as alleged by the plaintiffs.

These defendants further answering deny that the said Missouri Commission in its said finding and order of November 27, 1915, found or held the said rate of 40 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas 364 at St. Joseph, Missouri, to be just or reasonable, or that the said Commission therein refused to raise or increase said rate, or that the said Commission in its said finding and order did anything excepting to refuse or cancel the said rate proposed by the plaintiffs in the sum of 60 cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas; and deny that the said finding and order of the Commission in relation to natural gas rates at St. Joseph, Missouri, is or was any legal or equitable basis for the institution or prosecution of this suit by the plaintiffs against these defendants.

Further answering paragraph twenty-one of the bill, these defendants say, however, that if it is found and held by the court that the said Missouri Commission by its said opinion and order of November 27, 1915, found and held said 40 cent rate for natural gas at St. Joseph to be just and reasonable, or that the said Commission refused to permit or allow any increase of such rate at St. Joseph, Missouri, then these defendants allege that such finding and order of the Commission is and was supported by substantial evidence before the Commission; that the said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has been especially vested by the General Assembly of the State of Missouri with the legislative power and function of investigating and fixing rates for the sale and distribution of natural gas in the State of Missouri, and that its said finding and conclusion of November 27, 1915, based upon substantial evidence as aforesaid, in relation to gas rates at St. Joseph, Missouri, are binding and conclusive upon this Honorable Court and the same should not be set aside by the decree or enjoined by the process of the court.

These defendants further answering deny that the present rate of 40 cents for natural gas at St. Joseph is unjust or unreasonable or confiscatory.

XXII.

These answering defendants deny that any rate for natural gas below 37 cents per thousand cubic feet delivered to consumers in the State of Missouri, excepting St. Joseph, and that 26  $\frac{2}{3}$  cents for plaintiffs' proportion of the gas delivered in St. Joseph, is or will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, noncompensatory and confiscatory; and deny that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has prescribed any such confiscatory rates; and deny that the plaintiffs have been or will be deprived of property without due process of law or without compensation in the transportation 365 or sale of gas to consumers in Missouri; and also deny that any orders of said State Commission suspending proposed schedules of rates or prescribing any rates in the State of Missouri are void or in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States or is an interference with interstate commerce in violation of section 8 of article 1 of the Constitution of the United States.

XXIII.

These answering defendants deny that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has prescribed any void or arbitrary gas rates in the State of Missouri and deny that the plaintiffs have no adequate remedy except such relief as may be obtained by this suit to annul any gas rates prescribed by said Commission and to restrain said Commission from interfering with the plaintiffs putting in reasonable rates; but these defendants state that if it is held that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has fixed or prescribed any such arbitrary or confiscatory rates in the State of Missouri, then these defendants allege that the plaintiffs had an ample and adequate remedy under the provisions of the Public Service Commission Law of Missouri against such arbitrary and confiscatory rates as is pleaded by these defendants under paragraph 21 of this answer, which plea of the defendants is here referred to and adopted as the defendants' plea in this paragraph of the answer.

These defendants further answering paragraph 23 of the bill deny that the present gas rates in effect in Missouri are unreasonable, unremunerative, noncompensatory or confiscatory.

XXIV.

These answering defendants deny that if the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri accepts the basis of allocation of property used in the transportation of gas as between Kansas and Missouri made by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, that the rates charged the Missouri cities (except Kansas City) will necessarily or properly be higher than the rates charged to the border cities in Kansas on account of the gas being transported further, or the leakage or for other causes; and deny that the said Missouri Commission has announced any policy of suspending all schedules of rates in Missouri higher than rates in the border cities of Kansas; and deny that any announced policy of said Missouri Commission will require the plaintiffs to violate any of the provisions of the Act of Congress of October 15, 1914, known as the "Clayton Law" as alleged by the plaintiffs; and also deny that the said Missouri Commission has or does now threaten to suspend any schedule in the State of Missouri prescribing a higher proportion than 17 cents per thousand cubic feet as plaintiffs' proportion of the rate charged for gas delivered at St. Joseph, and a higher rate than 28 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered at Kansas City and other points in the State of Missouri as alleged by the plaintiffs.

XXV.

These answering defendants admit the allegations contained in paragraph numbered twenty-five of plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

XXVI.

These answering defendants deny that the plaintiffs are prevented and intimidated from putting into effect a schedule or reasonable rates for gas in Missouri, because of the penalties provided by the Statute of Missouri or because of the suspension by the Public Service Commission of Missouri of the plaintiffs' proposed schedules of rates, or because of any announced policy of said Commission to suspend such rates which are higher than the rates charged in the border cities of Kansas; and deny that if the plaintiff receiver should raise the schedule of rates to be collected, and upon a judicial investigation into their right to do so, it should be determined that such raise of rates was not valid that then the fines and penalties provided in the Missouri Statute would approximate the prohibitory sum stated by the plaintiffs.

These defendants state that ample and adequate remedies are provided in and by the Public Service Commission Law of Missouri, whereby these plaintiffs may and could have proceeded before the said Missouri Commission for an order allowing and permitting plaintiffs to charge just and reasonable gas rates in any town or city in the State of Missouri; that an adequate and ample remedy is provided in and by sections 111, 113 and 114 of said law whereby any decision or order of the said Commission in such proceeding before it for reasonable rates may be reviewed in both the circuit court and supreme court of the State of Missouri by writ of certiorari or review; that it is provided in and by section 112 of said Law that any order of the said Commission in such proceeding may be stayed by any circuit court pending such writ of certiorari or review therein upon the applicant for such suspending order giving a bond to be approved by the court for the payment of damages caused by the delay in enforcement of the order of the Commission; that it is provided in and by section 114 of said law that the judgment of the said circuit court rendered on review of any order of the said Commission may also be suspended pending an appeal to the Supreme Court of the State by the applicant giving a like bond with conditions as required in the bond given, pending review in the Circuit Court; and that it is also provided in section 106 of said law that if the defendant in any action to recover any penalties or forfeitures under the provisions of said law shall prove that during any portion of the time for which it is sought to recover penalties or forfeitures for the violation of an order or decision of the Commission, the defendant was actually and in good faith prosecuting a suit to review such order or decision in the manner as provided in said law, the court shall remit the penalties or forfeitures incurred during the pendency of such proceeding.

XXVII.

These answering defendants deny that because of the constraint and intimidation of the penalties provided by the Public Service Commission Law of Missouri, that the plaintiffs have been required to keep in effect any unlawful schedule prescribed by the said Missouri Commission or to abandon their right to act independently of any such void and illegal orders, or that by virtue of such facts any of the orders of said Commission are void and unconstitutional as depriving the plaintiffs of their property without due process of law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, or that the plaintiffs, by reason of the said penalties provided for the failure to conform to the orders of the said

Commission, have been precluded from asserting their rights and challenging in the courts the validity of said orders except at the risk of becoming subject to unusual and excessive penalties and as a result of which the plaintiffs are denied the equal protection of the law in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

These defendants further deny that by reason of any acts of the said Missouri Commission or said penalty statute of the State 368 of Missouri in connection with changes and charges not made with the consent and approval of said Commission, that the plaintiffs are deprived of their property without due process of law or are compelled to transport and deliver gas to consumers in Missouri for less than the cost of said service and at a loss for such service, or that the plaintiffs are without adequate remedy at law from such situation, excepting by this suit in equity; but the defendants say, that the plaintiffs have and had an adequate, ample and speedy remedy in all such matters under the provisions of the Public Service Commission Law of Missouri, as pleaded by these defendants under paragraphs twenty-one and twenty-six of this answer, to which reference is here made.

XXVIII.

These answering defendants state that they are without knowledge of the facts pleaded in paragraph twenty-eight of the bill of complaint and therefore ask that the plaintiffs be held to strict proof of any material allegations therein contained as against these defendants.

XXIX.

These answering defendants deny that any rates prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas or the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri will take all or the greater part or any part of the property now in the possession of the plaintiffs or in any way interfere with the possession and control of this court over property potentially in its charge and custody.

XXX.

These answering defendants deny that the plaintiffs are without adequate remedy at law in the matters set forth in their bill of complaint, or that they will suffer irreparable injury unless accorded the injunctive relief prayed for.

XXXI.

That the thirty-first paragraph of plaintiffs' bill of complaint consists of mere conclusions based upon previous averments of fact in said bill, all of which have been fully answered by these defendants, and which these defendants now again specifically deny.

XXXII.

That the thirty-second paragraph of plaintiffs' bill of complaint consists of mere conclusions based upon previous averments of fact in said bill, all of which have been fully answered by these defendants, and which these defendants now again specifically deny.

XXXIII.

These defendants admit that the defendant distributing companies, for themselves and not as the agents of the plaintiffs or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, are furnishing gas to consumers in Kansas and Missouri under contracts originally made with the Kansas Natural Gas Company, which contracts were assumed and adopted by the plaintiff receivers, and ever since their appointment the plaintiff receivers have been selling and furnishing gas to such local companies under the terms of such supply contracts; that such contracts were valid and binding in every respect and were entered into by all the parties with a full knowledge of all the facts relating thereto, and that with careful and competent management the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff receivers would have been and would now be fully able to supply all the gas which they may have been required to furnish under the terms of such contract.

These defendants specifically deny that any of the defendant cities within the State of Missouri are attempting in any manner to establish the rates at which said gas is to be sold within said cities, or establish and provide the rules and regulations governing the sale and distribution thereof, excepting by voluntary agreement, but allege the fact to be that the said distributing companies are under the control and supervision of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri.

The defendants are not informed and have no knowledge that any contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and said distributing companies or any franchises granted by the defendant cities to said Kansas Natural Gas Company contain any provisions similar to those averred and set out in paragraph thirty-three of the plaintiffs' bill of complaint, or of which the same are typical; and further aver that if such provisions are contained in any of the said contracts or franchises that they are not sufficiently identified 370 in plaintiffs' bill of complaint to enable the defendants to determine the truth of said averments.

The defendants specifically ask that the plaintiffs be put upon their proof as to such allegations and to all of the other averments of fact in the thirty-third subdivision of the said bill of complaint.

Third.

These answering defendants, having fully traversed and answered the bill of complaint filed herein, further answering say:

I.

That in 1903 R. M. Snyder and associates formed a copartnership, known as the New York Oil and Gas Company, and acquired nearly 18,000 acres of gas leases, upon which they developed a supply of gas and secured a franchise to use the streets and alleys of Independence, Kan., to supply gas to the citizens thereof. During the same year said Snyder and associates obtained from the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company and the Independence Gas Company, corporations then owning a plant for the sale and distribution of gas in the city of Independence, an option to buy said plant in Independence and some 80,000 acres of leases located principally in the counties of Montgomery and Chautauqua, in Kansas, paying for said option the sum of $10,000. The full purchase price for said property was to be $550,000. During the same year R. N. Barnsdall and James O'Neil acquired about 90,000 acres of leases and brought in some producing gas wells thereon, located principally in Allen, Neosho, Wilson and Labette counties, Kansas, and organized the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

In 1904 the said Barnsdall and Snyder and their associates consolidated their propositions and increased the stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company from $6,000,000 to $12,000,000, and each group of associates transferred to the Kansas Natural Gas Company their various properties herein enumerated; the said Barnsdall and associates received for their property $6,000,000 of the capital stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Snyder and his associates received the remaining $6,000,000 of said capital stock. Said Snyder and associates received in addition thereto the sum of $900,000 in money, $540,000 of which was to be devoted to the payment of the balance of the purchase price of the properties of the Independence Gas Company and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company; that the $900,000 paid to Snyder and his associates was realized from the sale of the first mortgage bonds of the Kansas

371 Natural Gas Company; that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company thereafter acquired other leases, all of which said leases cost the said Kansas Natural Gas Company not to exceed $4,100,000, and said sum includes the value of all material used in the wells; and these defendants allege that all of the said leaseholds in the aggregate have not, during the time herein mentioned, been worth to exceed $4,000,000; that the value of the gas and oil marketed from said leases during all the years from the organization of the Kansas Natural Gas Company up to December 31, 1914, was not in excess of $6,652,944.83, and that the expenses in connection with the production of said oil and gas so sold from said leases was at least $3,630,171.48.

That the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company are in fact subsidiary companies to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the property of the three companies is one contiguous whole and all used in producing and transporting natural gas from the Mid-Continent gas fields to the consumers within the States of Kansas and Missouri; that all of said property is in the actual possession and being operated by these plaintiff receivers as one property, and will be hereafter referred to as one property under the name of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. The following table shows the amount of capital stock and bonds issued by each of these three companies:

Kansas Natural:

Common stock .....	$12,000,000
First-mortgage bonds .....	4,000,000
Second-mortgage bonds .....	4,000,000

Kansas City Pipe Line Company:

Stock .....	4,500,000
Bonds .....	4,745,000

Marnet Mining Company:

Stocks .....	2,500,000
Bonds .....	2,000,000

The statement shows that these companies have issued bonds of the face value of $14,745,000, for which they received $13,404,250. Of this amount $1,035,000 was invested by the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the bonds of the Marnet Mining Company, leaving a balance of $12,369,250 outside money actually received from the sale of said bonds.

Defendants allege that table 2 of Exhibit "K" of the bill of complaint is a statement showing the true and correct investment and property at the close of each year, together with the accrued depreciation and the net investment and division as between the transportation and production property of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company from the time it actually began business to December 31, 1914.

II.

These answering defendants further allege that from the time the said Kansas Natural Gas Company began its business, April 15, 1904, to December 31, 1914, that its revenues derived from its business were ample and sufficient to properly amortize its transportation and production property, to adequately maintain the same, and afforded the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, above such proper depreciation and maintenance, a return of 11.32 per cent per annum on the entire investment in said properties, as is more fully shown by tables 3 and 4, set out in Exhibit "K" attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint and to the answer of the Kansas Utilities Commission herein, and which are here referred to.

III.

These answering defendants, further answering, allege that the value of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company as a going concern in the hands of the plaintiff receivers, as found by the engineer of the Kansas Commission, on the 1st day of January, 1915, was $8,994,811.03; that said valuation is made up of the production and transportation properties of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company; that the following items, which compose the production property of the said company, are as follows:

Wells .....	$605,539.20
Leaseholds .....	1,126,359.34
Drilling and pulling tools .....	3,660.00
Warehouses, tools used in connection with wells, ....	56,379.53
Proper proportion of overhead expenses, .....	119,205.39
Total deductions .....	$1,911,205.39

373 That for a number of years the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and at the present time the receivers thereof, have purchased a large percentage of the gas sold and distributed by said gas company and receivers; that said plaintiff receivers are now purchasing at least 92½ per cent of all gas transported and sold or distributed by them, and are producing from their said leases not to exceed 7½ per cent of the gas so transported, sold or distributed.

These defendants allege that the value of said leases and wells is speculative and can not be definitely fixed, for the reason that should said wells on said leases become exhausted in the near future, then the value of said leases would be much less than the present value thereof assigned to them by the Commission's engineer; that should additional wells, furnishing considerable quantities of gas, be brought in in the near future, then the real value of said leases would be considerably greater than the said assigned value; and for these reasons these defendants allege that the said producing property in the hands of the said receivers should be separated from the total value of the property in the hands of said receivers, and that the said receivers should be allowed for the gas actually produced by them from said leases the same price which they are compelled to pay in the open market for gas; that by so dividing said property the value of said leases and wells is automatically, accurately and correctly fixed, and provides the plaintiffs at all times with a reasonable rate for the gas produced therefrom.

These defendants allege that the value of said wells, leaseholds, drilling and pumping tools, and warehouse tools used in connection with such wells, and a proper proportion of the overhead expenses in the aggregate, was estimated by the engineer of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas to be $1,911,205.39, as of January 1, 1915.

These defendants further allege that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas had no way of actually arriving at the true value of said leases, wells and other producing property other than as is herein explained, and therefore they assigned to it the estimated value placed thereon by the Commission's engineer, to wit, $1,911,205.39, for the purposes of the aforesaid division between the transportation and production properties, and deducted that amount from the total value of said property as found by the said engineer.

374 These defendants further allege that the present fair and reasonable value of the property used and useful for the transportation and distribution of natural gas in both Kansas and Missouri, and now in the possession of the plaintiff receivers, was, on January 1, 1915, the amount found by the Commission's engineer, less the said value of the leaseholds and other producing property assigned by Commission's engineer, to wit, the sum of $7,083,605.64.

The Kansas Commission had jurisdiction over only the property used in Kansas, and sought to provide only a reasonable return thereon to the receivers on such property as was used for supplying its consumers in Kansas, and that in order to accomplish this result it divided the value of the whole transportation property between Kansas and Missouri, as aforesaid, according to the uses made thereof in supplying the customers of the plaintiffs in the States of Kansas and Missouri. The method employed by the Kansas Commission in making such division is fully and completely set out in Table I of Exhibit "K," attached to plaintiffs' bill of complaint, and to the answer of the Kansas Commission, which table is here referred to.

That the fair value of the transportation property used in transporting gas from the places of production to consumers within the State of Kansas, as shown by said table, is $3,221,379.49, and to consumers in the State of Missouri is $3,862,226.15, which said amounts these defendants allege are a fair value of the property in the possession of the plaintiff receivers used and useful in the supplying of gas to their customers within the State of Kansas and the State of Missouri, and amounts to 45.48 per cent of the value of the transportation property in Kansas and 54.52 per cent in Missouri.

These defendants further allege that the said Kansas Natural Gas Company began making its investments in the year 1905, and continued making such investments up to January 1, 1915; that a fair average date of the total investment is January 1, 1907, and that the life of said transportation property, from the first day of January, 1915, is not less than 12 years in the field in which it is now employed, and the defendants allege that notwithstanding the uncertainty of the supply of gas in parts of the Mid-Continent field, the amount of gas now being transported through said transportation property and available for said purposes to the plaintiff receivers is not greatly diminished from the largest amount heretofore transported by them through said lines, and was greater in the year of 1915 than in the year of 1914, and that the said Mid-Continent gas field is being constantly developed and extended and its total 375 production at the present time is greater than in the past, and its full extent and capacity for production is still unknown.

These defendants allege that the order of the Public Utilities Commission of December 10, 1915, is based upon the past history and present condition of said Mid-Continent gas field and is not predicated upon a speculative decrease in the production of the said Mid-Continent gas field, and that the said basis is the only legal, fair and certain method of fixing said values.

IV.

Plaintiff receivers in their bill of complaint rest their claim for the future needs of gas, their future operating expenses and maintenance, upon the amount of gas transported and sold by them during the year 1914, except that for the year 1916 they allege that they should be entitled to $500,000 for the extension of their pipe lines into other gas fields, alleging that the same is a proper maintenance charge, but which these defendants allege to be a capital charge.

These defendants allege that during the year 1914, the plaintiffs transported and delivered to their consumers in the States of Kansas and Missouri 18,199,544 M. cu. ft., and said amount is fully shown by the following table:

Sold from field lines.....	678,717 M. cu. ft.
Used in compressor stations.....	1,409,413 "
Sold from main-line taps.....	277,838 "
Sold through dist. companies.....	15,833,576 "
Total .....	18,199,544 M. cu. ft.

That to supply the same amount of gas in the future as was supplied during the year 1914 these plaintiff receivers would not need to buy or produce in excess of 25,671,445 M. cu. ft., making allowance for all leakage and waste in the same per cents as alleged in plaintiffs' bill of complaint.

These defendants further allege that the plaintiff receivers during the first nine months of the year 1915 sold more gas than during the similar months for 1914 and at only a slight increase in cost, as is more fully shown in detail by table at page 47 of the printed answer of the Kansas Commission herein.

That the plaintiff receivers are able to purchase a sufficient quantity of gas at not to exceed four cents per thousand cubic feet at the wells, and that said receivers have not and are not paying for gas on the average to exceed four cents per thousand cubic feet at the 376 wells, based upon the pressure at which said receivers sell gas to their consumers.

These defendants further answering allege that the total operating expenses of the said receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company's property for the year 1914 were $841,289.88, but that said operating expenses included the sum of $28,663.90 taxes paid by said receivers on a large sum of money on hand, which said sum has since been distributed under the so-called creditors' agreement, and that said sum so paid for taxes should be eliminated from an estimate for future operating expenses.

That the receivership expenses for the year 1914 were $137,463.11, which, however, cover a period of more than two years and include the costs of expensive litigation, a large part of which said amount should not be allowed for future operating expenses.

These defendants allege that a reasonable amount for the services and expenses of said receivers and attorneys is not in excess of $40,000 per annum.

These defendants allege that the total operating expenses and taxes, based on the same expenses for the year 1914, should not be in excess of $812,625.98 per annum; that the total operating expenses of the entire plant operated in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, including a proper allowance for gas purchased, treating the gas produced upon the company's leases the same as that purchased, is not in excess of $1,936,794.67; that the total operating expense of the said plant after deducting therefrom the amount of expenses incurred directly in the production of gas, and in addition thereto a proper proportion of expense common to both the production and transportation, is not to exceed $1,626,652.83, which said amount is the total expense of obtaining, transporting and distributing gas; that the said $1,626,652.83 should be divided between Kansas and Missouri according to the use made of said property in transporting and delivering gas to plaintiffs' consumers within the States of Kansas and Missouri respectively.

That on this basis that portion of said expense which should be assigned to the State of Kansas would not exceed the sum of $780,269.57, and to the State of Missouri not exceeding the sum of $846,383.26; all of which said allegations in reference to said operating expenses is more fully shown in a table at page 49 of the answer of the Kansas Commission herein.

V.

377 These defendants further answering allege that the fair present value of the property in the possession and under the control of these receivers, and used and useful for transporting and distributing gas, as of January 1, 1915, is not in excess of $7,083,605.64.

That the fair life expectancy of said property is at least twelve years from said January 1, 1915; that the amount necessary to completely amortize the present value of the said plant during the said life expectancy is not to exceed $590,300 per annum, which said amount should be divided between the States of Kansas and Missouri on the basis of the use of said property in transporting and distributing gas to the plaintiff receivers' customers within the said States of Kansas and Missouri; i. e., 45.48 per cent should be assigned to Kansas and 54.52 per cent should be assigned to Missouri, as is more fully set out in paragraph three of the third division of this answer.

That upon this basis the amount properly to be charged to the State of Missouri is not in excess of $321,382 per annum.

VI.

These answering defendants further allege that these plaintiff receivers have not properly and efficiently managed the said properties in their possession and under their control, but have wasted the revenues of the company in interminable and expensive lawsuits. The leaseholds have been exhausted, and they have neglected to make proper effort to obtain an additional supply of gas necessary to meet the demands of the company's markets. Leases that were available for them have been obtained by other companies operating in the same field. That said receivers are now failing and neglecting to secure an adequate quantity of gas to supply their customers.

These defendants deny that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief whatsoever, or any part of the relief in said bill of complaint demanded, and allege that the plaintiffs have no standing in this court or in any court of equity.

And defendants pray in all things the same benefit and advantages of this, its answer, as if it had moved to dismiss said bill of complaint, and that a hearing be granted them upon the issues of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, as set forth in the first 378 division of this answer, and that the bill of complaint be dismissed as against these defendants.

Second, that should the bill of complaint not be dismissed as against these defendants before a final hearing of this cause these defendants pray that the bill of complaint be dismissed as against them, and that they go hence without day, and that they have judgment for their costs.

And now, after deliberation, it is adjudged and decreed:

1st. That the rates in force on January 1, 1911, Laws of Kansas, 1911, Chap. 238, Section 301, for the sale and delivery of natural gas by the Receiver or the Natural Gas Company, to consumers in Kansas, either directly or through intermediaries, that is to say, to consumers at the following places and the cents below named:

were, on December 10, 1915, and still are, non-compensatory, unreasonably low and confiscatory.

2nd. That the next rates fixed by the Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas by its order of December 10, 1915, for the sale and delivery, either directly or through intermediaries, of natural gas by the receiver of the Natural Gas Company, to consumers in Kansas, that is to say, "for domestic gas in Montgomery County, 23 cents per thousand cubic feet except at Elk City, where the present rate of 25 cents is to remain; boiler gas in said county 10 cents per thousand cubic feet. In all other counties except those supplied by the Gunn pipe line 28 cents per thousand cubic feet; in the counties supplied by the Gunn pipe line, the present rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and on all boiler gas, except in Montgomery County, 12½ cents per thousand cubic feet," then were, and still are, non-compensatory, unreasonably low and confiscatory.

392 3rd. That because the rates above specified are non-compensatory, unreasonably low and confiscatory the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley, John M. Kinkel, the members thereof, H. O. Caster, its attorney, S. M. Brewster, the Attorney General of the State of Kansas, and all the other parties to this suit interested in such rates, and all the agents, servants, attorneys, employees and successors of each and all of them, be, and they are hereby, enjoined and prohibited, until the final hearing and decision of this suit, or the further order of this court, from putting or maintaining in effect, or attempting to put or maintain in effect, by legal proceedings, or otherwise, against the Receiver or the Natural Gas Company, any of said rates, and from enforcing, or causing the enforcement of, by legal proceedings, or otherwise, against the Natural Gas Company or the Receiver, or their Agents, attorneys, servants or employees, any penal provisions of the Laws of Kansas, 1911, Chapter 28, Section 238, or of any Laws of Kansas, on account of the failure or refusal of the receiver of the Natural Gas Company to put or maintain in effect such rates, or any of them, and that the writ of injunction of this court issue to enforce this decree.

393 4th. That the injunction and decree hereby shall take effect, and the writ of injunction hereon shall issue, on condition, and not otherwise, that within sixty (60) days from the entry of this decree the Receiver, or some one in his behalf, shall make and file in this court a bond or undertaking to the United States for the benefit of all parties interested, in the sum of $750,000.00, with security approved by Honorable Ralph E. Campbell, District Judge, conditioned that the Receiver will pay no more upon the principals of the debts of creditors who were parties to the creditors' agreement of December, 1914, or to the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, Trustee, until $750,000.00 has been invested in the necessary extensions of the pipes of the Natural Gas Company, and the necessary compressors, to enable the Receiver to furnish to his customers and the customers of the Natural Gas Company, a reasonably adequate gas supply, that he will proceed speedily to make these investments, that he will invest therein at least $500,000.00 within six months after the entry of this decree, that he will pay such costs and damages as may be incurred or suffered by any party who may be found to have been wrongfully enjoined or restrained

394 by the injunction hereby decreed, that in case the final decision of this suit should grant the Receiver and the Natural Gas Company no relief, or in case the injunction decreed herein shall be adjudged to have been improvidently issued by the final decision of that question, he will pay back to each of the consumers of the gas he furnishes herein, the excess paid by such consumer therefor above what he would have paid at the rates fixed by the order of the Commission of December 10, 1915, and that he will keep, or cause to be kept, accounts showing such excess open at all times to the inspection of the court, of such consumers and their agents.

5th. That this court reserves exclusive jurisdiction of such bond of the parties thereto, who by executing the same become parties to this suit, of the enforcement of the obligations of the bond and of the recovery of damages for any breach thereof.

6th. That this court reserves jurisdiction of the subject matter of this application for an injunction, and of the parties thereto, and reserves its power and authority to add to, take from, modify or supplement the injunction hereby decreed, or any other provision of this decree, at any time during the pendency of this suit.

7th. That any other or further injunction than that hereby granted is hereby denied without prejudice, however, to 395 another or supplemental application upon newly discovered evidence, new or subsequent facts or occurrences.

Per Curiam:

John M. Landon is the receiver of the property of the Natural Gas Company, a corporation of the State of Delaware, by appointment of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and of the United States District Court of the District of Kansas, and he is operating the business and property of that company under the direction of the former court. That company is directly and indirectly the owner of the pipe line extending from gas fields in the State of 398 Oklahoma to thirty-seven cities in Kansas and eight cities in Missouri, and by means of the receiver is conducting natural gas from Oklahoma to these cities and their inhabitants, where it is distributed under contracts between the natural gas company and other corporations that for convenience are termed distributing companies. The receiver obtains about 92½% of his gas from fields in Oklahoma and about 7½% from fields in Kansas. He purchases the gas he obtains from Oklahoma and produces from lease-holds of the company most of that obtained from fields in Kansas. He supplies about 46% of his gas to the Kansas cities and towns and about 54% of it to cities and towns in Missouri. On December 10, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas made an order to the effect among other things, that the net rates for the sale of natural gas by the receiver to the public in the State of Kansas should be:

"For domestic gas in Montgomery County, 23c. per thousand cubic feet except at Elk City, where the present rate of 25c. is to remain; boiler gas in said county 10c. per thousand cubic feet.

"In all other counties except those supplied by the Gunn Pipe Line 28 cents per thousand cubic feet; in the counties supplied by the Gunn Pipe Line, the present rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and on all boiler gas, except Montgomery County, 12½ cents per thousand cubic feet."

As the rate of 28 cents named in this order applies to much the larger part of the gas affected by the order the rates so fixed have been and will be termed the 28 cent rate. The receiver has brought this suit against the members of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the Attorney General of that state to prevent by the injunction of this court the enforcement of the order fixing this 28 cent rate on the ground that it is unreasonably low, confiscatory of the property and destructive of the business of the natural gas company and violative of the constitution of the United States.

He has made the distributing companies through which, and the cities to which, he furnishes gas parties defendant. He has also made the members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri parties defendant has set forth a complaint and prayed an injunction somewhat similar against them. After the commencement of the suit an application for an interlocutory injunction against the enforcement of the rates fixed by the orders of the commissions was made and has been heard in accordance with the provisions of Section 266 of the Judicial Code as amended, 1 U. S. Comp. Stat., Section 1243, Page 519.

The crucial question for decision upon this application for an injunction by the court constituted under Section 266 is whether or not the 28 cent rate is confiscatory or unreasonably low. Ten days have been devoted to the reception of evidence and the hearing of arguments. Time has been taken for examination of evidence and briefs and for deliberation and consultation. Many issues of fact and of law have been presented that were proper for consideration but that are not controlling of the decision of the question at issue. The Act of Congress requires that the hearing on this application "shall be given precedence and shall be in every way expedited"; and the situation of the property in the hands of the receivers and of the parties to this litigation is such that delay may be as fatal to the interests of all concerned as an adverse decision. For these reasons the court pretermits reference to matters that are not indispensable to the determination of the crucial question in hand, as well as discussion of those that are indispensable to such a question, and confines itself to a statement of the conclusions which the law and the evidence in this opinion compel.

One of the bases of the conclusion and order of the commission is the following table which is copied from its opinion:

Table No. 5.—Kansas Natural Gas Company.

403 The Commission found the reproduction value of the property of the gas company less depreciation for age and use to be $7,083,605.64, the probable life of the going concern to be twelve years, amortized the $7,083,605.64 by the allowance of one-twelfth thereof $590,300.00 as a yearly requirement for its operation and allocated all the requirements between Kansas and Missouri on the basis of 45.48% to Kansas and 54.52% to Missouri. The evidence before the commission, a great volume of evidence which was not before the commission, including a disclosure of the actual results of the operation of the property during the first four months of the year 1915 under the 25 cent rate which existed before the commission established a 28 cent rate, and the results of its operation during the first four months of the year 1916 under the 28 cent rate, evidence of the exhaustion of gas fields, of the increase of the cost of gas, of the value of the property of the company, and of every other conceivable issue relative to the general question has been presented to this court. Upon nearly every issue this evidence is conflicting and the determination of some of these issues is difficult. "And yet," as the Supreme Court said in Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co. v. Tompkins, 176 U. S. 167, 172, "This 404 difficulty affords no excuse for a failure to examine and solve the questions involved." Bearing this caution in mind and conceding the present value of the property of the company to be $7,083,605.64 as the commission found it, a deliberate consideration of the entire case has forced our minds to these findings and conclusions which in our view are determinative of the real question to be decided.

A supply of gas adequate to the reasonable needs of the customers of the natural gas company for domestic lighting, cooking and heating is the real desideratum in this case. Without it no rate will be compensatory. The company now has no such supply, it can not get such a supply without adequate extensions to its pipe lines. It can make such extensions by the expenditure of a reasonable amount of money. It cannot make such extensions without such money and it cannot get the money to make them without compensatory rates for the gas it procures and sells. Any rate which will not compensate it for making the necessary extensions to secure such a supply, for paying its other necessary expenses of operation and a reasonable income on the value of its property is unavoidably confiscatory, because without these extensions it must lose its 405 customers, cease its operation, and the value of its property must greatly decrease.

In the earlier years of its operation the natural gas company produced most of its gas from its leaseholds in Kansas, but the fields so leased have been gradually exhausted until it is able to produce therefrom only about 7½% of the gas it transports and sells. In order to get gas it has already extended its pipes far into the State of Oklahoma where it purchases and when it transports to the cities of Kansas and Missouri 92½% of its gas. It is conceded that the business of the company is temporary, that the exhaustion of the fields which it can reach with permissible extensions must eventually come and that the time when it can not longer reach fields from which it can obtain gas cannot be delayed many years. The creditors' agreement of December, 1914, which provided for the payment of the bonded debts of the company within six years and for the expenditure of $1,500,000.00 for extensions and additional gas supply, indicates that they estimated the life of the company as a going concern at six years from that date. The opinion of the Kansas Commission based upon this creditors' agreement provided for the payment of the bonded debts of the company except 406 the principal of the second mortgage bonds within the six years 1915, 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920, and for the expenditure by the receiver for extensions and additional gas supplies of $1,500,000.00. The life of the company as a going concern is necessarily unknown and unknowable, a matter of opinion, and yet the court must determine what it probably is, and a consideration of the evidence, of the history of the gas fields in Kansas and Oklahoma, of the testimony of witnesses familiar with that history, with the fields and with the production, purchase, transportation and sale of gas has brought the minds of all the members of the court to the conclusion that the probable life of the natural gas company as a going concern is approximately six years from this date, June 3, 1916.

The creditors by their agreement provided for an expenditure of $1,500,000.00 within six years from December, 1914, for the extensions of the pipes of the company and an additional supply of gas. The Kansas Commission in its opinion, founded upon that creditors' agreement, made a like allowance. The extensions contemplated have not been made and the exhaustion of the available 407 gas fields has proceeded for seventeen months since the creditors' agreement and for about eleven months since the opinion and finding of the commission founded upon it. In order to procure and maintain a reasonably adequate supply of gas for the coming winter it is necessary for the receiver to extend the pipe lines fifty or sixty miles and to construct compressors at an aggregate expense of at least $750,000.00 to $900,000.00 during the first year after the filing of this opinion. And it is the opinion of the court that in order to procure and maintain such a supply of gas during the six years of the probable life of the company as a going concern it will be necessary for the receiver to expend for extensions and compressors at least $750,000.00 the first year and $200,000.00 in each of the five years thereafter, amounting in all to $1,750,000.00. As the life of the company as a going concern is six years the salvage value of the pipes and other materials at the end of the six years when they will be no longer useful in their places in the ground is estimated to be $262,500.00 and deducting this from the $1,750,000.00 leaves $1,487,500.00 which must be returned within the six years. The commission in its finding and estimates made no allowance for these extensions.

The commission allowed $1,026,857.80 yearly for the pur-

408 chase of 25,671,445 M cubic feet of gas at four cents per cubic foot. Gas is constantly becoming more difficult to procure, the cost of it in the fields has increased and is increasing as the fields one after another are exhausted, and the evidence that has been produced before this court has convinced us that the gas requisite reasonably to supply the customers of the natural gas company will cost at least six cents per M cubic foot, and that on this account there should be allowed as a part of the requirements of the receiver and the company two cents more per M cubic foot yearly than the amount which was allowed by the commission, that is to say $513,428.90.

The commission allowed for interest six per cent annually on $7,283,605.64 or $437,916.64. The business of and the investment in the property of this gas company is of the most precarious and hazardous nature. Seven per cent per annum is deemed a just and reasonable allowance on investments in railroads and in the property of water, artificial gas and lighting companies of a permanent nature, and at least eight per cent per annum should be allowed in this case, or an increase of the amount allowed by the commission of two per cent on $7,283,605.64 or $145,672.10.

409 The commission allowed $590,300.00 which is one-twelfth of $7,083,605.64 for future depreciation of the property of the company on the basis that the life of the company as a going concern would be twelve years. As the evidence has convinced that its life will not exceed six years there should have been allowed $590,300.00 more each year during the six years than was allowed by the commission.

Turning now to the table of the commission quoted above the result is that, laying aside other considerations and conceding the substantial correctness of the commission's other findings for the purpose of the decision of this application for injunction, its estimates of the requirements of the company and of the receiver for the first and the succeeding five years of the life of the gas company as a going concern were too low by the following amounts:

On account of estimating twelve years instead of six years as the life of the going concern by . . . . .	$590,300.00
On account of lack of allowance for extensions by . . . . .	247,916.00
On account of estimate of cost of gas at four cents per M cubic foot instead of six cents per M cubic foot by . . . . .	513,428.90
On account of allowance of six per cent instead of eight per cent interest . . . . .	145,672.10
Total . . . . .	$1,497,317.00

The commission assigned to the Kansas property 45.48 per cent of its estimated revenue and requirements; 45.48 per cent of $1,497,317.00 is $680,979.00. The commission estimated that upon the basis stated in its table a surplus of $147,848.14 would be produced. Deducting this estimated surplus from the $680,979.00 it appears that its estimated revenue falls short by $533,131.10 of producing an amount sufficient to pay the necessary expenses of the maintenance and operation of the property and business of the natural gas company and a reasonable interest upon the present value of its property.

The experience of the future may, and it is hoped that it will, teach that the necessary requirements of the receiver and the 411 company will be less than those which the evidence convinces the court will be indispensable to provide and maintain an adequate supply of gas for the customers, to operate the business of the company and to return a fair income upon the value of its property. The opinion of the court can rest only on the evidence before it, and upon that evidence it is its opinion that a less rate than thirty-two cents per M cubic foot will be found insufficient to accomplish this result. But even if there are errors in some of the conclusions to which the court has arrived, and even if they are so great as to reduce the necessary increase of the requirements fixed by the commission by one-half, still moneys must be provided for the extensions of the pipes of the company, for which the commission allowed nothing; the amount it allowed for the cost of gas and the interest rate which it fixed were largely too low, twelve years was too high an estimate for the life of the plant and in the opinion of the court there is no escape from the conclusions that the 28 cent rate is not and will not be compensatory, that on the other hand it is unreasonably low, confiscatory and violative of the Constitution of the United States, and 412 that the complainant is entitled to the interlocutory injunction of this court to prevent its enforcement pending the hearing of this cause upon its merits.

The creditors by their agreement consented that there should be reserved during the year 1915 $500,000.00 out of the annual earnings for that year and $200,000.00 annually thereafter for extensions, betterments and additional gas supply upon condition that the properties were being operated on a compensatory rate. Those amounts have not been so reserved and applied and yet $1,000,000.00 has been paid on the principal of the creditors' debts during these years. Under these circumstances the rights of the public, that is to say, of the customers of the gas company, to a reasonably adequate supply of gas from the receiver and the company at a rate that is not unreasonably high, are superior to the rights of the creditors to the payment of their debts, and the making of necessary extensions of the pipes and the construction of the requisite compressors to procure and furnish to these customers that reasonably adequate supply, must be made primary in the administration of this estate and the payments upon the principals of debts of the creditors secondary. To this end the issue of the injunction herein will be conditioned 413 upon the giving by the receiver, or by some one on his behalf, of a bond or undertaking in the sum of $750,000.00 with adequate security that he will pay no more upon the principals of the debts of the creditors who were parties to their agreement of December, 1914, or to the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, until $750,000.00 has been invested in the necessary extensions and compressors and that he will proceed speedily to make them and will invest therein at least $500,000.00 within six months after the issue of the injunction herein.

Elaborate arguments have been made and extensive briefs have been submitted on the questions whether the gas which the receiver is buying, carrying and selling, is an article of interstate or of intrastate commerce, whether he is engaged in interstate or intrastate commerce, and if, in the former whether the rate fixed by the commission directly or indirectly burdens or interferes with interstate commerce. These questions have received examination and consideration. Their decision, however, is not indispensable to the determination of the question before this court, for, if the gas is not an article of interstate commerce and if the business of the receiver in dealing with it is not interstate commerce, nevertheless, this court has plenary jurisdiction to adjudge the issue whether or not the 28 cent rate is unreasonably low or is confiscatory and to enforce its adjudication by injunction under the Public Utilities Act of Kansas, Laws of 1911, Chap. 238, Sec. 21; State v. Flannelly, 154 Pac. 235, 237, Rights created or provided by the statutes of the states to be pursued in the state courts may be enforced and administered in the national courts, either at law, in equity, or in admiralty, as the nature of the rights or remedies may require. "A party by going into a national court does not lose any right or appropriate remedy of which he might have availed himself in the state courts of the same locality. The wise policy of the constitution gives him a choice of tribunals." Davis v. Gray, 16 Wall. 203, 221; Ex parte McNeil, 13 Wall. 236; Darragh v. H. Wetter Mfg. Co., 78 Fed. 7, 14; 23 C. C. A. 609, 616 and cases there cited; Broderick's Will 21 Wall. 503, 520; Cowley v. Railroad Company, 159 U. S. 569, 583. Discussion of these questions is therefore omitted, but the members of the court are unanimously of the opinion (1) that the gas purchased or procured in Oklahoma, transported from Oklahoma and sold or delivered by the receiver or by the Gas Company to parties in Kansas or Missouri, is an article of interstate commerce as is the gas procured in Kansas and sold or delivered by them, or either of them, to parties in Missouri, (2) that this gas, which is probably at least 95 per cent of all the gas the receiver or the company handles, does not lose its interstate character by the fact that a small portion, probably not exceeding 4 per cent of the gas, they handle, is procured and delivered in Kansas, is an article of intrastate commerce and is inseparably mingled in the pipes with the interstate gas, (3) that the purchase or procuring of interstate gas in Oklahoma, its transportation, sale and delivery by the receiver, or the Gas Company to parties in Kansas and Missouri, is interstate commerce, and the receiver and the company are engaged in interstate commerce, (4) that the enforcement by a state through its officers of any legislative act preventing interstate commerce in this article of interstate commerce, either by a direct prohibition of such commerce in this article by state law, or by an inhibition of a sale of the article in the state at any price whatever, or at any price above a price so low that the laws of trade make it impossible to purchase or procure it in another state and to sell and deliver it in the prohibiting state at that price 416 with profit, substantially burdens and unduly interferes with interstate commerce in violation of the commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States.

Counsel for the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas argue that the issues relative to the interstate or intrastate character of the business and gas of the Receiver are rendered res adjudicata between him and the Commission by the judgments of the Supreme Court of Kansas in State ex rel. Caster v. Flannelly, 152 Pac. 22, and State ex rel. Caster v. Flannelly, 154 Pac. 235, to which the Receiver and the Commission were parties and in which that court in its opinions expressed the view that this business and this gas was not of an interstate character. But reasons given by courts in their opinions for conclusions they reach which are not necessary to and are not embodied in or made parts of the adjudications which they render do not work the estoppel of res adjudicata. One of the judgments of the Supreme Court in the case mentioned was founded on its decision that Judge Flannelly had no jurisdiction of the case before him for the sole reasons that the summons against the Commission and its members, and the service thereof, were unauthorized and void.

The other judgments were the denial of the petition of the 417 receivers for an injunction against the Commission to prevent it from putting the 28 cent rate in force, and this was founded on the ground that the receiver had already voluntarily put it in force and no longer pressed in that court for relief against it and the other was the dismissal of the mandamus proceeding because there was no longer any function for it to perform. The opinion and conclusion that the business and the gas of the receiver were not of an interstate character was unnecessary and immaterial to any of these judgments and for that reason the court is of the opinion that the questions in relation to the interstate or intrastate character of the business or gas of the receiver and of the Natural Gas Company were not rendered res adjudicata by the adjudication of the Supreme Court of Kansas in the cases to which reference has been made.

Now as to the Missouri defendants. First, have the receivers establish their right to the preliminary injunction prayed against the Missouri Public Service Commission? In paragraph 2 of the bill it is alleged that on September 27, 1915, the Public Service Commission of Missouri held a conference with the Public Service Commission of Kansas, after which John M. Atkinson, as chairman of the Missouri Commission, and for the Commission, 418 announced that the Missouri Commission would not permit a higher rate to be charged in the cities of Missouri than was charged in the border cities of Kansas. In support of this allegation affidavits were introduced, from which it appears that about September 28, 1915, the three members of the Kansas Commission and two members of the Missouri Commission, held a private conference in the Baltimore Hotel at Kansas City, Missouri, after which one of the members of the Missouri Commission, stated that: "If application is ever made to the Missouri Commission for an increase of natural gas rates in these Missouri cities which are supplied with gas by distributing companies buying from the Kansas Natural, no action will be taken until all the cities have been given a hearing. Neither will the Commission, if called upon to take action, agree to a higher rate in Missouri cities—all of which are upon the border, than in cities of Kansas similarly situated. This applies with particular force to Kansas City, Missouri, and Kansas City, Kansas, which the Commission regards as practically one city."

Certainly this statement of a single member of the Commission, made under these circumstances, outlining what he believed would be the action of the Commission in the future in case the question of these rates should be brought before it, furnishes no ground in itself for the granting of the injunctive relief prayed.

It is further alleged that on September 13, 1915, the local distributing companies of Oronogo, and Carl Junction, Missouri, filed with the Missouri Commission schedules prescribing a rate of 30 cents for each of those towns, which the Commission suspended and has ever since refused to permit said rates to be put into effect. Under the law of that state the Commission may upon the filing of a proposed schedule of rates, suspend its operation pending a hearing. It does not appear that a hearing as to these last mentioned rates has ever been had so that it cannot be said what will be the action of the Commission as to such rate, and it further appears that the applications for the allowance of such schedules have been since withdrawn.

So far as concerns the case of the plaintiff, the receiver, against the Missouri Commission as to the order of the Missouri Commission in relation to the St. Joseph rates, it will be noted that the order of the Missouri Commission complained of was entered at a proceeding to which neither the receiver nor the Kansas Natural Gas Company was a party. The order entered in that proceeding was directed only against the St. Joseph Company. In the course of its opinion the Commission said:

"The company (St. Joseph Company) has been paying the Kansas Company 26-2/3 cents per thousand cubic feet, while other distributing companies are paying 16-2/3 cents, except the local company in Kansas City, Missouri, which pays 16.87 cents. The Kansas Company is not before us, and we have no jurisdiction over the contract between that company and the defendant, under which the latter receives its gas from the former. However, it is well recognized that in rate-making cases only reasonable charges, as operating expenses, will be allowed against the public. * * *

The increase from 40 to 60 cents prayed by the St. Joseph Company was denied. There is nothing in the order of the Missouri Commission to prevent the receiver continuing to collect from the St. Joseph Gas Company his proportion of the rate as provided by the contract. So long as the St. Joseph Company continues to collect the 40 cent rate the Receiver may under his contract collect as his proportion the 26-2/3 cents. A consideration of all the evidence does not convince us that 26-2/3 as the proportion of the St. Joseph rate received by the Receiver is unreasonably low, noncompensatory, unremunerative or confiscatory. Therefore, no ground is shown in reference to the Missouri Public Service Commission's order regarding St. Joseph rates that entitles the receiver to the preliminary injunction prayed.

So far as concerns the application of the St. Joseph Gas Company for an interlocutory injunction as against the Attorney General of the State of Missouri and the officers of the Public Service Commission of that State as prayed in what it terms its intervening bill of complaint in this case, it appears that the original bill of the Receiver, plaintiff, both the St. Joseph Gas Company and the Attorney General and Public Service Commission of Missouri were made parties defendant. By its answer filed in this case on January 28, 1916, the St. Joseph Gas Company states that it has no knowledge, save as is alleged in said bill, as to the several allegations thereof and leaves the complainant, receivers, to make such proof thereof as they may be advised is material and further states that it has no interest in the result of the receiver's suit or in the matters to be litigated herein and specifically disclaims any such interest and prays to be dismissed with its costs. At the hearing upon the application of the Receiver in Kansas City, the St. Joseph Gas Company, through counsel, asked and was granted leave within a certain time thereafter to file an intervening bill.

It has now filed what it styles its intervening bill of complaint, and upon the allegations therein contained it bases its application for the interlocutory order above referred to. The Attorney General of Missouri and the Public Service Commission of that State challenge the jurisdiction of this court in this cause to grant such relief to the St. Joseph Gas Company. In view of the fact that that Company and the aforementioned Missouri defendants were all made parties to the original bill, what the St. Joseph Gas Company terms its intervening bill is in reality a cross action or cross bill against its codefendants, the Attorney General and the Public Service Commission of Missouri.

In Stuart v. Hayden, 72 Fed. 402, the Circuit Court of Appeals for this circuit said:

"A cross bill is brought either to aid in the defense of the original suit or to obtain a complete determination of the controversies between the original complainant and the cross complainant over the subject matter of the original bill. If its purpose is different from this, it is not a cross bill although it may have a connection with the general subject of the original bill. It may not interpose new controversies between co-defendants to the original bill, the decision of which is unnecessary to a complete determination of the controversies between the complainant and the defendant over the subject matter of the original bill. If it does so, it becomes an original bill, and must be dismissed, because there cannot be two original bills in the same case. Story Eq. Pl. Sec. 3890; Cross v. De Valle, 1 Wall. 1, 140; Ayres v. Carver, 17 How. 591; Rubber Co. v. Goodyear, 9 Wall, 807, 809; Stonemetz Printer's Mach. Co. v. Brown Folding Mach. Co., 46 Fed. 851; Fidelity Trust & Safety Vault Co. vs. Mobile St. Ry. Co., 53 Fed. 850, 852; McMullen v. Ritchie, 57 Fed. 104."

In Gilmore v. Bort, 134 Fed. 658, it is said:

"The purpose of a cross-bill is either (1) to obtain a discovery in aid of a defense to the original bill, or (2) to obtain full relief to all parties touching the matters of the original bill. Story's Eq. Pl. par. 389. And it must be made to appear that a settlement of the controversy presented by the cross-bill is fairly necessary in order to enable the court to fully dispose of the matter of the original bill. It is auxiliary to the original suit, and a dependency upon it, and should not introduce any new or distinct matter not embraced in the original bill. Neither may it introduce new controversies between the co-defendants in the original bill, the decision of which is in no way necessary to a complete determination of the controversy between the complainant and the defendants over the subject matter of the original bill. If it does, it is not a cross-bill but an original bill and should be dismissed. Cross v. De Valle, 1 Wall., 5; Rubber Co. v. Goodyear, 9 Wall., 807; Stewart v. Hayden, 72 Fed. 402, 18 C. C. A. 618."

The relief sought as set forth in the prayer of what is termed the intervening bill is that should the court find and decree that the matter of the division of the proceeds received from the consumers for gas sold in St. Joseph or the amount paid by the St. Joseph Gas Company to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or its receiver, for gas is a matter within the jurisdiction and control of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, that the court should further find and decree that 17 cents per thousand cubic feet, the amount fixed by the Missouri Public Service Commission as the maximum operating charge which it will allow against the public as the cost of gas, is an insufficient and unreasonably small operating charge, the enforcement of which results in the confiscation of intervenor's property as set forth in the bill, and that the court find and determine whether 26-2/3 cents per M cubic foot is a fair, reasonable and proper sum to be paid by the intervenor to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or its receiver, for gas and a fair and reasonable operating charge against the public as the cost of gas, and that the aforementioned Missouri defendants be temporarily and permanently enjoined and restrained from attempting to enforce the provisions of the order and decisions of the Missouri Commission or authorizing or directing the institution of any suit or action against the intervenor, or its officers, agents, or employees for the recovery of any penalties because of its failure to observe such order.

A careful consideration of the allegations of this intervening bill, which we treat as a cross-bill, convinces us that it neither serves to aid in the defense of the original suit nor to obtain a complete determination of the controversies between the original complainant and the several defendants to the original bill. In our judgment it interposes new controversies between co-defendants to the original bill the decision of which is unnecessary to a complete determination of the controversies between the complainant receiver and the several defendants to the original bill over the subject matter of that bill. It is in the nature of an original controversy between the St. Joseph Gas Company and the several Missouri defendants, and the fact that in the determination of this controversy it may and probably will become necessary to consider questions very similar to those 426 involved in this case as between the receiver and the several defendants to the original case, makes it none the less a new and distinct controversy of which, in the present state of the record, we conclude we have not jurisdiction to grant the relief prayed by the St. Joseph Gas Company, and its application for an interlocutory injunction will, therefore, be denied.

It has not been and is not necessary for this court as at present constituted to determine the validity of the city ordinances, the contracts between the cities and the distributing companies, the contracts between the distributing companies and the Natural Gas Company and the duties and obligations of the Receiver under them in order to adjudicate the issues it was constituted to decide and for that reason no opinion is expressed or adjudication made concerning them.

No. 136-N.

JOHN M. LANDON, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS
et al., Defendants.

Reply to Answer and Counter Claim of Kansas City Gas Company.

Comes now the plaintiff and for his reply to the answer and counter claim of the Kansas City Gas Company, alleges:

1.

That he denies that the defendant Kansas City Gas Company receives its natural gas from him under and pursuant to certain contracts and writings dated November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, and denies that said contracts are in full force and effect. But alleges that the same have been disavowed by this receiver and that conditions under which said contracts were entered into have so changed, as contemplated in said contracts, that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and this plaintiff are and were justified in dis-avowing and cancelling said contracts, as is more fully set up in the bill of complaint and supplemental bill of complaint and the exhibits thereto attached filed in this cause. That he denies that the receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company have continued to supply said defendant with natural gas under said contract.

That plaintiff is without adequate knowledge as to all facts set out in paragraph- 13, 14 and 15 of said counter claim and hence neither admits nor denies the same.

428 That plaintiff is without knowledge as to the averments in paragraph 17 of the counter claim, except that he denies that the Kansas Natural Gas Company represented through its supply contract, or otherwise, that it would at all times be able to furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of natural gas to enable said defendant to distribute and sell the same in sufficient quantities for lighting, cooking, domestic heating, furnaces, industrial power, boiler and manufacturing purposes; but alleges that the supply contract on its face shows that the supply of natural gas was limited and uncertain, and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company did not assume to furnish sufficient and adequate supply of natural gas for said purposes. That said supply contracts were made in view of the location of the then known gas belt in Southeastern Kansas and with the expectation that a sufficient supply could be obtained from said field, but that the source of supply has receded. That the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers has continued to extend its pipe lines to greater and greater distances year after year, until natural gas is supplied to the defendant from distances and points never in the contemplation of the parties at the time the said supply contracts were entered into. All as more fully appears from the bill of complaint and the supplemental bill of complaint filed in this cause. That by reason of the premises the said supply contracts are not and have not been for some time in force and effect. That the plaintiff is without accurate information as to the allegations contained in the 18th and 19th paragraphs of said counter claim, and hence neither denies nor admits the same.

VS.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF KANSAS et al., Defendants.

Petition to Dissolve Injunction and Supplemental Answer, Counter-claim and Cross-bill of the Wyandotte County Gas Company.

Comes now The Wyandotte County Gas Company, defendant in the above entitled cause, and for its petition to dissolve the interlocutory temporary injunction issued herein, and for its supplemental answer, counterclaim and cross-bill of complaint against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and John M. Landon, its Receiver, herein-after referred to as plaintiffs, alleges, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That The Wyandotte County Gas Company is a corpora-430 tion duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Kansas, and a citizen and resident of said State and of the First Division of the Judicial District of Kansas, and is engaged in the business of distributing and selling natural gas to Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, and the inhabitants thereof under and pursuant to certain franchises granting the use of the public ways of said cities for such purpose. That the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and the plaintiff, John M. Landon, is its Receiver, agent, attorney and representative; and that the matter in controversy herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum or value of $3,000.

2. That on December 13, 1904, the mayor and council of Kansas City, Kansas, duly passed, approved and caused to be published Ordinance No. 6051 of said city, providing, among other things, for the distribution and sale of natural gas "for lighting, heating, power and manufacturing purposes"; that the rates for general consumption might commence at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet and increase from time to time to 35 cents per thousand cubic feet, and that the rates for power and manufacturing purposes might be determined by "special contracts with consumers at less than the general rates then in force, based upon the amount of gas used and the conditions of the contract; provided that the grantees should charge no greater rates for natural gas than those mentioned in a certain ordinance to be passed in Kansas City, Missouri; that said ordinance of Kansas City, Missouri, was thereafter passed and named a schedule of rates commencing at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet and increasing from time to time to only

30 cents per thousand cubic feet, thereby limiting said Kansas

431 City, Kansas, ordinance; that said Ordinance No. 6051 of Kansas City, Kansas, was duly accepted by the grantee and has since been duly assigned to The Wyandotte County Gas Company and is still in force and effect, except that the rates mentioned therein have been decreed to be legislative and not contractual as between your petitioner and the state of Kansas and Kansas City, Kansas (State of Kans. v. Wyandotte County Gas Co., 88 Kans. 165; The Wyandotte County Gas Co. v. State of Kans., 231 U. S. 622), a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked "Exhibit A" and made a part hereof.

3. That on March 21, 1905, the mayor and council of Rosedale, Kansas, duly passed, approved and caused to be published Ordinance No. 295 of said city, providing for the furnishing of natural gas "for manufacturing, heating, illuminating and all other purposes for which natural gas or manufactured gas may be used," and fixed a schedule of rates for general consumption commencing at 35 cents per thousand cubic feet and increasing from time to time to 50 cents per thousand cubic feet; provided that the rates charged in Rosedale should never exceed the rates charged in Kansas City, Kansas; that said ordinance was duly accepted by the grantees and has since been duly assigned to The Wyandotte County Gas Company and is still in force and effect, and said rates have been decreed to be contractual in said The Wyandotte County Gas Company cases referred to in the last preceding paragraph, a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked "Exhibit B" and made a part hereof.

4. That on February 1, 1906, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company as first party and The Wyandotte Gas Company as second party duly entered into a certain contract in writing providing for a supply of natural gas to said The Wyandotte Gas Company; that thereafter said contract was duly assigned by first party to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and all the rights acquired and the obligations thereof assumed by said Company; and thereafter said contract was duly assigned by the second party to The Wyandotte County Gas Company and the rights acquired and the obligations thereof assumed by said Company; and your petitioner is now and long has been obtaining its supply of natural gas for distribution and sale in said cities under and pursuant to said contract; a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked "Exhibit C" and made a part hereof.

5. That said contract recited that first party was the owner of gas lands and leases and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas to Kansas City and desired to contract to transport and furnish a supply of gas to second party; and that second party was the owner of a franchise for the distribution and sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Kansas, said franchise being marked "Exhibit I" and attached to said contract, the same being the aforesaid Ordinance No. 6051; that first party agreed during the period of said franchise, until December 14, 1924, to supply and deliver natural gas to second party at a pressure of 20 pounds at Kansas City "in such amount as will at all times supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," subject to accidents, interruptions and failures under certain conditions, and "for the compensation" of a certain percentage of the gross receipts from the sale of such gas; and that "the party of the second part agrees to buy from the party of the first part all the gas it may need to fully supply the demand for domestic 433 consumption in said city of Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte county, and to pay to party of the first part for the natural gas which it shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes * * * a sum equal to 62½ per cent of such gross receipts. The party of the second part makes no agreement with the party of the first part respecting the rates at which it shall sell natural gas to any consumer in Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte county, but expressly reserves to itself the right to charge its consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance, which it may agree upon with said consumers; but if it shall, at any time, agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the rates mentioneed in said ordinance * * * and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor * * * 62½ per cent * * * of the gross receipts of the party of the second part as aforesaid for the gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligations to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices and the party of the second part shall be at liberty to obtain the same from such other sources as it may find available." The contract provides for a check on the amount of sales and gross receipts and monthly settlements and payments for the gas furnished and sold on said percentage basis; and relieves first party from liability in damages for accidents, interruptions and shortages, but provides that "said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all consumers."

6. That said Ordinance No. 6051, attached to said contract, marked "Exhibit I" and thereby made a part thereof, provided for and its inhabitants for a period of 20 years from December 14, 1904, and provided in Section 6 that "should the grantee find at any time hereafter during the life of this franchise that the supply of natural gas at points contiguous to the mains from which it obtains its supply, or in the natural gas fields of southeastern Kansas, is inadequate to warrant it in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of this ordinance, it shall not be longer required so to do, but may proceed to furnish and supply manufactured gas;" that by reason of the premises said Kansas Natural Gas Company, by assuming the obligations of said supply contract as will hereinafter more fully appear, agreed to furnish your petitioner natural gas for the term of said ordinance, and to use all due diligence to acquire and deliver the same in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand and warrant your petitioner in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of said Ordinance No. 6051 and at the prices therein named.

7. That on February 2, 1906, the day after the execution of said supply-contract, said Kansas City Pipe Line Company duly leased to the Kaw Gas Company, then the operating company of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, all its pipe lines, gas lands and properties and said Kaw Gas Company assumed all of the obligations of the Pipe Line Company to the Wyandotte Gas Company, under said supply-contract dated February 1, 1906. Paragraph fifth of said lease providing:

"Fifth. The lessee hereby assumes and covenants to perform all the obligations assumed by the lessor under the terms of an agreement, dated February 1, 1906, between the lessor and the Wyandotte Gas Company for the supply of natural gas to Kansas City, Kansas, and Wyandotte County, in said State, copy of which is attached hereto, and marked Exhibit A. * * * The lessee agrees that if the gas wells hereby demised situated in the territory of the lessor do not furnish a sufficient volume of gas, or if the pipe line of the lessor shall not have a delivery capacity sufficient to supply the demands for gas in the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri, it, the lessee, will supplement said gas supply from its own gas wells up to an amount equal to fifty (50) per cent of the gas, which by the use of due diligence in connecting existing wells and drilling new ones, it may be able to produce from the territory now or hereafter controlled by it; and will construct at its own cost and expense, or, so far as any of the bonds of the lessor in this lease referred to may be available for the purpose, at the cost and expense of the lessor, the additional pipe lines necessary for the delivery of gas to supply such demands, whether from the lessor's or the lessee's territory. Provided, however, that if the expectation of continuance of the supply of gas shall not be sufficient to warrant the laying of an additional pipe line at any time, the lessee shall not be required to do so, whatever the demand for gas in said cities; provided further, that it is the intent of the parties that the provisions of this clause shall not be so construed as to in effect require the lessee to lay a line for manufacturing purposes mainly or only."

8. That by reason of the premises, the Kaw Gas Company assumed and agreed to furnish your petitioner natural gas for the term of said Ordinance No. 6051, and to use all due diligence to acquire and deliver the same in such amounts as will at all times 436 fully supply the demand and in such amounts and at such pressure as will warrant your petitioner in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of said ordinance and at the prices therein named.

9. Thereafter and on November 19, 1906, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Kaw Gas Company executed another lease, similar to the lease of February 2, 1906, for the purpose of making said lease conform to the franchise-ordinance of Kansas City, Missouri, which had been passed since the execution of the first lease and containing the same provisions for the assumption of obligations by the Kaw Gas Company to furnish the said Wyandotte Gas Company a supply of gas as above quoted. That said Kaw Gas Company was organized by the Kansas Natural Gas Company as an operating company and thereafter transferred all of its property, business and contracts to the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

10. That thereafter and on January 1, 1908, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company again duly leased all its pipe lines, leaseholds, wells and productions to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, in which lease said Kansas Natural Gas Company assumed and undertook to perform the obligations of said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company to furnish your petitioner a supply of gas under said contract dated February 1, 1906, paragraph fifth thereof reading as follows:

"The lessee hereby assumes and covenants to perform all the obligations assumed by the lessor under the terms of an agreement dated February 1, 1906, between the lessor and the Wyandotte Gas Company for the supply of natural gas to Kansas City, Kansas, and Wyandotte County in said state, a copy of which is attached hereto and marked 'Exhibit A.' * * *

437 the gas wells hereby demised situate in the territory of the lessor do not furnish a sufficient volume of gas, or if the pipe line of the lessor shall not have a delivery capacity sufficient to supply the demands for gas in the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri, it, the lessee, will supplement said gas supply from its own gas wells up to an amount equal to 50 per cent of the gas which, by the use of due diligence in connecting existing wells and drilling new ones, it may be able to produce from the territory now or hereafter controlled by it; and will construct at its own cost and expense, or, so far as any of the bonds of the lessor in this lease referred to may be available for the purpose, at the cost and expense of the lessor, additional pipe lines necessary for the delivery of gas to supply such demands, whether from the lessor's or the lessee's territory. Provided, however, that if the expectation of continuance of the supply of gas shall not be sufficient to warrant the laying of an additional pipe line at any time, the lessee shall not be required to do so, whatever the demand for gas in said cities; provided further, that it is the intent of the parties that the provisions of this clause shall not be so construed as to in effect require the lessee to lay a line for manufacturing purposes mainly or only."

11. That by reason of the premises, said Kansas Natural Gas Company assumed the obligations of said Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Kaw Gas Company, and undertook and agreed to furnish your petitioner natural gas for the term of said Ordinance No. 6051 until December 14, 1924, and to use all due diligence to acquire and deliver the same in such amount as will at all times
438 fully supply the demand, and in such amounts as will warrant your petitioner in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms and at the rates named in said ordinance, and to furnish your petitioner and the Kansas City Gas Company 50 per cent of the gas which, by the use of due diligence, said Kansas Natural may be able to produce or control from time to time, and to construct pipe lines of a carrying capacity sufficient to supply the demands of your petitioner for gas for domestic consumption but not for manufacturing purposes only; and to furnish said natural gas for general consumption measured at the consumers' meters for a consideration equal to  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of the gross receipts from the sale thereof at 27 cents per thousand cubic feet at the present time ( $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent being 16.875 cents) and 30 cents per thousand cubic feet from and after November 19, 1916 ( $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent being 18.75 cents.)

A true and correct copy of said lease of January 1, 1908, is filed herewith, marked "Exhibit D" and made a part hereof; said leases of February 2, 1906, and November 19, 1906, being substantially the same in form and identical in substance.

12. That your petitioner has expended large sums of money for high pressure belt lines, reducing stations, appliances and equipment for the distribution and sale of said natural gas, and has accepted and undertaken the distribution and sale of natural gas under said Ordinances No. 6051 of Kansas City, Kansas, and No. 295 of Rosedale, Kansas, relying upon said contract; and that said contract has never been modified, rescinded, canceled or disavowed, and is now in full force and effect and binding upon said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receiver, and entitles your petitioner to a supply
439 of gas and to sell the same at 30 cents per thousand cubic feet after November 19, 1916, and to pay the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receiver the consideration of  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of your petitioner's receipts from the sale thereof, amounting to 18.75 cents per thousand cubic feet therefor measured at the consumers' meters, less deductions for non-collectible bills.

13. That the preliminary injunction issued in the above entitled cause on August 1, 1916, enjoins the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, their counsel and the Attorney General of said State, from enforcing the 28-cent rate approved by said Commission; and provides that "all the other parties to this suit interested in such rates, and all the agents, servants, attorneys, employees and successors and each and all of them, be and they are hereby enjoined and prohibited until the final hearing and decision of this court, or the further order of this court, from putting or maintaining in effect, or attempting to put or maintain in effect, by legal proceedings or otherwise, against the receiver or the Kansas Natural Gas Company, any of said rates." That said 28-cent rate allowed by the Commission and enjoined by this court is in excess of the 27-cent rate which said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receiver have agreed your petitioner may charge and collect from consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, under said supply contract of February 1, 1906.

14. That in order to collect the 30-cent rate which plaintiffs have agreed to in said supply-contract, on and after November 19, 1916, your petitioner has filed with the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas a schedule changing the rate from 28 cents net to 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet, effective on and after said date, together with an application for the approval thereof by the Commission and provided by the act, and will prosecute the same to final decision before said date; a true and correct copy of said schedule and application are filed herewith marked "Exhibit E" and made a part hereof.

15. That on March 9, 1916, your petitioner filed its verified answer in the above entitled cause, in which it set forth a counter claim for a supply of gas from plaintiffs under and pursuant to said contract of February 1, 1906, and prayed a specific performance of said contract, and that the Receiver of said Kansas Natural Gas Company be ordered and required to furnish, supply and deliver to your petitioner at or near the corporate limits of Kansas City, Kansas, at a pressure of 20 pounds "natural gas in such amount as will at all times supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," as provided in said contract; said answer being referred to and made a part hereof, and printed and attached hereto as Exhibit "X" for the convenience of the court.

16. That this court, Justice Walter H. Sanborn, Circuit Judge; Ralph E. Campbell and Wilbur F. Booth, District Judges, sitting as constituted for the sole purpose of hearing the application for an interlocutory temporary injunction, pretermitted consideration and decision of the binding force and effect of said supply-contract existing between your petitioner and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, the Court saying:

"The crucial question for determination upon this application for an injunction by the court constituted under Section 266 is whether or not the 28-cent rate is confiscatory or unreasonably low. * * *

Many issues of fact and of law have been presented that were proper for consideration but that are not controlling of the decision of the question at issue. The act of Congress requires that the hearing on this application 'shall be given precedence and shall be in every way expedited'; and the situation of the property in the hands of the receivers and of the parties to this litigation is such that delay may be as fatal to the interests of all concerned as an adverse decision. For these reasons the court pretermits reference to matters that are not indispensable to the determination of the crucial question in hand, as well as discussion of those that are indispensable to such a question, and confines itself to a statement of the conclusions which the law and the evidence in its opinion compel."

After analyzing and finding the 28-cent rate allowed by the Commission to be confiscatory, the Court held:

"It has not been and is not necessary for this court as at present constituted to determine the validity of the city ordinances, the contracts between the cities and the distributing companies, the contracts between the distributing companies and the Natural Gas Company and the duties and obligations of the Receiver under them in order to adjudicate the issues it was constituted to decide and for that reason no opinion is expressed or adjudication made concerning them." (Italics are ours.)

17. That by reason of the foregoing said supply-contract is continued in full force and effect as between your petitioner and plaintiffs, and the net legal effect of the decree of injunction is merely to restrain said Commission from enforcing said 28-cent rate, but not to disturb said supply-contract and the rates therein fixed and agreed upon, leaving said contract and the status thereof and rights 442 of the parties thereto to be adjudicated by this court as now constituted.

18. That if plaintiffs are engaged in interstate commerce, as alleged in their bill of complaint, and if they are not under the supervision, jurisdiction and control of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, then said plaintiffs have no right, power or authority, either directly or indirectly, to cancel, disavow, rescind, abrogate or repudiate said supply-contract and the same is in full force and effect.

19. That plaintiff's bill of complaint states:

"That this bill of complaint is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney et al. vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity; and Fidelity Title & Trust Company vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, now pending in this Court, and is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential possession of this Court in said causes, and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this Court in said causes."

That upon the hearing of this cause on the motion of the Missouri defendants to quash the service of subpoena on them, this court took jurisdiction of the above entitled cause under Section 56 of the Judicial Code, on the ground that this case is dependent upon and ancillary to the above named causes No. 1351 and No. 1-N; and that the plaintiff John M. Landon was a receiver appointed by this court in said causes.

20. That thereafter and on June 3, 1916, this court issued its interlocutory injunction in the above entitled case and provided:
443 "That this Court reserves jurisdiction of the subject matter of this application for an injunction and of the parties hereto, and reserves its power and authority to add to, take from, modify or supplement the injunction hereby decreed or any other provision of this decree at any time during the pendency of this suit."

That by reason of the pendency in this court of said McKinney and foreclosure suits, and the dependent character of this cause upon said original suits, and the reservation of jurisdiction over the subject matter and parties in the decree last above quoted, this court has assumed jurisdiction to adjudicate the rights, duties and obligations of the parties and the Receiver under said supply-contract as will hereinafter more fully appear.

21. That in the cases of John L. McKinney v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Fidelity Title & Trust Co. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, above referred to, pending in this court, this court, the Honorable John C. Pollock and the Honorable Ralph E. Campbell, sitting, did on October 9, 1912, appoint receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, of whom George F. Sharritt is still acting, in which order said Receiver is directed "to continue the operation of the present pipe line system and natural gas business of the defendant company and every part and portion thereof, and to run, manage, conduct and operate such pipe lines and property as the defendant Company holds, controls or operates under leases, contracts, arrangements or otherwise. All of which is to be done until the further order of the Court as heretofore done, run or operated by the defendant

Company; but the Court expressly reserves to itself the right
444 to pass upon, approve, disapprove, disavow and cancel any and all leases, arrangements and contracts of every nature, kind and description, under and by virtue of which the defendant Company has been or is now operating any of its leased lines and property; or selling or furnishing any of its gas for distribution and sale; or buying and acquiring any gas for use and transportation through its operated lines; and no such lease, arrangement or contract shall be regarded as binding or taken by the Receivers until expressly ordered by this Court in these proceedings; and nothing herein contained shall be considered or taken as in any way accepting, approving, satisfying or adopting any such lease, arrangement or contract." That by reason of the foregoing order this court reserved to itself the right to approve and disapprove and avow and disavow said supply-contracts; said order is hereby referred to, marked "Exhibit F" and made a part hereof. (See Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, cases No. 4179, 4195 and 4196, page 103, filed herewith.)

22. That thereafter, on the application of John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, Receivers, appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and on January 24, 1914, this court, Honorable Smith McPherson sitting, issued a "conventional" order directing the Receivers appointed by this Court to deliver to said state Receivers all the properties of the Kansas Natural Gas Company owned, controlled, operated and leased "to be retained, operated and controlled by said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield as Receivers, or their successors, as long as they shall retain and operate the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company located in the State 445 of Kansas; unless this court shall earlier resume possession; and when they shall cease to operate the property of said company in Kansas, then all the property of Kansas Natural Gas Company then in their possession and undisposed of in Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri shall be delivered to the receivers of this court"; said order further providing that said State Receiver should accept and receipt for said property on the terms of said order of this court, and that the judge of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, should issue an order directing said State Receiver to so accept and receive the same and "authorizing the acceptance of said property under the terms of this order"; that thereafter said property was duly delivered and receipted for in the manner provided by said order; a true and correct copy of said order of January 24, 1914, is hereby referred to, marked "Exhibit G" and made a part hereof. (See Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, cases No. 4179, 4195 and 4196, page 649.)

23. That an appeal was prosecuted from said order of January 24, 1914, and thereafter on September 22, 1914, pursuant to the mandate of the Circuit Court of Appeals, this court entered an order in said McKinney and foreclosure suits directing the delivery to said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, Receivers, of all the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the state of Kansas, said order providing, however, as follows:

"It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that this Court through its said receiver, George F. Sharritt, shall retain the potential possession of the estates, properties and assets of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estates and 446 contracts of and with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Marnet Mining Company, situate in the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma or elsewhere in this the Eighth Judicial Circuit; but the said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield and their successors shall have the right as receivers to retain the actual possession, control and management of the estate, property, money, funds, assets and earnings of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estates and contracts of and with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Marnet Mining Company situated in the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma or elsewhere; under the terms and conditions expressed in the order of this court made January 24, 1914, as modified herein."

The only modification being that the rights of all parties should be reserved during said state receivership. That by reason of the foregoing orders this court has reserved jurisdiction to pass upon, construe and adjudicate said supply-contract existing between your petitioner and plaintiffs; a true and correct copy of said order of September 22, 1914, is filed herewith, marked "Exhibit H" and made a part hereof.

24. That thereafter and on January 9, 1915, on application of said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield they were appointed ancillary Receivers in the states of Oklahoma and Missouri in said McKinney and foreclosure suits and continued as such until April 1, 1916, whereupon said R. S. Litchfield departed this life and said John M. Landon was appointed sole ancillary Receiver of all the property and assets of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company located in the Eastern District of Oklahoma and the Western District of Missouri; said order further providing:

"It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that the receiver of this court, George F. Sharritt, shall retain the reversionary estate and potential possession of the estate, properties and assets of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leasehold estates and contracts of and with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Marnet Mining Company, situated in the Eastern District of Oklahoma or the Western District of Missouri, or elsewhere in this the Eighth Judicial District."

25. Your petitioner further avers, on information and advice of counsel, that on February 15, 1913, the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of State of Kansas v. the Independence Gas Company, Consolidated Gas, Oil & Manufacturing Company, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 13476, issued a decree of "limited ouster" for alleged corporate abuses and monopolistic practices against the defendants, and appointed John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield Receivers for the correction of such abuses; that said order directed said Receivers to take possession of the property, estate and business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and

"It is further ordered that said receivers shall exercise all such powers as are usually exercised by receivers and all such as are necessary or convenient to the proper conduct by them of the business of the defendant corporations, and they shall discharge all such duties as are within the line, scope or purpose of their appointments.

* * * It is further ordered that the receivers of this court,

448 for the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, as rapidly as they can familiarize themselves with the details of the business and properties of the defendants, work out a tentative plan for the segregation of the properties of said defendants and to report to the court the feasibility of such plan, to the end that these receiverships be terminated and the corporate abuses of these defendants be speedily corrected, and the corporate management of these corporate properties, if possible, returned to its owners and officers thereof as contemplated by law."

That there was no power or authority conferred upon said Receiver to cancel, abrogate or disavow said supply-contract existing between your petitioner and the Kansas Natural Gas Company; on the contrary, said decree of said court enjoined and restrained the Kansas Natural and this defendant "from advancing the price of gas or participating in any attempt to advance the price of gas to the consumers in the state of Kansas without the express order and permission of the Public Utilities Commission of the state of Kansas or of this court, until the final disposition of this action or the further order of this court or the judge thereof"; a true and correct copy of the "Opinion, Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law" of said District Court dated February 15, 1913, is marked "Exhibit I, page 295," and made a part hereof, found in Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, filed herewith. (See page 326.)

26. That said John M. Landon, as Receiver of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, or as ancillary Receiver appointed by this court, has not been authorized or empowered by any order or decree of either court to abrogate, cancel or disavow said supply-contract; that there has been no complaint filed in either of said courts for the cancellation, abrogation or disavowal of said contract; that the Receivers of this court, original and ancillary, have operated under said contract and observed the terms and conditions thereof since their appointment October 9, 1912, and said John M. Landon has operated under said contract and observed the terms and conditions thereof ever since his appointment by the state court, and his appointment by this court, wherefore said contract is now in full force and effect.

27. That said state case pending in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, is a suit in quo warranto for the ouster of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for corporate abuses and monopolizing the production and supply of natural gas; that there are no pleadings filed in that court and cause praying for the foreclosure of any mortgages or the marshaling of assets and determination of priorities of claims against the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its estate, and that said court in said cause has no power, authority or jurisdiction to order and decree a cancellation or disavowal of said supply-contract, for the reason that said contract may be disavowed, if at all, only in a court of equity in a proper proceeding for the foreclosure of mortgages and upon the petition and in the interest of the prior and superior equities and liens of mortgagees and creditors.

28. That notwithstanding the total want of authority, as above shown, said John M. Landon has and now is threatening to abrogate, disavow and repudiate said supply-contract, and shut off the supply of gas to your petitioner in total disregard of the obligation of said contract and his duty in respect thereof.

29. That on June 17, 1916, said John M. Landon, by T. S. Sala-thiel, his attorney, mailed a printed circular to your petitioner, purporting to notify your petitioner to appear in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and offer evidence to guide the Receiver in the establishment of a rate for natural gas to be charged consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, to which communication your petitioner replied that it did not, under the circumstances, care to enter into any negotiations for the modification or cancellation of its aforesaid supply-contract and desired to continue the same in full force and effect. A true and correct copy of said circular and answer thereto are hereto attached, marked "Exhibits J and K" and made a part hereof; that there was no complaint filed against said supply-contract, no service of summons made upon your petitioner, no hearing had thereon, and no order, judgment or decree of the court made with respect thereof, and no authority given by order of court to said Receiver to issue said circular purporting to modify, abrogate and disavow said contract.

30. That thereafter and on August 4, 1916, said John M. Landon, without authority or order of court, mailed to your petitioner a communication purporting to notify your petitioner of the modification of said supply-contract by changing the rates agreed to therein from 27 cents net to 38 cents gross per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered, and the minimum bill from 50 cents to $1.00, to become effective from and after the August, 1916, meter readings; all 451 in total disregard and violation of said supply-contract. True and correct copies of said letter and schedule are hereto attached, marked "Exhibits L and M," respectively, and made a part hereof.

31. That thereafter and on August 11, 1916, said John M. Landon, Receiver, by John H. Atwood, and without authority or order of court, sent by registered mail a communication purporting to notify your petitioner of a further, different and inconsistent modification of said supply-contract by changing the price from 62½ per centum of the gross receipts from a given schedule of rates for gas delivered at the consumers meters to 18 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas metered and delivered to your petitioner at the city limits, to become effective on and after September 1, 1916. A true and correct copy of said communication is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit N" and made a part hereof.

32. That, on the following day, August 12, 1916, said John M. Landon mailed to your petitioner a further notice repudiating said 18-cent notice sent out by Mr. John H. Atwood and certain newspaper notices given out by other counsel, Mr. Robert Stone, of Topeka, Kansas, said August 12 notice indicating that the only modification in the 38-cent schedule issued by said Receiver on August 4 was that your petitioner might fix such minimum charge as its necessities require. A true and correct copy of said communication is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit O" and made a part hereof.

33. That on August 18, 1916, your petitioner answered said communications, adhering to its rights to a supply of gas under and pursuant to said supply-contract and at the rates and prices
452 therein agreed to and construing said suggestions as offers to modify said supply-contract and specifically declining such offers. A true and correct copy thereof is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit P" and made a part hereof. That on August 23, 1916, the Kansas Natural Gas Company and John M. Landon by their counsel, T. S. Salathiel, answered said letter of your petitioner, dated August 18, 1916, and, without authority or order of court, claimed the right to charge and collect 18 cents for said natural gas metered at the city limits; that on August 26, 1916, your petitioner, by its counsel, answered said communication of August 23, 1916, adhering to its former position and standing upon its supply contract. Copies of said letters being hereto attached, marked Exhibits "P1" and "P2," and made a part hereof.

34. That your petitioner has at all times, and now is, accepting and receiving said natural gas under and pursuant to the terms, provisions and conditions of said supply-contract, and is now, and has during all of said time, paid the consideration agreed to therein for said gas and duly performed all the terms and conditions thereof on its part, and has offered and intends to continue so to do; that, notwithstanding the foregoing facts, said John M. Landon and his attorneys, counselors, agents and representatives are threatening to, and your petitioner has reason to believe they will, shut off the supply of gas to your petitioner to the great and irreparable loss and damage of your petitioner and the injury, inconvenience, discomfort and loss of the consumers and the public, unless restrained and enjoined by order of this Honorable Court.

35. Your petitioner further shows to the court that by Chapter 238 of the 1911 Session Laws of Kansas, hereby referred to and made a part hereof, the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver and the business conducted by them are subject to the jurisdiction and control of the Public Utilities Commission of said State; that by Section 20 thereof plaintiffs, including the Receiver, are required to file with the Public Utilities Commission a schedule of the changes in rates or the joint rate for the joint service rendered by your petitioner and the plaintiffs desired to be made and put in force by them, and that any changes attempted to be made are unlawful without such filing and the consent of said Commission; that plaintiffs have not filed with the Commission the changes desired and suggested in said letters and communications and the same are, therefore, illegal and void. That the preliminary injunction issued by this court was not a license to plaintiffs to charge rates at will in total disregard of contracts, statutes and law, but a restraint upon the Kansas Commission, preventing it from enforcing said 28-cent rate; the duty still remaining upon plaintiffs to file with said Commission the desired and proper schedule of rates; and thereupon, under the order of this court, the duty would devolve upon said Commission to allow the same.

36. Your petitioner further avers that in the case of the State of Kansas on Relation of John Marshall, Attorney for the Public Utilities Commission v. The Wyandotte County Gas Company, 88 Kans. 165, the District Court of Wyandotte County, Kansas, issued its perpetual injunction and final decree enjoining your petitioner from increasing its rates to consumers or charging or collecting any rate other than such as may be authorized and ordered by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas; that the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas and the Supreme Court of the United States affirmed said judgment and the same is now final and conclusive upon your petitioner, 88 Kans. 165, 231 U. S. 622, said judgment being hereby referred to and made a part hereof. That by reason thereof your petitioner would be subject to citation and committal for contempt if it undertook to put into force and effect any of the changes suggested by plaintiffs, without the order and approval of the Public Utilities Commission.

37. That under Chapter 238 (assuming that your petitioner was willing to modify said supply-contract), it would take your petitioner 30 to 60 days to file said proposed changed schedule or rates and obtain a hearing and decision thereon by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas; and if said Commission denied to your petitioner the authority to charge the rates proposed in said letters and communications, then and in that event your petitioner would be no longer warranted in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of Ordinance No. 6051 of Kansas City, Kansas and would not be longer required so to do, but would be obligated to proceed to furnish and supply manufactured gas, as required by Section 6 of said ordinance. That it would require your petitioner at least one year to construct, reconstruct and assemble fuels and material for operating its gas works at Kansas City, Kansas; by reason of the foregoing facts, even if your petitioner was minded to modify its supply contract and put into effect said rates, said pretended notices are wholly unreasonable as to time.

38. Your petitioner avers and shows to the court that said 38-cent gross rate (35 cents net), and said $1.00 minimum bill, in actual practice, result in average charges per thousand cubic feet, depending upon the amount of gas used, as shown by the following table:

39. That even in the winter months more than 70 per cent in number of your petitioner's consumers use 10 thousand cubic feet of gas, or less than that quantity per month, and more than

456 85 per cent in number use 20 thousand cubic feet or less per month; that your petitioner is informed and believes that natural gas at the average prices per thousand cubic feet shown by said table (as for example, an average price of 38 cents for a monthly consumption of 10 thousand cubic feet and 36½ cents for 20 thousand) will not compete with coal and other fuels in this community for domestic heating purposes; that by reason thereof said average prices, as shown by said table, resulting from said 35-cent rate and $1.00 minimum bill, will eliminate the greater portion of the domestic heating business; that with a loss of said domestic heating business, your petitioner and said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver would be reduced to a lighting and cooking gas business basis, which is the field occupied by manufactured gas, and that the elimination and loss of said domestic heating business would reduce the income and earnings of your petitioner and the plaintiffs from 40 to 60 per cent, and would so impair the earnings and income of plaintiffs that they would no longer be able to operate their pipe line system and furnish natural gas to your petitioner and the other cities and towns in Northeastern Kansas and Northwestern Missouri.

40. That the normal and reasonable loss in distribution is approximately 10 per cent of the gas delivered at the city limits, as mentioned in "A Statement by the Kansas Natural Gas Company," published in the Kansas City Post on August 20, 1916, in the Kansas City Journal on August 22, 1916, in the Kansas City Star on August 23, 1916, and in the Kansas City Times on August 24, 1916 (over the names of W. W. Splane, M. L. Benedum, G. T. Braden, L. C. McKinney, V. A. Hays, L. J. Snyder and R. A. Long), wherein it is said "the waste of gas by distributing companies in good condition, that is the normal leakage, should not be more than 10 per cent" (see "Exhibit R," mentioned in paragraph 41 and hereto attached); that the loss in distribution in your petitioner's plant does not exceed 10 per cent; that under such conditions your petitioner would, under said 18-cent price, be required to buy and pay for 1,111 cubic feet of gas at the city limits for each thousand cubic feet delivered at the consumers' meters, which would cost your petitioner 19.998+ cents, or substantially 20 cents per thousand cubic feet for each 1,000 cubic feet at consumer's meter. That if your petitioner were required to pay such price for gas it could not afford to distribute and sell the same at a price which would compete with coal and other fuels for domestic heating purposes, and its business would be reduced to a lighting and cooking business basis, and your petitioner and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver would thereby lose the major portion of said heating business and the income derived therefrom, resulting in such great reduction in income and earnings that said Kansas Natural and its Receiver would be no longer able to operate their pipe line system and plant.

41. Your petitioner further avers, on information and belief and the statement of officers and stockholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, published August 22, 1916, a true copy of which is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit R," and made a part hereof, that said Kansas Natural Gas Company is now solvent and financially able to furnish an adequate supply of natural gas; that it has assets in excess of liabilities from three to six million dollars; that it is about to authorize the issue of nine million dollars par value additional capital stock, which has been subscribed and underwritten by responsible parties, viz.: W. W. Splane, M. L. Benedum, G. T. Braden, 458 L. C. McKinney, V. A. Hays, L. J. Snyder and R. A. Long, at 50 cents on the dollar, resulting in Company assets of four million five hundred thousand dollars; that by reason thereof said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver are amply able to perform all the contracts of said Company, including said supply-contract existing between your petitioner and said Company, dated February 1st, 1906; and said Company, in law and equity, should be, by this Honorable Court, required to fully and specifically perform the same by furnishing your petitioner a full and adequate supply of natural gas for all purposes of consumption, at a pressure of 20 pounds at Kansas City, until the expiration of said contract December 14, 1924.

42. That none of the bondholders or mortgagees of the Kansas Natural Gas Company have filed any petition, motion or application on the ground of prior or superior equities, in either the State or Federal courts in any proceedings pending therein, to disavow, cancel and set aside said supply-contract as being destructive of their securities; that neither the Kansas Natural Gas Company nor its Receiver in the interest of said Company or its stockholders has any right in law or equity to abrogate or disavow said contract in the interest of said Company or its stockholders; and that your petitioner has and claims a prior, superior and paramount right and equity under said supply-contract to an adequate supply of gas at the rates therein agreed to for itself and the public it serves, to any rights, claims or demands of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its stockholders.

43. That if your petitioner should attempt to put into effect any of the rates suggested in the aforesaid letters it would be met with citations for contempt in the case above mentioned in the District Court of Wyandotte County, Kansas, and by injunctions and criminal prosecutions; that mass meetings have been held in Kan-459 sas City, Kansas, protesting against said increase in rates and the consumers are advised and pledged among themselves to refuse payment thereof and to resist by injunction and other court proceedings the turning off of the supply for non-payment of bills at said 38-cent rate. That it will require a complete reorganization of the office force and bookkeeping system of your petitioner to charge and collect said new rates and keep account of the excess over the rates fixed by contract and the order of the Commission of Kansas of December 10th, 1915; that by the order of this court and bond given, said Receiver is required to keep, or cause to be kept, accounts showing such excess and to refund the same, if it shall be finally determined that the preliminary injunction was wrongfully issued; that your petitioner will be put to great cost and expense in making such collections and in making such refund, amounting to many thousands of dollars; that the difference between the 28-cent rate now in force and said 38-cent rate on an adequate supply of gas during the winter of 1916-17 will amount to many thousands of dollars, and your petitioner will be obligated to refund said amount to said consumers, if said preliminary injunction is not finally sustained; that said Receiver will have spent said money for ill-advised pipe line extensions and wildcat exploiting of fields and the same will be lost and not forthcoming to reimburse your petitioner to enable it to make said refund; that by reason thereof and many other facts and conditions too numerous to mention, your petitioner has no protection under the terms and provisions of the bond given by John M. Landon, Receiver, as Principal, and the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York, as Surety.

460 44. Your petitioner further states and shows to the court, on information, belief and advice of counsel, that on January 5th, 1912, Honorable John S. Dawson, attorney-general of Kansas, commenced said case in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, entitled "State of Kansas, plaintiff, v. The Independence Gas Company, The Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, and The Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendants, No. 13476," hereafter referred to as the "state case." A true and correct copy of the original petition filed therein is filed herewith, marked "Exhibit Q" and made a part hereof.

45. That said suit was commenced by the State under the authority of Chapter 81 of the General Statutes of Kansas, 1909, relating to monopolies and unlawful combinations in restraint of trade, hereby referred to and made a part hereof, and to correct alleged monopolies and corporate abuses, as provided for in Section 1728 of the General Statutes of Kansas, 1909, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 1728. Dissolution of Insolvent Corporation.—Any corporation which is insolvent or which perverts or abuses its corporate privileges may be dissolved by order of the district court having jurisdiction, on petition of the attorney-general, supported by positive affidavit; and if the court finds that the petition is true it may appoint a receiver to wind up the affairs of the corporation and decree its dissolution: Provided, That the court may, at its discretion, appoint a receiver at the time of the filing of the petition by the attorney-general: Provided also, That if the dissolution of any such corporation is not considered by the court to be either necessary or advisable, and that the corporate abuses can be corrected without dissolution, receivers may be appointed to manage the corporate property and business under the supervision of the court 461 until fully corrected, after which the corporate management and property may be returned to the owners and managers thereof; and the court may remove any officers responsible for the abuse and mismanagement of the corporate property and business, and may order the calling of an election of the stockholders to fill such vacancies."

46. That said petition did not allege the insolvency of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, nor did the State in said suit attempt to wind up the affairs of said Company, nor to liquidate its indebtedness; but the only purpose of said suit was to inquire into, determine and correct the alleged corporate abuses complained of by the producers and consumers of natural gas; that said suit was a suit in quo warranto, penal in its nature, and not designed nor intended as an equitable proceeding for the administration of the estate of said Company, the marshaling of assets or the determination of priorities.

47. That in September, 1912, a hearing was had upon said petition and interrogatories propounded to and answered by the officers of the Company, as provided by the penal statutes relating to monopolies, and the case taken under advisement; that on February 15th, 1913, the court rendered its "opinion, findings of fact, conclusions of law, restraining order, injunction and decree." A true and correct copy thereof marked "Exhibit I" and made a part hereof is found in Vol. 1, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, pp. 295 to 333, filed herewith.

48. That as shown on page 329 of said "Exhibit I," the court decreed a forfeiture of the charter and corporate privileges of The Independence Gas Company; ordered The Consolidated Gas, 462 Oil and Manufacturing Company to forthwith resume its corporate business of producing, distributing, delivering and selling natural gas according to the terms of its corporate charter and according to the methods and customs used in its corporate business before it disabled itself so to do through the transfer of its gas properties and gas business to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and appointed George T. Guernsey and A. W. Shulthis Receivers to accomplish that end, and appointed R. S. Litchfield and John M. Landon Receivers of Kansas Natural Gas Company to correct the abuses complained of against that Company in the following terms (p. 333, "Exhibit I"):

"It is further ordered that the receivers of this court, for the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, as rapidly as they can familiarize themselves with the details of the business and properties of the defendants, work out a tentative plan for the segregation of the properties of said defendants and to report to the court the feasibility of such plan to the end that these receiverships be terminated and the corporate abuses of these defendants be speedily corrected, and the corporate management of these corporate properties, if possible, returned to its owners and officers thereof as contemplated by law.

And the court for the time being hereby retains jurisdiction and control of each of the above named defendants and their properties until the terms of this decree are finally, fully and completely established; and it is further ordered and adjudged that the defendants pay the costs of this proceedings; and jurisdiction is further retained for the purpose of hereafter fixing and determining the allowance of attorneys' fees for plaintiff's attorneys and jurisdiction is further retained by the court to make such other and further orders as may seem meet and proper and as the progress of the proceedings demands.

THOS. J. FLANNELLY, Judge."

49. That said order was in the nature of a decree of "limited ouster," so designated by the court in its opinion, looking to the correction of the abuses complained of, the dissolution of the monopolistic relations between the defendants and the speedy return of the property to its owners; there was nothing in the pleadings before the court or in the evidence to enlarge the scope of the State's case.

50. That thereafter during the pendency of the applications of said Receiver and the attorney-general made to this Court for the surrender of the property of the Kansas Natural by the Receiver appointed by this Court to said State Court Receiver on the plea of comity and prior jurisdiction, numerous motions and supplemental and amended petitions were filed by the attorney-general and his assistants, Chester I. Long, John H. Atwood, T. S. Salathiel and O. P. Ergenbright, in said State case, for the purpose, as claimed by said attorneys, of protecting and strengthening the jurisdiction of said court in its efforts to obtain possession of said properties; all of which said pleadings have been by the State withdrawn, as will hereinafter more fully appear, leaving said case standing upon the original petition; said supplemental and amended petitions being marked exhibits and made a part hereof, as follows:

Supplemental petition marked "Exhibit Q-1, p. 661"; second supplemental petition marked "Exhibit Q-2, p. 680"; third supplemental petition, or motion to extend receivership on ground of insolvency marked "Exhibit Q-3, p. 689"; fourth supplemental petition marked "Exhibit Q-4, p. 681"; fifth supplemental petition marked "Exhibit Q-5, p. 678"; sixth supplemental petition marked "Exhibit Q-6, p. 683," all found in Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, filed herewith.

51. That on December 6, 1913, Hon. John S. Dawson, attorney-general, and O. P. Ergenbright, T. S. Salathiel, Chester I. Long and John H. Atwood, assistant attorney-generals, filed in the said State case a motion (above indicated as third supplemental petition, "Exhibit Q-3") for an order extending the appointment of said Receivers on the ground of insolvency of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, which said motion was on said date sustained and the receivership so extended; that said proceedings were had, as stated by said attorneys at the time, merely for the purpose of protecting and strengthening the jurisdiction of said court and to enable it to enforce its decree theretofore rendered; and said motion or supplemental petition, together with all other amended and supplemental petitions, was thereafter and on December 29, 1914, withdrawn by the State, as will hereinafter more fully appear; a true and correct copy of the order sustaining said motion and extending said receivership is filed herewith, marked "Exhibit Q-3, page 689," and made a part hereof, found in Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, filed herewith.

52. That the Hon. John S. Dawson, attorney-general, did on February 18, 1913, file in this Court in said McKinney and foreclosure suits a petition or application setting forth the pendency of said State case and the prior jurisdiction and right of possession of the State court to the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the purpose of enforcing its judgment and decree under Section 1728, G. S. 1909, on the ground that said State court was powerless to enforce its judgment because the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company was at the time in the possession of Receivers appointed by this Court in said McKinney suit No. 1351 and said foreclosure suit No. 1-N; a true and correct copy of said petition being marked "Exhibit P, page 290" and made a part hereof, found in Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, herewith filed.

53. That the purposes of said petition and application to this Court were to enable the State of Kansas to collect its judgment for costs and attorneys' fees rendered in said State case, and to correct the abuses complained of therein, and to dissolve the monopolistic combination found to exist and to appoint Receivers for those purposes only; there was no apparent intent to enlarge the purpose or scope of that case beyond the issues raised in the original petition and the judgment of the court rendered on February 15, 1913, upon the original petition and evidence then before the court.

54. That on January 24, 1914, this Court, Hon. Smith McPherson sitting, in causes No. 1351 and No. 1-N aforesaid, entered an order directing its Receiver to deliver over to the State court all the property and funds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company (except $75,000 reserved for expenses) situate in the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, upon certain conditions therein named; a true and correct copy of said order being marked "Exhibit G, page 649" and made a part hereof, found in Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, herewith filed.

55. That the purpose of said order was to enable the Receiver, John M. Landon, to operate said property as a unit and going concern while said state court was executing the decree theretofore rendered correcting the abuses complained of and found by the court.

56. That thereupon certain creditors and claimants against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and estate and Federal Receivers appealed from said order to the Circuit Court of Appeals, and said appellate court, after modifying said order of January 24, 1914, saving and reserving the rights of said appellants against the Kansas Natural, Federal Receivers and the estate, affirmed the decision of this Court and issued its mandate directing the delivery of said property to the Receivers of the state court; said opinion and order being hereby referred to and made a part hereof, 217 Fed. 187.

57. That thereafter, on September 22, 1914, an order was entered in said McKinney and foreclosure suits, spreading said mandate and directing the delivery over of said property, but saving and reserving the reversionary estate and potential possession of said property in the Receiver of this Court, George F. Sharritt; a true and correct copy of said order being hereto attached, marked "Exhibit H," and made a part hereof.

58. That the sole purpose of said orders of January 24 and September 22, 1914, was to carry out and effectuate the decree of the state court directing the Receivers to familiarize themselves with the details of the business and properties of the defendants, work out a tentative plan for the segregation of the properties of said defendants, and to report to the court the feasibility of such plan, to the end that the receiverships be terminated and the corporate abuses of defendants be speedily corrected and the corporate management of the properties be returned to its owners and officers as contemplated by law; and to enable said court to tax, allow and pay the costs and attorneys' fees decreed therein on February 15, 1913.

59. That the conditions of said orders of January 24 and September 22, 1914, of this Court, were complied with and an order made by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, so accepting said property; a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked "Exhibit S, page 658," and made a part hereof, found in Vol. I, Transcript of Record, U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, herewith filed.

60. That the judgment of the state court entered February 15, 1913, for which said Receiver was appointed in said state case, has been fully enforced and performed; the costs and attorneys' fees have been allowed, taxed and paid; the officers, directors and managers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company claimed to have been responsible for the corporate abuses complained of have been removed under the supervision of the court, and other officers and directors have been elected and are now, and long have been, operating said property under the direction of the court and its receiver; and the Receiver and said newly elected officers, under the immediate control of the court, have been in exclusive possession, control and management of the property and business of the Kansas Natural since September 22, 1914, and all the alleged corporate abuses, if any there were, have been duly corrected, or would have been so corrected by the exercise of reasonable diligence on the part of said Receiver; that the Receiver has not complied with the order of the court to submit a plan for the segregation of the properties of the defendants and the return of said properties to their owners and officers as required by law and ordered by the court; but, on the contrary, said Receiver has found, after two years of active management and control, that in order to meet the demands of the public upon said properties for service and gas, no segregation and return of the leases to the Consolidated Company is possible; and that the expenditure of large sums of money for extensions, betterments and purchase of gas lands, leases and productions, is absolutely necessary to enable said property to render reasonably adequate service and perform its public and contractual obligations.

61. That by reason thereof said Receivers and the Hon. John S.

Dawson, Attorney-General, and said Kansas Natural and certain of its creditors and bondholders did, on December 17, 1914, sign a certain stipulation (erroneously labeled "Creditors' Agreement" on the cover of a pamphlet issued by the Receiver) and filed the same in said case December 29, 1914; a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked "Exhibit T," and made a part hereof.

62. That at the time said stipulation was signed and filed large sums of money, approximating $2,000,000.00, were in the hands of said Receiver, which had accumulated during the Federal Receivership in said McKinney and foreclosure suits by reason of the nonpayment of maturing bonds and indebtedness of the Kansas Natural Gas Company; that said bondholders and creditors were demanding the distribution of said funds; that the same were held in numerous country banks in Montgomery County and the Receiver was drawing not to exceed 2 per cent interest thereon, while the Kansas Natural estate was incurring 6 per cent interest on said overdue bonds and indebtedness; that neither the state of Kansas nor said Receiver had any interest in said fund, and they 469 were willing that the same be distributed to the creditors entitled thereto in such proportions as they might agree upon; provided, only, that said creditors and bondholders consent to the expenditure of certain sums out of earnings for extensions, betterments and additional gas supply; that by reason thereof and to avoid involving the case in which the state alone was plaintiff in long-continued litigation over the distribution of said funds and claims of priority thereto, and to secure said consent from said creditors to the diversion and application of a portion of the earnings of said property, applicable under their mortgages to the payment of bonds, to be expended for said extensions, betterments and gas supply in the sum of $500,000 for the year 1915, and $200,000 annually thereafter, the state of Kansas, by John S. Dawson, Attorney-General, and its Receivers, Landon and Litchfield, in so far as they represented the state, signed said stipulation.

63. Your petitioner is informed and believes that the state of Kansas has no purpose or desire at this time, and never has had, to enlarge the scope of its original suit as alleged in its original petition; that it does not intend to file any pleading in said court and cause to wind up the affairs of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, if such proceeding were authorized under Section 1728, G. S. 1909, or under the general law, which authority your petitioner denies; and that said state, by S. M. Brewster, Attorney-General, has filed a motion in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, dismissing said case and praying the discharge of said Receiver; and that said state case should be dismissed and the Receiver therein discharged for the following reasons:

470 1. That the jurisdiction of this Court for the purpose of foreclosing the mortgages, marshaling the assets, determining the priorities and liquidating the indebtedness of the Kansas Natural, attached in the McKinney suit, No. 1351, and the foreclosure suit, No. 1-N, on or about October 8, 1912, and is prior to any jurisdiction for such proceedings which might be commenced in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas; and upon the doctrine of comity heretofore invoked and observed in the proceedings in this Court relating to said property, the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, should now surrender and deliver to this Court in said last mentioned cases all the property and estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the purpose of enabling this Court to foreclose its mortgages, liquidate its indebtedness, determine its priorities and decree the sale of said properties.

2. That the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, has no extra-territorial jurisdiction to administer the estate of the Kansas Natural in the states of Oklahoma and Missouri, and is powerless to decree a sale and give good title thereto.

3. That this Court, in causes No. 1351 and No. 1-N, pending herein, has jurisdiction throughout the Eighth Judicial Circuit, including the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, to administer said estate, decree the sale thereof and pass good title thereto.

4. That none of the creditors or bondholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company have intervened in said state case praying the administration of said estate, the liquidation of its indebtedness or the winding up of its affairs; and your petitioner is informed and believes that such intervention would not be germane to or proper in said quo warranto state case.

5. That the Receiver, John M. Landon, by filing his "Dependent Bill" in case No. 136-N aforesaid, and alleging, "that this bill of complaint is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351; and Fidelity Title & Trust Co. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, now pending in this Court, and is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential possession of this Court in said causes, and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this Court in said causes"; and making said Fidelity Title & Trust Company, said Fidelity Trust Company and said Delaware Trust Company trustees of all the mortgages on said properties, and all other parties interested in said Kansas Natural estate, parties defendant to said dependent bill; and causing the issuance of subpoenas to bring said parties and your petitioner into this Court and cause, and the original causes upon which this case is dependent, has, by virtue thereof, invoked the jurisdiction of this Court in the original causes No. 1351 and No. 1-N, and has, in legal effect, returned and surrendered to this Court, through its ancillary Receiver, John M. Landon, the possession of all the property and estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and is now by the record estopped and barred from claiming any adverse right of possession to said property by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas.

6. That the state of Kansas has no interest in any claim or controversy between the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its stockholders and the bondholders and creditors of said Company, nor any adjudication or determination of such claim or controversy arising out of mortgages, bonds, contracts or said stipulation dated December 17, 1914; and said state should not maintain said state case for the purpose of allowing parties to litigate, adjudicate and determine their several rights and claims therein.

472 7. That at the time said state case was commenced and Receiver appointed, the Kansas Natural Gas Company was denying the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission of said state to regulate the rates and practices of said Company; that thereafter said Company and its Receivers, both State and Federal, submitted to and recognized the jurisdiction of said Commission; and that the passage of said Public Utilities Act, hereby referred to and made a part hereof, and the proceedings had thereunder relative to said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the orders of said Commission directing said Company and its Receivers to acquire more and additional gas, operate to except and take said Kansas Natural Gas Company out of the operation of the anti-trust and monopoly laws of said state, for the reason that said Company and its business, rates, charges, practices and contracts, including its connections, combinations and relations with other pipe-lines, companies and properties are now all subject to regulation and control by the Public Utilities Commission of said state, as shown by the order of said Commission hereto attached, marked "Exhibit U," and made a part hereof.

8. That said long-continued receivership is not germane, necessary or incident to the purposes of said state case; and is a bar to the creditors, lienholders and mortgagees to pursue their rights and remedies, obstructs justice, and prevents the reorganization, rehabilitation and refinancing of said properties and business, resulting in a continuous decline and impairment in the public service and a default under and breach of the supply contract existing between your petitioner and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver.

9. That the State of Kansas has by said stipulation ("Creditors' Agreement"), filed December 29, 1914, withdrawn all said
473 amended and supplemental petitions filed in said state case. (See paragraph Second of Exhibit "T.")

64. Your petitioner further states and shows to the court that the course of business and conduct of said Receiver of applying all the earnings and income of said property and business to the payment of bonds and indebtedness, under said stipulation, and the failure of said Receiver to wisely expend the amounts consented to by the creditors for extensions, betterments and additional gas-supply, and more than such amounts if need be, is a perversion and abuse of the corporate functions of said Company, done under cover and color of law, and is a departure from the order of "limited ouster" in said case, and is in violation of the order of said court to said Receiver at the time of his appointment, directing him to devise a plan for the correction of said abuses and the return of said property to its owners, and is discredited by the interlocutory temporary injunction of this Court, in that said course of business prefers the rights of the stockholders to the rights of the customers and consumers, including the right of your petitioner to an adequate supply of gas as per the terms of said supply-contract.

65. That a "Protective Committee" of the stockholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company has been formed, consisting of R. A. Long, M. L. Benedum, G. T. Braden, W. W. Splane, E. P. Whitcomb, L. C. McKinney and V. A. Hays; that said committee has stated to the Governor and the Attorney-General of Kansas that they are willing to refinance and rehabilitate said Company and furnish an adequate supply of gas; and have formulated a plan for the issuance of $9,000,000 additional capital stock for such purpose, and declared that it is to the best interest of said Company, its 474 stockholders, creditors and the public that said Receiver be discharged and the property and management be restored to the Company, as shown by an agreement dated the 7th day of July, 1916, hereto attached, marked "Exhibit V," and made a part hereof.

66. Your petitioner alleges on information and belief that said agreement has been underwritten by responsible parties, including all of said stockholders' committee above named, and that by reason thereof said Company is perfectly solvent and able to perform all its contractual and public obligations, including its contract with your petitioner dated February 1, 1906, to furnish an adequate supply of gas at the price agreed upon therein, until December 14, 1924.

67. Your petitioner further states on information and belief that one Henry L. Doherty and associates have submitted a proposition to the Attorney-General and Governor of Kansas, in which they offer to purchase said properties at foreclosure sale and to refinance and rehabilitate the same and furnish a reasonably adequate supply of natural gas, as per the printed statement thereof hereto attached, marked "Exhibit W" and made a part hereof.

68. Your petitioner further shows to the court that the real parties in interest who signed said stipulation or so-called Creditors' Agreement, to-wit, said bondholders, are also the real parties in interest and the moving parties plaintiff in the aforesaid McKinney suit and foreclosure suit pending in this court; that the Kansas Natural Second Mortgage Bondholders have filed in said foreclosure suit their cross bill for the foreclosure of said second mortgage; that The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and its bondholders have filed in this court in said cases a petition of intervention for the adjudication of 475 their claims and indebtedness; that by reason thereof all the real parties in interest to said stipulation are real parties in interest, either plaintiffs or defendants, in said McKinney and foreclosure suits, and can not now maintain said state suit for the real purpose of ousting this court of jurisdiction in said causes, and as a bar to their own rights to maintain said McKinney and foreclosure suits, for the reason that said suits obstruct justice and prevent your petitioner from enforcing against the Kansas Natural Gas Company its right to an adequate supply of gas as per the terms and conditions of said supply-contract.

69. That neither the Kansas Natural Gas Company nor its stockholders have any right to maintain said state suit, for the reason that said Company, signing said stipulation by Eugene Mackey, its president, is defendant in both the McKinney and foreclosure suits pending in this court; and said Company has confessed its insolvency in said cases and consented to a decree of foreclosure long prior to the signing and filing of said stipulation in said state case.

70. That the demands of the public and consumers upon your petitioner for an adequate and increased supply of gas are very great and increasing; that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders have heretofore done nothing looking toward the refunding and refinancing of its indebtedness, rehabilitation of its system and business, and performance of its public and contractual obligations since the summer of 1912, but had practically deserted and abandoned said business and property to their creditors and bondholders from October 8, 1912, to the hearing of this case at St. Paul on April 26, 1916; that public policy demands that said property and 476 business be maintained and operated as a public service corporation and in such a manner as to render efficient service; that if said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders are unable to perform their public and contractual obligations said property should be sold as expeditiously as possible at foreclosure sale, freed of such obligations, at an upset price to be fixed by the court, and to some responsible party making satisfactory proofs to the court of his or its ability to continue said property and business a going concern and to furnish the distributing companies and consumers on said system an adequate supply of natural gas.

71. That this application and supplemental answer, counterclaim and cross bill of complaint serves to aid the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas in its defense of the original bill of complaint, in that it is immaterial whether the rate allowed by the Kansas Commission is confiscatory or not, if the same has been agreed to by the Kansas Natural Gas Company by contract, and said contract has not been modified, rescinded or disavowed, as hereinbefore alleged; and said cross bill further serves to obtain a complete determination of the controversies between the complainant John M. Landon, as Receiver, and the several defendants to the dependent bill of complaint filed herein; that said matters were pretermitted by the order and opinion of this court on granting a temporary injunction herein and referred to this court as now constituted.

72. That except as herein admitted and as admitted in the answer of your petitioner filed herein on March 9, 1916, your petitioner denies the truth of each and every statement, allegation and averment made and contained in the plaintiff's bill of complaint and in the answer and joint bill of complaint filed herein by the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation.

477 73. That your petitioner has no other plain, adequate or complete remedy at law and therefore files this application and supplemental answer, counterclaim and cross bill of complaint in this Honorable Court, where alone relief can be had.

478 Wherefore, the premises considered, your petitioner, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, prays this Honorable Court:

1. To dissolve the interlocutory temporary injunction granted herein, in so far as said order (if so intended) restrains this defendant from putting or maintaining in effect or attempting to put or maintain in effect, by legal proceedings or otherwise, against the Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company the rates and charges agreed to by said Kansas Natural Gas Company in said contract of February 1, 1906.

2. That the court require the Attorney-General of Kansas, Honorable S. M. Brewster, to state whether or not it is the intention of the State of Kansas to further prosecute said case pending in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the name of the State of Kansas, and to state what, if any, corporate abuses still exist, requiring the continuation of said receivership and the possession and custody of said property by said court; and to show cause why said suit pending in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the name of the State of Kansas, should not be dismissed and the Receiver therein discharged.

3. That under the orders of this court in the McKinney and foreclosure suits, to which this cause is dependent, issued January 24, 1914, and September 22, 1914, wherein this court retained the reversionary estate and potential possession of said property through its Receiver, George F. Sharritt, this court resume possession and control of said property through its said Receiver, George F. Sharritt, and proceed to final judgment in said McKinney and foreclosure suits.

479 4. That John M. Landon, as ancillary Receiver appointed by this court, be ordered to make a report of his receivership to this court.

5. That the Kansas Natural Gas Company and John M. Landon, its Receiver, be required to specifically perform said contract of February 1, 1906, and to furnish, supply and deliver to your petitioner, at or near the corporate limits of Kansas City, at a pressure of 20 pounds, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, for distribution and sale at the prices agreed upon and at the compensation provided for therein.

6. That the said John M. Landon and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, their agents, servants and employes, be perpetually enjoined from shutting off the supply of gas to your petitioner; and that pending the final hearing and determination of this cause said John M. Landon and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, their agents, servants and employes, be temporarily restrained from shutting off the supply of gas to your petitioner; that a writ of subpoena issue out of this Court for the said John M. Landon, Receiver, and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company ordering and directing them to answer this petition, counter-claim and cross-bill of complaint; and for such other and further relief to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just.

tiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.

483 Supplemental Bill of Complaint.

For this supplemental bill of complaint herein against the defendants and each of them the plaintiff, John M. Landon, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company alleges that since the filing of the decree of preliminary injunction herein, on June 3, 1916, there have occurred, transpired and come to the knowledge of this plaintiff new and subsequent facts and occurrences relating to and directly affecting the subject matter of this suit, for and on account of which this plaintiff is entitled to relief as hereinafter and in the bill of complaint prayed for, as follows:

I.

That on or about the 29th day of July, 1916, acting in pursuance to the order and decree of preliminary injunction entered in this cause, as aforesaid, this plaintiff filed in this cause his bond in the sum of Seven Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($750,000.00) conditioned as provided by said order, which said bond was approved by the Honorable Ralph E. Campbell, United States District Judge.

484 That on August 14, 1916, upon the filing of said bond, the Honorable Morton Albaugh, Clerk of this District Court, issued under the seal of this court the writ of preliminary injunction authorized and ordered to be issued by this court in said order of June 3, 1916.

That after the issuance of the writ of preliminary injunction herein and on or about August 4, 1916, this plaintiff, in the due course of the administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in his hands as such Receiver, prepared schedules and directed the various distributing companies selling and distributing natural gas in the States of Kansas and Missouri for this receiver, as his agents, to put into force and effect on September 1, 1916, certain rates which upon due investigation he deemed reasonable, compensatory and just.

That the said rates so established and ordered by the Receiver were fixed and established by the Receiver in pursuance of the order of this court entered on June 3, 1916, and that the rates are graduated according to the distance the several cities supplied by the agents of this Receiver are located from the gas fields and from Grabham station, a common basing point through which all the gas 485 supplied by the Receiver passes, and will produce an average price of about thirty-two cents per thousand cubic feet for the domestic gas supplied by him to consumers in the said several cities in Kansas and Missouri.

That this plaintiff is entitled to an average rate of 32c per thousand cubic feet for natural gas transported and sold by him. That in the opinion delivered in this case on June 3, 1916, by this court, it was said:

"The opinion of the court can rest only on the evidence before it, and upon that evidence it is its opinion that a less rate than thirty-two cents per M cubic foot will be found insufficient to accomplish this result."

In the case of St. Joseph Gas Company, plaintiff vs. John T. Barker, et al., defendants, in the United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri, St. Joseph Division, the same three judges who sat in the case of John M. Landon, etc., vs. The Public Utilities Commission, et al., delivered the opinion of the court, and in the opinion it was said:

"The argument that the reasonable charge for the delivery of the gas to St. Joseph cannot be greater than 21 1-3 cents per thousand cubic feet, the amount that the gas Company at Atchison would 486 presumptively pay under the 32 cent rate, is not persuasive because that rate has not been determined to be compensatory anywhere, much less in Atchison (all that this court has declared as to the 32 cent rate is that it was convinced by the evidence in the Landon case that no rate less than 32 cents would be found to be sufficient to compensate the Natural Gas Company for its gas on the basis of two-thirds of the proceeds to it and one-third to the local company), because the 32 cent rate suggested was not that particular rate to the consumers in each city which the Natural Gas Company supplies wherever that city is located, but a suggestion of an average rate; and because it is patent that the reasonable rate to the consumers and the reasonable charge for obtaining gas at the city most distant from the source of supply is unavoidably higher per thousand cubic feet than it is at cities of the same size nearer to the source of supply."

Thus the court determined that anything less than an average rate of 32c to the consumers will be non-compensatory and confiscatory.

II.

That on or about August 10, 1916, the Kansas City Gas Company, one of the defendants herein, filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, a defendant herein, its com-487 plaint against this plaintiff, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a defendant herein, praying an order or orders of said Commission requiring this plaintiff to comply with the contracts of November 17, and December 3, 1906, between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the validity of both of which contracts was and is involved in the determination of this suit, and requiring plaintiff to make certain extensions to pipe lines controlled and operated by him in the States of Oklahoma and Kansas, and requiring plaintiff to do and perform many other acts and things, all of which are a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged and engaging, and also in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, in this cause, receiving exclusive jurisdiction over all matters and things in controversy in this suit for the further determination of this court. A copy of which said complaint is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "1," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint by reference.

488 That on said 10th day of August, 1916, the said Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, a defendant herein, made and entered an order requiring this plaintiff and the defendants named in said complaint (Exhibit "1") to answer said complaint on or before ten days from the date of service of the order.

III.

That on the 10th day of August, 1916, the Kansas City Gas Company, one of the defendants herein, filed a new schedule of rates for natural gas applying to Kansas City, Missouri, in which it sought to change the rates of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, from and after November 9th and 19th, 1916, in alleged conformity with the contracts of November 17, and December 3, 1906, between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company above referred to and on the same date the said Kansas City, Missouri another of the defendants herein by its City Counselor agreed and consented to the change of rates as applied for by said Kansas City Gas Company, and approved the same. That said defendants thus endeavored to give force and effect to the contracts of November

489 17, and December 3, 1906, above referred to, notwithstanding that the validity of both contracts was and is involved in the determination of this suit. That in accordance with said application of the Kansas City Gas Company and the approval of the City of Kansas City through its City Counselor the Public Service Commission of Missouri, one of the defendants in this suit, made an order putting said rates into effect as prayed for and in conformity with said contracts as aforesaid. That said application of the Kansas City Gas Company, the approval of the same by the City of Kansas City, Missouri, through its City Counselor, and the order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri were all a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged and is engaging, and also in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving exclusive jurisdiction of all matters and controversies in this suit for the further determination of this court. A copy of said complaint of the Kansas City Gas Company is filed herewith marked Exhibit "2" and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint 490 by reference, and a copy of the order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "3" and made a part hereof.

IV.

That on August 23, 1916, The Kansas City Gas Company commenced a suit in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, at Kansas City, Missouri, in case No. 104443, entitled Kansas City Gas Company, plaintiff, vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company, John M. Landon, Receiver, and George F. Sharritt, Receiver, defendants, praying the specific performance of certain contracts dated November 17, and December 3, 1906, claimed by said plaintiff to be existing between Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company. That upon being served with summons in said cause, and within the time provided by law for the removal of causes to the United States Courts, this plaintiff and the other defendants therein filed their petition for removal of said cause from the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, to the United States District Court for 491 the Western District of Missouri, Western Division, and said cause has been removed thereto and is now pending therein.

That by said suit the said Kansas City Gas Company seeks to litigate in said cause the identical matters, facts and things set up in the answer and cross bill of the said Kansas City Gas Company theretofore filed in this suit, and seeks and prays the same kind, character and extent of relief sought and demanded in and under the said answer and cross petition. That the bringing of said suit as aforesaid is in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, which reserved exclusive jurisdiction over all the matters and things in controversy in this suit for the further determination of this court. A copy of said petition so filed in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "4," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint by reference.

V.

That in accordance with the direction of this plaintiff in the promulgation and establishing of new rates after the taking effect of said preliminary injunction as aforesaid, notice was given to the 492 Weston Gas & Light Company that the rates on natural gas to consumers in Weston, Missouri, transported from Kansas and Oklahoma, on and after September 20, 1916, would be thirty-eight (38c) cents per thousand cubic feet, net, with a minimum charge of fifty (50c) cents per month. That said Weston Gas & Light Company filed the proposed schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri. That said Public Service Commission of Missouri, one of the defendants herein, made an order suspending said proposed schedule of rates in Weston, Missouri, and attempted to postpone the taking effect of the same for one hundred twenty (20) days after September 20, 1916. That said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged and is engaging, and also in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties herein. A copy of said order is hereunto attached, marked Exhibit "5" and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint.

VI.

That in accordance with the direction of this plaintiff in the promulgation and establishment of new rates after the taking effect of the preliminary injunction as aforesaid, notice was given to the Joplin Gas Company that the rates on natural gas transported from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Joplin, Missouri, would, after September 1, 1916, be 30c. per thousand cubic feet, net, with a net minimum charge of 60c. per thousand cubic feet. That said Joplin Gas Company filed the proposed schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri. That the City of Joplin, one of the defendants herein, filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, a copy of which complaint is attached hereto, marked Exhibit "6," and made a part hereof. That upon the filing of said complaint the said Public Service Commission of Missouri made an order suspending said proposed schedule of rates in Joplin, Missouri, and attempted to postpone the taking effect of the same for 120 days from and including September 8, 1916. That a copy of said order is hereunto attached, marked Exhibit "7," and made a part hereof. That on the 19th day of September, 1916, the said Public Service Commission of Missouri notified Messrs. Spencer & Grayston, attorneys for the Joplin Gas Company that if the proposed rates, or any rates in excess of the rate then on file with the Commission, to-wit, 25c. per thousand cubic feet, were sought to be made effective such action would be in violation of the Commission's order and the Commission would take such action thereto as it deemed appropriate; a true and correct copy of the notice of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is hereunto attached, marked Exhibit "8," and made a part hereof.

That the said Joplin Gas Company was notified by E. F. Cameron, City Attorney of Joplin, Missouri, that any attempt to collect the proposed rate of 30c. per thousand cubic feet, or any rate in excess of 25c. per thousand cubic feet, would subject the officers and employees of said company to a criminal prosecution and that said officials would be arrested from one to seven thousand two hundred times and be punished by a fine of from $100.00 to $200.00 for each offense of overcharging each patron; that the Joplin Com-

495      pany has 7,200 patrons and it would be subject to a fine of $144,000.00 for each month. That the threats of said Public Service Commission and said city officials have deterred said Joplin Gas Company and this plaintiff from putting into effect in Joplin, Missouri, the said proposed rate of 30c. per thousand cubic feet. That said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri and the acts and threats of the said officials of Joplin, Missouri, are a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged and is engaging, and also is in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties herein.

VII.

That in accordance with the direction of this plaintiff in the promulgation and establishment of new rates after the taking effect of said preliminary injunction as aforesaid, notice was given to the Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water & Power Company that the rates on natural gas transported from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Nevada, Missouri, would be 35c. per thousand cubic feet, net, with a minimum charge of 50c. per month, which will cover the first thousand cubic feet. That said Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water & Power Company filed the proposed schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri. That said Public Service Commission of Missouri, one of the defendants herein, made an order suspending said proposed schedule of rates in Nevada, Missouri, and attempted to postpone the taking effect of the same for 120 days from and including September 22, 1916. That said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged and is engaging, and is in direct conflict with the order of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties herein. A copy of said order of said Public Service Commission of Missouri is attached hereto, marked Exhibit "9," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint.

VIII.

That in accordance with the direction of this plaintiff in the promulgation of new rates after the taking effect of said preliminary injunction as aforesaid, notice was given to the Carl Junction Gas Company that rates on natural gas transported from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Carl Junction, Missouri, would be 30c. per thousand cubic feet, net. That said Carl Junction Gas Company filed the proposed schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri. That said Public Service Commission of Missouri, one of the defendants herein, made an order on or about the 17th day of August, 1916, suspending said proposed schedule of rates in Carl Junction, Missouri, and attempted to postpone the taking effect of the same for 120 days. That on the 1st day of September, 1916, the Public Service Commission of Missouri gave the said Carl Junction Gas Company additional notice that any attempt to increase the rates named in the schedule which was suspended would be a violation of the Commission's order and action would be taken. A copy of said notice is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "10," and 498 made a part hereof. That on the 19th day of September, 1916, A. M. Baird, City Attorney of Carl Junction, Missouri, gave additional notice to the Carl Junction Gas Company warning said company against taking any action that would be a violation of the order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri. A copy of said notice of the said Public Service Commission of Missouri suspending the schedule of rates at Carl Junction, Missouri, is similar to Exhibit "7" hereto attached in reference to the suspending of the schedule of rates at Joplin, Missouri. That said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, the notice of said Commission marked Exhibit "10," and the notice of A. M. Baird, City Attorney, marked Exhibit "11," are substantial burdens upon and an interference with the interstate commerce business in which this defendant is engaged and is engaging, and are in direct conflict with the order of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties hereto.

IX.

That in accordance with the direction of this plaintiff in the promulgation of new rates after the taking effect of said preliminary injunction as aforesaid, notice was given to the Oronogo Gas Company that the rates on natural gas transported 499 from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Missouri would be 30c. per thousand cubic feet, net. That said Oronogo Gas Company filed the proposed schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri. That said Public Service Commission of Missouri, one of the defendants herein, made an order suspending said proposed schedule of rates in Oronogo, Missouri, and attempted to postpone the taking effect of the same for 120 days. That said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged and is engaging and is in direct conflict with the order of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties hereto. That said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is similar to the order marked Exhibit "7," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint suspending the schedule of rates in Joplin, Missouri,

That each, every, all and singular, of the orders, letters, communications, and acts of the said Public Service Commission of Missouri was done and performed for the express purpose, aim and desire to deter, intimidate, and prevent the said defendants, and the other defendants acting as agents for this plaintiff, through fear of incurring the unreasonable penalties prescribed by the laws of Missouri as set out in the bill of complaint, from carrying out and performing the orders of this plaintiff rightfully and lawfully made in establishing and putting into force reasonable rates for the sale of natural gas to consumers in the cities served by each of the said defendants respectively. That each of said orders, letters, communications, and acts was and is a violation of and an interference with this plaintiff in the administration of the trust in his hands, and in the performance of his duty as such receiver.

That by requiring plaintiff and his respective agents to sell natural gas, produced in Kansas and Oklahoma and transported to Missouri, to consumers in Nevada, Missouri, at 30 cents per thousand cubic feet, net, and in Carl Junction, Oronogo, Weston, and Joplin, Missouri, at 25 cents, net, said defendants make plaintiff purchase and procure said gas in Kansas and Oklahoma and deliver it to consumers at the respective cities at a loss. That by inhibiting plaintiff from selling said gas at 38 cents in Weston, 35 cents in Nevada, 30 cents in Carl Junction, Oronogo and Joplin, the said defendants are preventing plaintiff from securing an average rate of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet on all natural gas which he purchases and procures in Kansas and Oklahoma and sells to consumers in Kansas and Missouri. It is necessary for plaintiff to obtain said rates in order to make any profit. That by all said acts aforesaid, said defendants are substantially burdening and unduly interfering with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged, in violation of the Commerce Clause of the Constitution of the United States. That this court has already determined herein that said rates which said defendants are attempting to require plaintiff to maintain are non-compensatory, confiscatory, unreasonable, and a direct and substantial burden on interstate commerce.

XI.

That on or about August 10, 1916, the City of Kansas City, Kansas, the City of Rosedale, Kansas, and the Wyandotte County Gas Company, defendants herein, as complainants, filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, a defendant herein, their complaint against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and this plaintiff, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, praying for an order requiring this plaintiff to comply with the contract of February 1, 1906, between the Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the validity of which contract was and is involved in the determination of this suit, and requiring this plaintiff to make certain extensions of the pipe lines operated and controlled by this plaintiff in the State of Oklahoma, and requiring this plaintiff to do and perform many other acts and things that are also a direct and substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged and engaging, and also in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties herein. A copy of said complaint is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "12," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint by reference.

That upon the filing of said complaint (Exhibit "12") the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, defendant herein, made and entered an order requiring the plaintiff herein to answer said complaint and assigning the same for hearing on October 19, 1916.

That on October 2, 1916, the plaintiff filed his motion to said complaint (Exhibit "12") a true and correct copy of which motion is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "13," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint by reference.

XII.

That on or about the 10th day of August, 1916, the Wyandotte County Gas Company, defendant herein, as complainant, filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, a proposed new schedule of rates wherein it sought to change the rate charged for natural gas in Kansas City, Kansas, from 28c. per thousand cubic feet, net, to 30c. per thousand cubic feet net, effective on and after November 19, 1916, as provided by and in conformity with the contract of February 1, 1906, between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Wyandotte Gas Company, which it is claimed by said Wyandotte County Gas Company is still existing and in force against the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff. That a hearing was had on said application of the said Wyandotte County Gas Company at which the City of Kansas City, Kansas, a defendant herein, appeared by its City Attorney. That said hearing was had on the 21st day of September, 1916, and said City of Kansas City, Kansas, through its City Attorney, consented to the change of rates as proposed in said schedule. That the Commission has taken such application under advisement and has not yet given its decision thereon. That said defendants sought by said application to determine the validity of the contract of February 1, 1906, notwithstanding that said contract is one of the issues in this suit that has been reserved for consideration by this court.

That the action of said defendants so taken, if the same is consummated and said 30c. rate put into effect, will prevent plaintiff from securing an average rate of 32c. per thousand cubic feet, net, on all natural gas which he purchases and procures in Kansas and Oklahoma and sells to consumers in Kansas and Missouri. That said acts of the defendants as aforesaid, are also a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged and is engaging, and also in direct conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, reserving exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties herein. A copy of said complaint is filed herein, marked Exhibit "14," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint by reference.

XIII.

That after the making and publishing of the schedules as aforesaid in the several cities of Kansas, The Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, a defendant herein, made and entered an order on the 13th day of September requiring the plaintiff to file with said Commission a schedule of the rates established by this plaintiff 506 as aforesaid in the several cities of Kansas supplied by him with natural gas. A true and correct copy of said order is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "15," and made a part of this supplemental bill of complaint by reference. That this plaintiff, as Receiver, complied with said order and filed with the said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas a schedule of the rates established by him in the State of Kansas, a true and correct copy of which schedule is filed with said Public Utilities Commission is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "16," and made a part hereof by reference. That after the filing of said schedule and on the 21st day of September, A. D. 1916, the said Public Utilities Commission made an order that upon its own motion it would enter into a general investigation of the rates, joint rates, rules, service, regulations, and practices of this plaintiff as shown by the schedule filed by this plaintiff with said Commission in accordance with its order heretofore mentioned. That the hearing of said general investigation has been set for October 24, 1916. That a true and correct copy of said order is hereto attached, marked Exhibit 17, and made a part of this supplemental bill of com-507 plaint by reference.

XIV.

That thereafter and on the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1916, the said Public Utilities Commission, through its attorneys, filed in the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas, a petition for an alternative writ of mandamus to require this plaintiff to file a schedule for industrial and boiler gas. That an alternative writ of mandamus was issued thereon, returnable October 10, 1916. A true and correct copy of said alternative writ is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "18," and made a part hereof by reference. That this plaintiff has complied with this alternative writ as far as possible.

That on or about the 22nd day of September, A. D. 1916, the said Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, through its attorneys, filed a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel this plaintiff and the Olathe Gas Company to furnish natural gas to Olathe, Kansas, under a contract dated November 30, 1908, between the Olathe Gas Company and The Kansas Natural Gas Company, whereby the Olathe Gas Company was to act as agent for 508 The Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas Natural Gas Company was to receive a percentage of the receipts for natural gas as measured at the consumers' meters. The petition also sought to have this plaintiff cease furnishing natural gas to the Olathe Gas Company at a price per thousand cubic feet determined by meter placed at the gates of the City of Olathe under an arrangement alleged to have been entered into on or about September 1, 1916. That an alternative writ was issued thereon, returnable October 10, 1916. A true and correct copy of said alternative writ is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "19," and made a part hereof by reference.

XV.

That since the publishing and the giving of notice of a schedule of rates to be established and charged consumers of gas in the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, by this plaintiff, the defendants, the Wyandotte County Gas Company, the City of Kansas City, Kansas, and the City of Rosedale, Kansas, have conspired together to prevent the putting into force and effect such rates.

500 And the Wyandotte County Gas Company has since said time denied that it is the agent of this Receiver for the sale and distribution of natural gas in said cities, and avers and asserts that it is a purchaser of natural gas, and refuses to put into force and effect the rates and prices ordered to be put into force and effect in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, by the plaintiff. That such course of action and position taken by the Wyandotte County Gas Company was taken at the instance and upon the advice and in furtherance of the plan entered into between the Wyandotte County Gas Company and the said cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, to prevent this plaintiff from obtaining and collecting compensatory rates for gas supplied to the inhabitants of said cities. That a true and correct copy of the letter of June 27, 1916, directed to this plaintiff by the Wyandotte County Gas Company in which it stated its refusal to put in the rate prescribed by this plaintiff, is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "20," and made a part hereof by reference. That a true and correct copy of the letter of the City of 510 Kansas City, Kansas, addressed to this plaintiff in furtherance of said scheme and conspiracy above set forth, is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "21," and made a part hereof by reference.

That after receiving notice from the Wyandotte County Gas Company that it would not put into force and effect the rates for the selling of natural gas ordered and directed by the plaintiff, the plaintiff fixed and established a price of 18c. per thousand cubic feet to be charged the Wyandotte County Gas Company for gas supplied it for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, at the gate of the city plant, where the gas passes from the pipe lines of the plaintiff to the distributing plant of said defendant, and notified the said Wyandotte County Gas Company thereof. That since the giving of said notice by plaintiff to the said Wyandotte County Gas Company, of said price of 18c at the gate of the city, the plaintiff has at all times demanded and insisted, and will continue to demand and insist, that the said Wyandotte County Gas Company pay for the natural gas delivered to it at the gate of the City of Kansas City,

511 Kansas, and of the City of Rosedale, Kansas, at the said rate of 18c. per thousand cubic feet. That the said Wyandotte County Gas Company has refused to pay the said rate of 18c. per thousand cubic feet, as more fully appears from the letter addressed to this plaintiff, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "22," and made a part hereof by reference. That the said Wyandotte County Gas Company and the said Cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, have as part of the conspiracy above set forth, instituted various suits and proceedings before The Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, as hereinbefore set forth. That by inhibiting the plaintiff from selling said natural gas at a price of 18c. per thousand cubic feet at the gate of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, the said defendants are preventing the plaintiff from securing an average rate of 32c. per thousand cubic feet on all natural gas which he purchases and procures and sells to consumers in Kansas and Missouri. That it is necessary for plaintiff to obtain said rate of 18c. in order to make any profit. That 62 1-2% of the 30c. rate on natural gas delivered to consumers in Kansas City, 512 Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, as measured at the meters of said consumers, is non-compensatory, confiscatory, and unreasonable, and would directly and substantially burden the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged in delivering natural gas to consumers in Kansas. That said interstate commerce business constitutes 96% of the business of this plaintiff in delivering natural gas to consumers in Kansas. That said price of 30c. as aforesaid, charged for natural gas delivered to consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, if possible to be applied in intrastate commerce, which it cannot be, is so unreasonably low as to unduly interfere with and substantially burden the interstate commerce business conducted by plaintiff in transporting and delivering natural gas to consumers in Kansas and Missouri.

That the ordinances passed by the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, have been superseded and repealed by the Public Utilities Act, and the power of the cities to contract as to rates, has been taken away. That it has been decided, in the case of State of Kansas vs. The Wyandotte County Gas Company, 88 Kan. 165 (The Wyandotte County Gas Company vs. State of Kansas, 231 513 U. S. 622), that the City of Kansas City, Kansas, being a city of the first class, never had the power to enact the ordinance on which the contract of February 1, 1906, was based. In the case of Kansas ex rel. vs. Litchfield, 97 Kans. 592, it was decided that an ordinance of a city of the second class, like Rosedale, enacted before January 1, 1911, is no longer in force and effect. Said ordinances have been violated by the respective cities since January 1, 1911, and are not now in force and effect. The contract between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its predecessors in interest incorporates the said ordinances into the said contract and makes them a part thereof. As the ordinances are no longer in force, the contracts based on the ordinances, have been changed without the consent of The Kansas Natural Gas Company and are no longer in force as to it.

The contract, even if binding on the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is not binding on its Receiver, for it has never been adopted by him.

XVI.

That the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the defendant cities are by the acts and things which they 514 have done as above set forth, substantially burdening and unduly interfering with the interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged, which said interstate commerce business constitutes 96% of the business this plaintiff does in the State of Kansas in transporting and delivering natural gas to consumers within the State of Kansas. That by all the acts aforesaid, said defendants last named have and do violate the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, retaining exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter of this suit and the parties thereto.

XVII.

That at and about the time of the giving of said notice to the Wyandotte County Gas Company, the Kansas City Gas Company upon being notified of the rates and prices fixed by this plaintiff for the sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, notified the plaintiff that it was not his agent for the distribution and sale of natural gas but that its arrangement was one for the purchase of gas and it then and there refused to put into force and effect the rates established by this plaintiff for the sale of natural gas to consumers
515 in Kansas City, Missouri, and wrote to this plaintiff a letter similar to that written on behalf of the Wyandotte County Gas Company heretofore referred to as Exhibit "20." That on June 27, 1916, the City Counselor of Kansas City, Missouri, for and on behalf of said city, advised this plaintiff in accordance with a letter, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "23," and made a part hereof. That upon receiving notice from the said Kansas City Gas Company of its intention not to act longer as agent for this plaintiff and its refusal to put into force and effect the scale of prices fixed by this plaintiff, plaintiff notified the said Kansas City Gas Company that from and after September 1, 1916, he would charge said Kansas City Gas Company for gas delivered to it by him at the price of 18c. per thousand cubic feet at the gates of the plant of the Kansas City Gas Company, being the point where the gas is transferred from the pipe lines of this plaintiff to the distributing plant of the Kansas City Gas Company. That said Kansas City Gas Company refused to accept such price, but demanded that this plaintiff furnish natural gas to it and receive in pay therefor 516 62 1-2% of the rate of 27c. for natural gas as measured by the consumers' meters until November, 1916, and that thereafter it should receive 62 1-2% of a rate of 30c. as measured by consumers' meters, as more fully appears from copies of letters of said Kansas City Gas Company to plaintiff hereto attached, marked Exhibits "24 and 25," and made a part hereof. That since the giving of said notice this plaintiff has at all times insisted and now insists upon payment from the Kansas City Gas Company for natural gas delivered to it from and after September 1, 1916, at the rate of 18c. per thousand cubic feet as measured by meter at the gate of the said city distributing plant. That unless this plaintiff is allowed and permitted to sell natural gas delivered to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, at a rate of 18c. per thousand feet as measured at the gates of the Kansas City Gas Company's distributing plant this plaintiff will be prevented from securing an average rate of 32c. per thousand cubic feet on all natural gas which he purchases and produces in Kansas and Oklahoma and sells to consumers in Kansas and 517 Missouri. That it is necessary for plaintiff to obtain said rate of 18c. in order to make any profit on natural gas transported by him for delivery to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri. That by all said acts as aforesaid said defendants are substantially burdening and unduly interfering with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged in violation of the Commerce Clause of the Constitution of the United States.

XVIII.

That since the making of the order of Preliminary Injunction herein by this court, and acting upon the same and relying upon the enforcement thereof by this court, and of its likelihood of making such Injunction permanent upon the final trial of this cause, the stock-holders of Kansas Natural Gas Company have projected a plan of reorganization, whereby they propose to raise out of the sale of stock Four and One-half Million Dollars for the purpose of paying the present indebtedness of the company under the Creditors' Agreement, and to furnish a larger sum of money for making the necessary pipe line extensions to the distant gas fields, thereby insuring the extension of the life of the business over the full period, as found 518 by this court. That said plan of reorganization has been put in form and signed by the subscribers to the capital stock, and is to be presented to the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, for its approval; and when such approval is given, the said stock-holders stand ready, able and willing to furnish and advance the money necessary to pay such indebtedness and to make such extensions. That said reorganization plan is primarily predicated upon the payment of the indebtedness owing by Kansas Natural Gas Company on the basis of the Creditors' Agreement, and upon the procurement of reasonable and adequate rates for the sale of natural gas, so as to make a just return upon the moneys now invested and to be invested by them, and the protection of such rates by this court.

That a true and correct copy of the application of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the discharge of this Receiver as filed in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "26," and made a part hereof by reference.

That the Attorney General of the State of Kansas has also 519 filed a motion to discharge this plaintiff as Receiver of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, a copy of which motion is hereto attached, marked Exhibit "27," and made a part hereof by reference.

That these motions and applications have been set down for hearing on October 16, 1916.

XIX.

This plaintiff further alleges that since the filing of the bill of complaint herein and since the entering of the order of preliminary injunction herein, the prices of materials useful and necessary in making, constructing and equipping pipe lines, gas well equipments and compressor stations, have advanced in most instances to double the value and price of such materials existing at the time of filing the bill of complaint, and that the price of labor in the locality where it would be necessary to use such labor in the buildings of such extensions has increased from 40% to 60%; and that the cost of making the extensions ordered to be made by this court in its order granting the preliminary injunction herein on June 3, 1916, will be from 60% to 80% greater than the cost of making such extensions would 520 have been at the time of filing the bill of complaint herein, and at the time of the trial of this cause upon the application for preliminary injunction.

That the cost of gas delivered at the pipe lines of this plaintiff at advantageous points in the State of Oklahoma has increased since the filing of the bill of complaint herein, and since the hearing of the evidence offered upon the trial of this cause on the application for preliminary injunction, until the cost of gas at the present time is approximately seven cents (7c) per thousand cubic feet, and will continue to advance in price owing to the great competition existing between gas companies and distributing companies for the purchase of gas in the gas fields. That in order to continue and extend the life of the business to the full period of six years, found by this court, extensions must be made to much greater distances than was contemplated by the court, and established by the proofs at the time of the hearing of this cause on the application for preliminary injunction, requiring a large investment of money, which can only be 521 procured from sources other than the revenues of the company; and the rates and prices from the sale of natural gas, if the business is to be continued for any considerable period of time, must be such as will make a return upon the additional investment, made necessary by the longer distances gas must be transported, by the increase in materials and labor for the construction of such pipe lines and the necessary compressor stations to efficiently and economically operate the same.

XX.

That since the publication of rates established by this plaintiff for the sale and distribution of natural gas in the several cities of Kansas and Missouri, the City of Topeka, Kansas, The Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, the City of Kansas City, Kansas, and the City of Rosedale, Kansas, the Cities of Kansas City, Missouri, Oronogo, Missouri, Carl Junction, Missouri, and Joplin, Missouri, and the Public Service Commission of Missouri, acting by and through their several members, attorneys, officers, agents and employees, and by and through public utterances, declarations and threats, have advised, counseled and encouraged the consumers of natural gas in said several cities to refuse to pay the prices and rates fixed for natural gas by the plaintiff herein; and by and through such methods have sought to render nugatory and ineffective the order and decree of this court. That said defendants by the filing of the numerous suits and applications before the Commissions and by threats given through the newspapers, in public announcements, and through addresses of their several officers and agents made before public meetings and in political campaigns, have sought to intimidate and interfere with the distributing companies, putting into force and effect the rates given and published by the plaintiff to be charged consumers for gas in said several cities.

That the rates at which plaintiff was selling gas at the time of filing the bill of complaint herein, and at all times since said date until the publishing of the schedule of rates as hereinbefore alleged, were and are confiscatory of the estate of Kansas Natural Gas Company in the hands of this plaintiff, and were and are unremunerative, non-compensatory and unreasonably low, as found by this court.

That the rates and prices for the sale of gas in the several cities supplied by this plaintiff in Kansas and Missouri, as recently fixed by plaintiff, are reasonable and will afford the plaintiff an average not exceeding  $\frac{2}{3}$  of 32 cents, net, per thousand cubic feet, leakage considered, which is now an adequate return upon the property employed in carrying on the business, and a reasonable allowance for extensions made necessary by the character of the business being carried on by plaintiff.

That unless restrained and enjoined pending the hearing of this case on the merits, and permanently enjoined upon the final hearing hereof, the defendants will continue to interfere, obstruct and prevent the plaintiff putting into force and effect such reasonable rates, and will thereby interfere with the business of plaintiff in interstate commerce now being conducted and carried on by him among the States of Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri, and plaintiff is and will be without an adequate remedy at law.

Wherefore, Plaintiff prays:

(a) That the Wyandotte County Gas Company be restrained and enjoined from prosecuting in any court, other than this court, or before any Commission, any suit or proceeding for the specific performance of the contract of February 1, 1906, and that this court declare said contract to be without force or effect as against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and this plaintiff.

(b) That the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and the defendant cities located in Kansas, their officers, agents, employes, and attorneys, and each of them, be restrained and enjoined from prescribing rates, regulations, and practices, in regard to the interstate commerce business conducted by this plaintiff and the Kansas Natural Gas Company in delivering natural gas to consumers and distributing companies in the State of Kansas, and from establishing rates for the intrastate commerce business conducted by plaintiff so unreasonably low as to substantially burden and unduly interfere with the interstate commerce business conducted by this plaintiff.

(c) That the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, its agents, employees and attorneys, and each of them, be restrained and enjoined from prosecuting in the Supreme Court of Kansas the two 525      mandamus suits described in paragraph XIV of this supplemental bill of complaint, or any other suits or proceedings in any other court than this court, involving the subject matter of this suit, over which exclusive jurisdiction has been retained by this court, until the final hearing and disposition of this cause.

(d) That the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas be restrained and enjoined from making any orders in the proceedings pending before it, described in paragraphs XI, XII, and XIII, of this supplemental bill of complaint, which will in any manner interfere with the interstate commerce business conducted by this plaintiff or with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, in relation to the securing of an additional gas supply.

(e) That the Kansas City Gas Company, its agents, officers, employees and attorneys, be restrained and enjoined from prosecuting in any other court than this court any suit, and especially the suit now pending in the United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri, Western Division, for the specific performance of the

(h) That upon the final hearing of this cause, this court grant to this plaintiff a permanent injunction, enjoining said defendants and each of them from interfering with plaintiff putting

Kansas City Gas Company.

Classification of Service.

Schedule of Rates.

General Rate.—The Kansas City Gas Company will change the rate for natural gas for general consumption from 27 cents net, per thousand cubic feet, as set forth in its schedule of rates filed with the Commission on or about October 19, 1913, to 30 cents net, per thousand cubic feet; such change to be effective for gas sold and delivered from and after special readings of consumers' meters to be made between November 9th and 19th, 1916; said change in rates is made to entitle the Company to the continuation of the supply of natural gas by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, under and pursuant to certain contracts existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, dated November 17, 1906, as will more fully appear from the statement hereto attached and made a part hereof.

All other rates, charges, classifications, schedules, rules, regulations and practices, including rules and regulations for the collection of bills, as heretofore filed with the Commission on October 15, 1913, shall remain unchanged and in full force and effect.

Said 30 cent rate, upon the basis of the amount of gas heretofore furnished, is non-compensatory to the Kansas City Gas Company and is filed and will be put into effect, upon the condition that the voluntary installation of said 30 cent rate shall not be held or construed to be an admission that said rate is compensatory to this company or that the company is or will be warranted in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of ordinance 33887 of Kansas City, Missouri, or that there is any contractual liability on the part of this company to furnish natural gas at the rates mentioned in said ordinance for the term thereof; but said new rate is filed and will be put into effect for a trial period, without waiving or working an estoppel of any of the rights, contractual or legal, of this company and for the purpose of entitling this company to acquire natural gas and to continue the binding force and effect of the aforesaid supply contract.

In re Change in Rates of the Kansas City Gas Company.

Comes now the Kansas City Gas Company and states, represents and shows to the Commission:

That on November 17, and December 3, 1906, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as first party, and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small, and Randal Morgan, Grantees, as second parties, entered into certain contracts in writing for a supply of natural gas to said Grantees for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Missouri; that thereafter said contracts were duly assigned by the first party to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and all the rights thereunder acquired and all the duties and obligations thereof assumed by said company; that thereafter said contracts were duly assigned by said Grantees to the Kansas City Gas Company, and the rights thereunder to purchase and acquire a supply of natural gas were acquired by said company and said Kansas City Gas Company is now, and long has been, receiving and obtaining its supply of natural gas for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Missouri, under and pursuant to said contracts; true and correct copies thereof being filed herewith, marked Exhibits "A" and "B" and made a part hereof.

534 That said contracts are in substantially the same form and identical in substance and recite that first party was the owner of gas lands and leases in the Mid-Continent gas fields and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas to Kansas City and desired a market therefor; that second parties were the owners and grantees of a certain franchise ordinance for the distribution and sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, said ordinance being marked Exhibit "I" and attached to said contract; that first party agreed during the period of said franchise ordinance, until September 27, 1936, to supply and deliver natural gas to second parties, their successors and assigns, at a pressure of 20 pounds at Kansas City, Missouri, "in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," subject to accidents, interruptions and failures under certain conditions, "for the consideration" of 62½% of their "gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas"; that "the parties of the second part agree to buy from the party of the first part all gas they may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in said city, and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which they shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes" 62½% of such gross receipts; that "the parties of the second part * * * expressly reserve to themselves the right to charge their consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those, mentioned in said ordinance which they may agree upon with such consumers; but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers * * * at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance * * * and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor * * *

535 62½% "of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, * * *."

That the schedule of domestic rates referred to in said contracts, as set out in said franchise ordinance number 33887 of Kansas City, Missouri, is as follows:

"Section 13. The said grantees shall be entitled to charge and collect from consumers of such gas, during the period of 5 years from and after natural gas is first furnished hereunder at the rate of not to exceed 25 cents per thousand cubic feet, and during the period of the 5 years next thereafter at the rate of not to exceed 27 cents per thousand cubic feet, and thereafter, during the period of the aforesaid grant at the rate of not to exceed 30 cents per thousand cubic feet * * *."

That natural gas was first furnished under said ordinance in Kansas City, Missouri, on November 19, 1906, and that said 25 cent rate obtained during said first 5 years, and until November 19, 1911, whereupon said 27 cent rate was put into effect and has obtained to the present time and the 5 years mentioned for such rate will expire on November 19, 1916; that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, under said supply contracts with the Kansas City Gas Company will be entitled to 62½% of the 30 cent rate for the gas furnished by them on and after November 19, 1916; and pursuant to the terms and provisions of said supply contracts they will "be under no obligation to furnish the * * * gas * * * sold at * * * lower prices" than said 30 cent rate, from and after November 19, 1916.

536 That the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver are unwilling to accept, as their compensation for natural gas furnished by them, 62½% of the gross receipts from the sale of said gas at any less price than the supply contract rate of 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet, and are at this time demanding an even greater price than that agreed upon in said supply contract.

That said supply contract has never been modified, rescinded, disavowed or set aside and is now in full force and effect, and the Kansas City Gas Company is desirous of continuing the binding force and effect thereof and acquiring and receiving a supply of gas thereunder and of performing all of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof on its part, to do which said company is required, and will increase the price of natural gas from 27 cents net per thousand cubic feet to 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet, from and after the meter readings of November 9th to 19th, 1916, unless such rate is suspended by the Commission, whereupon said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and its Receiver, will be under no obligation, under said contract, to continue the supply of gas to the Kansas City Gas Company for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Missouri.

That said 30 cent rate, upon the basis of the amount of gas heretofore furnished, is non-compensatory to the Kansas City Gas Company, but said company has filed the foregoing 30 cent schedule and will put the same into effect; upon the condition, however, that the voluntary installation of said 30 cent rate shall not be held or construed to be an admission that said rate is compensatory or that said company is or will be warranted in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of ordinance 33887 of said city or 537 that there is any contractual liability on the part of said company to furnish natural gas at the rates mentioned in said ordinance for the term thereof; but said new rate is filed and will be put into effect for a trial period, without waiving or working an estoppel of any of the rights, contractual or legal, of said company, and for the purpose of entitling said company to acquire natural gas and to continue the binding force and effect of the aforesaid supply contract.

Wherefore, the premises considered, the Kansas City Gas Company moves the Commission to allow said new schedule of rates to become effective upon the dates therein set forth, and to order the time and manner of the publication thereof.

EXHIBIT "4."

In the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, at Kansas City, September Term, 1916.

No. 104,443.

KANSAS CITY GAS COMPANY, Plaintiff,

v.

KANSAS NATURAL GAS COMPANY, JOHN M. LANDON, Receiver, and GEORGE F. SHARRITT, Receiver, Defendants.

Petition.

Plaintiff states that it is and at all times hereinafter mentioned was a corporation duly organized under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Missouri, and in pursuance of the Ordinance of 542 1/4 Kansas City, Missouri, hereinafter mentioned, and located and doing business at Kansas City in said State.

That defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company is and was at all such times a corporation duly organized for a pecuniary profit under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and duly licensed and authorized to do business in the State of Missouri, and has a public office and place of business in the State of Missouri and agents and employes in charge thereof.

That the defendants, John M. London and George F. Sharritt are Receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, duly appointed by the United States District Court in and for the District of Kansas, and also so appointed Receivers by the United States District Court in and for the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri.

That the causes in which they were appointed Receivers were brought in the United States District Court in Kansas and are entitled John L. McKinney et al., against Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1351, which was and is a creditor's bill filed October 8th, 1912, and Fidelity and Trust Company vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, Equity, a proceeding to foreclose a mortgage upon all the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, commenced on the 19th day of October, 1912, in said United States District Court of Kansas.

That said defendant Landon is also receiver for said Kansas Natural Gas Company, appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in a certain cause therein instituted hereinafter mentioned.

Plaintiff states that on September 27, 1906, the Council of 542 1/2 Kansas City, Missouri, passed and the Mayor of said City approved an ordinance No. 33,887, granting a natural gas franchise to Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, their successors and assigns, which among other things provided as follows:

"Section 1. Subject to the provisions of the present city charter, and to the same provisions so far as they may be embodied in any future charter of the city, permission, right, privilege and authority are hereby granted unto Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assigns, for the full period of thirty (30) years from and after the approval and taking effect of this ordinance, within the present or any future corporate boundaries, of the city of Kansas City, to lay and maintain gas pipes, regulators and appliances below the surface of the streets, avenues, boulevards, alleys and public grounds of said city and on the bridges and viaducts owned by said city (provided such bridges and viaducts are of sufficient strength to carry such pipes), for the purpose of carrying and distributing natural gas and selling and supplying the same for private and public use, all upon the conditions provided for in this Ordinance."

"Section 13. The said Grantees shall be entitled to charge and collect from consumers of such gas, during the period of five years from and after natural gas is first furnished hereunder at the rate of not to exceed twenty-five cents per thousand cubic feet, and during the period of five years next thereafter at the rate of not to exceed twenty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet, and thereafter during the period of aforesaid grant at the rate of not exceeding thirty cents per thousand cubic feet, and may also make special contracts with consumers at less than the general rate then in force, based upon the amount of gas used and in the conditions of the contract, which special rates shall be the same to all consumers using the same amount of gas under the same contract conditions, and schedules of such special rates and the contract conditions shall be filed with the city clerk, and each and every change therein shall also be filed with the city clerk, and be open to public inspection. The grantees agree that they will at all times make special contracts at as low rates as those at which natural gas is sold at the time to any consumers of the same class using the same amount of gas under the same contract conditions who are located approximately as distant from the fields from which they are at the time supplied as Kansas City, Missouri, is from the fields from which it is at that time supplied and who are supplied by the grantees, or any one from whom the grantees may obtain their supply, or any one whose supply is obtained from those from whom the grantees obtain their supply; provided that this agreement to make such special contracts at such rates shall not be construed to compel the grantees to make such special contracts at as low rates as those in effect at the time in any locality where the grantees, or those from whom the grantees obtain their supply or any one supplied by those from whom the grantees obtain their supply, may be in bona fide competition with any other supplier of natural gas in such locality; but if the demand from special rate consumers threatens the general supply, the grantees may shut off the supply from any special rate consumer, which shall include all other than domestic consumers, in whole or in part, and if the grantees fail or refuse to do so, the city council may by ordinance require the grantees so to do; provided always that the said grantees shall have the right to charge ten (10) per cent additional to all consumers who are in arrears for a longer period than ten (10) days; and provided further, that the grantees may charge and collect from each person who has a meter installed a minimum monthly bill of fifty cents; provided, however, that if the bill for natural gas consumed in any month shall at the rate then in force exceed the sum of fifty cents, such consumer shall not be charged any minimum bill for that month.

"Under the permission and authority hereby granted, the grantees shall furnish natural gas for illuminating, heating and mechanical purposes, which shall at all times be of the same character and quality as when it comes from the earth; and it shall not be mixed with air or otherwise adulterated."

"Section 17. If the said grantees shall do or cause to be done any act or thing by this ordinance prohibited, or shall fail, refuse or neglect to do any act by this ordinance required, they shall forfeit all rights and privileges granted by this ordinance, and this franchise and all rights thereunder granted shall ipso facto cease, terminate and become null and void, provided such failure to comply with the conditions of this ordinance shall continue unrectified for sixty 544 (60) days after written notice thereof from the Board of Public Works of said city, or the Common Council of said city.

"Section 18. The said grantees shall, within ten (10) days after this ordinance becomes a law, file in the office of the City Clerk of said city a written acceptance of the terms, obligations and conditions of this ordinance set forth, in such form as shall be approved by the City Counselor, and unless such written acceptance shall be so filed, this ordinance shall become null and void.

"Section 19. As long as natural gas is furnished and sold to the inhabitants of said City of Kansas City under this franchise, said grantees shall, in consideration of this grant, furnish free to the City of Kansas City natural gas for light in the City Hall, City Prison and all city buildings; provided that all such lights shall be kept extinguished when not needed for illuminating purposes; the city to furnish its own burners, mantels, fixtures and appurtenances, and maintain and keep the same in repair.

"Section 20. In order that the city and its inhabitants may receive the benefits of natural gas more speedily and with less disturbance of the streets and inconvenience to the public than would otherwise be possible, the grantees are hereby authorized to acquire the ownership or use or control, by purchase, lease, agreement or otherwise, of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, the consent of the city being hereby given to said company, its successors and assigns, to make such transfer, lease or disposition of its pipes and property to the grantees, and during the time the pipes and property of said company shall be in the possession or under the control of the grantees, said company, its successors and assigns, shall be relieved of any obligation to supply manufactured gas (provided, however, that no consumer of manufactured gas shall be deprived thereof by anything done under this section until such consumer can obtain natural gas from grantees), but the acquirement by the grantees of such ownership or use or control of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, shall be subject to the right of the city to purchase the same under the special provisions of the several ordinances under which said company is now operating, and said right of purchase under said special provisions, shall apply not only to the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas

Company, as acquired by said grantees, but also to all other 545 pipes and property, owned by the grantees in Kansas City, Missouri, and used in connection with said plant, the value of such other pipes and property to be determined at the same time, in the same manner and in the same proceedings. And grantees covenant that their contract for gas supply is with the Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company (corporations), that under the terms thereof, after two years from the time the natural gas is first furnished to Kansas City thereunder, the division of the gross income received for said gas between the distributing company and the supply company shall be in the proportion of thirty-seven and one-half cents out of each dollar to the former and sixty-two and one-half cents to the latter; and covenant for themselves, their successors and assigns, that none of the terms of that contract agreement shall be changed without consent of Kansas City expressed by ordinance; and grantees agree for themselves, their successors and assigns, that if Kansas City shall acquire said plant and property they will on demand transfer free of cost to Kansas City all their rights under said contract; and grantees further agree to procure from said two corporations and file with the city clerk within ninety days from the time this ordinance becomes a law, a written agreement in form to be approved by the City Counselor, agreeing that they (said two corporations) will, if Kansas City shall acquire said plant as aforesaid, upon demand, furnish and continue to furnish during the remaining period of this franchise gas to Kansas City on the same terms as they have agreed to furnish it to the grantees, their successors and assigns. If said proposed within agreement to be made by said two corporations is not filed with the City Clerk within the time specified this ordinance shall be null and void. Provided, however, that Kansas City agrees not to exercise the right to purchase the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, and of the grantees, under said special provisions, for the period of ten years from the time of the acceptance of this ordinance by grantees, unless grantees shall before the expiration of said period of ten years have ceased to furnish natural gas as required by this ordinance, in which event the right to make such purchase under such special provisions shall be no longer postponed; in consideration whereof the grantees agree during all the time they may be supplying natural gas to bid annually,

- (1) to fit the street lamp posts at present set and in place with incandescent equipment to furnish natural gas to the same,

546 and to maintain, repair, clean, light and extinguish the same upon the all night schedule, for the price of not to exceed nine dollars ($9.00) per lamp per annum; and,

(2) to set, on the line of their mains, such additional street lamp posts as the Council may by ordinance demand, to connect the same, to furnish the same with incandescent equipment, to maintain, repair, clean, light and extinguish and to furnish the natural gas to the same, on the all night schedule, for the price of not to exceed twelve dollars ($12.00) per lamp per annum; or at the option of the city, in lieu of such bidding, to furnish the natural gas free and without cost to the above and to additional posts that may be set by the city, at the rate of one hundred (100) lamps for each eight thousand (8,000) inhabitants, over and above two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants, population to be calculated for the purpose on the basis of two and one-half times the number of names shown by the city directory, having the largest circulation, including the names of business firms; and if the city elects to take natural gas free under this option, and to itself furnish or to contract with others for the incandescent equipment and for maintaining, repairing, cleaning, lighting and extinguishing, the city shall have the right to use for the purpose the posts at that time owned and set by the grantees, which the grantees agree shall not be less than the number which have been set and are now owned by the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, and the city agrees that the lights shall be kept extinguished between sunrise and sunset.

"Section 21. All prohibitions, amendments, forfeitures and obligations and all other provisions of this ordinance shall be binding upon the grantees, the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assigns, whether expressly so stated herein or not; and all grants and privileges secured by this ordinance to said grantees shall be held to inure to the benefit of the survivors or survivor of them and his or their legal and bona fide successors and assigns. Nothing in this ordinance shall be construed as granting to said grantees any exclusive franchise, rights or privileges; but nothing herein shall be construed to neutralize or impair the provisions of this ordinance respecting the prohibition against merger and consolidation.

547 by ordinance, sell, lease or transfer their plant, property, rights or privileges, herein authorized, to any person, company, trust or corporation, now or hereafter engaged, or for the purpose of engaging in the manufacture or sale of gas in said city, under any other ordinance or franchise, or otherwise; and shall not without such consent at any time enter into any combination, with any person or persons, company or companies, authorized by ordinance to sell gas in said city, or with any person or persons, company or companies proposing by application for a franchise to sell gas to Kansas City or its inhabitants, concerning the rate or price to be charged for gas, to be used by the city or private consumers; and no officer, employee or manager of the gas plant and works, to be constructed and acquired under and in pursuance of this ordinance, shall, at the same time, be in charge of, or be the officer, employee or manager of any other gas works authorized by ordinance to manufacture or sell gas in said city, except the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, its successors and assigns provided, however, that said grantees may convey all their rights and privileges herein granted to a corporation, its successors and assigns, to be organized by them, under the laws of the State of Missouri, for the purpose of acquiring, building, constructing and operating the gas plant authorized under this ordinance; but this shall not authorize any grantee to assign the franchise granted to it to any other company to which a franchise has been granted; and provided, further, that notice of said conveyance, and of any conveyance by said proposed assignee corporation, its successors or assigns, shall be filed with the City Clerk of Kansas City, Missouri, within ten (10) days after the execution thereof; and provided, further, that the grantees or their assigns ('assigns' having the meaning above set forth) shall have the full, complete and unqualified right to assign and transfer and convey this franchise, and their property, by way of mortgage, deed of trust or other form of security in the nature of a mortgage or deed of trust, for the purpose of securing bona fide indebtedness, and for the purpose of acquiring property and of raising funds to provide, build, construct, equip, and operate said plant, and to conduct the business thereunder." * * *

548 That said McGowan, Small and Morgan duly accepted said ordinance and complied with all the terms and conditions thereof, and supplied said Kansas City and its inhabitants with natural gas under the terms and provisions of said franchise and ordinance until the 10th day of August, 1911, when said McGowan, Small and Morgan, for a valuable consideration, conveyed and assigned their said franchise and all their rights and privileges thereunder and their system of mains, pipes and appliances and all the property owned or leased by them for the distribution of natural gas in said Kansas City, including their contracts for a supply of natural gas hereinafter mentioned to the plaintiff, all as authorized by the terms and provisions of said franchise.

That notice of said conveyance and assignment was duly filed with the City Clerk of said Kansas City, as required by said franchise; that ever since then the plaintiff has been and still is, as the assignee and grantee of said McGowan, Small and Morgan, engaged in supplying said city and its inhabitants with natural gas under said franchise.

That in order to comply with the terms of said franchise and to furnish said city and its inhabitants with natural gas as contemplated thereby, said McGowan, Small and Morgan entered into contracts with The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation, which was then the owner of a large number of natural gas wells in Southern Kansas, and pipe lines leading from such gas wells to Kansas City, Missouri.

That one of said contracts was dated November 17, 1906, and is in words and figures as follows, to-wit:

"This Agreement, made this 17th day of November, 1906, between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, party of the first 549 part, and Hugh J. McGowan, of Indianapolis, Indiana, Charles E. Small, of Kansas City, Missouri, and Randal Morgan, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania parties of the second part.

"Whereas, the party of the first part is the owner of gas lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas from the gas fields in the State of Kansas to a point at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri, and is desirous of entering into a contract with the parties of the second part for the transportation and supply of natural gas to them:

"And whereas, the parties of the second part are the owners of an ordinance of the City of Kansas City, Missouri, granting the right to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, Missouri, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants, copy of which ordinance is attached hereto marked 'Exhibit No. 1,' and desire to secure a supply of natural gas for the said city and its inhabitants:

"1. The party of the first part hereby agrees that it will during the period of such ordinance, or any extension or renewal thereof, or of any ordinance which may be obtained, either in the interest of the parties of the second part, or of their property, supply and deliver through its said pipe line or lines, to said parties of the second part or any successor in the ownership of the property for the distribution of gas for Kansas City, Missouri, at a pressure of twenty (20) pounds at the point of delivery above mentioned, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in this contract, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned. However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the 550 first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage, or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quality of merchantable gas for all consumers.

"2. It is hereby agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part may make special contracts for the sale of natural gas for manufacturing purposes in said city at lower rates than those specified in said ordinance.

In order to protect the domestic trade, however, the parties of the second part may, without notice, if the supply of natural gas shall make it necessary to do so, reduce the amount of such gas to be furnished under any such special contracts or entirely stop the supply of the same, and the agreement of the party of the first part herein to furnish a full supply of natural gas shall not apply to such gas to be sold for manufacturing purposes if the same shall impair its ability to furnish a full supply under this contract as to pressure, etc., for the domestic trade, excepting, however, that the parties of the second part shall always have a right to sell natural gas to manufacturers at the same rates and under the same terms and conditions as to domestic consumers, and the parties of the second part agree that any contract they make to furnish gas to manufacturers shall contain provisions by which the parties of the second part may without notice diminish the amount of gas supplied under such contract or entirely stop the same.

So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the parties of the second part agree to buy from the party of the first part all the gas they may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said city and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which they shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent of their gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said City of Kansas City, Missouri, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent of such gross receipts. The parties of the second part make no agreement with the party of the first part respecting the rates at which they shall sell natural gas to any consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, but expressly reserve to themselves the right to charge their consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance which 551 they may agree upon with such consumers; but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, and the parties to the second part shall be at liberty to obtain the same from such other sources as they may find available.

"3. A statement shall be rendered by said parties of the second part to the party of the first part on or before the fifteenth day of each month, showing the amount of receipts during the previous month and the amount of outstanding and uncollected bills.

Payments hereunder shall be made by the parties of the second part to the party of the first part upon the fifteenth day of each month for the party of the first part's percentage of all collections made during the previous month. In order to enable the party of the first part to verify the correctness of payments made by the parties of the second part, the party of the first part shall have the right, through its duly appointed representatives, at all times during ordinary business hours, to have such access to such of the books of the parties of the second part as may be necessary to enable it to verify the gas sales of the parties of the second part and the amounts and dates of collection for the same.

"4. The parties of the second part hereby agree to have at least fifty (50) miles of their mains prepared and ready to receive and distribute natural gas not later than twelve (12) months after the passage, approval and acceptance of said ordinance, and the balance of their mains laid as rapidly thereafter as their system can be adapted for the purposes, and by advertising, solicitation and all other ordinary methods in vogue with enterprising gas companies to encourage and increase their business. Provided that if the work of making said fifty miles of mains so prepared and ready or laying the balance thereof shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or legal process of any kind against the parties of the second part, or with whom they may contract with the performance of such work, or by labor strike or any cause beyond the control of the parties of the second part or such other persons, the time consumed by such prevention, hindrance or delay shall not be considered any part of the time provided for herein for the completion of such work, and the time provided for herein for such completion shall be correspondingly extended for a like period or periods.

"5. It is further covenanted and agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part will not supply manufacturers at a greater pressure than four (4) ounces at the meter; provided, that if the pressure of gas at the meter is greater than four (4) ounces per square inch, the volume of gas shall be corrected to four (4) ounces pressure and charged to the consumer at the corrected volume.

"6. It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the parties hereto that all gas sold shall be supplied through meters of approved design, that such meters shall be read and inspected once each month, and shall be kept in such working order and efficiency by the parties of the second part that each meter shall register as nearly accurately as possible the amount of gas passed through it; that the parties of the second part will at all times permit the officers or authorized agents of the party of the first part to inspect their mains, pipes, regulators, meters and appliances for the purpose of verifying their monthly statements as herein provided, and for the purpose of determining the condition of said mains, pipes, regulators, meters and other appliances; and further, that said parties of the second part will forward to the party of the first part a monthly record of the number of contracts made and cancelled, and the number of meters set, connected and disconnected, together with the total number of consumers at the end of each month, and will make and keep at their office a copy of such contracts, together with a full and complete record of the same, and of all meters used; and it shall be the duty of the parties of the second part to keep and maintain their distributing system in good order and condition.

"7. It is further covenanted and agreed that the parties of the second part shall not be liable to the party of the first part for any portion of their receipts from the City of Kansas City, Missouri, for street lamps, so far as the present twenty-eight hundred (2,800) street lamps are concerned, and as to any additional number it is

shall be the agreed upon proportion of the receipts of said parties of the second part from that source on which the percentage of the party of the first part for gas shall be reckoned. The party of the first part agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for use in the present twenty-eight hundred (2,800) street lamp posts, and to additional posts that may be set by the city at the rate of twenty-five hundred (2,500) lamps for each two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants, should the City of Kansas City, Missouri, elect to take natural gas free and itself furnish and contract with others for the incandescent equipment and for maintaining, repairing, cleaning, lighting and extinguishing. And the party of the first part further agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for lighting the City Hall, City Prison, and all city buildings in said city.

"8. It is agreed between the parties hereto that if at any time during the period of said ordinance while the parties of the second part are buying from the party of the first part all the natural gas they are distributing and selling in the said city, the said party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall furnish any natural gas to any person or corporation for use in supplying said city or any of its inhabitants with such gas, otherwise than under this agreement, then, and in any such case, the provision contained in Section No. 2 hereof, in the following words, to-wit: 'But if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, shall at once become inoperative and cease to have any effect, but the party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall be bound to supply and deliver to the parties of the second part natural gas to fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption in said city for sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the 554 second part from the sale of natural gas in said city at any prices for which the said parties of the second part may choose to sell the same.

"9. This agreement shall be binding upon the successors and assigns of the parties hereto.

"10. It is understood and agreed that the parties of the second part may assign and convey this agreement and all their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder to a corporation, its successors and assigns, organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, and competent to take such assignment, and the party of the first part agrees that upon such assignment and acceptance thereof by such corporation, and written notice thereof to the party of the first part, accompanied by copies of the assignment and acceptance, the parties of the second part shall ipso facto be released from all obligations to the party of the first part hereunder; and the party of the first part further agrees to execute and deliver to the parties of the second part all such evidences of their release as they shall reasonably require."

In witness whereof, the parties hereto have duly executed these presents the day and year first above written.

(EXHIBIT NO. 1 TO AGREEMENT, NOVEMBER 17, 1906.)

Ordinance No. 33887.

An Ordinance authorizing Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, the survivors or survivor of them, and 555 their or his assigns, to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants.

That afterwards on December 3, 1906, another contract between said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and said McGowan, Small and Morgan, was entered into in words and figures as follows, to-wit:

"This Agreement made this 3rd day of December, 1906, between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, party of the first part, and Hugh J. McGowan, of Indianapolis, Indiana, Charles E. Small, of Kansas City, Missouri, and Randal Morgan, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, parties of the second part.

"Whereas, the party of the first part is the owner of gas lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas from the gas fields in the State of Kansas to a point at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri, and is desirous of entering into a contract with the parties of the second part for the transportation and supply of natural gas to them;

"And Whereas, the parties of the second part are the owners of an ordinance of the City of Kansas City, Missouri, granting the right to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, Missouri, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants, copy of which ordinance is attached hereto marked "Exhibit No. 1," and desire to secure a supply of natural gas for the said city and its inhabitants;

"Now, Therefore, in consideration of the mutuality hereof it is hereby agreed between the parties hereto as follows:

"1. The party of the first part hereby agrees that it will during the period of such ordinance, or any extension or renewal thereof, or of any ordinance which may be obtained, either in the interest of the parties of the second part, or of their property, supply and deliver through its said pipe line or lines, to said parties of the second part, or any successor in the ownership of the property for the distribution of gas for Kansas City, Missouri, at a pressure of twenty

556 gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in this contract, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned. However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all consumers.

"2. It is hereby agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part may make special contracts for the sale of natural gas for manufacturing purposes in said city at lower rates than those specified in said ordinance, and that they shall and will make such special contracts in accordance with their agreement to that effect contained in Section 13 of said ordinance, copy of which is hereto attached.

"In order to protect the domestic trade, however, the parties of the second part may, without notice, if the supply of natural gas shall make it necessary to do so, reduce the amount of such gas to be furnished under any such special contracts or entirely stop the supply of the same, and the agreement of the party of the first part herein to furnish a full supply of natural gas shall not apply to such gas to be sold for manufacturing purposes if the same shall impair its ability to furnish a full supply under this contract as to pressure, etc., for the domestic trade, excepting, however, that the parties of the second part shall always have a right to sell natural gas to manufacturers at the same rates and under the same terms and conditions as to domestic consumers, and the parties of the second part agree that any contract they make to furnish gas to manufacturers shall contain provisions by which the parties of the second part may without notice diminish the amount of gas supplied under such contract or entirely stop the same.

"So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the parties of the second part agree to buy from the party of the first part all the gas they may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said city and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which they shall receive from the said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent of their gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said city of Kansas City, Missouri, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent of such gross receipts. The parties of the second part make no agreement with the party of the first part respecting the rates at which they shall sell natural gas to any consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, but expressly reserve to themselves the right to charge their consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance which they may agree upon with such consumers; but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or, except in compliance with their agreement to that effect contained in said Section 13 of said ordinance, to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent as the case may be of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, and the parties of the second part shall be at liberty to obtain the same from such other sources as they may find available.

"3. A statement shall be rendered by said parties of the second part to the party of the first part on or before the fifteenth day of each month, showing the amount of receipts during the previous month, and the amount of outstanding and uncollected bills.

"Payments hereunder shall be made by the parties of the second part to the party of the first part upon the fifteenth day of each month for the party of the first part's percentage of all collections made during the previous month. In order to enable the party of the first part to verify the correctness of payments made by the parties of the second part, the party of the first part shall have the right, through its duly appointed representatives, at all times 558 during ordinary business hours, to have such access to such of the books of the parties of the second part as may be necessary to enable it to verify the gas sales of the parties of the second part and the amounts and dates of collection for the same.

"4. The parties of the second part hereby agree that they will

"(1) on or before January 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas on not less than seventy-five miles of mains to all consumers thereon who desire the same, and who have complied with their reasonable rules and regulations; and (2) on or before March 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas on not less than fifty additional miles of mains to all consumers thereon who may desire the same and have complied with said reasonable rules and regulations; and (3) on or before August 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas to all present consumers on the lines of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company who may desire the same and who have complied with said reasonable rules and regulations; provided that the parties of the second part shall not be required to furnish patrons from circulating mains; and by advertising, solicitation and all other ordinary methods in vogue with enterprising gas companies to encourage and increase their business. Provided that if the commencement of work or the laying of pipes by the parties of the second part necessary for the furnishing of gas to consumers as herein agreed, or the laying of pipes inside or outside the city or the delivering of natural gas at or within the corporate limits of the city by the parties of the second part or by any persons with whom they may contract for their supply of natural gas, shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or legal process of any kind against the parties of the second part or such other persons, or by inclement days or by labor strikes or by any cause beyond the control of the parties of the second part or such other persons, or if the acquisition of the ownership, use or control of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company provided for in said ordinance hereto attached shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or other legal proceedings, the time consumed by such prevention, hindrance or delay shall not be considered any part of the times provided for herein for supplying natural gas in the city, as required hereby, and the times provided for herein for furnishing gas to consumers shall be correspondingly 559 extended for a like period or periods.

"5. It is further covenanted and agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part will not supply manufacturers at a greater pressure than four (4) ounces at the meter; provided, that if the pressure of gas at the meter is greater than four (4) ounces per square inch, the volume of gas shall be corrected to four (4) ounces pressure, and charged to the consumer at the corrected volume.

"6. It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the parties hereto that all gas sold shall be supplied through meters of approved design, that such meters shall be read and inspected once each month, and shall be kept in such working order and efficiency by the parties of the second part that each meter shall register as nearly accurately as possible the amount of gas passed through it; that the parties of the second part will at all times permit the officers or authorized agents of the party of the first part to inspect their mains, pipes, regulators, meters and appliances for the purpose of verifying their monthly statements as herein provided, and for the purpose of determining the condition of said mains, pipes, regulators, meters and other appliances; and further, that said parties of the second part will forward to the party of the first part a monthly record of the number of contracts made and cancelled and the number of meters set, connected and disconnected, together with the total number of consumers at the end of each month, and will make and keep at their office a copy of such contracts, together with a full and complete record of the same, and of all meters used; and it shall be the duty of the parties of the second part to keep and maintain their distribution system in good order and condition.

"7. It is further covenanted and agreed that the parties of the second part shall not be liable to the party of the first part for any portion of their receipts from the city of Kansas City, Missouri, for street lamps, so far as the street lamp posts, or an equivalent number, set and in place on September 27, 1906 (the date of the passage and approval of said ordinance) are concerned, and as to any additional number it is hereby agreed that ten thousand (10,000) cubic feet per lamp per annum, at fifteen (15) cents per thousand cubic feet, shall be the agreed upon proportion of the receipts of said parties of the second part from that source on which the percentage of the party of the first part for gas shall be reckoned. The party of the first part agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for use in the said street lamp posts, or an equivalent number, set and in place on said September 27, 1906, and to additional posts that may be set by the city at the rate of one hundred (100) lamps for each eight thousand (8,000) inhabitants, over and above two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants, population to be calculated for the purpose on the basis of two and one-half times the number of names shown by the city directory having the largest circulation including the names of business firms, should the city of Kansas City, Missouri, elect to take natural gas free and itself furnish or contract with others for the incandescent equipment, and for maintaining, repairing, cleaning, lighting and extinguishing. And the party of the first part further agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for lighting the City Hall, City Prison and all city buildings in said city.

"8. It is agreed between the parties hereto that if at any time during the period of said ordinance while the parties of the second part are buying from the party of the first part all the natural gas they are distributing and selling in the said city, the said party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall furnish any natural gas to any person or corporation for use in supplying said city or any of its inhabitants with such gas, otherwise than under this agreement, then, and in any such case, the provision contained in Section No. 2 hereof, in the following words, to-wit: 'but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or except in compliance with their agreement to that effect contained in said Section 13 of said ordinance, to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices,' shall at once become inoperative and cease to have any effect, but the party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall be bound to supply and deliver to the parties of the second part natural gas to fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption in said city for sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part from the sale of natural gas in said city at any prices for which 561 the said parties of the second part may choose to sell the same.

"9. The parties of the second part shall have the right, authority and power to bargain, grant, sell, assign, transfer, set over, mortgage, pledge or otherwise convey this agreement and all their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder; and they agree that they will, on or before December 31, 1907, assign and convey this agreement and all of their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder to a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to take such assignment, and that such corporation shall thereupon accept such assignment and the party of the first part agrees that upon such assignment and acceptance, and written notice thereof to the party of the first part, accompanied by a copy of the assignment and by a copy of the acceptance, the parties of the second part shall ipso facto be released from all obligations to the party of the first part hereunder; and the party of the first part further agrees to execute and deliver to the parties of the second part all such evidences of their release as they may reasonably require. The said corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, and its successors and assigns, shall also have the right, authority and power, to bargain, grant, sell, assign, transfer, set over, mortgage, pledge or otherwise convey this agreement, and all its or their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder.

"10. This agreement shall be binding upon the successors and assigns of the parties hereto.

"11. This agreement shall, as between the parties hereto, and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, take the place of and stand instead of that certain other agreement, between the parties hereto, executed and delivered November 17, 1906, but if the city of Kansas City shall acquire the gas plant, pipes and property of the Grantees named in said ordinance No. 33887 then this agreement shall at once terminate and become void and thereupon the said other agreement shall again come into force and effect as if this agreement had never been made.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have duly executed these presents the day and year first above written.

That attached to said agreement was a copy of said Ordinance No.
33887.

That on November 19th, 1906, two days after the said agreement of November 17th, 1906, the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company leased to The Kaw Gas Company, a corporation, all of its gas wells, pipe lines and property, by an instrument of writing duly executed by both parties thereto; that in and by said lease, and as a part of the consideration therefor, said The Kaw Gas Company assumed and covenanted, among other things, to perform all of the obligations of the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company to said McGowan, Small and Morgan, their successors and assigns, created by and embodied in said agreement of November 17, 1906, between said Pipe Line Company and said McGowan, Small and Morgan.

That said The Kaw Gas Company was a corporation organized and owned and at all times absolutely controlled by The Kansas Natural Gas Company, as a subsidiary company, to act as agent and trustee for said Kansas Natural Gas Company in carrying on its business, and that all contracts, agreements and leases made 563 and all property acquired by said The Kaw Gas Company were for the use and benefit of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and in equity said Kansas Natural Gas Company was at all times bound by all such contracts, agreements and leases and owned all the property of said The Kaw Gas Company.

That on December 5th, 1906, said The Kaw Gas Company executed and delivered to said McGowan, Small and Morgan, its agreement and undertaking in writing in words and figures as follows:

"Under date of November 19, 1906, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, one of the parties to the foregoing agreement, and The Kaw Gas Company, a corporation of the State of West Virginia, entered into a certain agreement or lease, whereby said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company granted, devised and leased to said The Kaw Gas Company its gas lands, gas wells, gas leases, leaseholds, pipe lines, buildings, structures, easements, rights of way, equipment, machinery, tools, appliances and other property as therein mentioned and described, and said The Kaw Gas Company assumed and covenanted, inter alia, to perform all the obligations assumed by said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company in an agreement, dated November 17, 1906, between said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, being the agreement referred to in said lease as Exhibit B, and thereto attached, and also referred to in Section 11 of the foregoing agreement. In consideration of the sum of one dollar to it in hand paid by the parties to the foregoing agreement, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, and of other good and valuable considerations it thereunto moving, said The Kaw Gas Company does hereby consent and agree that, as between the parties thereto, and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, the foregoing agreement shall, as provided in said Section 11 thereof, take the place of and stand instead of the said agreement dated November 17, 1906, (to-wit: the agreement referred to in said lease as Exhibit B and thereto attached) and that as between it, said The Kaw Gas Company and said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the foregoing agreement shall be considered and 564 treated as if it had originally been referred to in said lease instead of said Exhibit B and thereto attached, and that all its, said The Kaw Gas Company's covenants and agreements contained in said lease shall apply to the foregoing agreement accordingly; Provided, however, that if the City of Kansas City shall acquire the gas plant, pipes and property of the grantees named in said Ordinance No. 33887 referred to in the foregoing agreement, and the foregoing agreement shall, as provided in said Section 11 thereof, terminate and become null and void, then the said agreement dated November 17, 1906, (to-wit: Exhibit B referred to in said lease and thereto attached), and the covenants and agreements of said The Kaw Gas Company respecting the same contained in said lease, shall again come into force and effect as if the foregoing agreement and this consent and agreement had never been made and given.

"In Witness Whereof said The Kaw Gas Company has duly executed these presents this 5th day of December, 1906.

Plaintiff states that Kansas City, Missouri, never did exercise its option to purchase and never did acquire the gas plant, pipes and property mentioned in said Ordinance No. 33887, but that the same are and have been owned by this plaintiff as hereinbefore stated.

That on January 1, 1908, the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as lessor, leased for ninety-nine (99) years, to the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, as lessee, by an instrument of writing of that date, executed by both parties thereto, all of its property, including the natural gas wells and pipe lines, and assigned all of its rights in said contracts with said McGowan, Small and Morgan to said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That by the terms of said lease and as a part of the consideration therefor, the said Kansas Natural Gas Company assumed and agreed to perform all of the obligations of The Kaw Gas Company and the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, under the foregoing agreements of November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, made by the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company with said McGowan, Small and Morgan, and thereafter assumed by said The Kaw Gas Company as hereinbefore stated. That the fifth clause or paragraph of said lease dated January 1, 1908, between said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and said Kansas Natural Gas Company was as follows:

"Fifth. The Lessee hereby assumes and covenants to perform all the obligations assumed by the Lessor under the terms of an agreement, dated February 1, 1906, between the Lessor and the Wyandotte Gas Company, for the supply of natural gas to Kansas City, Kansas, and Wyandotte County, in said State, copy of which is attached hereto, and marked Exhibit "A," and those assumed by the Lessor under the terms of a certain other agreement, dated November 17, 1906, between the Lessor and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small, and Randal Morgan, for the supply of natural gas to Kansas City, Missouri, copy of which said last named agreement is hereto attached and marked Exhibit B, and those assumed by the Lessor under the terms of a certain other agreement, dated December 3, 1906, between the Lessor and said Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, copy of which is hereto attached marked Exhibit C, as amended by an agreement dated December 11, 1907, between the same parties, copy of which is hereto attached marked Exhibit D.

566 "The Lessee hereby assumes and covenants to perform all the obligations assumed by the Lessor under the terms of all other contracts now in force and binding upon the Lessor, and the Lessee further covenants to assume and pay all the outstanding indebtedness of the Lessor, whether the same be absolute or contingent, as the same shall from time to time fall due or be established, and to assume and pay all the liabilities of the Lessor now existing for injury or damage to persons or property, as the same shall from time to time hereafter be established, and to defend, at its own expense, all actions now pending or hereafter brought against the Lessor on account of claims for said liabilities.

"The Lessee agrees that if the gas wells hereby demised situated in the territory of the Lessor do not furnish a sufficient volume of gas, or if the pipe line of the Lessor shall not have a delivery capacity sufficient to supply the demands for gas in the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri, it, the Lessee, will supplement said gas supply from its own gas wells up to an amount equal to fifty (50) per cent of the gas, which by the use of due diligence in connecting existing wells and drilling new ones, it may be able to produce from the territory now or hereafter controlled by it; and will construct at its own cost and expense, or, so far as any of the bonds of the Lessor in this lease referred to may be available for the purpose, at the cost and expense of the Lessor, the additional pipe lines necessary for the delivery of gas to supply such demands, whether from the Lessor's or the Lessee's territory; Provided, however, that if the expectation of continuance of the supply of gas shall not be sufficient to warrant the laying of an additional pipe line at any time, the Lessee shall not be required to do so, whatever the demand for gas in said cities; Provided, further, that it is the intent of the parties that the provisions of this clause shall not be so construed as to in effect require the Lessee to lay a line for manufacturing purposes mainly or only."

That the Seventh Clause of said lease, last aforesaid, was as follows:

"Seventh. The Lessee covenants that during the continuance of this lease it will in good faith and to the best of its ability operate at its own risk and expense the Lessor's works and plants and furnish all apparatus and equipment in substitution for, and in addition to, that hereby demised, which may be necessary or proper 567 to such operation, and will carry on, preserve and extend the business heretofore carried on by the Lessor in such manner as at all times to meet the demands of the public service and to promote the interest of and preserve the franchises vested in the Lessor."

That the Ninth Clause of said lease, last aforesaid, was as follows:

"Ninth. The Lessee hereby accepts the plant, estate and property hereby demised as the same actually are at the date hereof, and covenants that it will extend, renew, repair and replace the same so as to maintain and keep the demised premises in good order, repair and condition; that it will, from time to time, out of the uncertified bonds of the Lessor referred to in Section 10 hereof, or at its own expense, if all of the said bonds shall have been used for the purposes therein mentioned, make all extensions, additions, alterations, improvements, renewals and betterments which may be necessary or proper with reference to the premises and property hereby demised, and for the use and operation thereof, and will do and perform all other things necessary to make and maintain said works and plants as a first-class pipe line company; and that all lands, structures, improvements, betterments and renewals added to or made upon the demised premises and all rights, privileges and franchises acquired by the Lessee in connection with the demised premises and paid for out of the sale of the said bonds shall become the property of the Lessor and be treated as part of the demised premises and be subject to all the terms, conditions and provisions of this indenture the same as if they had been vested in the Lessor at the date of this instrument, but provided that all extensions, lands, structures, improvements, betterments, renewals, rights, privileges and franchises paid for by the said Lessee not out of the proceeds of said bonds shall belong to and remain its sole and separate property."

That the Nineteenth Clause of said lease last aforesaid, was as follows:

568     "Nineteenth. This indenture is a substitute for and shall take the place of an indenture dated November 19, 1906, between the Lessor and The Kaw Gas Company, of which Company the Lessee is the successor, having heretofore acquired all the properties of The Kaw Gas Company and assumed all the obligations of The Kaw Gas Company under said indenture dated November 19, 1906, and under the agreement of The Kaw Gas Company, dated December 5, 1906, which is attached to and refers to the agreement dated December 3, 1906, between the Lessor and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, which last mentioned agreement is referred to in Article V of this indenture and a copy thereof hereto attached marked Exhibit C."

That prior to the first day of January, 1908, the Kansas Natural Gas Company had taken possession of and had become the legal owner of all of the stock and all of the property and had assumed and agreed to perform all of the obligations of the said The Kaw Gas Company.

That from and after said first day of January, 1908, and up to August 10, 1911, when said McGowan, Small and Morgan transferred and conveyed their said franchise and their gas plant and property to the plaintiff, as aforesaid, said Kansas Natural Gas Company supplied said McGowan, Small and Morgan with natural gas under the terms and at the price fixed in said agreements of November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, and in pursuance of the terms of said lease made to it on said January 1, 1908, by said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company.

That after said August 10, 1911, said Kansas Natural Gas Company until sometime in the month of October, 1912, when receivers were appointed for it in the Federal Court, in the foreclosure proceedings hereinbefore mentioned, under and in pursuance of said supply contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, and its 569 lease of January 1, 1908, supplied this plaintiff, as assignee of McGowan, Small and Morgan with natural gas for distribution to said Kansas City and its inhabitants. That since the appointment of said receivers, the Receivers for said Kansas Natural Gas Company have supplied under said supply contracts and in pursuance of said lease, the plaintiff with natural gas at the price and under the terms therein set forth.

That the plaintiff has always performed all of the terms and conditions of said supply contracts to be kept and performed by it.

That the said McGowan, Small and Morgan had during the time they supplied said city and its inhabitants with natural gas wholly complied with all the terms and provisions of said supply contracts and that said supply contracts and the provisions of said lease of January 1, 1908, are in full force and effect and binding upon the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, as well as upon its Receivers, the defendants, John M. Landon and George F. Sharritt.

Plaintiff states that defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, has made arrangements and is about to increase its capital stock from Six Million Dollars to Fifteen Million Dollars, or an increase of Nine Million Dollars; that the whole of such increase has been underwritten at fifty cents on the dollar by men of large means, some of whom are stockholders of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and among whom are R. A. Long, G. T. Braden, M. L. Benedun, E. T. Whitcomb, W. W. Splaine, L. C. McKinney and V. A. Hays, from which said Kansas Natural Gas Company will derive a large sum of money, to-wit, about Four Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars, with which to increase its already large plant and mileage of 570 pipe lines for transporting natural gas from Kansas and Oklahoma, and to increase its supply and holdings of natural gas and gas wells and gas lands in the gas fields of Kansas and Oklahoma.

That said Kansas Natural Gas Company has already bought fifty miles of additional pipe; twenty-five miles of ten inch and twenty-five miles of twelve inch pipe for the purpose of extending and supplementing its existing lines in said gas fields; that deliveries of said pipe were to commence August 21, 1916.

Plaintiff states that notwithstanding the fact that plaintiff has always complied with said supply contracts and they are in full force and effect, as aforesaid, the said John M. Landon, who is the Receiver actually in charge of and operating said property, on the 12th day of August, 1916, served upon and delivered the following notice in writing to the plaintiff, to-wit:

"The Kansas City Gas Company, Kansas City, Mo.

GENTLEMEN: You are hereby notified by the undersigned as the duly appointed, qualified and acting Receiver of the properties, assets and business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, that the preservation of the estate of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and of said business, properties and assets and the conservation of the same, which devolves as a duty upon said Receiver, no longer makes it possible for said Receiver to sell to the Kansas City Gas Company, natural gas at the price and under the terms and conditions at which and under which the same has heretofore been delivered to said Kansas City Gas Company, by said Receiver, and that on and after September 1st, 1916, any gas received by said Kansas City Gas Company, from said Receiver, must be paid for at the rate of eighteen cents per thousand cubic feet measured on an eight ounce basis at the meters nearest to the lines of said Kansas City Gas Company, quantities to be determined by said meters and when meters' accuracy is questioned, same to be tested and adjustments made in the customary manner. All gas supplied to be paid for on the fifteenth day of the month following delivery.

"The said Receiver asks the Kansas City Gas Company to promptly notify him whether or not it is the purpose of said company on and after September 1st, to receive natural gas from said Receiver at the place and pay for same at the price aforesaid, to-wit: eighteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and under conditions aforesaid.

Respectfully,
(Signed)

JOHN M. LANDON,
Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Co."

That said Receiver Landon in giving said notice and thereby attempting to raise said rate to the plaintiff, and to set aside said supply contracts, is acting at the suggestion of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders and officers, and for the benefit of said Company, its stockholders and officers.

That said Landon publicly so declared and announced in communications by him printed in the public press of said Kansas City, that he is not acting as such Receiver in the interest or for the benefit of the bondholders of said Kansas Natural Gas Company in said foreclosure proceeding in the United States District Court hereinbefore mentioned, in which he was appointed Receiver.

Plaintiff says that for more than six months last past perfectly responsible parties have offered and are now ready and willing to buy the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company at foreclosure sale in said proceedings pending in the United States District Court, at a price sufficient to pay off the amount due on its bonds and coupons, for which all of its property is mortgaged and all costs of such foreclosure, but that certain of said bondholders conniving with said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders, and said Receiver, Landon, have refused and still refuse to either provide for paying off said bonds and coupons and dismissing said receivership, or to permit or allow said mortgage to be foreclosed and said property sold at foreclosure sale, all for the purpose of aiding and abetting said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders, through such receivership and the action of said Landon, as Receiver therein, to repudiate said supply contracts with the plaintiff, and all other like supply contracts which it has with numerous other gas companies, supplying other cities and towns in Kansas and Missouri, and thus cheat and defraud the plaintiff and other gas companies and the cities and towns served by and dependent upon them, out of their rights to receive natural gas at the price and under the terms provided in said supply contracts and thereby illegally and fraudulently raise the price of gas to them.

That the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company has now been in the hands of Receivers appointed by the United States District Court as aforesaid, in said cause of McKinney et al. against Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., ever since the 9th day of October, 1912, and in the hands of the Receiver appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in a cause in said Court entitled State of Kansas against Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., which was a proceeding ostensibly brought under and to enforce the anti-trust law of said State of Kansas, which prohibited all combinations and contracts in restraint of trade and commerce and competition, ever since the 15th day of February, 1913.

Plaintiff says that it is advised by counsel and therefore alleges that the said anti-trust act of the State of Kansas, so far as it 573 related to public utilities corporations such as is and was the Kansas Natural Gas Company, was repealed by the Public Utilities Statute of the State of Kansas before said proceedings were instituted and that said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, never had any jurisdiction of said cause in which said Receivers, including said Landon, were appointed by said Court for said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That in any event the purpose for which receivers were authorized to be appointed for corporations under said anti-trust act, to-wit, to cause them to cease violating said act and to abandon all contracts and combinations in restraint of commerce, trade and competition, has long since been accomplished and said receivership in said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in said cause, has and for some time past has been continued for the sole benefit of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders, and said receiver, Landon, by connivance and conspiracy between them so that said receiver might set aside and annul the said supply contracts with the plaintiff and other gas companies, supplying other cities and towns in Kansas and Missouri with natural gas, and thus cheat and defraud the plaintiff and other gas companies and the cities and towns dependent upon and served by them out of their rights in such supply contracts and thereby illegally and fraudulently raise the price of natural gas to them.

Plaintiff further says that if said defendant Landon, as such receiver, appointed in said cause in said Montgomery County, Kansas, District Court, has any authority, which plaintiff denies, as aforesaid, he has no power under the laws of the State of Kansas, as such receiver, to violate or refuse to perform any of the valid contracts of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, but is by the laws of 574 the said State of Kansas, required to perform and carry out all such contracts, the same in all respects as the said Kansas Natural Gas Company would be in case it were in possession of and operating its said property.

That said Landon, as receiver in said foreclosure proceedings in the Federal Court, under the laws of the United States, and especially of Section 65 of the Judicial Code of the United States, is expressly required to comply with all valid contracts of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and in the circumstances hereinbefore stated, to comply with said contracts made as aforesaid for supplying plaintiff with natural gas in the same manner as the said Kansas Natural Gas Company would be bound to do if in possession of and operating its said property.

But plaintiff says that if, under the laws of Kansas, in the said proceedings in Montgomery County, Kansas, brought by the State of Kansas against said Kansas Natural Gas Company, as aforesaid, for violating the anti-trust laws of said state, said receiver or said Kansas Natural Gas Company should or could be authorized by the laws of said state to repudiate the valid contracts of said Kansas Natural Gas Company with citizens and corporations of the State of Missouri, such as the contracts aforesaid for supplying plaintiff with natural gas, neither such laws nor any action of said Landon, as receiver thereunder, would be enforced or respected in this state, because they would be contrary to the constitution and laws and the public policy of this state, and also violate the Constitution of the United States prohibiting any state from passing laws violating the obligations of contracts, and the Fourteenth Amendment to 575 the Constitution of the United States against depriving citizens of the United States of their property without due process of law, and the amendments to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting the taking of private property for public use without just compensation. That said anti-trust act of Kansas is a penal statute and has no extra-territorial effect.

That as required by said franchise the said The Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company entered into a written agreement within the time specified in said ordinance No. 33887, which was approved by the City Counselor of said city, agreeing that they, the said two corporations, would, if said Kansas City should acquire said plant as provided in said franchise, upon demand furnish and continue to furnish during the remaining period of said franchise, natural gas on the same terms as they agreed to furnish it to the grantees in said franchise, their successors and assigns.

That by the terms of said Section 20 of said franchise hereinbefore set forth, the grantees in said franchise, their successors and assigns agreed that none of the terms of said supply contracts should be changed without the consent of said city, and by Section 17, that any violation of any of the terms of said franchise should work a forfeiture of all the rights of the grantees or their assigns thereunder. So that plaintiff says if it changed or abandoned said supply contracts without the consent of said city, as requested by the said notice served upon the plaintiff August 12, 1916, by said defendant Landon, receiver, it would work a forfeiture of its franchise and all rights thereunder, to its great and irreparable loss and injury.

That said city has never consented to any such change. That furthermore the price requested in said notice of August 12, 576 1916, to-wit, eighteen cents per thousand cubic feet, measured at the place and in the manner as stated in said notice, would be in excess of the rate plaintiff is obligated to pay under said supply contracts, and would require plaintiff to pay for all gas delivered to it at and according to the measurements of the meter mentioned in said notice, instead of sixty-two and one-half per cent of plaintiffs' gross receipts from all gas sold by it, according to the measurements of the meters of plaintiff supplied its consumers as provided in said supply contracts and would also require plaintiff to pay for large quantities of gas which under its franchise it is to furnish free to said Kansas City, and under said supply contracts is to have free from said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, and which it and they have always heretofore furnished free, all to the great and irreparable loss and damage of the plaintiff and the public supplied with natural gas by it.

Plaintiff further states that in and by the terms of said supply contracts and the terms of said lease of January 1, 1908, between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, bound itself to supply and deliver to the plaintiff natural gas at a pressure of twenty (20) pounds at the point of delivery in Kansas City, Mo., in such amount as would at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption for sixty-two and one-half per cent (62½%), (after the first two years from the date natural gas was first supplied in said city, to-wit, November 19, 1906), of the gross receipts collected by the plaintiff from the sale of natural gas at the rates specified in said Section 13 of said Ordinance No. 33887, heretofore set forth:

577 That by said lease of January 1, 1908, said Kansas Natural Gas Company further agreed that if the territory it leased from said Pipe Line Company, or if the pipe line it leased from said Pipe Line Company should not have a delivery capacity sufficient to supply the demands for gas in Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri, it, the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, would supplement said gas supply from its own gas wells up to an amount equal to fifty per cent of the gas which by the use of due diligence in connecting then existing wells and drilling new ones it might be able to produce from the territory then or thereafter controlled by it, and would construct at its own cost and expense, or so far as any of the bonds of the said Pipe Line Company should be available for such purpose, at the cost and expense of said Pipe Line Company, the additional pipe lines necessary to supply such demand whether from the said lessor's or lessee's territory; provided, however, that if the expectation for the continuance of the supply of gas should not be sufficient to warrant the laying of a pipe line, the lessee, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, should not be required to do so.

Plaintiff states that within the last year numerous new and larger fields of natural gas have been discovered and developed in Kansas and Oklahoma, within reasonable distances of the existing pipe lines and property of the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that the expectations for the continuance of such supply of gas is sufficient to warrant the extension of said defendant's existing lines thereto, and if necessary to supplement the pipe lines mentioned in said lease running to Kansas City, so as to fully supply Kansas City, Kansas, and this plaintiff, or Kansas City, Missouri, with a full supply of gas as required by said supply contracts and the terms 578 and provisions of said lease of January 1, 1908, made by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company to said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That in fact said Kansas Natural Gas Company has made arrangements to increase its capital stock and has actually purchased pipe as aforesaid for the purpose of getting gas from such new gas fields.

And plaintiff further says that from the times said receivers were first appointed until the said notice of August 12, 1916, was served upon the plaintiff, a period of nearly four years, said receivers have supplied this plaintiff with natural gas under said supply contracts and at the price therein provided and that they long since have adopted said supply contracts as well as the provisions of said lease of January 1, 1908, hereinbefore set forth, and become bound thereby.

That in pursuance of said supply contracts, said receivers have always demanded and received from the plaintiff the sums of money provided to be paid thereby for natural gas as therein provided, and required the plaintiff to perform all the terms and conditions thereof; that during such period the plaintiff, as the sixty-two and one-half per cent of the gross receipts of the gas sold by the plaintiff, which said receivers were under such supply contracts entitled to receive, paid the said receivers the sum of four million, two hundred, eighty and 50/100 dollars; that all of said sum, less certain expenses and costs of said receiverships, has been paid over to and received by the said bondholders of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, which, together with the moneys received by said receivers from other gas distributing companies, also paid over to said bondholders, has not 579 only paid up all the interest on said bonds, but has reduced the amount of the principal thereof more than the sum of two million, eight hundred thousand dollars.

That when said receivers were first appointed, said Kansas Natural Gas Company was insolvent and unable to pay its debts and its property worth far less than the amount of its bonds secured by mortgage thereon, and that its bonds were therefore worth less than par.

That the payments received from the plaintiff for natural gas under said supply contracts and from others, as aforesaid, by said receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, have so reduced the said bonded debt as to make said defendant Company solvent and its property worth more than its bonded debt and its bonds worth their par value.

That thereby the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders and said bondholders have been greatly benefited and their property increased in value.

That by reason of all of which plaintiff says that defendants Sharritt and Landon, as receivers for said bondholders in said cause in said Federal Court, and said Landon as receiver in said cause in the State Court in Montgomery County, Kansas, are and ought to be in equity held, bound by and estopped from repudiating said supply contracts and the provisions of said lease of January 1, 1908, hereinbefore set forth.

Plaintiff says that it has filed with the Public Service Commission of Missouri as its schedule of rates and charges for natural gas to said city and its inhabitants the rates and charges specified in its said franchise and in said supply contracts, and that said commission has approved and allowed the same, including the said rate of thirty cents per thousand cubic feet to be charged after November 9th, 1916, or ten years from the time gas was first furnished under said franchise to said city and its inhabitants.

580 Plaintiff says that while said Landon and said Sharritt were appointed receivers by said Federal Court, as hereinbefore stated, they are not now in the management and control of any of the property or business of said Kansas Natural Gas Company under such appointment, but that said Federal Court by its order has turned over to said Landon all of said property and business in the State of Kansas to be managed, controlled and operated by him as receiver thereof appointed by said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in said cause therein pending of, State of Kansas v. Kansas Natural Gas Company. That said Federal Court also so turned over to said Landon all the property and business of said Kansas Natural Gas Company in Missouri and Oklahoma, to be operated, controlled and managed by him, as such receiver in said cause in said Montgomery County, Kansas, but not under or by authority of any law, state or national, but by virtue of the agreement and consent of all the parties to said litigation, which were, said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its bond holders and others, but that plaintiff was not a party thereto. That, in its opinion in said cause in said Federal Court with reference to turning over to said Landon the said business and property outside of the State of Kansas, the Court said:

"The jurisdiction of the state court is confined to Kansas and the authority of its receivers as such, is no longer than the arm of the court. But their authority may be enlarged by agreement of the parties in interest, when agreeable to the court that appointed them and not contrary to the laws of the state where the property is located nor inconsistent with a prior jurisdiction. In such case they depend on convention rather than the force of judicial process." (217 Fed. 194.)

Plaintiff further says that a portion of the pipe lines and property of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company are in Missouri
581 and a portion in Oklahoma, but that the most thereof are in Kansas, but that more than one-half of its gas is sold in Missouri, and that nearly all of its gas is procured from Oklahoma.

That said Landon is in control of the property and business of said Kansas Natural Gas Company outside of the State of Kansas not as or by virtue of his authority as receiver of any court, but is in control and operation of said business and property in Missouri and Oklahoma by agreement of parties aforesaid, as the agent and representative of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders,

That defendants were never authorized by any order, either by the said Federal Court or said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, to raise or in any manner change the price of gas to the plaintiff as set forth in said supply contracts. That none of the defendants have ever applied to or obtained the consent or approval of the Public Utilities Commission of this State to raise or in any manner change the price of said natural gas to the plaintiff or to said city and its inhabitants set forth in said supply contracts and in said Ordinance No. 33887 so agreed to by said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and The Kaw Gas Company, and assumed and agreed to by said Kansas Natural Gas Company as hereinbefore stated. That defendants are the only source which plaintiff has or can have from which to obtain a supply of natural gas with which to supply said city and its inhabitants, because the defendants own and control the only pipe line running from the gas fields which are all located in Southern Kansas and Oklahoma to said Kansas City.

That said defendants Kansas Natural Gas Company and said Landon have threatened to stop the supply of gas to the 582 plaintiff and thus cut off the people of Kansas City from the use of natural gas, unless the plaintiff yields to their illegal demand for an increased price therefor contained in said notice of August 12th, 1916, all to the great and irreparable injury to the plaintiff and the City of Kansas City and its inhabitants.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants for a decree of specific performance of said supply contracts of November 17th, 1906, and December 3rd, 1906, and of the provisions of said lease of January 1st, 1908, hereinabove set forth; that defendants be required to supply natural gas to the plaintiff at a pressure of twenty pounds at the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri, in such amount as shall at all times be sufficient to supply the demand of the plaintiff for distribution to Kansas City and its inhabitants for all purposes mentioned in plaintiff's said franchise, or if defendants cannot obtain enough natural gas for that purpose by due diligence and the use of all their resources, that defendants supply plaintiff with such amount of natural gas as will, together with the amount supplied Kansas City, Kansas, equal fifty per cent of all their supply of natural gas at the percentage of the gross receipts which plaintiff shall receive therefor at the rate specified in said franchise and supply contracts; that, if necessary to so supply the plaintiff, that defendants be required to extend their pipe lines and increase their gas supply in the gas fields of Kansas and Oklahoma, and that defendants do and perform all other things agreed or assumed to be done or 583 performed by them in the premises and in the plaintiff's petition stated, and for all other and further relief to which the plaintiff may in equity and good conscience be entitled.

EXHIBIT "A."

"Under date of November 19, 1906, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, one of the parties to the foregoing agreement, and The Kaw Gas Company, a corporation of the State of West Virginia, entered into a certain agreement or lease, whereby said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company granted, devised and leased to said The Kaw Gas Company its gas lands, gas wells, gas leases, leaseholds, pipe lines, buildings, structures, easements, rights of way, equipment, machinery, tools, appliances and other property as therein mentioned and described, and said The Kaw Gas Company assumed and covenanted, inter alia, to perform all the obligations assumed by said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company in an agreement, dated November 17, 1906, between said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, being the agreement referred to in said lease as Exhibit B, and thereto attached, and also referred to in Section 11 of the foregoing agreement. In consideration of the sum of one dollar to it in hand paid by the parties to the foregoing agreement, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, and of other good and valuable considerations it thereunto moving, said The Kaw Gas Company does hereby consent and agree that, as between the parties hereto, and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, the foregoing agreement shall, as provided in said Section 11 thereof, take the place of and stand instead of the said agreement dated November 17, 1906, (to-wit: the agreement referred to in said lease as Exhibit B and thereto attached) and that as between it, said The Kaw Gas Company and said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the foregoing agreement shall be considered and treated as if it had originally been referred to in said lease instead of said Exhibit B and thereto attached, and that all its, said The Kaw Gas Company's covenants and 584 agreements contained in said lease shall apply to the foregoing agreement accordingly; Provided, however, that if the City of Kansas City shall acquire the gas plant, pipes and property of the grantees named in said Ordinance No. 33887, referred to in the foregoing agreement, and the foregoing agreement shall, as provided in said Section 11 thereof, terminate and become null and void, then the said agreement dated November 17, 1906, (to-wit: Exhibit B referred to in said lease and thereto attached), and the covenants and agreements of said The Kaw Gas Company respecting the same contained in said lease, shall again come into force and effect as if the foregoing agreement and this consent and agreement had never been made and given.

In witness whereof said The Kaw Gas Company has duly executed these presents this 5th day of December, 1906.

STATE OF MISSOURI,

Public Service Commission:

At a Session of the Public Service Commission Held at Its Office in Jefferson City on the 18th Day of September, 1916.

Case No. 1083.

Present: William G. Busby, Chairman; John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw, Edwin J. Bean, Eugene McQuillan, Commissioners.

In the Matter of the Suspension of Rates and Charges of the Weston Gas & Light Company.

Order.

It appearing that the Weston Gas & Light Company has heretofore on the 15th day of September, 1916, filed with the Commission a proposed schedule of rates entitled its P. S. C. Mo. No. 2, First Revised Sheet No. 1, cancelling its P. S. C. No. 2, Original Sheet No. 1, effective September 20, 1916, containing certain new rates and charges applicable to the gas service afforded at Weston, said new rates and charges constituting an increase of 13 cents per thousand cubic feet in the net charges for illuminating gas, and abolishing any special rate for power gas.

It further appearing that the rights and interests of the public appear to be injuriously affected by said proposed increase of rates; and it being the opinion of the Commission that the effective date of said proposed schedule of new rates and charges contained in said Weston Gas & Light Company's P. S. C. Mo. No. 2, First Revised Sheet No. 1, should be postponed pending a general investigation heretofore entered upon by the Commission in the matter of natural gas service and rates, in order that the Commission may determine the reasonableness and lawfulness of said proposed rates and charges. Now, upon due consideration, it is 586 Ordered, 1. That the Commission, upon its own initiative without formal pleading, under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon the Commission by section 70 of the Public Service Commission Law, enter upon a hearing concerning the propriety and lawfulness of the proposed new rates and charges contained in said Weston Gas & Light Company's P. S. C. Mo. No. 2, First Revised Sheet No. 1, on file with the Commission.

Ordered, 2. That the operation of the proposed new rates and charges contained in said schedule be suspended, and that the use of said rates and charges be deferred for the period of one hundred and twenty (120) days from and including September 20, 1916, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

Ordered, 3. That this order shall take effect on this date, and the Secretary of the Commission shall forthwith serve on said Weston Gas & Light Company a certified copy of this order, and that a copy of this order be filed with said schedule in the office of the Commission.

Before the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri.

No. 1065.

THE CITY OF JOPLIN, a Municipal Corporation, Complainant,

vs.

THE JOPLIN GAS COMPANY, a Corporation, Defendant.

Complaint.

The Complaint of the City of Joplin respectfully shows: (1) that the City of Joplin is a municipal corporation, organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Missouri, as a City of the Second Class; that its postoffice address is Joplin, Jasper

County, Missouri; (2) that the defendant, the Joplin Gas Company, is a corporation whose postoffice address is Joplin, Jasper County, Missouri, and is engaged in the sale of natural gas in the City of Joplin, Missouri, for lighting, heating and manufacturing purposes; (3) that on the 8th day of August, 1916, the defendant filed before the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, a revised sheet, wherein it proposes to change the price of natural gas to consumers in the City of Joplin, Missouri; that since the year 1905, the said Joplin Gas Company has sold gas to consumers for domestic purposes in the City of Joplin, for thirty (30) cents per thousand cubic feet, with a discount of five cents (5c) per thousand cubic feet, if said bill was paid on or before the 5th day of the month; that a minimum rate was charged by said Joplin Gas Company to the consumers of Joplin, Missouri, of fifty cents; that in a new schedule which it filed and which it asks to go into effect, it changes the price so that the minimum price will be sixty-six cents per two thousand cubic feet per month, with a discount of six cents if said bill is paid on or before the tenth of the month, and thirty-588 three cents (33c) per thousand cubic feet for all gas used in excess of two thousand feet, with a discount of three cents per thousand cubic feet, if said bill is paid on or before the tenth of the month.

That on the 17th day of August, 1916, the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, at a session held at Jefferson City, Missouri, suspended said proposed new rate and made the date effective for said rate to go into effect, one hundred and twenty (120) days after the 8th day of September, 1916, and that during said time, the old rate should be in effect; that on the 30th day of 1916, the Joplin Gas Company sent out notices to all its consumers in Joplin, Missouri, proposing to put into effect the new rate at once, in violation of said order made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, made on the 17th day of August, 1916, as aforesaid.

The said City of Joplin, by ordinance passed on the 14th day of August, 1916, directed that the City of Joplin file an objection to said new rate going into effect, and this complaint is filed by authority of said ordinance, which is ordinance No. 6171, entitled, "An ordinance authorizing a complaint to be filed before the Public Service Commission of Missouri, objecting to the price of gas proposed to be charged by the Joplin Gas Company to consumers of gas in Joplin, Missouri," passed by the City Council on the 14th day of August, 1916.

Complainant further states that said increase in price is not necessary for the reason that the price as already charged, affords an adequate income to the Joplin Gas Company, for the amount it has invested in property which is used and useful for the public service in distributing and selling natural gas in the City of Joplin, Missouri, and before any increase in the price is made, complainant asks that an investigation of the affairs of the Joplin Gas 589 Company be made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and that an inventory and appraisal of its affairs be made by the Public Service Commission in order that the consumers of natural gas in the City of Joplin be not required to pay an unreasonable amount for natural gas.

Complainant further states that on the 19th day of January, 1905, a contract was made between T. N. Barnsdale of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, party of the First part, and the Natural Gas, Electric Light & Power Company of New Jersey, party of the Second part; that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is the successor of the first party in this contract, and the Joplin Gas Company of Joplin, Missouri, is the successor of the party of the Second part; that said contract provides that the said party of the First part shall sell to the said party of the Second part, natural gas to be used by the citizens of the City of Joplin, for a term of twenty (20) years, and that said Joplin Gas Company is to fix the price which it shall receive from the consumers of gas in Joplin, Missouri, provided only, that the price shall not be more than thirty cents (30c) per thousand cubic feet, with a discount of five cents (5c) per thousand cubic feet, if said bills are paid on or before the tenth of the month, for gas consumed during the preceding month, and that the said contract is binding and in full force and effect, and that said Joplin Gas Company does not have to raise the price of gas by virtue of the terms of said contract in order to sell gas to the consumers of gas in the City of Joplin, Missouri, at the old price, the price that has been charged since the year 1905. That said contract further provides that the said Joplin Gas Company shall buy said gas from the party of the First part and in no way does it act as the agent of said T. N. Barnsdale or his successor, but that the title to all natural gas is vested in the Joplin Gas Company as soon as it reaches the mains of the Joplin Gas Company; that a copy of said contract is hereto
590 attached and made a part of this complaint and designated as "Exhibit A."

Complainant further states that it will be unjust and unfair to charge the citizens of the City of Joplin more than 25c. per thousand cubic feet for the reason that natural gas is furnished in abundance to the Cities of Webb City and Cartersville, Missouri, which towns are less than ten miles from Joplin, at twenty-five cents (25c.) per thousand cubic feet, and that the City of Carthage, less than twenty miles from the City of Joplin and further from the gas fields, is furnished with gas at twenty-five cents (25c.) per thousand cubic feet; that the Company that furnishes this gas to the city limits of said Cities of Webb City, Cartersville and Carthage, is the Quapaw Gas Company and said Quapaw Gas Company's lines transport their gas from the gas fields at a further distance than does the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the company which sells its gas to the Joplin Gas Company; that the Quapaw Gas Company has main lines that touch the city limits of the City of Joplin, Missouri.

Complainant further states that the said Joplin Gas Company is not bound by the contract attached hereto and designated as "Exhibit A," to buy its gas from the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and if the said Joplin Gas Company refuses to raise the price of gas made by the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the reason that said contract expressly states that the Joplin Gas Company shall fix the price to be charged for gas in the City of Joplin, Missouri, the said Joplin Gas Company would be at liberty to contract with other gas companies for its supply.

Wherefore, by reason of the premises, said complainant prays that an investigation be made into the affairs of the Joplin Gas Company and that an inventory and appraisal of its affairs be made as sued in this complaint; that the Public Service Commission enjoin the Joplin Gas Company from putting into effect the new 591 rate and from disobeying the order of the Natural Gas Company, made on the 17th day of August, 1916, which it is now threatened to put into effect, and that an investigation of the affairs of the Joplin Gas Company be made that the evidence shall warrant that the old rate of twenty-five cents (25c.) per thousand cubic feet and a minimum rate of fifty cents (50c.) per month be established and maintained, and that said Joplin Gas Company be enjoined from putting into effect any other rate, different from twenty-five cents per thousand cubic feet and a minimum rate of fifty cents per month, and for such other orders and judgments as to this Commission may seem mete and just in the premises.

Dated at Joplin, Missouri, this 2d day of September, 1916.

It appearing that the Joplin Gas Company has heretofore, on August 8, 1916, filed with the Commission a proposed new schedule of rates, entitled its P. S. C. Mo. No. 1, First Revised Sheet No. 1, effective at the August, 1916, meter readings, instituting a general increase in its charges for gas service furnished by said company to the public at Joplin, Missouri, and vicinity; it further appearing to the Commission that the public may be unjustly affected by the proposed increased charges in its rates for gas service, and it being the opinion of the Commission that the effective date of said proposed schedule of rates and charges contained in said Joplin Gas Company's P. Messrs. Spencer & Grayston, Attys. for Joplin Gas Co., Joplin, Missouri.

GENTLEMEN: Writing you further on the subject of your letter of the 14th inst.,

The notice sent you, from this office, that a complaint had been filed against you, accompanied by an order to satisfy or answer within ten days, is the usual form of procedure in the matter of complaints, that the party complained against may have an opportunity to answer. If the defendant does not desire to answer, formally, in advance of the hearing, they need not do so, but, instead, may make such answer at the hearing as they deem proper.

Replying to that paragraph of your letter in relation to an alleged violation of the suspension order of the Commission, I am instructed to say that the proposed rates are, by that order, of the Commission, suspended pending further investigation, and if the proposed rates or any rates in excess of the rate now on file with the Commission and in effect, are sought to be made effective, such an action will be in violation of the Commission's order, and the Commission will take such action with respect thereto as it deems appropriate.

It appearing that the Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water & Power Company has heretofore, on August 17, 1916, filed with the Commission a proposed new schedule of rates, entitled its P. S. C. Mo. No. 3, cancelling P. S. C. Mo. Application for 30-cent Rate.

Before the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas.

In re Change in Rates of The Wyandotte County Gas Company.

Application.

Comes now The Wyandotte County Gas Company and states, represents and shows to the Commission:

That on February 1st, 1906, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as first party, and The Wyandotte Gas Company, as second party, entered into a certain contract in writing for a supply of gas to said The Wyandotte Gas Company; that thereafter said contract was duly assigned by the first party to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and all the rights thereunder acquired and all the duties and obligations thereof assumed by said company; that thereafter said contract was duly assigned by second party to The Wyandotte County Gas Company, and the rights thereunder to purchase and acquire a supply of gas were acquired by said company, and said The Wyandotte County Gas Company is now and long has been receiving and obtaining its supply of natural gas for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, under and pursuant to said contract, a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked Exhibit "A," and made a part hereof.

That said contract recited that first party was the owner of gas lands and leases in the Mid-Continent gas field and a pipeline for the conveying of natural gas to Kansas City, and desired a market therefor; that second party was the owner of a franchise-ordinance for the distribution and sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Kansas, said ordinance being marked Exhibit "I," and attached to said contract; that first party agreed, during the period of said franchise until December 14th, 1924, to supply and deliver natural gas to second party at a pressure of 20 pounds at Kansas City, Kansas, "in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," subject to accidents, interruptions and failures under certain conditions, "for the consideration" of  $22\frac{1}{2}$  per cent "of its gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas"; that "the party of the second part agrees to buy from the party of the first part all gas it may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in said city of Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, and to pay to party of the first part for the natural gas which it shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes"  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of such gross receipts; that "the party of the second part \* \* \* expressly reserves to itself the right to charge its consumers for natural gas any rates, not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance, which it may agree upon with said consumers; but if it shall, at any time, agree to sell gas to domestic consumers \* \* \* at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, \* \* \* and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor" said percentage of the gross receipts, "the party of the first part shall be under no obligations to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices \* \* \*."

That the schedule of domestic rates referred to in said contract, as set out in said franchise-ordinance, commenced at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet and increased from time to time to 35 cents per thousand cubic feet, but said schedule was limited by a reference to a certain ordinance and schedule of rates in Kansas City, Missouri, and provided that the grantee of the franchise in Kansas City, Kansas, shall charge no greater rates for said natural gas than those fixed by said ordinance of Kansas City, Missouri; that by reason thereof the schedule of rates referred to in said supply-contract became and was limited to the schedule of rates in force from time to time in Kansas City, Missouri; that under the provisions of said Kansas City, Missouri, ordinance the rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet will take effect and become operative on the 19th day of November, 1916, and The Wyandotte County Gas Company will, under the terms and provisions of said supply-contract, be entitled to a continuation of the supply of gas by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receiver if said 30-cent net rate is at that time put into force and effect, and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, under the terms of said supply-contract, will "be under no obligations to furnish the gas sold at any lower price" than said 30-cent rate.

That the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver are "unwilling to accept as their compensation" for said gas 62½ per cent of the gross receipts from the sale of said gas at any less price than the contract rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet, and are at this time demanding even a greater price than that agreed upon in said contract.

That said supply-contract has never been modified, rescinded, cancelled, disavowed or set aside, and is now in full force and effect, and The Wyandotte County Gas Company is desirous of continuing the binding force and effect of said contract and acquiring and receiving its supply of gas thereunder and of performing all of the terms, conditions and provisions thereof on its part, to do which said company is required to, and will, upon the order and approval of the Commission, increase the price of natural gas from 28 cents net to 30 cents net, on and after November 19th, 1916.

That by reason of the premises The Wyandotte County Gas Company has filed with the Commission the schedule showing the changed rate to be made and put in force by said company, not as admitting or recognizing the binding force and effect upon the company, contractual or otherwise, of any rates mentioned in the ordinances of Kansas City, Kansas, Rosedale, Kansas, or Kansas City, Missouri, but for the purpose of entitling said The Wyandotte County Gas Company to continue the purchase and acquiring of natural gas from the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, pursuant to said supply-contract; a true and correct copy of said schedule of changed rates being hereto attached, marked Exhibit "B," and made a part hereof.

Wherefore, the premises considered, The Wyandotte County Gas Company moves the Commission to issue an order approving the changes in the schedule of rates of the company from 28 cents per thousand cubic feet net to 30 cents per thousand cubic feet net, as per schedule on file and hereto attached, effective for all gas sold and delivered on and after November 19, 1916; all other rates, charges, classifications, schedules, rules, regulations and practices, including rules and regulations for the collection of bills, to remain unchanged and in full force and effect.

EXHIBIT "B."

Notice to the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas.

Schedule Showing Changes in Rates Desired to be Made and Put in Force by The Wyandotte County Gas Company.

Schedule.

The Wyandotte County Gas Company desires to, and will with the consent of the Commission, change the rate for natural gas for general consumption from 28 cents net per thousand cubic feet, as fixed by the Commission by its order of December 10th, 1915, to 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet, such change to be effective for all gas sold and delivered after special readings of consumers' meters to be made between November 9th and 19th, 1916; said change in rates is made to entitle the Company to the continuation of the supply of natural gas by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, under and pursuant to a certain contract existing between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, dated February 1, 1906, as will more fully appear from the application for the approval of this change in rates filed herewith.

All other rates, charges, classifications, schedules, rules, regulations and practices, including rules and regulations for the collection of bills, as heretofore filed with the Commission, shall remain unchanged and in full force and effect.

Said 30-cent rate, upon the basis of the amount of gas heretofore furnished, is non-compensatory to The Wyandotte County Gas Company, but said Company will put the same into effect, if ordered by the Commission; upon the condition, however, that the voluntary installation of said 30-cent rate shall not be held or construed to be an admission that said rate is compensatory, that said Company is or will be warranted in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of existing ordinances of said city, or that there is any contractual liability on the part of said Company to furnish natural gas at the rates mentioned in existing ordinances for the term thereof; but said new rate is filed and will be put into effect for a trial period without waiving or working an estoppel of any of the rights, contractual or legal, of the Company, and for the purpose of entitling said Company to acquire natural gas and to continue the binding force and effect of the aforesaid supply contract.

Dated this 29th day of July, 1916.

611 EXHIBIT "16."

Schedule showing changes in Joint Rates for Natural Gas supplied by John M. Landon, as Receiver for The Kansas Natural Gas Company, established pursuant to the Decree of the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, First Division, entered in Equity Cause No. 136-N, entitled John M. Landon, as Receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff, vs. The Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas et al., Defendants, on June 3, 1916.

To the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the consumers and distributors of natural gas in the State of Kansas:

I have been served with an order made by your body, directing me to file certain schedules of charges for natural gas in certain cities in the State of Kansas; and also to file with your body contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or myself as receiver, and any distributing companies or cities.

I do not admit the jurisdiction of your Commission to supervise rates charged by me for natural gas or to command the filing of such schedules. On the contrary I deny the authority and power of your Commission over any of my acts or proceedings for the reasons, among others, that the business in which I am engaged is interstate commerce, and not subject to the authority of your commission and because of the prior exclusive jurisdiction of the United States District Court for the District of Kansas.

However, for your information and from a desire to comply with the wishes of your honorable body as far as I consistently can, I state to you that all contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company, about which you have inquired, are now on file with your commission. Certain tentative conversations have been had between me and the various distributing companies but none of them have eventuated into a contract, except as below noted.

612 Prompted by the same motives as stated above I file with your body the following schedule of rates:

Take notice that acting under the authority of the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, in decree entered June 3, 1916, in Equity Cause No. 136-N, pending in the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, First Division, wherein John M. Landon, as Receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company was complainant, and the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas et al., were defendants, I have fixed and established the following schedule of rates and joint rates for the sale of natural gas in the several cities and communities in the State of Kansas, supplied by me as Receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company by and through the several distributing companies hereinafter named as my agents, effective on and after the August, 1916, meter readings at or near the close of the month of August, 1916. The undersigned Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company as aforesaid, and the several distributing companies as agent- for the receiver, shall and will change the rates for natural gas now in effect and will charge and collect from domestic and gas engine consumers of natural gas at the several places hereinafter named, the following rates and joint rates, to-wit:

JOHN M. LANDON,

Receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

September 21, 1916.

The Public Utilities Commission, State House, Topeka, Kansas.

GENTLEMEN: In connection with the schedule filed yesterday by John M. Landon, as Receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company, it should be noted that the reason for the rate of twenty cents at Independence and Coffeyville is as follows:

Pursuant to your order of December 10, 1915, a rate of twenty-three cents at Independence and Coffeyville was ordered in by the receiver. This was an increase, as you will remember from twenty to twenty-three cents. Shortly thereafter injunction suits were brought by citizens of Independence and Coffeyville, restraining the receiver from increasing the rate from twenty to twenty-three cents. A temporary injunction was granted and the cases are still pending. We are informed that they will in all probability be disposed of at the coming term of the District Court of Montgomery County. With the temporary injunction allowed it was impossible for the Receiver to enforce the twenty-three cent rate and twenty cents is what he is now collecting.

Kindly attach this letter to the schedule filed as a notation thereon.

Yours very truly,

JOHN M. LANDON.

Law Department.

Kansas City, Missouri.

J. A. Harzfeld, City Counselor.

June 27, 1916.

Mr. T. S. Salathiel, Attorney at Law, Independence, Kansas.

DEAR SIR: I desire to acknowledge the receipt by mail of the printed notice that on Thursday, June 29, 1916, John M. Landon, as receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company, will present to the District Court of Montgomery County his special report as receiver and ask for special instructions to guide him in the establishment at a rate for natural gas to be charged by the Kansas City Gas Company and by him as receiver to consumers of natural gas in the city of Kansas City, Missouri, and requesting Kansas City to present evidence for the purpose of showing what rate should be charged and collected from consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

I desire to state:

1. That Kansas City, Missouri, denies that either the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company has any right or authority to sell, deliver, or distribute any gas in Kansas City, Missouri, or make any charge therefor either through the Kansas City Gas Company, or otherwise.

2. We desire to state that the Kansas Natural Gas Company has no contract, franchise, or other right to do business in Kansas City, Missouri.

3. That Kansas City, Missouri, has a valid and existing contract with the Kansas City Gas Company whereby said Kansas City Gas Company is under obligation to Kansas City, Missouri, to procure and furnish gas, and to sell the same to the inhabitants of Kansas City at certain rates fixed in a franchise ordinance granted 622 the said Kansas City Gas Company, and that no other company has any such right.

4. That the Kansas City Gas Company is not a distributing company but is a local supply company and under obligations to furnish an adequate supply of gas to the inhabitants of Kansas City, Missouri, and to obtain the same without reference to any other companies.

5. That in the equity suit in the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, in the opinion handed down at St. Paul, the United States Court there declared that so far as Kansas City, Missouri, was concerned the franchise ordinance granting a franchise to the Kansas City Gas Company to supply Kansas City with gas at rates in said franchise fixed was considered by the court, and after consideration it refused to grant to the receiver any relief as against Kansas City, Missouri, or to determine at that hearing whether or not said contracts were valid contracts, or whether or not any court had a right to set them aside.

6. In that opinion the United States Court further reserved jurisdiction over the subject matter of the application for the injunction, and the parties, and reserved the right to modify its orders and decrees, and reserved the right to add to, take from, modify or supplement the injunction decree.

For the foregoing reasons and many others, it would seem to us neither advisable nor proper to present evidence to the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in relation to any matter of issue that appears in the bill of equity filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas.

Very truly yours,

J. A. HARZFELD,

City Counselor.

STATE OF KANSAS, Plaintiff,

VS.

INDEPENDENCE GAS COMPANY et al., Defendants.

Motion of Plaintiff to Dismiss.

Comes now said plaintiff, by S. M. Brewster, its duly elected, qualified and acting Attorney General, and shows to the court that all violations of the anti-trust laws of the State of Kansas by the defendant herein have been corrected, and that the objects of the above entitled action have been accomplished, and that the continuation of the receivership is detrimental to the public interests and to the public service for the giving of which said defendants were incorporated:

Wherefore, Plaintiff dismisses this its suit, and moves the court to dismiss this suit as to all of the defendants herein, and to discharge the receivers heretofore appointed herein, and each of them, and to order the costs of this action paid out of the estate now in the hands of said receivers.

And said plaintiff, while dismissing and moving the court to dismiss this suit and to discharge said receivers in any event, further shows to the court that by the terms of the stipulation entered into herein on the 17th day of December, 1914, which stipulation is a part of the record of this cause in this court, it is provided in paragraph three that the creditors and lien-holders against the property in the hands of the receivers consent to the deferring of their rights to foreclose and assert their several claims against said property, upon condition that their investments and claims be returned with interest within the six year properly secure the return of the balance, and that, while said stipulation provides for the continuation of said receivership for a period of six years from the date thereof, it is provided in paragraph ten thereof that the court may discharge said receivership and conclude said cause at an earlier date.

625 And plaintiff further shows to the court that at the time of the entering into of said stipulation the indebtedness which was a lien upon the property now in the hands of said receivers exceeded the sum of $5,780,000, and that said indebtedness has now been reduced to the sum of less than $3,300,000, and that sufficient of said indebtedness has been paid to secure the return of the balance thereof, in that the property now in the hands of said receivers is ample security for all of said indebtedness now unpaid, and that there is now no sufficient reason for the retention of said receivers, and the court should, in accordance with said stipulation, discharge said receivers and conclude said cause.

Wherefore, Plaintiff further moves that the dismissal of said cause and the discharge of said receivers be made without prejudice to the rights of the parties under said stipulation, and in accordance with and pursuant of the terms thereof.

JOHN M. LANTON, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Reply to Petition to Dissolve Injunction, Supplemental Answer, Counter Claim, and Cross Bill of the Wyandotte County Gas Company.

Comes now the plaintiff and for his reply alleges and says:

1.

That he denies that Ordinance 6051 of Kansas City, Kansas, is still in force and effect as set out in paragraph 2 of said supplemental answer.

2.

That he denies that Ordinance No. 295 of Rosedale, Kansas, is still in force and effect, and that said rates are contractual, as alleged in paragraph 3 of said supplemental answer.

That he denies that said Wyandotte County Gas Company is, and for some time past has been, receiving its supply of natural gas for distribution and sale in said cities under and pursuant to said contract marked Exhibit C attached to said supplemental answer, as set out in paragraph 4 of said supplemental answer. Plaintiff denies that the Kansas Natural Gas Company by assuming the obligations of said supply contract agreed to furnish said Wyandotte County Gas Company natural gas for the term of said ordinance, or to use all due diligence to acquire and deliver the same in such amount as to at all times fully supply the demands and wants of said Wyandotte County Gas Company in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of said ordinance, Ordinance No. 6051, and at the price therein named, as alleged in paragraph 6 of said supplemental answer.

3

That he denies that the Kansas Natural Gas Company undertook and agreed to furnish said Wyandotte County Gas Company natural gas for the term of said Ordinance No. 6051, or to use all due diligence to acquire and deliver the same in such amount as would at all times supply the demand, or to furnish said Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company fifty per cent. of the gas which said Kansas Natural Gas Company might be able to produce or control from time to time or agreed to furnish said natural gas during the life of said ordinance on the basis set out in said paragraph 11 of the said supplemental answer.

4.

That he denies that said contract of February 1, 1906, has never been modified, rescinded, cancelled or disavowed, or that the same is now in full force and effect and binding upon the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receivers.

5.

That he denies that said twenty-eight cent rate mentioned in paragraph 13 of said supplemental answer is in excess of the rate which said Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receiver, has agreed that the Wyandotte County Gas Company should charge and collect from customers in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rose-dale, Kansas.

6.

That he denies that the effect of the decree of injunction issued in this case on June 3, 1916, is to leave in full force and effect the supply contract and the rates therein fixed and agreed upon, as alleged in paragraph 17.

7.

That he denies there has been no complaint filed in this court for the cancellation, abrogation or disavowal of said contract, as set out in paragraph 26 of said supplemental answer, and alleges that the bill of complaint filed in this cause does pray for the cancellation of said supply contract.

Plaintiff further says that unless he receives eighteen cents at the gates of the distributing plant of the defendant he will not be able to secure compensatory returns or an average of two-thirds of thirty-two cents per thousand cubic feet as stated in the supplemental bill of complaint filed herein and made a part of this reply.

9.

He denies that he is compelled to file schedules with The Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas for charges on gas transported by him in interstate commerce, but alleges the fact to be that he has filed with said commission the schedule as shown by the supplemental bill of complaint filed herein.

That he denies that it is necessary to obtain permission from the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas to change the schedule of rates charged by the said Wyandotte County Gas Company in the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, as alleged in paragraph 37 of said supplemental answer.

11.

That he denies that the rates fixed by this plaintiff and which he sought the Wyandotte County Gas Company to put into force and effect in the territory served by it, would be inadequate and fail to give the said Wyandotte County Gas Company an adequate return for the services rendered by it in the distribution of natural gas. And denies that the price fixed by him for said cities would so impair the earnings and income of this plaintiff as to make it impossible for him to operate the pipe line system and furnish natural gas.

12.

That he denies that the increase in price charged for natural gas delivered to consumers, as set out in the supplemental bill of complaint filed herein, would cause a great reduction in the income and earnings of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or this plaintiff.

13.

That he alleges in answer to the allegations of paragraph 42 of said supplemental answer, that the trustee of the first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company has filed in this proceeding an answer praying for the same relief as asked by this plaintiff, and that this plaintiff in his original bill of complaint filed herein asked for the cancellation of the supply contract in question.

That he denies that the judgment of the state court of February 15, 1913, has been fully performed, as alleged in paragraph 60 of said complaint.

15.

That he denies that the receivers Landon and Litchfield or the State of Kansas signed said creditors' agreement for the sole purpose set out in paragraph 62 of said supplemental answer, but alleges that the purpose for which said agreement was signed by said parties is fully set out in said agreement itself and in the bill of complaint filed herein.

16.

That he denies that the conduct of this plaintiff in operating the business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is in violation of the judgment of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, or in violation of law.

17.

That this plaintiff denies each and every other allegation in said supplemental answer contained, except as herein admitted or as set forth in said original bill of complaint.

Plaintiff asks that this reply be considered as also a reply to the original counter claim as filed by the said Wyandotte County Gas Company in its answer heretofore filed in this case. The plaintiff further alleges that said defendant has breached said contract by refusing and failing to collect the maximum rates and the rates prescribed in said ordinance.

The plaintiff further alleges that said defendant has breached said contract by refusing and failing to collect the maximum rates, 631 and the rates prescribed in said ordinance.

Shaw, and Eugene McQuillin, Members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, to Plaintiff's Supplemental Bill of Complaint.*

These answering defendants, above named, again and at all times hereafter, saving and reserving to themselves all manner of benefits and advantages and exceptions which have been had or taken, or which may be had or taken, to the many errors, uncertainties, 633 imperfections and inefficiencies in the plaintiff's bill of complaint, and in the supplemental bill of complaint herein filed, and for answer to said supplemental bill of complaint, or unto so much thereof as these defendants are advised is material or necessary for them to make answer unto, answering, say:

They deny that since the filing of the decree of preliminary injunction against a portion of their codefendants herein on June 3, 1916, there have occurred, transpired and come to the knowledge of the plaintiff new and subsequent facts and occurrences relating to and directly affecting the subject matter of this suit, for and on account of which the plaintiff is entitled to any relief as in his supplemental bill of complaint prayed for, and deny the right of plaintiff at this time to file said supplemental bill of complaint.

I.

These answering defendants, above named, further answering said supplemental bill of complaint, admit that on or about the 29th day of July, 1916, plaintiff filed in this cause his bond in the sum of $750,000.00, under the order of this court, and that said bond has been approved by the Honorable Ralph E. Campbell, United States District Judge.

These defendants further answering say that no writ of preliminary injunction was authorized or issued out of the office of the clerk of this district court against these defendants, and that they are not advised as to the writ of preliminary injunction, if any, nor the nature of the same, issued out of this District Court against their co-defendants herein.

Further answering, these defendants are without knowledge of the facts of plaintiff's allegation that plaintiff on or about August 14, 1916, in the due course of the administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in his hands as such Receiver, prepared schedules and directed various distributing companies selling and distributing natural gas in the states of Kansas and Missouri for said Receiver, to put into force and effect on September 1, 1916, any rates which, upon investigation, he deemed reasonable, compensatory and just, and these defendants are without knowledge of the said rates so alleged to be established and ordered by the said Receiver, and without knowledge that such rates, if any, are graduated according to the distance the several cities supplied by the Receiver are located from the gas fields, and ask that strict proof be required to be made of said allegations.

These defendants are without knowledge as to whether the rates so alleged to be established by the Receiver, plaintiff herein, will produce to said Receiver an average price of about thirty-two cents per thousand cubic feet for domestic gas supplied by him to consumers in the several cities in Kansas and Missouri, and deny that this plaintiff is entitled to an average rate of thirty-two cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas transported and sold by him to distributing companies in the cities of Missouri.

Further answering, these defendants deny that this court in and by its opinion delivered in this case on June 3, 1916, or that the United States District Court for the Western District of Missouri, St. Joseph Division, in the case of St. Joseph Gas Company, plaintiff, v. John T. Barker et al., defendants, found and determined that a rate of thirty-two cents per thousand cubic feet was the reasonable and average rate to consumers of natural gas in cities of the State of Missouri.

These defendants further answering deny that the companies distributing natural gas in Missouri cities furnished by the plaintiff are the agents of plaintiff, but these defendants aver that on the contrary said companies are local companies and purchase from plaintiff the natural gas procured from him, and distributed and sold by said local companies.

II.

These answering defendants further answering say that they admit that on or about August 10, 1916, the Kansas City Gas Company, one of the defendants herein, filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, its complaint against the plaintiff as receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and against said Kansas Natural Gas Company, in which complaint said Kansas City Gas Company asked the Public Service Commission of Missouri to make investigation concerning the amount of gas which plaintiff would be able to supply during the winter of 1916-17, and subsequent years, and praying that the Public Service Commission of Missouri would require said plaintiff and said Kansas Natural Gas Company to comply with the contracts of November 17 and December 3, 1906, made by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company and said Kansas City Gas Company, a copy of which said complaint is filed herewith and marked "Exhibit 1."

These answering defendants further say that on said 10th day of August, 1916, said complaint was received by the Secretary of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and on said day notice of the filing of said complaint was given to the plaintiff herein, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, at Independence, Kansas, to Kansas Natural Gas Company, Charles D. Bell, Agent, Joplin, Missouri, and to F. J. Cole, Agent, J. M. Landon, Receiver, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, 4414 Terrace avenue, Kansas City, Missouri. A copy of said notice and order is hereto attached and made a part hereof, and marked "Exhibit 2."

These answering defendants further answering deny that any order has been made by the Public Service Commission of Missouri setting down for hearing the aforesaid complaint of Kansas City Gas Company, or the matters and things therein set forth. That it is provided in section 107 of the Public Service Commission Act of the State of Missouri that upon the filing of a complaint against a gas or other public service corporation, the Commission shall cause a copy thereof to be served upon the corporation or person complained of, and it is further provided by said section 107 that the Commission shall fix the time when and the place where a hearing will be had upon the complaint, and shall serve notice thereof not less than ten days before the time set for such hearing, unless the Commission shall find that public necessity requires that such hearing shall be held at an earlier date.

These answering defendants further say that the Public Service Commission of Missouri has not set down the complaint for hearing, nor ordered the same to be set down for a hearing, nor undertaken to inquire into, nor to hear and determine the matters and things set forth in said complaint of the Kansas City Gas Company, and has made no order directed to nor against the plaintiff herein as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, other than the formal notice of said complaint given to plaintiff and to said Kansas Natural Gas Company by the Secretary of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, as provided by section 107 of the Public Service Commission Act.

And these defendants further answering, deny that they have undertaken or are about to undertake to require plaintiff to make extensions to pipe lines controlled and operated by him in the States of Oklahoma and Kansas, or elsewhere, or required plaintiff to do and perform any other acts and things which are a substantial burden upon and an undue interference with the business in which plaintiff is engaged, or in conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916.

These answering defendants further deny that this court by its decree of June 3, 1916, made any orders directed against these answering defendants.

III.

These defendants further answering, admit that on the 10th day of August, 1916, the Kansas City Gas Company, one of the defendants herein, filed a new schedule of rates for natural gas with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, applying to Kansas City, Missouri, such new schedule to become effective on or after November 19, 1916, in conformity with the terms of the contracts of November 17 and December 3, 1906, between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that on said 10th day of August, 1916, said Kansas City, Missouri, through its City Counselor, agreed and consented to said change of rates, and approved the same.

These answering defendants say that this court, in its decision of June 3, 1916, rendered the following statement and opinion concerning the contracts between the various cities and distributing companies, defendants in this cause: "It has been and is not necessary for this court as at present constituted to determine the validity of the city ordinances, the contracts between the cities and distributing companies, the contracts between the distributing companies and the natural gas company, and the duties and obligations of the receiver under them, in order to adjudicate the issues, it was constituted to decide, and for that reason no opinion is expressed or adjudication made concerning it.

These answering defendants say that this court having as above stated withheld any opinion as to said contracts, and as to the contract between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the ordinance of Kansas City, Missouri, the defendants, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, permitted said new schedule of rates, purporting to be in accordance with the contract existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company with the consent of said Kansas City, to be filed as of the date of August 10, 1916, and made and entered its order in that behalf, as is set forth by Exhibit 3, attached to and made a part of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

IV.

These answering defendants say that they are without any knowledge of the matters and things pleaded in paragraph 4 of said bill of complaint, and ask that plaintiff be held to strict proof of the same.

These answering defendants further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the notice, if any, given by plaintiff to the Weston Gas and Light Company, concerning the rates of natural gas to consumers in Weston, Missouri, transported from Kansas and Oklahoma, as to the rates to be charged thereon on and after September 20, 1916. These defendants admit that on the 15th day of September, 1916, said Weston Gas and Light Company filed with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, to be effective September 20, 1916, a schedule containing certain new rates and charges applicable to the natural gas service afforded at Weston, said new rates and charges constituting an increase of thirteen cents per thousand cubic feet in the net charges for illuminating gas. That on the 20th day of September, 1916, said Public Service Commission of Missouri, under the provisions of section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, suspended said proposed new schedule of rates for a period of 120 days, pending and for the purpose of an investigation into the service and rates, and the reasonableness of such change. That said action was and is in accordance with the authority of the Public Service Commission of Missouri under the provisions of said section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of the State of Missouri. That this court in its said opinion in this cause rendered June 3, 1916, referring to a like action of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, said:

"Under the law of that state the commission may, upon the filing of a proposed schedule of rates, suspend its operation pending a hearing. It does not appear that a hearing as to these last-mentioned rates has ever been had, so that it cannot be said what 640 will be the action of the commission as to such rate, and it further appears that the applications for the allowance of such schedules have been since withdrawn."

These answering defendants deny that said Weston Gas and Light Company is the agent of the plaintiff Receiver, or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but allege that said Weston Gas and Light Company purchases the natural gas received by it from plaintiff, and these defendants deny that said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is an interference with the business with which plaintiff receiver is engaged with said Weston Gas and Light Company, and deny that the sale and distribution of natural gas by the Weston Gas and Light Company to consumers is done as the agent of the plaintiff, and deny that the same is interstate commerce, and deny that plaintiff in and by the sale and distribution of natural gas to the consumers of the Weston Gas and Light Company, is engaged in interstate commerce.

VI.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the direction, if any, given by plaintiff to the Joplin Gas Company, and of the notice given by plaintiff to the Joplin Gas Company, concerning the rates on natural gas transported from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Joplin, Missouri.

Further answering, these defendants say that said Joplin Gas Company did, on or about the 8th day of August, 1916, file with the Public Service Commission of Missouri a new schedule of rates for natural gas, raising the rate to thirty cents per thousand cubic 641 feet, net, with a net minimum charge of sixty cents per thousand cubic feet. That the city of Joplin, one of the defendants herein, did file with the Public Service Commission of Missouri its complaint against said new schedule of rates, which complaint is as set forth in plaintiff's Exhibit 6, attached to his supplemental bill of complaint.

That afterward, on the 8th day of September, 1916, defendants, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, under and pursuant to the provisions of section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, by order made, suspended said schedule of rates for 120 days pending investigation of the existing and said proposed rates for gas service furnished to consumers at Joplin by the said Joplin Gas Company, in order that the Commission might determine the reasonableness and lawfulness of said proposed changes, which said order is as shown by Exhibit 7, annexed to plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

That a hearing upon said complaint of the city of Joplin has not been had, and no final order, or order of any kind, has been made thereon by defendants, the Public Service Commission, other than the one last above mentioned, suspending said rates for 120 days.

Further answering, the defendants deny that Joplin Gas Company is the agent of the plaintiff Receiver, or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but allege that whatever of natural gas said Joplin Gas Company receives from plaintiff Receiver, or from the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is purchased by said Joplin Gas Company, and deny that plaintiff or said Kansas Natural Gas Company furnishes directly to the consumers of natural gas in the city of Joplin the natural gas distributed to them by said Joplin Gas Company, and 642 deny that plaintiff or said Kansas Natural Gas Company, through the furnishing of natural gas by said Joplin Gas Company to consumers in the city of Joplin, is engaged in interstate business.

Further answering, defendants say that the Secretary of the Public Service Commission of Missouri did on the 19th day of September, 1916, write to Messrs. Spencer and Grayston, as Attorneys for the Joplin Gas Company, the letter mentioned in plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint and attached thereto as Exhibit 8. That said letter was written solely in connection with and pursuant to said order of suspension pending an investigation and hearing of the reasonableness and lawfulness of the change in rates proposed by said Joplin Gas Company.

Further answering, these defendants say they are without knowledge of any alleged notice purported to have been given by E. F. Cameron, as City Attorney of Joplin, Missouri, and that any attempt by the Joplin Gas Company to collect a proposed rate of thirty cents per thousand cubic feet for gas would subject the officers and employees of said Joplin Gas Company to criminal prosecution, or to any penalties on account of the same.

These answering defendants further say that they are without knowledge of the number of patrons said Joplin Gas Company has,

and are without knowledge of any threats made by any one against said Joplin Gas Company other than the notice aforesaid given by the Secretary of the Public Service Commission to the Joplin Gas Company, requiring an observance of said order of suspension during the time thereof, or pending the investigation by said Public Service Commission of the reasonableness and lawfulness of the action of said Joplin Gas Company.

643 These defendants say that said Joplin Gas Company is a local corporation organized and doing business under the laws of the State of Missouri, and these defendants deny that the acts of the Public Service Commission of Missouri are a burden upon or an interference with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is alleged to be engaged, and deny that the act of the Public Service Commission suspending said proposed new rates pending an investigation by it of the action of the Joplin Gas Company, a local Missouri corporation, is a substantial burden upon or an undue interference with interstate commerce, or is in conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916.

VII.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the particular acts of plaintiff in the promulgation and establishment of new rates for natural gas after the taking effect of said preliminary injunction, and are without knowledge of the notice, if any, given by plaintiff to the Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company, concerning the rates on natural gas to be charged to consumers in Nevada.

Defendants further answering, say that said Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company, on the 17th day of August, 1916, filed a proposed new schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, under which there would be a charge of thirty-five cents per thousand cubic feet net with a minimum charge of fifty cents per month, to consumers of natural gas in the city of Nevada. That said Public Service Commission, under and by authority of and pursuant to the provisions of section 70
644 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, on the 18th day of September, 1916, made an order suspending said proposed schedule of rates for 120 days, pending a hearing and investigation of the reasonableness and lawfulness of said proposed change and of the said act of the Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company, in the premises. That said order is as set forth in the exhibit numbered 9, attached to plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

Further answering, these defendants deny that the sale of natural gas in the city of Nevada to consumers is made by said Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company as the agent of the plaintiff Receiver, or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but that said Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company is an independent local corporation and purchases natural gas furnished by it to consumers in the city of Nevada from plaintiff or from said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that the furnishing of natural gas to consumers in the city of Nevada is not a business of interstate commerce transacted by the plaintiff or by said Kansas Natural Gas Company, but is a business transacted by the said Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company and its consumers in the city of Nevada, and deny that said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is a burden upon and an interference with the interstate commerce business, if any, of plaintiff, or of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and deny that the order of said Public Service Commission is in conflict with the order of this court of June 3, 1916, and aver that said order is an order of temporary suspension made pending a hearing and determination of the reasonableness and lawfulness of the acts 645 of said Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company, and that defendants, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, have made no order in the premises other than said order of suspension for 120 days, and defendants aver that the making of said order is within the rights of the defendants as constituting the Public Service Commission of Missouri, as defined by this court in its opinion of June 3, 1916.

VIII.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of what direction may have been given by the plaintiff in the promulgation of new rates, or what notice was given by plaintiff to the Carl Junction Gas Company concerning rates on natural gas transported from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Carl Junction, Missouri.

Further answering, these defendants say that said Carl Junction Gas Company, on the 17th day of August, 1916, did file a proposed schedule of new rates for natural gas with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and that said Public Service Commission of Missouri, under and in accordance with the provisions of section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, on or about said 17th day of August, 1916, made an order suspending for a period of 120 days, said proposed schedule of rates in Carl Junction, Missouri, pending a hearing and investigation as to the reasonableness and lawfulness of said proposed new rates and charges. A copy of said order is herewith filed and marked "Exhibit 3," plaintiff having not filed with his supplemental bill of complaint a copy of said order.

646 The defendants further admit that on or about the first day of September, 1916, the Secretary of the Public Service Commission of Missouri gave to said Carl Junction Gas Company the notice mentioned in the supplemental bill of complaint, and shown as Exhibit 10, annexed to said supplemental bill of complaint.

Defendants further answering, say they have no knowledge of any notice given or any action taken by A. M. Baird, City Attorney of Carl Junction, Missouri, warning said company against taking any action that would be in violation of the order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri.

Defendants further answering, say that the aforesaid order of suspension made by Public Service Commission of Missouri, and that the aforesaid notice given by the Secretary to said Carl Junction Gas Company were each and both of them made and given in pursuance of the provisions of section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, pending an investigation of the reasonableness and lawfulness of the action of said Carl Junction Gas Company.

These answering defendants further say that said Carl Junction Gas Company is not the agent of the plaintiff Receiver, nor of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and does not distribute natural gas to consumers in said city of Carl Junction, Missouri, as the agent of plaintiff, or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but purchases outright from plaintiff or from said Kansas Natural Gas Company, the gas furnished and distributed by it to consumers, and that the sale and distribution of natural gas to consumers in Carl Junction, Missouri, is not interstate commerce business done by plaintiff or said 647 Kansas Natural Gas Company, but is the local business of said Carl Junction Gas Company. And these defendants deny that the said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri and the notice above referred to, given by its Secretary, and the alleged notice given by A. M. Baird, City Attorney, are substantial burdens upon and an interference with the interstate commerce business of plaintiff, or that the same are in conflict with the order of this court of June 3, 1916.

IX.

These answering defendants further answering, say they are without knowledge of the direction and promulgation, if any, by plaintiff of new rates for gas to the Oronogo Gas Company, or that natural gas transported from Kansas and Oklahoma to consumers in Missouri would be thirty cents per thousand cubic feet net.

These defendants admit that said Oronogo Gas Company filed a schedule of new rates for natural gas with the Public Service Commission of Missouri on or about August 11, 1916. That the defendants, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, on or about the 17th day of August, 1916, in order that said Commission might determine the reasonableness and lawfulness of the said proposed rates and charges under and by authority of section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, made its order suspending for a period of 120 days, said proposed new schedule of rates and charges pending a hearing and determination as to the reasonableness and lawfulness of said proposed rates and charges.

These answering defendants deny that said Oronogo Gas Company is the agent for the sale and distribution of natural gas of this plaintiff or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, but aver that said 648 Oronogo Gas Company is the local and independent company, and as such purchases all natural gas sold and distributed by it to consumers, and that the sale and distribution by said Oronogo Gas Company of natural gas so purchased by it from this plaintiff, or from the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is not an interstate commerce business.

These answering defendants deny that said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is a substantial burden upon or an undue interference with any interstate commerce business in which this plaintiff is engaged, and deny that said order is in conflict with the order of this court of June 3, 1916, but aver that said order being a temporary order of suspension, under the provisions of said section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act, is not within the inhibition of the order and judgment of this court of June 3, 1916.

X.

These answering defendants further answering, deny each and all the matters, things and allegations set forth and contained in paragraph 10 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XI.

These answering defendants further answering, say they are without knowledge as to the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 11 of said plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XII.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 12 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XIII.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 13 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XIV.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 14 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XV.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 15 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XVI.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 16 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XVII.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 17 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint, and defendants ask plaintiff be required to make strict proof of each and all of said allegations.

XVIII.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 18 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XIX.

These answering defendants, further answering say that they are without knowledge of the matters and things alleged and set forth in paragraph 19 of plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint.

XX.

These answering defendants, further answering, say that they deny that since the alleged publication of rates by plaintiff for the sale and distribution of natural gas in the several cities of Kansas and Missouri, that these defendants, the Public Service Commission of Missouri, have by and through their public utterances, declarations or threats advised, counseled or encouraged consumers of natural gas in said several cities to refuse to pay the price and rates fixed therein, or have sought by such method to render nugatory and ineffective the order and decree of this court, but these answering de-

651 defendants aver that all the orders, utterances or declarations made by them have been made and given under the provisions of section 70 of the Public Service Commission Act of Missouri, and for and under the suspension of the proposed changes in rates for a period of not exceeding 120 days pending investigation and determination by the Public Service Commission of Missouri of the reasonableness and lawfulness of the acts and proposed changes of schedule of rates by the various local companies in the several cities of Missouri selling and distributing natural gas to consumers in said cities.

And these defendants, further answering, deny that they have made any orders in the premises other than those hereinbefore mentioned, and for not exceeding 120 days, and for the purpose of investigating the lawfulness and reasonableness of the said respective changes of schedules of rates.

These defendants deny that the rates at which natural gas has been sold in said several towns and cities by the local gas companies purchasing natural gas from plaintiff, or from the Kansas Natural Gas Company, were or are unreasonably low and confiscatory.

These answering defendants, further answering, repeat and reiterate the matters and things set forth by them in their answer heretofore filed to the plaintiff's bill of complaint.

These defendants deny that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief whatsoever, or any part of the relief in the said bill of complaint, or in the said supplemental bill of complaint, demanded, and allege that plaintiffs have no standing in this court, or in the court of equity, and defendants pray that a hearing be had upon the issues of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint and upon the face of the supplemental bill of complaint, and that the said bill of complaint and said supplemental bill of complaint be dismissed as against them, and that they go hence without day, and that they have judgment for their costs.

STATE OF MISSOURI,

Public Service Commission:

At a Session of the Public Service Commission Held at Its Office in Jefferson City on the 17th Day of August, 1916.

Case No. 1057.

Present: William G. Busby, Chairman; John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw, Edwin J. Bean, Commissioners.

In the Matter of the Suspension of Rates and Charges of the Carl Junction Gas Company at Carl Junction, Missouri.

656

Order.

It appearing that the Carl Junction Gas Company has heretofore, on August 11, 1916, filed with the Commission a proposed new schedule of rates, entitled its P. S. C. Mo. No. 1, Third Revised Sheet No. 1, cancelling its P. S. C. Mo. No. 1, Second Revised Sheet No. 1, effective at the August, 1916 meter readings, instituting a general increase in its charges for gas service furnished by said Company to the public at Carl Junction, Missouri, and vicinity; it further appearing to the Commission that the public may be unjustly affected by the proposed increased charges in its rates for gas service, and it being the opinion of the Commission that the effective date of said proposed schedule of rates and charges contained in said Carl Junction Gas Company's P. THE KANSAS NATURAL GAS COMPANY and JOHN M. LANDON, Receiver, Defendants.

Complaint.

Comes now the complainant and for its complaint against the defendants for inefficient and insufficient service and inadequate supply of natural gas, alleges and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That the Kansas City Gas Company is a corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Missouri, and engaged in the business of distributing and selling natural gas to Kansas City, Missouri, and its inhabitants under and pursuant to certain franchise-ordinances granting the use of public streets of said City for such purpose.

3. That on September 27th, 1906, the common council of Kansas City, Missouri, duly passed, and the mayor approved, Ordinance No. 33887 of said City, authorizing and providing, among other things, for the distribution and sale of natural gas "for private and public use" and for "domestic consumers" and for "special contract consumers," meaning thereby to authorize and provide for the distribution and sale of natural gas for domestic lighting, cooking, heating, and for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes; and that the rates for general consumption should commence at 25 cents per thousand cubic feet and increase from time to time to 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and that the rates and charges for gas sold for power, boiler and manufacturing purposes might be determined by "special contract with consumers." Said ordinance was duly accepted, and has since been assigned to the Kansas City Gas Company, and is now in full force and effect, a true and correct copy thereof being filed herewith, marked Exhibit "A" and made a part hereof.

660 4. That on November 17th and December 3rd, 1906, the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as first party, and McGowan, Small and Morgan, grantees, as second parties, duly entered into certain contracts in writing for a supply of gas to said grantees; that thereafter said contracts were duly assigned by the first party to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and all the duties and obligations thereof were assumed by said Company; and thereafter said contracts were duly assigned by said grantees to the Kansas City Gas Company, and the right to obtain a supply of gas thereunder was acquired by the Kansas City Gas Company, and said Company is now and long has been receiving and obtaining its supply of natural gas for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Missouri, under and pursuant to said contracts, true and correct copies thereof being filed herewith, marked Exhibits "B" and "C" and made a part hereof.

5. That said contracts were similar in form and identical in substance and may be treated as one contract; that said contract recited that first party was the owner of gas lands and leases and a pipe line for the conveyance of natural gas to Kansas City, Missouri, and desired a market therefor; that second parties were the owners of a franchise-ordinance for the distribution and sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, said ordinance being marked Exhibit "1" and attached to said contract, the same being Exhibit "A" hereto attached; that first party agreed, during the period of said franchise-ordinance, until September 27th, 1936, to supply and deliver natural gas to second parties, their successors and assigns, at a pressure of 20 pounds at Kansas City, "in such amounts as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," subject to accidents, interruptions and failures under certain conditions, for a 661 certain consideration therein named and agreed to, the same being a certain percentage of the schedule of rates named in said ordinance attached to said contract.

6. Complainant construes said contract to be a binding undertaking on the part of the Kansas Natural Gas Company to furnish and deliver natural gas to the Kansas City Gas Company until September 27th, 1936, at a 20 pound pressure at the city limits, in sufficient amounts to meet all demands for domestic lighting, cooking and heating, and for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes in the summer time, subject to conditions therein set forth, and to accept and receive the compensation of a certain percentage of the schedule of rates referred to and named in said Ordinance No. 33887, of Kansas City, Missouri.

7. That the Kansas City Gas Company and its predecessors have expended vast sums of money for high pressure belt lines and distribution systems, reducing stations, appliances and equipment for distributing and handling said natural gas; and that Kansas City, Missouri, and its inhabitants have expended large sums of money for service pipes, furnaces, stoves, burners, equipment and appliances for using and burning said natural gas, all relying upon said supply-contract and the statements and representations made by said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its officers and agents as to their ability to furnish a supply of natural gas.

8. Complainant states that the whole project, plan and undertaking of the natural gas business originally contemplated, undertook and provided for the supply and sale of natural gas for three purposes, to-wit: lighting and cooking; domestic heating, and boiler, power and manufacturing purposes; that the transportation 662 lines and systems of the Kansas Natural and the distributing system of the Kansas City Gas Company were designed and constructed to that end; that the aforesaid franchise contemplated and provided for the distribution and sale of natural gas for said three purposes; that said franchise purported to authorize a schedule of rates for the sale of natural gas for domestic lighting, cooking, heating and general consumption, and purported to authorize the sale of said natural gas for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes at special contract rates; that the aforesaid supply-contract contemplated and provided for the furnishing of said natural gas for said three purposes, and made specific reference to said franchise-ordinance and the purposes for which said natural gas was to be distributed and sold by complainant; that said supply-contract and the franchise-ordinance referred to therein, when read and construed together, clearly bind and obligate the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, and their successors and assigns, to furnish and deliver to the Kansas City Gas Company natural gas for lighting, heating, power and manufacturing purposes, delivered at Kansas City at a pressure of 20 pounds and in sufficient amounts to meet all demands for such purposes, subject to the conditions therein set forth, and to accept and receive the agreed compensation of a certain percentage of the schedule of rates referred to in said supply-contract.

9. That Section 20 of said Ordinance No. 33887, among other things, recites "and grantees covenant that their contract for gas supply is with the Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company (corporations), that under the terms thereof after two years from the time natural gas is first furnished to Kansas City thereunder, the division of the gross income received for said 663 gas by the distributing company and the supply company shall be in the proportion of thirty-seven and one-half cents out of each dollar to the former, and sixty-two and one-half cents to the latter; and covenant for themselves, their successors and assigns, that none of the terms of that contract agreement shall be changed without consent of Kansas City expressed by ordinance; and grantees agree for themselves, their successors and assigns, that if Kansas City shall acquire said plant and property they will on demand transfer free of cost to Kansas City all their rights under said contract; and grantees further agree to procure from said two corporations and file with the city clerk within ninety days from the time this ordinance becomes a law, a written agreement in form to be approved by the city counselor, agreeing that they (said two corporations) will, if Kansas City shall acquire said plant as aforesaid, upon demand, furnish and continue to furnish during the remaining period of this franchise gas to Kansas City on the same terms as they have agreed to furnish it to the grantees, their successors and assigns."

10. That the written agreement in form approved by the city counselor was duly procured and filed within the time and in the manner provided; that the city has not consented to any change in the terms and provisions of said supply-contract; that by reason of the foregoing provisions the city has an interest in said supply-contract and a right to demand and receive a supply of gas thereunder, and that the terms and provisions thereof be not changed without its consent, expressed by ordinance.

11. That at a very early period in the history of the natural gas business, the defendant Company failed and defaulted in its 664 undertaking to furnish complainant an adequate and sufficient supply of natural gas to meet the demands for power, boiler and manufacturing purposes as aforesaid, or to supply the same at a price on a competitive basis with other fuels used for like purposes; that soon thereafter defendant commenced to default in furnishing an adequate supply of gas at sufficient pressure to fully meet the demands for domestic heating; that such failure and default has continued and increased in amount and duration from winter to winter up to the present time; that in the year 1910, the Kansas City Gas Company and its predecessors were supplied, and therefore enabled to sell, 970 million cubic feet of natural gas for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes at special contract rates; that the supply for such purposes decreased until 1913, after which time complainant has not received any power, boiler and manufacturing gas whatever; that in the winter of 1910-11 complainant was furnished and enabled to sell on maximum demand days 49 million cubic feet of natural gas for domestic lighting, heating and cooking purposes; that the decrease and diminution of supply has continued until in the winter of 1915-16 the Company was receiving and enabled to distribute and sell only 15 million cubic feet on maximum demand days; that the demand for natural gas is very great and the number of consumers applying and meters installed is constantly increasing, and the supply furnished by defendants is constantly waning.

12. That the amount of natural gas furnished complainant by defendants from year to year for manufacturing, boiler and power purposes, sold at special contract rates, and the price per thousand cubic feet, the gross receipts therefor, and the net income to complainant therefrom is shown by the following table:

14. The annual domestic sales per meter in service, and the decline in sales due to inadequate supply is shown by the following table:

15. That the annual gross income of the complainant from both domestic and from boiler, power and manufacturing gas sales per meter in service, showing a decline of approximately 30 per cent due to inadequate supply, is as follows:

Table IV.

Annual Domestic and Boiler Gas Sales.

Year.	Cash.

16. That by reason of the premises Kansas City and its inhabitants are being denied efficient and sufficient service and an adequate supply of gas by the defendants in disregard and violation of their aforesaid contractual obligations and public duty; that complainant has lost all of its power, boiler and manufacturing gas business; that it has lost the major portion of its domestic heating and furnace gas business; and that it has lost a very considerable portion of its domestic lighting and cooking business; all by reason of the failure and default of the defendants to furnish and deliver an adequate, efficient and sufficient supply of natural gas to meet the demand therefor as per the terms, conditions and provisions of said supply-contract and the franchise referred to therein and made a part hereof.

17. That said supply-contract was entered into and the schedule of rates provided for therein was put into effect, relying upon the representations and inducements of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, that they would furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of natural gas to enable the complainant to deliver and sell the same in sufficient quantities for all domestic lighting and heating, and for boiler, power and manufacturing purposes and afford complainant a fair return upon its properties in public service; that by reason of the failure and default of defendants so to do, complainant has heretofore and is now sustaining great and irreparable loss and damage, and the city and its inhabitants are suffering great inconvenience and inadequate and insufficient service.

18. Complainant avers that defendants have from time to time held out promises and inducements to complainant that they were and would be able to furnish better service and an increased and adequate supply of natural gas; that by reason thereof complainant has borne and endured said losses and damages and inconvenience, inadequate and insufficient service, but can no longer afford so to do.

19. That there is a constant increase in the number of meters installed in Kansas City, Missouri, and by reason thereof a constant increase in the demand for natural gas; that on peak-load demand days the consumers demand approximately one thousand cubic feet per meter per day; that the annual average number of meters in service, the number of meters in service at the end of each year, the annual increase in meters, the total supply of gas for the month of January of each year, the average daily January supply per meter, the estimated demand per meter, and the estimated shortage per meter from the beginning of the natural gas business down to the present time, is shown by the following table:

670 On maximum demand days, when the consumers would have used one thousand cubic feet per meter, there was delivered and supplied only 245 cubic feet per meter, resulting in a shortage of 755 cubic feet per meter per day, only 25% of the demand.

The increase in meters in six years prior to December, 1916, has been 14,485, or 31.5%. The decrease in supply per meter from the amount furnished on maximum demand days in the same period has been 75%.

20. Complainant states on information and advice of counsel that defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company and its property and business have been involved in litigation in the state and federal courts since January, 1912; that said litigation has been wholly fruitless of any good results; that a perpetual receivership has been erected in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the interest of the Kansas Natural stockholders, resulting in an abatement and bar to the foreclosure of the mortgages of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the enforcement of its contracts and public obligations; that by reason of said receivership and the construction placed upon a certain stipulation or so-called "creditors' agreement" filed therein, the rights of the stockholders are preferred to the rights, claims and demands of the consumers to an adequate supply of gas and efficient service; that such preference is unfair, unreasonable, illegal and void and in violation of the contract and public obligations of defendants and said stockholders; that the creditors and bondholders of said Company are unable to refinance, reorganize and rehabilitate said properties during the pendency of said suit and receivership, and said receiver should be discharged and said litigation terminated as expeditiously as possible to the end that said property may be 671 used for the purposes for which it was designed and discharge its public and contractual obligations; a true and correct copy of said creditors' agreement and a transcript of the record of said case are filed herewith, marked Exhibits "D" and "E" and made a part hereof.

21. Complainant states on information and belief that during all the time defendants have been litigating technical questions of comity and jurisdiction, other companies and parties have taken up and acquired all the available gas lands, leases and productions of natural gas in the Mid-Continent Gas Field, and defendants have practically discontinued field operations and drilling, development and production of gas; that defendants are at this time producing only 7½% of all the natural gas they sell, and are wholly dependent upon others for their supply; that the parties from whom they obtain such supply are obligated to furnish gas in Oklahoma and Southern Kansas to domestic and industrial consumers and, therefore, furnish defendants only the surplus gas which they are unable to sell to their own consumers; that by reason thereof defendants' supply on maximum demand days is very low, resulting from the larger demand by their own consumers upon said parties, from whom defendants obtain their supply.

22. Complainant further states that, in the year 1912, in total disregard of their contractual obligations to deliver and furnish complainant natural gas "in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," defendants removed the Scipio Station north of Ottawa and seventeen miles of main trunk line, necessary to maintain the pipe line at its full carrying capacity; that since said time defendants have not even filled said pipe line to its capacity as impaired by said removals; that prior to said 672 removals the main trunk line of said system north to Ottawa was capable of carrying 100 million cubic feet of gas per day, and since said removal said northern line is capable of carrying only 70 million cubic feet of gas per day.

23. That defendants have continuously failed and neglected to fill said lines to their full carrying capacity at any time; that the policy of defendants of depending upon chance purchases of gas, renders the supply at the time most needed very uncertain and unreliable; that defendants should be required to restore said system to its former carrying capacity and to fill said pipe lines to their full capacity during peak-load demand days.

24. Complainant further states that on June 15th, 1916, one Henry L. Doherty proposed and offered to purchase the pipe lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company owned and leased, rehabilitate the carrying capacity of said lines, connect the same with the field and gathering lines in the Mid-Continent Gas Fields owned by the Quapaw Gas Company, the Wichita Natural Gas Company and the Wichita Pipe Line Company, and other lines, and supply said system with at least 140 million cubic feet of gas per day on peak-load demand days, if said properties were sold at foreclosure sale and he was permitted to buy the same free of obligations and authorized to make said connections; that said proposal and offer was rejected by reason of statements, assurances and promises of a certain stockholders' committee of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, consisting of R. A. Long, G. T. Braden, M. L. Benedum, W. W. Splaine, L. C. McKinney, E. T. Whitcomb and V. A. Hays, to the effect that they were ready, able and willing to rehabilitate said system, refinance the Company and perform its public and contractual obligations and duties; that by reason thereof the opportunity of complain-

673 ant to acquire an adequate and sufficient supply of gas from the said Henry L. Doherty has been denied, and defendants are estopped from denying their duty and obligation to render an equally adequate and sufficient service and perform their public and contractual obligations. A true and correct copy of said proposition of Henry L. Doherty is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "F" and made a part hereof.

25. Complainant avers, on information and advice of counsel, that in the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., number 1351, and the case of Fidelity Title and Trust Co. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., number 1-N, pending in the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, for the foreclosure of the Kansas Natural Gas Company's mortgages, and Company has filed an answer confessing its insolvency and inability to meet its public and contractual obligations; that in the case of State of Kansas v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., Number 13,476, pending in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in which defendant John M. Landon is receiver, the court has found that said Kansas Natural Gas Company is insolvent and unable to meet and discharge its public and contractual obligations, and that said Company, under the control of said stockholders, is guilty of the perversion, misuse and abuse of its corporate powers, and the receiver, John M. Landon, was appointed to correct said abuses; that all the mortgages of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its subsidiary companies are in default and would, except for the pendency of state case, be foreclosed and said properties sold to satisfy said liens; that thereupon said properties would pass into the hands of purchasers claiming to be ready, able and willing to rehabilitate and refinance the same and furnish an adequate, 674 efficient and sufficient supply of natural gas; that the aforesaid stockholders' committee was organized for the primary purpose of opposing and defeating said foreclosures and the ordinary administration of the law in such cases; that said stockholders' committee has made statements, representations and promises to the Governor and Attorney-General of Kansas, and to various cities and distributing companies located on said system, giving assurances that they were ready, able and willing to refinance said Company, reconstruct and rehabilitate said system and furnish an adequate, efficient and sufficient supply of gas; that they have acquired and hold under contract and otherwise abundant gas to meet all future demands, and that they will furnish on said northern line at least 80 million cubic feet of gas per day during the winter of 1916-17, and at least 120 million cubic feet per day thereafter.

26. Complainant states that it does not know and has no means of acquiring definite and reliable information as to whether or not said defendants or said stockholders' committee are or will be able to furnish an adequate and sufficient supply of gas, or what amount of gas they will be able to furnish during the winter of 1916-17 and subsequent years; that complainant has requested defendants to state definitely the probable supply of gas for the coming winter and defendants have failed, neglected and refused so to do; that complainant is, therefore, unable to advise and inform the consumers of gas in Kansas City, Missouri, whether or not or to what extent they may depend upon the same, or to make provision for other means of cooking and heating during the coming winter.

27. Complainant is informed and believes that defendants and said stockholders' committee claimed the right to stay and prevent the foreclosure of said mortgages of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and Marnet Mining Company, upon the ground that said stockholders have an interest or equity in said properties over and above the amount of the indebtedness on the same and that said equity should be protected against the claims of creditors, bondholders and lienholders; but complainant is advised by counsel and alleges that the rights of the consumers, under the aforesaid supply-contract and by general law, to an adequate supply and efficient service, and the rights of complainant under said contract to be furnished with "natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," are paramount, prior and superior to the claims, rights and demands of said stockholders and that the defendants herein should, at all times, be required to perform said public and contractual obligations.

28. Complainant further states that it is powerless to commence, prosecute and maintain to a successful termination and final judgment an action in mandamus or otherwise in any court of competent jurisdiction to compel said defendants to perform their public and contractual obligations or to do any specific act or thing, until this Commission makes specific findings of fact necessary therefor, and issues its orders directing the same; that thereupon the complainant and this Commission will be able to enforce said obligations of said defendants by appropriate proceedings at law and in equity in any court of competent jurisdiction.

29. That the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, has no extra-territorial jurisdiction to enforce its orders, judgments and decrees in the State of Missouri; that defendant John M. Landon is therefore operating the properties and business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the State of Missouri by common consent of its creditors and stockholders and in his private capacity as the agent, or representative of said Company and its stockholders and creditors, and so far as this State is concerned, he is not acting as Receiver or in any official capacity with reference to said property and business within this State.

30. That complainant is desirous of continuing the sale of natural gas to Kansas City and its inhabitants, as long as practicable; but the rates in force and mentioned in said Ordinance No. 33887, are insufficient to afford this complainant a fair return upon its property in service, figured upon the amount of gas now and heretofore furnished to complainant by said defendants unless defendants comply with said contract and furnish complainant said "natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," this complainant is not and will not be warranted, and will not long continue to deliver said inadequate supply of natural gas, and will not be longer required so to do under Section 14 of said Ordinance and must return to the furnishing of manufactured gas, as provided in said Ordinance, and the consumers will lose the advantages of natural gas.

Wherefore, the premises considered, complainant prays that the Public Service Commission, under the authority vested in it by the Act relating to Public Service Corporations:

(1) Make such investigation as they may deem necessary to ascertain the amount of gas which defendants are, or will be, able to supply to complainant during the winter of 1916-17 and subsequent years,

(2) Require the defendants to furnish the Commission with copies of all contracts, leases, arrangements and agreements which they have for a supply of gas,

(3) Issue processes and subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of all books, papers, maps, contracts, and records of every description, affecting the subject matter of the investigation as to the supply of gas.

(4) Require the defendants to furnish reasonably efficient and sufficient service and adequate facilities, pipe lines and compressors for the transportation of an adequate supply of natural gas to complainant.

(5) Ascertain and determine the carrying capacity of the defendants' pipe lines from the junction point near Ottawa, Kansas, to their Rosedale reducing station in their present condition, and from Rosedale station to their reducing stations on 39th Street near Kansas-Missouri State Line and 25th and Genesee in Kansas City, Missouri.

(6) Ascertain and determine whether or not defendants have, hold, own or control sufficient gas to fill said lines to their total carrying capacity in their present condition on peak-load demand days.

(7) Ascertain and determine the carrying capacity of defendants' lines from the Petrolia compressor station to Scipio compressor station prior to the removal of said Scipio station and 17 miles of main line above referred to.

(8) Ascertain and determine the carrying capacity of the defendants' lines from Scipio station to the junction point near Ottawa, Kansas, before the removal of the Scipio station and said 17 miles of main line.

(9) Ascertain and determine whether or not defendants have, hold, own or control sufficient gas to fill said lines to their full carrying capacity prior to the removal of said Scipio station and 17 miles of main line, on peak-load demand days; and if not, how much they are able to furnish.

(10) Ascertain and determine the demands upon the line capacity of said pipe lines at the junction point near Ottawa, Kansas, on peak-load demand days, and if said demands are greater than the present carrying capacity of said lines, require the defendants to restore the Scipio station and said 17 miles of main line.

(11) Ascertain and determine what quantities of gas may be purchased or acquired from other pipe line companies, producers or owners of gas lands, leases and productions in the Mid-Continent Gas Fields, and the price at which same may be acquired, and the names of the owners, and holders thereof; and thereupon (if necessary to the performance of the public and contractual obligations and duties of defendants) order said defendants to acquire the same and make the necessary extensions and connections therefor.

(12) Ascertain and determine the quantity of gas owned, held or controlled by Henry L. Doherty & Company, and their allied companies, Quapaw Gas Company, Wichita Natural Gas Company, and the Wichita Pipe Line Companies, and what portion of such gas could be diverted into the lines of the defendants, and the necessary extensions and connections therefor, and the price at which such gas may be had; and thereupon (if necessary to the performance of the public and contractual obligations of defendants) order said defendants to purchase and acquire the same and make the necessary extensions and connections therefor.

679 (13) Ascertain and determine the amount of gas required at Kansas City, Missouri, on maximum peak-load demand days.

(14) Order and direct the defendants to supply and deliver to complainant, until September 27th, 1936, at a pressure of 20 pounds at the points of delivery, near Kansas City, natural gas "in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption," including lighting, heating and manufacturing purposes, as agreed to in said contracts of November 17th and December 3rd, 1906; and other proper and appropriate orders and relief.

EXHIBIT "A."

No. 33887.

An Ordinance authorizing Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assigns, to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants.

Be It Ordained by the Common Council of Kansas City:

Section 1. Subject to the provisions of the present city charter, and to the same provisions so far as they may be embodied in any future charter of the city, permission, right, privilege and authority are hereby granted unto Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assigns, for the full period of thirty (30) years from and after the approval and taking effect of this ordinance, within the present or any future corporate boundaries of the City of Kansas City, to lay and maintain gas pipes, regulators and appliances below the surface of the streets, avenues, boulevards, alleys and public grounds of said city, and on the bridges and viaducts owned by said city (provided such bridges and viaducts are of sufficient strength to carry such pipes), for the purpose of carrying and distributing natural gas and selling and supplying the same for private and public use, all upon the conditions provided for in this ordinance.

Section 2. Since it is a matter of large financial concern to the people of Kansas City, as well as the city itself, to secure natural gas within the shortest reasonable time, the grantees (which term 681 grantees herein named, the survivors or survivor of them and their or his assigns) agree that they will

(1) on or before January 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas on not less than seventy-five miles of mains to all consumers thereon who desire the same, and who have complied with the reasonable rules and regulations of the grantees; and

(2) on or before March 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas on not less than fifty additional miles of mains to all consumers thereon who may desire the same and have complied with said reasonable rules and regulations; and

(3) on or before August 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas to all present consumers on the lines of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company who may desire the same and who have complied with said reasonable rules and regulations; provided that the grantees shall not be required to furnish patrons from circulating mains.

And said grantees shall within ten (10) days after this ordinance becomes a law file their written acceptance of the same as hereinafter provided, and at the time of filing their written acceptance shall deposit with the City Treasurer, as a special fund fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00) in cash, to become the property of the city, unless the requirements of paragraph one (1) of this section hereinbefore mentioned shall be performed within the time above specified.

Whenever the grantees shall file with the City Treasurer a certificate of the Board of Public Works, or other Board or officer of the city then performing the functions of the present Board of Public 682 Works, stating that the grantees have complied with the requirements of paragraph one (1) of this section respecting the furnishing of natural gas in the city, the Treasurer shall repay to the grantees the said sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000.00); and it shall be the duty of the Board of Public Works, upon compliance by the grantees with the said requirements, to make and deliver to them said certificate.

In order to secure their compliance with the requirements of paragraphs two (2) and three (3) of this Section respecting the furnishing of natural gas in the city, the grantees shall, within twenty (20) days after filing their acceptance of this ordinance, execute and deliver to the city their bond, in form approved by the City Counselor, with surety to the approval of the Mayor and City Comptroller, in the sum of two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000.00), to be paid to the city as liquidated damages if the grantees shall fail to comply with the said requirements, said sum being agreed upon by both parties hereto as representing the liquidated damages, for the reason that said parties appreciate and agree that it will be impossible to measure such damages after the breach; and said bond shall be by the city surrendered and canceled on the certificate of the Board of Public Works, which shall be granted when grantees have fulfilled said requirements.

If the commencement of work or the laying of pipes by the grantees necessary for the furnishing of gas to consumers as in this section agreed, or the laying of pipes inside or outside the city or the delivering of natural gas at or within the corporate limits of the city by the grantees or by any persons with whom the grantees may contract for their supply of natural gas, shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or legal process of any kind against the grantees or such other persons, or by inclement days or by labor strikes, or by any cause beyond the control of the grantees or such other persons, or if the acquisition of the ownership, use or control of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company hereinafter provided for shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or other legal proceedings, the time consumed by such prevention, hindrance or delay shall not be considered any part of the times provided for herein for supplying natural gas in the city, as required hereby, and the times provided for herein for furnishing gas to consumers shall be correspondingly extended for a like period or periods, but such delay or hindrance, in order to entitle the grantees to an extension of time hereunder, must actually so hinder and delay, and must so result after the grantees have done all in their power to prevent and obviate such hindrance and delay. But no such delay shall be excused or time extended on account thereof, if the grantees can, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, and at reasonable expense obtain natural gas elsewhere.

Section 3. All pavements and sidewalks shall be taken up and all excavations in said streets, avenues, boulevards, sidewalks, lanes, highways, alleys and public grounds, shall be made under the supervision of the Board of Public Works, and such pipes, regulators and appliances shall be located in such portion of the streets, avenues, boulevards, lanes, highways or public grounds as may be designated by the Board of Public Works, using alleys as far as practicable; provided, that said pavements and sidewalks and excavations shall be replaced and restored by and at the expense of the grantees to their former condition; and if such pavement shall have been laid under any guaranty for its maintenance and repair for any period of time, the said grantees shall also keep said restored pavement in repair for the unexpired period of such guaranty. Should said grantees fail or refuse to replace or restore said pavement, sidewalk and excavation, within a reasonable time, then the same may be replaced and restored by the city, under the direction of the Board of Public Works, at the cost and expense of the grantees, who shall, before commencing the work of making any excavation, deposit with the City Treasurer the sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000) in money, for the faithful compliance with this section; and as often as any portion of said sum is used by said Board, said grantees shall on notice from said Board deposit a corresponding sum with the City Treasurer. Before any excavations are made by said grantees at any time in any street or highway, for any of the purposes named in this ordinance, a permit therefor shall be obtained from the proper officer of said city, which permit shall state the particular part of the street or highway where said work is to be done and the length of time said permit shall authorize work to be done thereunder. The work done under such permits shall be under the inspection of a competent inspector designated by the City Engineer, for whose time, reasonably employed in such service, the grantees shall repay the city at the rate of three dollars and sixty cents ($3.60) per day.

Section 4. Said grantees shall not open or encumber at any one time more of any such highway or public place than may, in the opinion of the Board of Public Works, be necessary to enable them to proceed with advantage in laying or repairing mains and pipes, nor shall they permit any such highway or public place so opened or encumbered by them to remain open or encumbered for a longer period of time than shall, in the opinion of the Board 685 of Public Works, be necessary. In all cases where any such highway or public place shall be encumbered or excavated by the said grantees they shall take all precautions for the protection of the public usual in such circumstances, and such as may now or hereafter be required by the general ordinances of said city. Whenever the city shall grade or regrade any street, alley or public highway, along or across which said grantees shall have constructed any pipes or mains, it shall be the duty of said grantees, at their own expense, to change said pipes or mains so as to conform to the street, alley or public highway so graded or regraded, on an order therefor from the Board of Public Works of said city.

Section 5. Said grantees shall, at their own expense, bring connecting pipes for consumers to the inside of the curb lines, or to the property line in such cases in which mains are laid in alleys, and construct shut-offs; and may, with the approval of the Board of Public Works, make such reasonable rules and regulations for making connections for private consumers with the distributing or service pipes of said grantees as they may deem proper. No person, company or corporation shall make any such connections without first obtaining a permit therefor from said grantees. Said grantees shall at all times keep and maintain such pressure of gas in all places where the same may be furnished to Kansas City and its inhabitants as may be required by ordinance; provided, the pressure so required shall be reasonable and practicable.

Section 6. Said grantees shall extend their pipes and mains for the distribution of natural gas on such graded streets, avenues, sidewalks, lanes, highways, alleys and public places as may be named by 686 ordinance, followed by notice from the Board of Public Works to proceed thereunder, and within the time specified in said notice; provided, that in every such case at least three consumers on an average for every two hundred feet of extension so made necessary shall first, in writing, agree to take such gas from said grantees for a period of not less than one year, at the general rates; provided, that if the graded street, avenue or highway is about to be paved under ordinances of said city, such extension shall be made ahead of the paving, including connections to curb in cases where buildings are already located, without regard to the number of consumers thereon, and gas shall be furnished by grantees on such extensions. Every ordinance providing for extending pipes and mains as above mentioned shall have appended thereto the signatures of the required number of prospective consumers, and such ordinance shall contain a provision that in case such prospective consumers, or any of them, causing the reduction below the required number of consumers, fail within thirty (30) days after demand has been made by said grantees, to enter into the contract with the grantees as herein required, such ordinance shall not be enforced. If the grantees should fail or refuse to obey any such ordinance for a period of ninety (90) days after the approval of the same, and after said consumers have made the agreements aforesaid, they shall pay to the city the sum of five dollars ($5) for each and every day that such failure or refusal continues. Failure to obey each ordinance shall constitute a separate violation, and shall entitle the city to the aforesaid sum for the violation of each and every specific independent case.

Section 7. Said grantees shall have the right to shut off gas from any consumer who may be in arrears for a longer period than fifteen (15) days, and the delinquent consumer can reinstate 687 his right to obtain gas on payment of the bill and shutting off charge of fifty cents.

Section 8. In constructing, repairing and operating said gas plant said grantees shall use every reasonable and proper precaution to avoid damage or injury to persons or property, and shall, at all times and in all places, hold and save harmless the said city from all and every such damage, injury, loss or expense, caused or occasioned by reason of any act or failure to act of said grantees in the construction, repairing or operating of said gas plant or any part thereof, or in the paving, repaving or repairing of any street, or by reason of any act done by said grantees.

Section 9. The said grantees shall file with the Board of Public Works of said city, on or before the first day of February in each and every year, a statement or plat, duly verified, of all pipes, mains, shut-offs and appliances of every kind and nature laid, constructed or built by them in said highways or public places, during the preceding calendar year, and the location thereof; which shall be, by said Board of Public Works, copied into a book kept by it for that purpose.

Section 10. For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this ordinance and securing the correct measurements of gas furnished under the same and the proper pressure of said gas to produce the best obtainable results with the least consumption of gas, with due regard to the reasonableness and practicability of such pressure, and to prevent the waste thereof and to protect the city in its corporate rights, and to protect the consumers in their rights, the city shall have the right to provide, by ordinance, for the appointment of one or more inspectors or measurers of gas, and to prescribe their duties by ordinance, and to pass such ordinances as may be necessary to enforce the provisions of this ordinance. The city shall pay all costs and charges of such inspection and measurements, the same to be regulated and fixed by ordinance, including the salaries of said inspectors or measurers, and the grantees shall reimburse the city for all these charges, the money to be paid within thirty (30) days after the payment thereof and demand therefor by the city; provided such charges shall be reasonable. The grantees shall also supply and set meters for measuring gas free of charge to consumers, which shall, however, be and remain the property of the grantees and freely accessible to them at all reasonable times, and consumers shall be responsible for negligently or wilfully injuring any meters.

Section 11. The said city shall enact all needful and requisite ordinances to protect said grantees, their works and property, from damages, impositions and frauds, and to prevent unnecessary waste of gas, and said grantees shall have the power to make all reasonable needful rules and regulations for the collection of their revenues, prevention of waste and the conducting and management of their business as they may, from time to time, deem necessary; but the city shall incur no liability by any failure to enact any such ordinance, and the city does not hereby waive its rights of governmental control over this subject matter.

Section 12. Said grantees shall have the right to shut off the gas temporarily from their mains and pipes or any portion thereof, for the purpose of making repairs or extensions of their plant or while repairs or extensions are being made to the pipes or apparatus by which the grantees obtain their supply of natural gas, and shall not be liable to said city or any consumer for any damage occasioned by said temporary suspension of said supply of gas; provided, such repairs and extensions are made with due diligence; and provided, that whenever it is practicable notice of such shutting off of the supply of gas shall be given to consumers by publication in one or more daily newspapers in said city.

Section 13. The said grantees shall be entitled to charge and collect from consumers of such gas, during the period of five years from and after natural gas is first furnished hereunder at the rate of not to exceed twenty-five cents per thousand cubic feet, and during the period of five years next thereafter at the rate of not to exceed twenty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet, and thereafter during the period of the aforesaid grant at the rate of not exceeding thirty cents per thousand cubic feet, and may also make special contracts with consumers at less than the general rate then in force, based upon the amount of gas used and in the conditions of the contract, which special rates shall be the same to all consumers using the same amount of gas under the same contract conditions, and schedules of such special rates and the contract conditions shall be filed with the city clerk, and each and every change therein shall also be filed with the city clerk, and be open to public inspection. The grantees agree that they will at all times make special contracts at as low rates as those at which natural gas is sold at the time to any consumers of the same class using the same amount of gas under the same contract conditions who are located approximately as distant from the fields from which they are at the time supplied as Kansas City, Missouri, is from the fields from which it is at that time supplied and who are 690 supplied by the grantees, or anyone from whom the grantees obtain their supply, or anyone whose supply is obtained from those from whom the grantees obtain their supply; provided that this agreement to make such special contracts at such rates shall not be construed to compel the grantees to make such special contracts at as low rates as those in effect at the time in any locality where the grantees, or those from whom the grantees obtain their supply, or any one supplied by those from whom the grantees obtain their supply, may be in bona fide competition with any other supplier of natural gas in such locality; but if the demand from special rate consumers threatens the general supply, the grantees may shut off the supply from any special rate consumer, which shall include all other than domestic consumers, in whole or in part, and if the grantees fail or refuse to do so, the city council may by ordinance require the grantees so to do; provided always that the said grantees shall have the right to charge ten (10) per cent additional to all consumers who are in arrears for a longer period than ten (10) days; and provided, further, that the grantees may charge and collect from each person who has a meter installed a minimum monthly bill of fifty cents; provided, however, that if the bill for natural gas consumed in any month shall at the rate then in force exceed the sum of fifty cents, such consumer shall not be charged any minimum bill for that month.

Under the permission and authority hereby granted, the grantees shall furnish natural gas for illuminating, heating and mechanical purposes, which shall at all times be of the same character and quality as when it comes from the earth; and it shall not be mixed with air or otherwise adulterated.

691 Section 14. Should the supply of natural gas, obtainable by grantees reasonably accessible, be, at any time hereafter during the life of this ordinance, inadequate to warrant them in continuing to supply natural gas under the terms of this ordinance, or should the Common Council of Kansas City so find at any time (and in the event of a disagreement as to the facts in this respect either party or a gas consumer may have recourse to the courts to establish the facts), they shall not be longer required to do so, but shall manufacture and furnish manufactured gas to said city and its inhabitants through said mains and pipes under the provisions of this ordinance as far as applicable and subject to all the terms and provisions contained in the ordinance number 6658 granted to Milton J. Payne and others passed August 24, 1895, and the ordinance number 6125 granted to Robert M. Snyder and others, passed January 10, 1895, and the ordinance number 8033, entitled: "An ordinance granting the consent of Kansas City to the consolidation of the Missouri Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company," until the expiration of said ordinances and no longer, except as to price, which shall be settled by arbitration, in the following manner:

The grantees shall not discontinue furnishing natural gas without serving at least six months' written notice upon the Mayor of Kansas City of their intention so to do. If grantees and the city cannot agree on the price which shall be thereafter charged for manufactured gas within ninety (90) days after the service of such notice Kansas City and said grantees shall each select one of the judges of the circuit court of Jackson County, Missouri, as an arbitrator, and the two judges so appointed shall immediately choose a third judge of said circuit court. The three judges so appointed shall 692 proceed at once to investigate the matter and shall hear fully all such evidence as is presented to them by either party and shall within ninety (90) days after their appointment make their finding in writing, fixing the just and reasonable maximum rate to be charged by the grantees for manufactured gas during the life of the franchises above described; and said finding, when signed by not less than two of said judges, shall be conclusive between the city and the grantees herein; one copy shall be filed in the office of the city clerk of Kansas City, another with the grantees, and said grantees shall at no time have the right or power to return to the manufacture, distribution or sale of manufactured gas in Kansas City until after such arbitration and award as is herein provided for unless they shall conform to the provisions of said award.

Section 15. As a consideration for the aforesaid grant, the said grantees are hereby required to make a true and faithful report under oath to said city on the first day of February and August in each year for the six months ending on the last day of December and June last preceding, showing the gross amount of money received by them from all such gas delivered to consumers within the corporate boundaries of said city, and shall pay into the City Treasury within fifteen (15) days thereafter an amount equal to two (2) per cent of said gross receipts for said preceding six months. Said city shall have the right at all reasonable times to make such examination and inspection of the books of said grantees as may be necessary to determine the correctness of such reports.

Section 16. All things provided to be done by the Board of Public Works, or other department of the city, may be performed by 693 any other official or department of said city when so provided by ordinance or charter of said city.

Section 17. If the said grantees shall do or cause to be done any act or thing by this ordinance prohibited, or shall fail, refuse or neglect to do any act by this ordinance required, they shall forfeit all rights and privileges granted by this ordinance, and this franchise and all rights thereunder granted shall ipso facto cease, terminate and become null and void, provided such failure to comply with the conditions of this ordinance shall continue unrectified for sixty (60) days after written notice thereof from the Board of Public Works of said City, or the Common Council of said city.

Section 18. The said grantees shall, within ten (10) days after this ordinance becomes a law, file in the office of the City Clerk of said city a written acceptance of the terms, obligations and conditions in this ordinance set forth, in such form as shall be approved by the City Counselor, and unless such written acceptance shall be so filed, this ordinance shall become null and void.

Section 19. As long as natural gas is furnished and sold to the inhabitants of said City of Kansas City under this franchise, said grantees shall, in consideration of this grant, furnish free to the City of Kansas City natural gas for light in the City Hall, City Prison and all city buildings; provided that all such lights shall be kept extinguished when not needed for illuminating purposes; the city to furnish its own burners, mantles, fixtures and appurtenances, and maintain and keep the same in repair.

Section 20. In order that the city and its inhabitants may receive the benefits of natural gas more speedily and with less disturbance of the streets and inconvenience to the public than would otherwise be possible, the grantees are hereby authorized to acquire the ownership or use or control, by purchase, lease, agreement or otherwise, of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, the consent of the city being hereby given to said company, its successors and assigns, to make such transfer, lease or disposition of its pipes and property to the grantees, and during the time the pipes and property of said company shall be in the possession or under the control of the grantees, said company, its successors and assigns, shall be relieved of any obligation to supply manufactured gas (provided, however, that no consumer of manufactured gas shall be deprived thereof by anything done under this section until such consumer can obtain natural gas from grantees), but the acquirement by the grantees of such ownership or use or control of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, shall be subject to the right of the city to purchase the same under the special provisions of the several ordinances under which said company is now operating, and said right of purchase under said special provisions, shall apply not only to the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, as acquired by said grantees, but also to all other pipes and property owned by the grantees in Kansas City, Missouri, and used in connection with said plant, the value of such other pipes and property to be determined at the same time, in the same manner and in the same proceedings. And grantees covenant that their contract for gas supply is with the Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company (corporations), that under the terms thereof, after two years from the time the natural gas is first furnished to Kansas City thereunder, the division of the gross income received for said gas between

695 the distributing company and the supply company shall be in the proportion of thirty-seven and one-half cents out of each dollar to the former, and sixty-two and one-half cents to the latter; and covenant for themselves, their successors and assigns, that none of the terms of that contract agreement shall be changed without consent of Kansas City expressed by ordinance; and grantees agree for themselves, their successors and assigns, that if Kansas City shall acquire said plant and property they will on demand transfer free of cost to Kansas City all their rights under said contract; and grantees further agree to procure from said two corporations and file with the City Clerk within ninety days from the time this ordinance becomes a law, a written agreement in form to be approved by the City Counselor, agreeing that they (said two corporations) will, if Kansas City shall acquire said plant as aforesaid, upon demand, furnish and continue to furnish during the remaining period of this franchise gas to Kansas City on the same terms as they have agreed to furnish it to the grantees, their successors and assigns. If said proposed within agreement to be made by said two corporations is not filed with the City Clerk within the time specified this ordinance shall be null and void. Provided, however, that Kansas City agrees not to exercise the right to purchase the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, and of the grantees, under said special provisions, for the period of ten years from the time of the acceptance of this ordinance by grantees, unless grantees shall before the expiration of said period of ten years have ceased to furnish natural gas as required by this ordinance, in which event the right to make such purchase under such special provisions shall be no longer postponed; in consideration whereof the grantees agree
696 during all the time they may be supplying natural gas to bid annually,

(1) to fit the street lamp posts at present set and in place with incandescent equipment, to furnish natural gas to the same, and to maintain, repair, clean, light and extinguish the same, upon the all night schedule, for the price of not to exceed nine dollars (9.00) per lamp per annum; and

(2) to set, on the line of their mains, such additional street lamp posts as the Council may by ordinance demand, to connect the same, to furnish the same with incandescent equipment, to maintain, repair, clean, light and extinguish and to furnish the natural gas to the same, on the all night schedule, for the price of not to exceed twelve dollars ($12.00) per lamp per annum; or at the option of the city, in lieu of such bidding, to furnish the natural gas free and without cost to the above and to additional posts that may be set by the city, at the rate of one hundred (100) lamps for each eight thousand (8,000) inhabitants, over and above two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants, population to be calculated for the purpose on the basis of two and one-half times the number of names shown by the city directory, having the largest circulation, including the names of business firms; and if the city elects to take natural gas free under this option, and to itself furnish or to contract with others for the incandescent equipment and for maintaining, repairing, cleaning, lighting and extinguishing, the city shall have the right to use for the purpose the posts at that time owned and set by the grantees, which the grantees agree shall not be less than the number which have been set and are now owned by the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, and the city agrees that the lights shall be kept extinguished between sunrise and sunset.

697 Section 21. All prohibitions, amendments, forfeitures and obligations and all other provisions of this ordinance shall be binding upon the grantees, the survivors or survivor of them, and their or his assigns, whether expressly so stated herein or not; and all grants and privileges secured by this ordinance to said grantees shall be held to inure to the benefit of the survivors or survivor of them and his or their legal and bona fide successors and assigns. Nothing in this ordinance shall be construed as granting to said grantees any exclusive franchise, rights or privileges; but nothing herein shall be construed to neutralize or impair the provisions of this ordinance respecting the prohibition against merger and consolidation.

Section 22. The said grantees shall not, except as in this ordinance provided, without the consent of the city, evidenced by ordinance, sell, lease or transfer their plant, property, rights or privileges, herein authorized, to any person, company, trust or corporation, now or hereafter engaged, or for the purpose of engaging in the manufacture or sale of gas in said city, under any other ordinance or franchise, or otherwise; and shall not without such consent at any time enter into any combination, with any person or persons, company or companies, authorized by ordinance to sell gas in said city, or with any person or persons, company or companies proposing by application for a franchise to sell gas to Kansas City or its inhabitants, concerning the rate or price to be charged for gas, to be used by the city, or private consumers; and no officer, employee or manager of 698 the gas plant and works, to be constructed and acquired under and in pursuance of this ordinance, shall, at the same time, be in charge of, or be the officer, employee or manager of any other gas works authorized by ordinance to manufacture or sell gas in said city, except the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, its successors and assigns, provided, however, that said grantees may convey all their rights and privileges herein granted to a corporation, its successors and assigns, to be organized by them, under the laws of the state of Missouri, for the purpose of acquiring, building, constructing and operating the gas plant authorized under this ordinance; but this shall not authorize any grantee to assign the franchise granted to it to any other company to which a franchise has been granted; and provided, further, that notice of said conveyance, and of any conveyance by said proposed assignee corporation, its successors or assigns, shall be filed with the City Clerk of Kansas City, Missouri, within ten (10) days after the execution thereof; and provided, further, that the grantees, or their assigns ("assigns" having the meaning above set forth), shall have the full, complete and unqualified right to assign and transfer and convey this franchise, and their property, by way of mortgage, deed of trust or other form of security in the nature of a mortgage or deed of trust, for the purpose of securing bona fide indebtedness, and for the purpose of acquiring property and of raising funds to provide, build, construct, equip and operate said plant, and to conduct the business thereunder.

This section shall not be construed, however, in any way to prevent or hinder the grantees from taking over, for the purposes hereinbefore stated, the property or plant of the Kansas City, Missouri, Gas Company, and the taking over of the same shall never be construed as any violation of the provisions of this section of this ordinance. And the grantees further bind themselves to enter into no pooling arrangements or any contract or merger or consolidation, either by way of a holding company, or otherwise, with any other company authorized by ordinance to manufacture or sell gas in Kansas City, except as permitted by this ordinance, and, as a matter of contract, hereby agree to obey all laws of the State of Missouri, and ordinances of Kansas City, now in existence or hereafter passed, in prohibition of mergers, consolidations and pooling.

It being the purpose to safeguard and make sure that there may always be competition in the matter of supplying gas and that gas will be supplied within the city, the grantees and assigns agree that any action on their part impairing or limiting or preventing such competition, or any substantial and continued failure for a period of sixty days to furnish gas in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance, shall constitute a violation of this ordinance, and the city shall have the right to repeal this ordinance by ordinance, and shall have the right to purchase the plant under the same terms and provisions stated in Sections 13 and 14 of ordinance of Kansas City, No. 6658, passed August 24, 1895, commonly known as the ordinance of the Kansas City, Missouri, Gas Company, but the statement of these particular remedies shall not be construed as taking away from the city any of its rights in law or equity.

Provided, the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company, and the grantees and the said corporation so to be formed by them are hereby expressly authorized to sell, lease, convey or otherwise dispose of their pipes and property of every kind, either to the other, and generally to make such contracts and agreements with each other as they may see fit, and said corporation so to be formed, its successors and assigns, may also, subject to the restrictions of this section, sell, lease, convey or otherwise dispose of its property and the franchise hereby granted, provided such action is taken subject to the terms of this ordinance. Kansas City retains to itself the right to itself own and operate a plant or plants for supplying the city, or the inhabitants thereof, with natural or artificial gas (if it shall at any time see fit so to do) for lighting and heating and manufacturing purposes, and to own and operate a plant or plants for supplying the city, or the inhabitants thereof, with any other sort of light.

Section 23. All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are, in so far as they so conflict, hereby repealed.

The form of the above ordinance is hereby approved.

Agreement Between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan.

Dated November 17, 1906.

This Agreement, made this 17th day of November, 1906, between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, party of the first part, and Hugh J. McGowan, of Indianapolis, Indiana, Charles E. Small, of Kansas City, Missouri, and Randal Morgan, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, parties of the second part.

Whereas, the party of the first part is the owner of gas lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas from the gas fields in the State of Kansas to a point at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri, and is desirous of entering into a contract with the parties of the second part for the transportation and supply of natural gas to them; and,

Whereas, the parties of the second part are the owners of an ordinance of the City of Kansas City, Missouri, granting the right to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, Missouri, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants, copy of which ordinance is attached hereto, marked Exhibit No. 1, and desire to secure a supply of natural gas for the said city and its inhabitants:

Now, Therefore, in consideration of the mutuality hereof, it is hereby agreed between the parties hereto as follows:

703 1. The party of the first part hereby agrees that it will during the period of such ordinance, or any extension or renewal thereof, or of any ordinance which may be obtained, either in the interest of the parties of the second part, or of their property, supply and deliver through its said pipe line or lines, to said parties of the second part, or any successor in the ownership of the property for the distribution of gas for Kansas City, Missouri, at a pressure of twenty (20) pounds at the point of delivery above mentioned, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in this contract, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned. However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all consumers.

2. It is hereby agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part may make special contracts for the sale of natural gas for manufacturing purposes in said city at lower rates
704 than those specified in said ordinance.

In order to protect the domestic trade, however, the parties of the second part may, without notice, if the supply of natural gas shall make it necessary to do so, reduce the amount of such gas to be furnished under any such special contracts or entirely stop the supply of the same, and the agreement of the party of the first part herein to furnish a full supply of natural gas shall not apply to such gas to be sold for manufacturing purposes if the same shall impair its ability to furnish a full supply under this contract as to pressure, etc., for the domestic trade, excepting, however, that the parties of the second part shall always have a right to sell natural gas to manufacturers at the same rates and under the same terms and conditions as to domestic consumers, and the parties of the second part agree that any contract they make to furnish gas to manufacturers shall contain provisions by which the parties of the second part may without notice diminish the amount of gas supplied under such contract or entirely stop the same.

So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the parties of the second part agree to buy from the party of the first part all the gas they may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said city and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which they shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent of their gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said city of Kansas City, Missouri, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent of such gross receipts. The parties of the second part make no agreement

705 with the party of the first part respecting the rates at which they shall sell natural gas to any consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, but expressly reserve to themselves the right to charge their consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance which they may agree upon with such consumers; but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, and the parties of the second part shall be at liberty to obtain the same from such other sources as they may find available.

3. A statement shall be rendered by said parties of the second part to the party of the first part on or before the fifteenth day of each month, showing the amount of receipts during the previous month and the amount of outstanding and uncollected bills.

Payments hereunder shall be made by the parties of the second part to the party of the first part upon the fifteenth day of each month for the party of the first part's percentage of all collections made during the previous month. In order to enable the party of the first part to verify the correctness of payments made by the parties of the second part, the party of the first part shall have the right, through its duly appointed representatives, at all times during ordinary business hours, to have such access to such of the 706 books of the parties of the second part as may be necessary to enable it to verify the gas sales of the parties of the second part and the amounts and dates of collection for the same.

4. The parties of the second part hereby agree to have at least fifty (50) miles of their mains prepared and ready to receive and distribute natural gas not later than twelve (12) months after the passage, approval and acceptance of said ordinance, and the balance of their mains laid as rapidly thereafter as their system can be adapted for the purposes, and by advertising, solicitation and all other ordinary methods in vogue with enterprising gas companies to encourage and increase their business. Provided that if the work of making said fifty miles of mains so prepared and ready or laying the balance thereof shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or legal process of any kind against the parties of the second part, or with whom they may contract for the performance of such work, or by labor strike or any cause beyond the control of the parties of the second part or such other persons, the time consumed by such prevention, hindrance or delay shall not be considered any part of the time provided for herein for the completion of such work, and the time provided for herein for such completion shall be correspondingly extended for a like period or periods.

5. It is further covenanted and agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part will not supply manufacturers at a greater pressure than four (4) ounces at the meter; provided, that if the pressure of gas at the meter is greater than four (4) ounces per square inch, the volume of gas shall be corrected to four (4) ounces pressure and charged to the consumer at the corrected volume.

707 6. It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the parties hereto that all gas sold shall be supplied through meters of approved design, that such meters shall be read and inspected once each month, and shall be kept in such working order and efficiency by the parties of the second part that each meter shall register as nearly accurately as possible the amount of gas passed through it; that the parties of the second part will at all times permit the officers or authorized agents of the party of the first part to inspect their mains, pipes, regulators, meters and appliances for the purpose of verifying their monthly statements as herein provided, and for the purpose of determining the condition of said mains, pipes, regulators, meters and other appliances; and further, that said parties of the second part will forward to the party of the first part a monthly record of the number of contracts made and cancelled, and the number of meters set, connected and discontinued, together with the total number of consumers at the end of each month, and will make and keep at their office a copy of such contracts, together with a full and complete record of the same, and of all meters used; and it shall be the duty of the parties of the second part to keep and maintain their distributing system in good order and condition.

7. It is further covenanted and agreed that the parties of the second part shall not be liable to the party of the first part for any portion of their receipts from the city of Kansas City, Missouri, for street lamps, so far as the present twenty-eight hundred (2800) street lamps are concerned, and as to any additional number it is hereby agreed that ten thousand (10,000) cubic feet per lamp per annum, 708 at fifteen (15) cents per thousand cubic feet, shall be the agreed upon proportion of the receipts of said parties of the second part from that source on which the percentage of the party of the first part for gas shall be reckoned. The party of the first part agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for use in the present twenty-eight hundred (2800) street lamp posts, and to additional posts that may be set by the city at the rate of twenty-five hundred (2500) lamps for each two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants, should the city of Kansas City, Missouri, elect to take natural gas free and itself furnish and contract with others for the incandescent equipment, and for maintaining, repairing, cleaning, lighting and extinguishing. And the party of the first part further agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for lighting the City Hall, City Prison, and all city buildings in said city.

8. It is agreed between the parties hereto that if at any time during the period of said ordinance while the parties of the second part are buying from the party of the first part all the natural gas they are distributing and selling in the said city, the said party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall furnish any natural gas to any person or corporation for use in supplying said city or any of its inhabitants with such gas, otherwise than under this agreement, then, and in any such case, the provision contained in Section No. 2 hereof, in the following words, to-wit: "but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen 709 cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent., as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices," shall at once become inoperative and cease to have any effect, but the party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall be bound to supply and deliver to the parties of the second part natural gas to fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption in said city for sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent., as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part from the sale of natural gas in said city at any prices for which the said parties of the second part may choose to sell the same.

9. This agreement shall be binding upon the successors and assigns of the parties hereto.

10. It is understood and agreed that the parties of the second part may assign and convey this agreement and all their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder to a corporation, its successors and assigns, organized under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to take such assignment, and the party of the first part agrees that upon such assignment and acceptance thereof by such corporation, and written notice thereof to the party of the first part, accompanied by copies of the assignment and acceptance, the parties of the second part shall ipso facto be released from all obligations to the party of the first part hereunder; and the party of the first part further agrees to execute and deliver to the parties of the second part all such evidences of their release as they shall reasonably require.

710 In witness whereof the parties hereto have duly executed these presents the day and year first above written.

(On the Cover.)

Agreement Between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small, and Randal Morgan.

Dated December 3, 1906.

"11 This agreement shall, as between the parties hereto, and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, take the place of and stand instead of that certain other agreement, between the parties hereto, executed and delivered, November 17, 1906, but if the city of Kansas City shall acquire the gas plant, pipes and property of the grantees named in said ordinance No. 33887, then this agreement shall at once terminate and become void, and thereupon the said other agreement shall again come into force and effect as if this agreement had never been made."

712        This Agreement, made this 3rd day of December, 1906, between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, party of the first part, and Hugh J. McGowan, of Indianapolis, Indiana, Charles E. Small, of Kansas City, Missouri, and Randal Morgan, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, parties of the second part.

Whereas, the party of the first part is the owner of gas lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas and a pipe line for the conveying of natural gas from the gas fields in the State of Kansas to a point at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri, and is desirous of entering into a contract with the parties of the second part for the transportation and supply of natural gas to them;

And Whereas, the parties of the second part are the owners of an ordinance of the City of Kansas City, Missouri, granting the right to lay, acquire and maintain pipes in Kansas City, Missouri, for the purpose of supplying natural gas to said city and its inhabitants, copy of which ordinance is attached hereto marked "Exhibit No. 1," and desire to secure a supply of natural gas for the said city and its inhabitants.

Now, Therefore, in consideration of the mutuality hereof it is hereby agreed between the parties hereto as follows:

1. The party of the first part hereby agrees that it will during the period of such ordinance, or any extension or renewal thereof, or of any ordinance which may be obtained, either in the interest of the parties of the second part, or of their property, supply and deliver through its said pipe line or lines, to said parties of the second part, or any successor in the ownership of the property for the distribution of gas for Kansas City, Missouri, at a pressure of twenty (20) pounds at the point of delivery above mentioned, natural gas in such

713        amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption, as provided in this contract, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned. However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under his contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all consumers.

2. It is hereby agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part may make special contracts for the sale of natural gas for manufacturing purposes in said city at lower rates than those specified in said ordinance, and that they shall and will make such special contracts in accordance with their agreement to that effect contained in Section 13 of said ordinance, copy of which is hereto attached.

In order to protect the domestic trade, however, the parties of the second part may, without notice, if the supply of natural gas shall make it necessary to do so, reduce the amount of such gas to be furnished under any such special contracts or entirely stop the supply of the same, and the agreement of the party of the first part 714 herein to furnish a full supply of natural gas shall not apply to such gas to be sold for manufacturing purposes if the same shall impair its ability to furnish a full supply under this contract as to pressure, etc., for the domestic trade, excepting, however, that the parties of the second part shall always have a right to sell natural gas to manufacturers at the same rates and under the same terms and conditions as to domestic consumers, and the parties of the second part agree that any contract they make to furnish gas to manufacturers shall contain provisions by which the parties of the second part may without notice diminish the amount of gas supplied under such contract or entirely stop the same.

So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the parties of the second part agree to buy from the party of the first part all the gas they may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said city and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas which they shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent. of their gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said city of Kansas City, Missouri, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent. of such gross receipts. The parties of the second part make no agreement with the party of the first part respecting the rates at which they shall sell natural gas to any consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, but expressly reserve to themselves the right to charge their consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance which they may agree upon with such consumers but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or, except in compliance with their agreement to that 715 effect contained in said Section 13 of said ordinance, to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent., as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, and the parties of the second part shall be at liberty to obtain the same from such other source as they may find available.

3. A statement shall be rendered by said parties of the second part to the party of the first part on or before the fifteenth day of each month, showing the amount of receipts during the previous month and the amount of outstanding and uncollected bills.

Payments hereunder shall be made by the parties of the second part to the party of the first part upon the fifteenth day of each month for the party of the first part's percentage of all collections made during the previous month. In order to enable the party of the first part to verify the correctness of payments made by the parties of the second part, the party of the first part shall have the right, through its duly appointed representatives, at all times during ordinary business hours, to have such access to such books of the parties of the second part as may be necessary to enable it to verify the gas sales of the parties of the second part and the amounts and dates of collection for the same.

4. The parties of the second part hereby agree that they will

(1) on or before January 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas on not less than seventy-five miles
716 of mains to all consumers thereon who desire the same, and who have complied with their reasonable rules and regulations; and (2) on or before March 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas on not less than fifty additional miles of mains to all consumers thereon who may desire the same and have complied with said reasonable rules and regulations; and (3) on or before August 1, 1907, be ready to furnish and be furnishing natural gas to all present consumers on the lines of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company who may desire the same and who have complied with said reasonable rules and regulations; provided that the parties of the second part shall not be required to furnish patrons from circulating mains; and by advertising, solicitation and all other ordinary methods in vogue with enterprising gas companies to encourage and increase their business. Provided that if the commencement of work or the laying of pipes by the parties of the second part necessary for the furnishing of gas to consumers as herein agreed, or the laying of pipes inside or outside the city or the delivering of natural gas at or within the corporate limits of the city by the parties of the second part or by any persons with whom they may contract for their supply of natural gas, shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or legal process of any kind against the parties of the second part or such other persons, or by inclement days or by labor strikes, or by any cause beyond the control of the parties of the second part or such other persons, or if the acquisition of the ownership, use or control of the pipes and property of the Kansas City Missouri Gas Company provided for in said ordinance hereto attached shall be prevented, hindered or delayed by injunction or other legal proceedings, the time consumed by such prevention, hindrance or delay shall not be considered any part of the times provided for 717 herein for supplying natural gas in the city, as required hereby, and the times provided for herein for furnishing gas to consumers shall be correspondingly extended for a like period or periods.

5. It is further covenanted and agreed between the parties hereto that the parties of the second part will not supply manufacturers at a greater pressure than four (4) ounces at the meter; provided, that if the pressure of gas at the meter is greater than four (4) ounces per square inch, the volume of gas shall be corrected to four (4) ounces pressure and charged to the consumer at the corrected volume.

6. It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the parties hereto that all gas sold shall be supplied through meters of approved design, that such meters shall be read and inspected once each month, and shall be kept in such working order and efficiency by the parties of the second part that each meter shall register as nearly accurately as possible the amount of gas passed through it; that the parties of the second part will at all times permit the officers or authorized agents of the party of the first part to inspect their mains, pipes, regulators, meters and appliances for the purpose of verifying their monthly statements as herein provided, and for the purpose of determining the condition of said mains, pipes, regulators, meters and other appliances; and further, that said parties of the second part will forward to the party of the first part a monthly record of the number of contracts made and cancelled, and the number of meters set, connected and disconnected, together with the total number of consumers at the end of each month, and will make and keep at their office a copy of such contracts, together with a full and complete record of the same, and of all meters used; and it shall be the duty of the parties of the second part to keep and maintain their distributing system in good order and condition.

7. It is further covenanted and agreed that the parties of the second part shall not be liable to the party of the first part for any portion of their receipts from the city of Kansas City, Missouri, for street lamps, so far as the street lamp posts, or an equivalent number, set and in place on September 27, 1906, (the date of the passage and approval of said ordinance) are concerned, and as to any additional number it is hereby agreed that ten thousand (10,000) cubic feet per lamp per annum, at fifteen (15) cents per thousand cubic feet, shall be the agreed upon proportion of the receipts of said parties of the second part from that source on which the percentage of the party of the first part for gas shall be reckoned. The party of the first part agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for use in the said street lamp posts, or an equivalent number, set and in place on said September 27, 1906, and to additional posts that may be set by the city at the rate of one hundred (100) lamps for each eight thousand (8,000) inhabitants, over and above two hundred thousand (200,000) inhabitants, population to be calculated for the purpose on the basis of two and one-half times the number of names shown by the city directory having the largest circulation including the names of business firms, should the city of Kansas City, Missouri, elect to take natural gas free and itself furnish or contract with others for the incandescent equipment, and for maintaining, repairing, cleaning, lighting and extinguishing.

And the party of the first part further agrees to furnish natural gas to the parties of the second part free of charge for lighting the City Hall, City Prison, and all city buildings in said city.

719 8. It is agreed between the parties hereto that if at any time during the period of said ordinance while the parties of the second part are buying from the party of the first part all the natural gas they are distributing and selling in the said city, the said party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall furnish any natural gas to any person or corporation for use in supplying said city or any of its inhabitants with such gas, otherwise than under this agreement, then, and in any such case, the provision contained in Section No. 2 hereof, in the following words, to-wit: "but if they shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or, except in compliance with their agreement to that effect contained in said Section 13 of said ordinance, to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent., as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices," shall at once become inoperative and cease to have any effect but the party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall be bound to supply and deliver to the parties of the second part natural gas to fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption in said city for sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent., as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the parties of the second part from the sale of natural gas in said city at any prices for which the said parties of the second part may choose to sell the same.

720 9. The parties of the second part shall have the right, authority and power to bargain, grant, sell, assign, transfer, set over, mortgage, pledge or otherwise convey this agreement and all their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder; and they agree that they will, on or before December 31, 1907, assign and convey this agreement and all of their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder to a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri and competent to take such assignment, and that such corporation shall thereupon accept such assignment and the party of the first part agrees that upon such assignment and acceptance, and written notice thereof to the party of the first part, accompanied by a copy of the assignment, and by a copy of the acceptance, the parties of the second part shall ipso facto be released from all obligations to the party of the first part hereunder; and the party of the first part further agrees to execute and deliver to the parties of the second part all such evidences of their release as they may reasonably require. The said corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, and its successors and assigns, shall also have the right, authority and power, to bargain, grant, sell, assign, transfer, set over, mortgage, pledge or otherwise convey this agreement and all its or their rights, titles and interests hereto, herein and hereunder.

10. This agreement shall be binding upon the successors and assigns of the parties hereto.

11. This agreement shall, as between the parties hereto, and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, take the place of and stand instead of that certain other agreement, between the parties hereto, executed and delivered, November 17,

1906, but if the city of Kansas City shall acquire the gas plant, pipes and property of the grantees named in said ordinance No. 33887, then this agreement shall at once terminate and become void, and thereupon the said other agreement shall again come into force and effect as if this agreement had never been made.

In witness whereof the parties hereto have duly executed these presents the day and year first above written.

EXHIBIT "D."

In the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas.

No. 13476.

THE STATE OF KANSAS, Plaintiff,

vs.

THE INDEPENDENCE GAS COMPANY, THE CONSOLIDATED GAS, OIL & MANUFACTURING COMPANY, Kansas Natural Gas Company et al.,
Defendants.

Stipulation.

Dated December 17; filed December 29, 1914.

[Erroneously denominated "Creditors' Agreement" on the cover of a printed copy issued by the Receiver.]

It is stipulated and agreed, by and between the parties hereto, as follows, to-wit:

First. That the jurisdiction of this court to have possession, control and management through its receivers of the property and assets of the Kansas Natural Gas Company rests upon section 1728 of the General Statutes of Kansas of 1909 and other laws of the state of Kansas, the pleadings filed herein and the orders and decrees of the United States District Court for the District of Kansas and of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the Eighth Circuit; that the receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company appointed herein and ancillary hereto may continue in the possession, control and operation of said Kansas Natural property and assets as hereinafter provided and said case conducted and finally concluded as contemplated by said section 1728 and other laws in the interest, first, of the public service, second, of the creditors, and third, of the stockholders and the company.

727      Second. That all amended and supplemental petitions in the above entitled case in so far as they charge or attempt to charge the defendants The United Gas Improvement Company, Wyandotte County Gas Company, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, The Kansas City Gas Company and The Marnet Mining Company with acts subjecting them to penalties, are hereby withdrawn, in so far as they demand the assessment and collection of penalties from said defendants or either of them; all proceedings against the other defendants may continue.

It is agreed that the said receivers for The Wyandotte County Gas Company shall continue until April 1, 1915, unless the Court shall sooner terminate the same; that the receivers for The Marnet Mining Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company shall continue until such a time as it may appear to the Court advisable and to the best interest of the estate that such receivership be discontinued.

It is further agreed that the maintenance of the said receivership of Wyandotte County Gas Company from and after January 1, 1915, is continued for the benefit and in the interest of the general estate of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that the costs of said receivership, including the salary of Willard J. Briedenthal, the active receiver in charge of said property, shall be paid out of the business of The Wyandotte County Gas Company, but the salary of John F. Overfield, co-receiver with said Willard J. Briedenthal, and all counsel fees of said receivers hereafter allowed and paid, shall be paid out of the general estate of Kansas Natural Gas Company.

It is further agreed that the continuation of the receivers of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and The Marnet Mining 728      Company from and after January 1, 1915, is in the interest of and for the benefit of the general estate of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and all expenses of each of said receiverships, including the salary of receivers and counsel fees, shall be paid out of the general estate of Kansas Natural Gas Company.

Three. All parties hereto and intervenors herein, including the lienholders, creditors and stockholders, the state of Kansas and the receivers, agree that the business in which the properties involved in this suit and the custody of this court are used, to-wit: The production, transportation and sale of natural gas, is a public utility business of an extra hazardous and temporary character; that the return of the capital investment in said business and properties, with interest, must be provided during the life expectancy of the business; that the life expectancy, in the opinion of experts of said business, as it now exists, is not exceeding six years; that the creditors and lienholders against the property devoted to public use in said business, consent to the deferring of their right to foreclose and assert their several claims against said property, legal and equitable, and to have execution therefor, only upon the condition that their said investments and claims be returned with interest within said six year period, or so much thereof as will properly secure the return of the balance; that the creditors and lienholders consent that said property may be operated by the receivers appointed by this court not as pending the foreclosure and sale of said property in their behalf, but as enabling said property to serve the public with natural gas for the period named, in the interest of the public and in the interest of the Company in which the legal title to said property is now lodged; that upon such condition and consideration, all parties hereto consent and agree that the receivers of this court, for and on behalf 729 of and in the name of the legal and equitable owners of said property, may, as expeditiously as possible and whenever deemed advisable by the court, make such application and showing to the Public Utilities Commission of the state of Kansas, and other public authorities, as may to the court and its receivers be deemed proper, and all parties hereto hereby tender to the court and the receivers all the aid, assistance and information in their possession and under their control, for the purposes of said application and hearing.

Four. Upon due notice and opportunity to be heard, the court shall determine the rights of The Independence Manufacturing and Power Company.

Five. That the creditors and lienholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company consent that $500,000.00 may be reserved during the year 1915, out of current earnings for said year and $200,000.00 annually thereafter during the receivership for extensions, betterments and additional gas supply; the same to be expended only by order of court after notice to the creditors or their committee and opportunity to be heard, and upon condition that the properties are being operated upon a compensatory rate; and said creditors may appoint a committee consisting of three members, one for the Kansas Natural first mortgage bondholders, one for the Kansas Natural second mortgage bondholders and one for The Kansas City Pipe Line bondholders, who shall aid and assist the court and receivers with all proper facts and proofs concerning said extensions and betterments.

Six. That the court upon notice and opportunity to be heard, may allow and pay reasonable sums out of Kansas Natural trust funds on hand, in full payment and satisfaction of all court costs in 730 said court, receivers' and counsel fees, charges and expenses of all receivers of all companies and of all counsel in the case, either for plaintiff or the receivers, to January 1, 1915. All orders as to allowances and payments referred to in this paragraph shall, as by agreement, be final and conclusive.

Seven. That the balance of cash in the hands of the receivers on January 1, 1915 (less $100,000.00 retained as working capital) may be distributed as follows:

(a) To the payment in full of past due and accrued interest to January 1, 1915, and $79,000.00 on the principal of the bonds of

The Marnet Mining Company now outstanding, the payment of the remaining $468,000.00 Marnet bonds to be extended and paid one-sixth annually as provided in section (a) paragraph 8, the intent hereof being to reduce the annual sinking fund requirements of the receivers after January 1, 1915, for said bonds from about $200,000.00 to $78,000.00; Provided, that none of said payments either under this section or under section (a) of paragraph 8, shall be allowed or applied upon the bonds of said company owned by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and held as collateral security by the Fidelity Title & Trust Company;

(b) To the payment of $256,000.00 in full of interest due and accrued to January 1, 1915, on Kansas Natural first mortgage bonds, and $334,483.83 in full of interest due and accrued to January 1, 1915, on Kansas City Pipe Line first mortgage bonds, not including twenty-five bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, as follows:

Bonds numbered.	Series.	Due.	Amount.
2201—2203	F	February 1, 1913.....	$3,000.00
2751—2753	G	February 1, 1914.....	3,000.00
3301—3302	H	February 1, 1915.....	2,000.00
3851—3858	I	February 1, 1916.....	8,000.00
4251—4258	J	February 1, 1917.....	8,000.00
4651	K	February 1, 1918.....	1,000.00

731 interest on which is also to be paid on the best terms obtainable.

(c) The balance on hand January 1, 1915, shall be distributed fifty per cent. to the Kansas Natural first mortgage bondholders and fifty per cent. to the Kansas City Pipe Line bondholders (not including the twenty-five Kansas City Pipe Line first mortgage bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, of the numbers and series hereinabove specified) and applied to the retirement of said bonds at a rate corresponding with the terms of adjustment of their respective claims on that date as herein set forth; that is to say, the outstanding first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company being $1,600,000.00 par as of said date, after payment of said interest; on the $1,600,000.00 bonds now outstanding there is now in the hands of the trustee the sum of $166,666.66, with interest, which on payment of the sum to be distributed under this stipulation, is to be added to such sum and the $1,600,000.00 reduced by the aggregate of the two sums, and said first mortgage bondholders, when such payment on principal is made, shall surrender for cancellation, first mortgage bonds in said proportions corresponding to the amount of said payment; and it is further understood and agreed that the first mortgage bonds represent the full face value thereof, paid into the treasury of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that the balance January 1, 1915, due thereon is the sum of $1,856,000.00, of which sum $256,000.00 is the interest and $1,600,000.00, less the above mentioned sum with interest now in the hands of the Kansas Natural first mortgage trustee is the unpaid principal, and that in all computations and agreements herein, and in all actions that may hereafter be taken, such computation and balance shall be final between all 732 the parties, their privies, successors and assigns; and the outstanding bonds of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, being $2,520,000.00 par (not including the twenty-five Kansas City Pipe Line Company first mortgage bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, of the numbers and series hereinabove specified) and the balance of indebtedness owing upon said $2,520,000.00 par of bonds, as of said date, after payment of said interest, being, for the purpose of this stipulation, $1,677,875.43, the holders of said $2,520,000.00 bonds when such payment is made, shall surrender for cancellation, first mortgage bonds of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company in said proportion corresponding to the amount of such payment. Payment of the said twenty-five bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, shall be made by the receivers upon the best terms obtainable.

Eight. That all the net earnings and other available funds of the receivers, in each year, after January 1, 1915, over and above all taxes and necessary operating expenses and the allowances for betterments and gas purchases provided for in paragraph 6 hereof, shall be applied and distributed in the following order, to-wit:

(a) To the payment of interest when due and $78,000.00 annually on the principal of the bonds of The Marnet Mining Company outstanding after the payments provided for in section (a), paragraph 7 hereof.

(b) To the payment of interest when due on all the outstanding first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the payment, semi-annually (February 1 and August 1) of the interest on the indebtedness due to The Kansas City Pipe Line Company bondholders, as calculated and ascertained for the purposes of this stipulation (not including the twenty-five Kansas City Pipe 733 Line first mortgage bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, of the numbers and series hereinabove specified).

(c) To the payment of the Kansas Natural Gas Company first mortgage bondholders, and on the indebtedness due the Kansas City Pipe Line bondholders (not including the twenty-five Kansas City Pipe Line first mortgage bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, of the numbers and series hereinabove specified) pro rata according to the amounts of Kansas Natural Gas Company first mortgage bonds at the time outstanding; and of the remaining indebtedness, as calculated and ascertained for the purposes of this stipulation, on the first mortgage bonds of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, not including the said twenty-five bonds above mentioned; Provided, that an amount equal to one-sixth of the sum of said Kansas Natural Gas Company outstanding first mortgage bonds and the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company indebtedness, after the distribution of January 1, 1915, shall be paid annually.

(d) To the payment of interest coupons of Kansas Natural Gas Company second mortgage bonds as the same shall mature after January 1, 1915, at the rate of seventy-five per cent. of the face value thereof.

(c) The balance of said net earnings, and other available funds, to be applied to payment of Kansas Natural Gas Company first mortgage bonds and the indebtedness due the Kansas City Pipe Line bondholders, as ascertained for the purposes of this stipulation (not including the twenty-five Kansas City Pipe Line Company first mortgage bonds held by R. M. Snyder, Jr., or his assigns, of the numbers and series hereinbefore specified), in the same proportion and to the same end as provided in section (c) of this paragraph.

734 (f) After payment in full shall have been made to the Kansas Natural and the Kansas City Pipe Line first mortgage bondholders, of all said bonds and indebtedness, then all said net earnings shall be applied to the payment of outstanding interest coupons of the said second mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company due on and before January 1, 1915, and to any such interest coupons as may mature and remain unpaid after that date, the interest coupons due on and before January 1, 1915, to bear interest from said date at the rate of six per cent. per annum;

(g) After the fulfillment of the requirements of the foregoing sections of this paragraph, then the said net earnings are to be applied to the payment and retirement of the second mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company at the rate of seventy-five per cent. of their par value, until said bonds are paid and retired at said rate, it being understood that the par value of said outstanding second mortgage bonds as of January 1, 1915, is $2,267,000.00.

(h) It is understood and agreed that upon fulfillment of the requirements of section (a), (b) and (c) of paragraph 7, and section (a), (b) and (c) of paragraph 8, then and thereupon:

(I) All The Marnet Mining Company bonds and all other collateral now held by the trustee of the first mortgage bonds are to be delivered to trustee of second mortgage bonds of Kansas Natural Gas Company.

(II) All the shares of capital stock of The Marnet Mining Company held by the owners of the said $2,520,000.00, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company bonds, to-wit: 2,145 shares, are to be assigned, transferred and delivered to the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

735 (III) All the first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company are to be surrendered and canceled.

(IV) All the shares of the capital stock of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company held by the owners of the bonds of said Company, to-wit: 22,250 shares, are to be assigned, transferred and delivered to the Kansas Natural Gas Company; and all the pipe lines, compressors, leases, properties and assets of every kind and description owned or standing in the name of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company shall be duly assigned, sold, transferred and conveyed to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, thus vesting in it title to all the property of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company which shall thereupon pass under and become subject to the lien of the Kansas Natural second mortgage bonds.

(i) It is understood and agreed that upon fulfillment of the requirements of section (g) of paragraph 8, 15,000 shares of Kansas

Natural Gas stock now held by the owners of the hereinbefore mentioned $2,520,000.00 Kansas City Pipe Line bonds are to be surrendered to the treasurer of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and canceled.

(j) It is further stipulated that pending the performance of this agreement, the holders of said $2,520,000.00 first mortgage bonds of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company shall deposit with The Kansas Trust Company, of Kansas City, Kansas, as Trustee, the said 2,145 shares of stock of The Marnet Mining Company, the said 22,250 shares of stock of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and said 15,000 shares of stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, to be held by the said trustee under the terms of this agreement, and to be delivered to the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or its lawful representative, upon performance of the terms hereof; that 736 is, said 2,145 shares of Marnet Mining stock are to be delivered upon performance of sections (a) of paragraphs 7 and 8, and said 22,250 shares of Kansas City Pipe Line stock are to be delivered upon performance of sections (b) and (c) of paragraphs 7 and 8; and said 15,000 shares of Kansas Natural stock are to be delivered upon performance of section (i) of paragraph 8.

(k) In as much as some holders of second mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company are unknown and cannot be located and other holders may be unwilling to reduce the face of their bonds to $750.00, and provision for the present payment of certain interest on the said bonds was inserted herein to induce holders thereof to reduce the face of their bonds, it is now stipulated and agreed that no interest shall be paid upon any bond and no holder thereof shall be entitled to such interest unless and until he shall sign a written receipt therefor in a form which shall refer to this stipulation and obligate the signer to the terms hereof and particularly to the reduction of the face of his bonds to $750.00 each. Upon his signing such a receipt, he shall be entitled to all rights of a second mortgage bondholder hereunder and to be paid interest thereon according to the terms hereof. All payments hereunder, of interest on second mortgage bonds shall be made only at the office of Kansas Natural Gas Company, at Independence, Kansas, and upon the surrender of the corresponding interest coupons and not otherwise.

Nine. It is further stipulated and agreed that the Court may order the calling of a meeting of the stockholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and a vote to be taken upon the proposition of reducing the issued and outstanding capital stock of said Company from $12,000,000.00 par value to $6,000,000.00 par 737 value for the purpose of reducing the capitalization of said Company to the physical value of the property and assets, as found by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas; said $6,000,000.00 par value of capital stock being the value of said properties so found by the Commission in excess of the lien indebtedness upon said property and the property of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, which latter shall be, when and as provided under this stipulation, merged in and become a part of the Kansas Natural properties; that the above reduction shall be made by an amendment to the Company's charter, reducing the par value of the shares of stock of the Company from $100.00, the present par value, to $50.00 per share; that the stockholders hereto subscribing agree to vote at said stockholders' meeting for the aforesaid reduction of capital stock, and to do, perform and take such other acts and proceedings as may be necessary under the laws of the domicile of said corporation to effect the reduction of the outstanding stock of said company as aforesaid.

Ten. The property and business of Kansas Natural Gas Company, The Marnet Mining Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company remain under the control of this Court through its receivership until the indebtedness of the first mortgage bondholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and bondholders of The Marnet Mining Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as hereinbefore determined and provided, shall be paid, and then all property of Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company shall be delivered over to directors chosen by stockholders of Kansas Natural Gas Company at an election to be ordered by the Court; and the property of The Marnet Mining Company shall be delivered over to the directors of said The Marnet Mining 738 Company; provided further that the court may discharge said receivership and conclude said cause at an earlier date.

Eleven. In determining the total amounts payable to The Kansas City Pipe Line Company bondholders and the Kansas Natural first and second mortgage bondholders, said amounts being as hereinbefore stated, the basis of computation was to ascertain how far such bonds represent money or value actually received and expended in or upon the properties of said Companies deducting therefrom all payments and credits heretofore made upon said bonds and allowing interest on the balance at six per cent. per annum; and all bondholders, creditors and claimants upon the trust estate or funds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or The Kansas City Pipe Line Company consented to said basis of computation in the settlement and payment of their respective bonds, claims and demands against said Companies or their estates under this stipulation.

Twelve. It is agreed that the rights of all creditors and parties to this and other pending suits shall during the administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company pursuant to this stipulation, remain in statu quo (except as herein fixed as to the fact that the first mortgage bonds have been paid for at one hundred cents on the dollar, and the balance due thereon is correctly ascertained and determined), and the payment of interest due upon the first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or the payment of principal upon said bonds, shall not be deemed or construed to be a waiver of the default heretofore declared upon said bonds under the terms of the mortgage securing the same; and in the event of the inability of said properties to earn the requirements to carry out the provisions or to make the payments provided for herein, 739 and after a default in said payments for one year then the rights of all creditors may after said default be resumed and prosecuted with the same force and effect as of the date of this stipulation, leave of Court thereto having been duly obtained; provided, that any and all claims and demands of personal liability against the receivers of the Federal Court in the case of John L. McKinney v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., and the case of The Fidelity Title and Trust Company et al. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., or against their bondsmen or the plaintiffs in said suits for a personal judgment are hereby waived and shall be withdrawn in said suits; but any and all claims against the Kansas Natural Gas Company or against the estate or funds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Federal Receivers in their official capacity as receivers shall continue and remain in full force and effect until the payments provided for within six years of the date hereof are fully made; and provided further, that any and all payments made to any such claimants pursuant to the provisions of this stipulation, shall, in the event of default, under paragraphs 7 and 8 hereof, be credited upon said claims respectively and no refunding of said payments shall be required of any of said claimants receiving payments under and pursuant to this stipulation; the creditors reserve the right at any time hereafter for good cause and upon proper showing that said properties are being operated at a loss or that the security is being materially repaired or wasted or that the statute of limitations is about to run against any of their said rights, claims or evidences of indebtedness, to intervene and interplead herein and preserve said rights or to submit a plan to this Court for approval for the liquidation of the indebtedness of said Kansas Natural 740 Gas Company and the final winding up of its affairs and concerns in conformity with section 1728, General Statutes of 1909 and the law in such case made and provided.

EXHIBIT "F."

Plans and Suggestions for a Reasonable Supply of Gas to the Cities on the Kansas Natural Gas Company System.

By Henry L. Doherty &amp; Co., June 15, 1916.

To the Governor, the Attorney General, and Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas:

Referring to our interview with you on the 13th inst. and to your request that we submit to you in writing our plans and suggestions looking to the rehabilitation of the Kansas Natural Gas Company property and the restoration of a reasonably adequate supply of natural gas to the cities and towns in Kansas and Missouri dependent upon that system, we now submit the following:

The mortgage indebtedness against the Kansas Natural Gas Company properties owned and leased is as follows:

Kansas Natural Gas Company, First Mortgage Bonds .....	$428,800.00 face amt.
Kansas Natural Gas Company, Second Mortgage Bonds .....	2,267,000.00 face amt.
Kansas City Pipe Line Company, First Mortgage Bonds .....	1,386,000.00 face amt.
Marnet Mining Company, First Mortgage Bonds .....	292,000.00 face amt.
Total .....	$4,373,800.00 face amt.

We have been in negotiation with various holders of the above bonds and have arranged to acquire more than 75 per cent of the total outstanding bonds, and we are negotiating for additional large amounts of bonds.

Our purpose in acquiring the above bonds is to bring the properties covered by the mortgages to foreclosure sale as expeditiously as possible and to bid therefor at the sale. If we shall acquire the 743 properties, we will consolidate or combine or connect them with the properties of other corporations in Kansas and Oklahoma in which we are interested, to the end of augmenting the supply of natural gas and of supplying the quantities hereinafter mentioned. But we are unwilling to take any steps to those ends, except upon the conditions hereinafter mentioned.

It appears from the statements of the Kansas Natural Gas Company that on December 31, 1914, there were approximately 115,000 domestic consumers in the cities and towns dependent upon the system, located on the lines north of and including Ottawa, Kansas. Of these domestic consumers 43,589 were in the State of Kansas and 71,906 in the State of Missouri. The following is a tabulation showing the names of the cities in both Kansas and Missouri located on the lines north of and including Ottawa and the number of consumers in each city as of December 31, 1914:

Since December 31, 1914, there has been a constant gradual increase in the number of consumers and it is estimated that during the year and a half elapsed since that date the number has increased something like four or five per cent, so that there are now doubtless approximately 120,000 households in the cities mentioned above dependent upon the Kansas Natural system for natural gas.

To furnish a reasonably adequate supply to this number of consumers north of and including Ottawa, Kansas, it will be necessary to provide approximately one hundred million cubic feet of gas available for consumption at and north of Ottawa, Kansas, for the maximum day's consumption. In addition to these 120,000 consumers, there are located south of Ottawa, Kansas, along what is known as the northern trunk line, and on the southern trunk line to Joplin and the field lines, 26,456 additional domestic consumers to be provided for as of December 31, 1914, as follows:

It will require, to give a reasonably adequate supply to these consumers on the coldest day, approximately 20 million cubic feet 746 actually available for consumption on the maximum day.

This is exclusive of such gas as is consumed in the compressor stations or unaccounted for in transportation, which may be estimated at 20 million cubic feet per day, making a total required supply to be delivered into the mains to provide a reasonably adequate service to all of the domestic consumers on the system of 140 million cubic feet of gas on the maximum day, tabulated as follows:

Ottawa and north thereof .....	100 million c. f.
Balance of the system .....	20 million c. f.
Fuel and unaccounted for .....	20 million c. f.
Total .....	<hr/> 140 million c. f.

During the period of the receivership the quantity of gas produced has continuously declined, and the outlook for the future is for further reduced supply, unless great expenditures can be made to reach large fields distant and now unavailable to this plant. The plant as at present equipped and in its present condition cannot deliver north of Ottawa, Kansas, to exceed 60 to 70 million cubic feet maximum per day. At one time in the past, before the Scipio and part of the Petrolia stations and about 17 miles of 16-inch main trunk line were removed to Oklahoma to extend the plant southerly, the capacity of this northern division was 100 million cubic feet or more per maximum day, and a supply of 100 million cubic feet per day cannot now be delivered at Ottawa without the restoration of these stations or of additional new line to effect the same purpose.

To accomplish this will require the expenditure of at least $500,-

000 to replace the stations or lay suitable extra lines. To repair the present lines so as to put them in good condition to safely 747 carry higher pressure and operate under the necessary conditions to give reasonably adequate service will require the expenditure of $350,000, making a total estimated expenditure of $850,000 for the rehabilitation of the plant in Kansas north of Grabham Station. After this necessary rehabilitation of the existing plant in Kansas, other investments must be made in completing the installation of the present plant in Oklahoma and the extension of new lines, including compressor stations, to reach distant fields to secure the necessary supply for the reasonable service above mentioned.

Of the 140 million cubic feet of gas required for the maximum day, not over 20 million cubic feet can reasonably be expected under present conditions to be obtained along the present lines in the state of Kansas; and fully 120 million cubic feet must be had from Oklahoma as the only reasonable source of supply. Of this 120 million not more than 50 million feet can be secured and transported on the maximum day from the present Oklahoma plant, even after its installation is completed as outlined herein, and at this time there is much less than 50 million cubic feet available to the present Oklahoma line for next winter. However, we assume that this 50 million can be procured by laying additional lines and making the necessary additions to the Owasso compressor station. We estimate that to obtain and transport this 50 million cubic feet of gas daily from Owasso Station north will require an expenditure of $500,000. This quantity, together with 20 million cubic feet to be procured along the main line in Kansas, as above suggested, would provide 70 million of the 140 million necessary as above stated, or just one-half, leaving the other 70 million to be procured from other sources.

748 We agree with the testimony of Mr. Landon that the nearest available source of supply for this additional 70 million cubic feet per day is the Blackwell field in Kay county, Oklahoma—distant 90 miles from the nearest available point on the Kansas Natural line. It will be advisable to carry this gas to the Grabham Station before entering the main lines, a total distance of 100 miles. There are approximately ten miles of 16-inch parallel main running south from the Grabham Station, and the reasonable point of connection to the present plant would be at the southern extremity of these parallel lines, leaving approximately 90 miles of new line to be constructed to the Blackwell field.

In order to deliver 70 million cubic feet of natural gas at Grabham Station at pressures at which that station can handle the quantity passing there through, it is necessary to install 90 miles of 18-inch trunk line from the Blackwell field and to install a compressor station of not less than 4,000 effective horse power midway on said line. In addition to this there must be installed the necessary gathering lines, meters, gates, valves, fittings, etc.

The construction of such a line in time for next winter's service is entirely out of the question, on account of the impossibility of securing deliveries of pipe and materials from the mills in their present crowded condition. Such pipe is not carried in stock and is not available elsewhere as secondhand material. New pipe at this time is very expensive. Twelve-inch line which we are now purchasing and which normally is of relatively lower cost than this 18-inch pipe and much easier obtainable is now selling at four cents per pound delivered in Kansas in large quantities. The 18-inch pipe for this line to withstand the pressure necessary to deliver these quantities weighs approximately 70 pounds per foot and will cost to construct per mile as follows:

Pipe, 70 lbs. @ 4c.....	$2.80 per foot
Hauling and laying .....	.50 per foot
Couplers per ft. of pipe.....	.35
Rights of way, damages, superintendence.....	.10 per foot
River crossings, railroad crossings, gates, valves, fittings, drips, etc. ....	.25 per foot
Telephone line .....	.04 per foot
<hr/>
Total .....	$4.04 per foot, or $21,330.00 per mile.
90 miles of 18-inch line at $21,330 per mile.....	$1,920,000.00
4,000 horsepower compressor station at $80 per h. p. ....	320,000.00
Total .....	$2,240,000.00

In addition to the station, but included in the price thereof, are the necessary dwelling houses for operatives, coolers, water system, real estate, etc., all distant from the railroad in the rough Osage country, entailing heavy hauling and other expense.

With this installation made, there is no reasonable question but that this plant can furnish the supply as herein stated, entailing the total expenditure as follows:

Rehabilitation of plant in Kansas.....	$ 850,000.00
Completion of Owasso Station and pipe lines in connection with the present Oklahoma line.....	500,000.00
Extension of 18-inch line and stations to Blackwell..	2,240,000.00
Total .....	$3,590,000.00

Upon completion of this installation and placing same in operation, we then have a plant that is dependent absolutely upon outside producers for its entire supply, the company having no natural gas production owned by the company to assure continuity of service, either in the Blackwell field or the Oklahoma field, and the producers of this gas not only have no direct responsibility to provide gas as required to furnish a reasonably adequate service to the domestic consumers enumerated, but at best most of the 50 million cubic feet of southern Oklahoma production is excess gas after having provided the full requirements of large demand for domestic consumers, that gas being in reality nothing but the surplus after providing for the maximum day's demand on the part of their consumers, meaning that the larger quantity will be available for the Kansas Natural Gas Company in warm weather and the smaller quantity in cold weather, as has been proven by the statistics of deliveries during the past and previous winters, and as indicated by the following table:

Figured on a basis of 62,000 active meters in Kansas City, Missouri
18,000 active meters in Kansas City, Kansas.

80,000 active meters in the two cities.

As to the Blackwell field, the situation is not very much better, as the present large available supplies are practically all subject to prior contracts of the large smelting and other industries located or locating in that vicinity. Under these circumstances, prudent business judgment would not warrant the investment in the proposed lines, and it is a question whether under such conditions a reasonably adequate service can be furnished.

Without the ownership or absolute control of an ample production, the expenditure of such a line would be folly. And further, to base such a large expenditure upon any one pool is unreasonable and will ultimately defeat the object which is sought to be obtained.

The main lines of the Quapaw and Wichita Natural Gas Companies and Wichita Pipeline Company extend over a wide expanse of newly developed and prospective gas territory. These lines are so located with reference to the Kansas Natural system that a combination between them would give access to practically all of the important gas developments in the mid-continent field today, at a minimum expenditure for line extension and upon a basis which would permit a more efficient operation of all these lines and a better assurance of reasonably adequate service for both systems and the continuation thereof. Such a combination would make available large quantities of now parallel lines and equipment to permit the 752 necessary extensions chiefly with this material to provide the necessary supply, eliminating the delay of securing pipe and material from the mills in their present overcrowded condition.

It is with this point in view that we realize that we are in position to offer a feasible solution of the supply of gas for the Kansas Natural system.

Recognizing this, and with a view of acquiring the said Kansas Natural system on a basis that will permit the effecting of this result, we estimate that we can provide the plant necessary to furnish a reasonably adequate supply as herein outlined in time for this winter's business, if immediate action is taken to make it possible for us to do so.

To rehabilitate the present system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in Kansas will cost us approximately $850,000, the same amount as we estimate it would cost the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and in addition thereto we estimate it will necessitate an expenditure of $1,150,000 to make other necessary adjustments and extensions on our part to provide the supply herein stated, or a total estimated expenditure on our part for betterments of $2,000,000, provided immediate action is taken to make it possible for us to acquire the Kansas Natural property. We have arranged to finance this immediately as the money is required.

To assure you that we are in strong position for a supply of gas now and in the future, and are not dependent to great extent upon other operators on whom no responsibility rests, we need but say that our interests, now own and hold in excess of 700,000 acres of selected developed and reserve gas leases in Kansas and Oklahoma, and that it is our policy to produce ourselves from 60 to 75 per cent of the gas we supply.

753 It is also our policy to encourage the development of gas by other producers, providing them market, as advisable to assure conservation and to encourage the development of new territory by such operators as well as by ourselves.

It is recognized by all of the leading operators of the mid-continent field that our methods of locating and developing fields are probably the most modern, and our results based upon these methods have proven very successful in opening up new territory, and it is upon the same basis of geological study that the vast bulk of our lease was selected.

We have available today a number of new pools reasonably accessible to our pipeline system which have been proven, but to which no lines have yet been laid, but which are held in reserve.

In our plans for providing gas to take care of the Kansas Natural system, we wish it to be definitely understood that it will not in any manner interfere with our supply to the communities we are now serving, and we are now laying 25 miles of 12-inch main line to reach Wichita and that territory.

We have shown above that it would require the expenditure of $3,590,000 on the part of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receiver to furnish a reasonably adequate supply of gas, such supply, however, being very largely dependent upon gas procured from other operators, the sources not being under the control of the Company or its receiver.

We have also shown above that it would cost our interests not less than $2,000,000 to furnish the same supply, even with the advantage of being able to use material now in duplicate lines and equipment. Our supply, on the other hand, would, as shown 754 above, be to the extent of 60 to 75 per cent under our own control, and therefore not to so great an extent dependent upon other sources.

From the foregoing it is wholly obvious that the expenditure of $750,000, as recommended by the Federal Court in its recent opinion, would be entirely inadequate to make possible a reasonable supply of gas.

The conditions precedent to the Doherty interests undertaking to make the investment aforesaid, and connect their aforesaid lines, and furnish the aforesaid gas supply, are as follows:

1. That the Governor and the Attorney General of Kansas forthwith cause the State's anti-trust suit to be dismissed and the receivers therein discharged.

2. That the Governor and the Attorney General and the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas forthwith issue a statement that the physical connection, consolidation and combination, and the unity of ownership or management or control of all the present pipelines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, Marnet Mining Company, Quapaw Gas Company, Wichita Natural Gas Company and Wichita Pipeline Company, and such other lines as they may construct, is reasonable, and it is advisable for the furnishing of an adequate supply of gas to the markets reached by all the aforesaid lines and systems.

Thereupon, the foreclosure of all mortgages will proceed as rapidly as possible in the Federal Court having jurisdiction over the entire property in the three states, and the properties of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, owned and leased, may be sold at public foreclosure sale, freed of encumbrances, contracts, and obligations, at 755 an upset price determined by the court, and the rights and interests of the cities, the public, the distributing companies, bondholders, stockholders and creditors will be determined and protected by the court in such final decree and foreclosure sale, giving and reserving to all parties the right to bid and compete for said properties at such public foreclosure sale.

Any city, consumer, distributing company, stockholder, bondholder, creditor or other party in interest having any rights, legal, equitable or otherwise, arising out of contract or the so-called "Creditors' Agreement," or by virtue of the receiverships, or otherwise, may present same to the court having jurisdiction over the property in the three states, and such rights will be adjudicated, determined and protected by the court in proper decrees; during all of which time and procedure the rights of the consumers and public to a reasonably adequate supply of gas may be protected and given preference.

Plaintiff,

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Amended Answer to Bill of Complaint and Answer to Supplemental Bill of Complaint by Defendant Kansas City Gas Company.

756½ In the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, First Division.

No. 136-N.

JOHN M. LANDON, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Amended Answer to Bill of Complaint and Answer to Supplemental Bill of Complaint by Defendant Kansas City Gas Company.

Leave of court having first been obtained for its amended answer to the bill of complaint herein and answer to the supplemental bill of complaint herein, the defendant Kansas City Gas Company alleges:

I.

That there is a misjoinder of parties defendant herein, and that this defendant is not a proper or necessary party to this cause.

757

II.

That there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, in that there are many defendants herein and the liability or causes of action asserted by plaintiff is different against each defendant, and no sufficient grounds appear for uniting said causes of action in order to promote the convenient administration of justice.

III.

That this court has no jurisdiction of so much of plaintiff's bill and supplemental bill of complaint as seeks to put in issue the duty, obligation or liability or discretion of the plaintiff Landon, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, to comply with the supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, by which the Kansas Natural Gas Company is bound to supply this defendant with natural gas for distribution to the City of Kansas City and its inhabitants, or, if this court has such jurisdiction, it should not exercise the same, for the reason that it appears from the pleadings and record in this proceeding and the original proceedings in this court, causes No. 1351 and No. 1-N, in Equity, to which this proceeding is dependent and ancillary, that the plaintiff Landon, as Receiver, is in control, possession, management and administration of the estate and property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, by appointment of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and is under the control and direction of said State Court as such Receiver, in the conduct and administration of said property, and subject to its orders.

IV.

758 That neither the original bill of complaint nor the supplemental bill of complaint, nor both of them together, state facts sufficient to constitute a legal cause of action against this defendant in equity.

IV-A.

This defendant further states that on the 16th day of October, 1916, there was submitted to the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, a motion by the Kansas Natural Gas Company to discharge the Receiver, John M. Landon, as Receiver in said cause of the State of Kansas v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, pending in said court, being cause No. 13,476, and to restore the property of said Company to the possession and control of said Company; and there was also at the same time submitted to said District Court a motion to dismiss said cause and discharge said Receiver by the State of Kansas, both of said motions alleging as the reason therefor that said Kansas Natural Gas Company is no longer insolvent and is no longer violating the anti-trust laws of said State; that said court after having heard the testimony offered on said motions and the argument of counsel thereon, took the same under advisement and the same is still under consideration but undetermined by said court; that if either of said motions are sustained and said Receiver is discharged said Landon, as Receiver in said cause in said State Court, will no longer have any interest in this suit and no right to question the legality or binding force of said supply-contracts either upon himself as such Receiver or upon said Kansas Natural Gas Company; wherefore this court should not further proceed in this cause with the hearing of this cause until the matter of discharging said Receiver in said State Court is finally disposed of.

IV-B.

Further answering herein, this defendant refers to and adopts its answer heretofore filed in this cause the same as if said answer was fully set out and repeated herein.

V.

For further answer herein, the defendant admits the allegations of paragraph I of the supplemental bill, except defendant denies that this defendant is or ever was selling or distributing natural gas for the plaintiff Receiver as his agent, and denies that the rates mentioned in said paragraph I were established by the plaintiff in pursuance of the order of this court entered on June 3d, 1916, and denies that the plaintiff is entitled to an average rate of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas transported and sold by him and denies that this court or any court ever determined that anything less than an average rate of 32 cents to the consumers will be non-compensatory and confiscatory, and denies that the rates established by said Receiver are graduated according to the distance the several cities are located from the gas fields and from Grabham Station, as alleged in said paragraph I.

VI.

This defendant admits that it filed on or about August 10th, 1916, with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri its complaint against the plaintiff as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that a copy of said complaint, marked Exhibit "I" is filed with said supplemental bill, as alleged in paragraph II thereof, but this defendant denies that this defendant in said bill of complaint prayed for any order, or 760 orders, of said Commission, requiring the plaintiff to do anything which was a substantial burden or any burden whatever upon or an undue interference or any interference with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged and engaging or in direct or any conflict with the decree of this court of June 3d, 1916, in this cause. This defendant denies that this court in said decree reserved exclusive jurisdiction over all or any matters and things in controversy in this suit for the further determination by this court, as alleged in said paragraph II of said supplemental bill of complaint. Defendant admits that in said complaint, filed before said Public Service Commission of Missouri this defendant prayed for an order requiring the plaintiff to comply with the supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company. But this defendant alleges that it alleged in said complaint that the plaintiff had adopted said contracts, and was bound thereby, and was therefore in law compelled to comply therewith, which this defendant says in no way affected interstate commerce, except as such commerce is and may be affected by the said contracts of the Kansas Natural Gas Company which the plaintiff adopted and therefore agreed to comply with.

VII.

This defendant admits that on the 10th day of August, 1916, it filed a new schedule of rates with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, as alleged in paragraph III of the supplemental bill of complaint, and that said schedule fixed rates for natural gas in said City of Kansas City from and after November 9th to 19th, 1916, at 30 cents per thousand cubic feet, in conformity with the contracts

761 of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company. Admits that the defendant City of Kansas City agreed to such schedule of rates and approved the same, as alleged in said paragraph III. Defendant also admits that said Public Service Commission of Missouri made an order putting said rates into effect, as prayed for, in conformity with said contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, as alleged in said paragraph III, but this defendant denies that said schedule of rates or the approval of the same by said City of Kansas City and the said order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri putting same into effect were a substantial burden, or any burden upon, or an undue, or any interference with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged and is engaging; or were in direct or any conflict with the decree of this court of June 3d, 1916; and denies that said decree reserved exclusive jurisdiction of all or any matters and controversies in this suit for the further determination of this court. Defendant admits that a copy of said application or complaint of this defendant for a schedule of rates conforming to said contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, is filed with said supplemental bill of complaint, marked Exhibit "2," and that a copy of the order thereon of the Public Service Commission of Missouri is attached to said supplemental bill, marked Exhibit "3," but this defendant says that it will appear from an inspection of said application and said order that the plaintiff Landon, Receiver, was not a party thereto, and in no manner affected thereby, and that said application and order merely permitted this defendant, with the consent of the City of Kansas City and consent of said Public Service Commission of Missouri to charge the rates for natural gas to said City 762 and its inhabitants mentioned and provided by the franchise under which this defendant is supplying natural gas to said City and its inhabitants, and thus enable this defendant to comply with its said contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, made with the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

This defendant further says that neither said Kansas Natural Gas Company nor the plaintiff, as its Receiver, was ever authorized by any franchise or otherwise to furnish or supply any natural gas to said City of Kansas City and its inhabitants or ever did supply said City or its inhabitants with natural gas, and that said Public Service Commission of Missouri was never asked to fix and never did fix or attempt to fix any rate or price which the said Receiver or said Kansas Natural Gas Company should charge or receive for natural gas sold or supplied to said City of Kansas City or its inhabitants; nor was said Commission ever asked to fix any rate which said Receiver or said Kansas Natural Gas Company was to receive for natural gas supplied to this defendant, except by said complaint filed by this defendant mentioned in said supplemental bill before said Public Service Commission of Missouri to compel the plaintiff Receiver and said Kansas Natural Gas Company to comply with said contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, hereinbefore mentioned, which complaint, if sustained, would in no way be an undue or unlawful burden upon interstate commerce or take the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or of its Receiver without due process of law, for the reason that any such order made by the said Commission upon said complaint would be based upon the contracts of said Kansas

VIII.

This defendant admits that on August 23, 1916, it commenced the suit in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff Receiver, praying for the specific performance of said contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, mentioned in paragraph IV of the supplemental bill; that summons were served therein upon said defendants and that said cause was removed to the United States District Court for the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri, and that the same is now pending therein, as alleged in said paragraph IV; but defendant denies that the bringing of said suit is in direct or any conflict with the decree of this court of June 3d, 1916, and denies that by said decree this court reserved exclusive jurisdiction over all or any of the matters and things in controversy in this suit for the further determination by this court. Defendant admits that a copy of the petition filed in said Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, is filed with the supplemental bill of complaint, marked Exhibit "4," as alleged in said supplemental bill.

IX.

This defendant says that it has no concern with the matters and things alleged in paragraphs V, VI, VII, VIII, IX, X, XI, XII, XIII, XIV, XV and XVI of said supplemental bill of complaint, and that they are directed against other defendants herein, and that therefore this defendant makes no answer thereto.

IX-A.

This defendant further says that on or about the 1st day of January, 1908, defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company leased all the gas wells, pipe lines, plant and property of the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and assumed all the obligations of the supply-contracts made with said McGowan, Small and Morgan, the assignors of this defendant, and thereupon took possession of all of said property, and that it and the receivers of said Kansas Natural Gas Company have ever since been in possession and operation thereof; that said lease was in writing and for the term of 99 years, and that as a part of the consideration for said lease the said Kansas Natural Gas Company agreed for itself, its successors and assigns, that if the gas wells of said Pipe Line Company situate in the territory of said Pipe Line Company did not furnish a sufficient volume of gas or if the pipe lines of said lessor should not have a delivery capacity sufficient to supply the demand for gas in the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri, defendant, the lessee, namely said Kansas Natural Gas Company, would supplement said gas supply from its own gas wells up to an amount equal to 50 per cent of the gas which, by the use of due diligence in connecting existing wells and drilling new ones, it might be able to produce from the territory then or thereafter controlled by it, said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that said Kansas Natural Gas Company would at its own cost and expense construct the additional pipe lines necessary for the delivery of gas to supply such demands, whether from the territory of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, leased by it, or from the territory of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, provided, that if the expectation of continuance of the supply of gas should not be sufficient to warrant the laying of an additional pipe line, at any time, that said Kansas Natural Gas Company, lessee, should not be required to do so and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company should not 765 be required to lay a line for manufacturing purposes mainly or only. It was further provided in said lease and as a part of the consideration thereof that said Kansas Natural Gas Company, lessee, should, during the continuance of said lease, in good faith, and to the best of its ability, operate said Pipe Line Company's works and plants and furnish all apparatus and equipment in substitution for and in addition to that demised by said lease, which might be necessary or profitable to such operation, and that said Kansas Natural Gas Company should carry on, preserve and extend the business heretofore carried on by the said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company in such manner and as at all times to meet the demands of the public service, and that it would do and perform all other things necessary to make and maintain said works and plants leased by it as a first class pipe line company, provided, that all extensions, plants, structures, improvements, betterments, renewals, rights, privileges and franchises paid for by said Kansas Natural Gas Company not out of the proceeds of bonds belonging to said Pipe Line Company should belong to and remain the sole and separate property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company.

Plaintiff states that within the last year or six months numerous new and large fields of natural gas have been discovered in Kansas and Oklahoma within reasonable distances of the existing pipe lines and property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and that the expectation for the continuance of such supply of gas is sufficient to warrant the extending of said defendant's existing lines thereto and if necessary to supplement the pipe lines mentioned in said lease running to Kansas City so as to fully supply Kansas City, Kansas, and this defendant and the City of Kansas City, Missouri, with an 766 adequate supply of gas as required by said supply-contracts, and the terms and provisions of said lease of January 1, 1908, made by The Kansas City Pipe Line Company to said Kansas Natural Gas Company; that in fact the said Kansas Natural Gas Company has made arrangements to increase its capital stock and has moved the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas to discharge said Receiver and restore the property of said Company to the owners thereof to the end that it may make such extensions to said new gas fields; that said motion has been submitted to said court for a decision, and that said court has the same now under consideration. A copy of said lease of January 1, 1908, is filed herewith, marked Exhibit "K" and made a part hereof.

X.

This defendant admits that it refused to put into force and effect the scale of prices fixed by the plaintiff from and after September 1, 1916, and that it declined to pay, for gas delivered to it by the plaintiff, the price of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet, as alleged in paragraph XVII in said supplemental bill of complaint, and that this defendant demanded that plaintiff deliver gas to it and receive in pay therefor 62½ per cent of the rate of 27 cents for natural gas as measured by the consumers' meters until November, 1916, and that thereafter plaintiff should receive 62½ per cent of a rate of 30 cents as measured by consumers' meters, all as fully appears from copies of letters of this defendant attached to and made part of the supplemental bill of complaint, and marked Exhibits "24" and "25." This defendant denies that since giving of said notice mentioned in said paragraph XVII of said supplemental bill, the plaintiff Receiver has insisted upon payment from this defendant for natural gas delivered to it from and after September 1, 1916, at the rate of 18

767 cents per thousand cubic feet as measured by meter at the gate of the defendant's distributing plant in said City of Kansas City, Missouri. This defendant says that although plaintiff as Receiver gave this defendant notice that he would charge this defendant 18 cents per thousand cubic feet for all gas delivered to it, measured at the City limits, on or about August 12th, 1916, as stated in said supplemental bill, this defendant notified plaintiff that it would not pay that sum therefor, but would only receive said gas under and in pursuance of said supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, and only pay the price therefor fixed by said contracts, to-wit: A sum equal to 62½ per cent of the gross receipts from the sale of the same at the rate of 27 cents per thousand cubic feet as measured by the consumers' meters until November, 1916, and thereafter at the rate of 30 cents, as measured by consumers' meters, and that said plaintiff has continued to supply this defendant with natural gas ever since said August 12th, 1916, and defendant has never agreed to pay for same except under said supply-contracts and at the rates therein fixed, all of which appears by the correspondence between the parties, copies of which are hereto attached and made a part hereof, marked as follows, to-wit:

Notice of June 12th, 1916.....	Exhibit "A"
Letter of June 26th, 1916.....	Exhibit "B"
Letter and schedule of August 4th, 1916.....	Exhibit "C"

Letter of September 11th, 1916.....	Exhibit "I"
Letter of September 20th, 1916.....	Exhibit "J"

As to whether said 18 cents per thousand cubic feet so measured by said meter is necessary in order that plaintiff may secure an average rate of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas, or that it is necessary for plaintiff to obtain said rate of 18 cents in order to make any profit on natural gas transported by plaintiff to defendant for delivery to consumers in said City of Kansas City, Missouri, this defendant has no knowledge and therefore denies the allegations to that effect in said paragraph XVII. This defendant denies that, by all or any of the acts of this defendant mentioned in said paragraph XVII this defendant is substantially or is at all burdening or unduly, or at all interfering, with the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged in violation of the commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States or any other constitution or law.

XI.

This defendant admits, as alleged in paragraph XVIII of the supplemental bill, that since the making of the order of preliminary injunction herein, the stockholders of the Kansas Natural Gas Company have projected a plan of reorganization, whereby they propose to raise, out of the sale of stock, $4,500,000.00 for the purpose of paying the present indebtedness under the Creditors' Agreement and to furnish a large sum of money for making the necessary pipe-line extensions to the distant gas fields. Admits that said plan of reorganization has been put in form and signed by the subscribers to the capital stock, and is to be presented to the District Court 769 of Montgomery County, Kansas, for its approval. Admits that said stockholders stand ready, able and willing to furnish and advance the money to pay such indebtedness and to make such extensions. But this defendant has no knowledge whether said reorganization plan was made relying upon the enforcement of the temporary injunction herein, and the likelihood of this court making such injunction permanent upon the final trial of this cause, nor whether said reorganization plan is primarily predicated upon the payment of the indebtedness owing by the Kansas Natural Gas Company on the basis of the Creditors' Agreement, and upon the procurement of reasonable and adequate rates for the sale of natural gas, so as to make a just return upon the moneys now invested and to be invested by them and the protection of such rates by this court. But this defendant says, and charges the fact to be, that said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders are not entitled to receive any other or greater rate for natural gas from this defendant than the rates fixed in said supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906. That said Receiver is not entitled to receive any greater rate from this defendant than is provided in said contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, unless it is necessary in order to pay the general creditors or the bondholders of said Kansas Natural Gas Company. This defendant says that the Kansas Natural Gas Company has no general creditors, except for insignificant amounts, and that its bondholders are abundantly secured by the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, which is pledged to secure them by the mortgages which are being foreclosed in proceedings in this court. That said property is worth considerably more than the amount owing said bondholders, and the costs, in said foreclosure proceedings. That ever since the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company has been in the hands of receivers appointed by this court and of receivers appointed by said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, natural gas has always been supplied to this defendant at the rate and under the terms and conditions set forth in said supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906. This defendant says that since said Kansas Natural Gas Company has been in the hands of receivers, either of this court or of said State Court, to-wit: since the 9th day of October, 1912, a period of more than four years, this defendant has paid said Receivers, in pursuance of and under said supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906, and as the 62½ per cent of the gross receipts of the gas sold by the plaintiff, which said Receivers were, under said supply-contracts, entitled to receive, the sum of $4,044,550.73. That all of said sum, less certain expenses for operation and improvements and costs of said receivership, has been paid over to and received by the said bondholders of said Kansas Natural Gas Company, which, together with the moneys received by said Receivers from other gas distributing companies, also paid over to said bondholders, has reduced the amount of the principal thereof more than the sum of $2,800,000.00. That when said Receivers were first appointed, said Kansas Natural Gas Company was insolvent and unable to pay its debts, and its property was worth far less than the amount of its bonds, secured by mortgages thereon, and that its bonds were worth less than par. That since the appointment of said Receivers, large sums have been expended in maintaining said property as a going concern out of moneys received from the defendant for natural gas under said supply-contracts and from others, as aforesaid. That by reason thereof and because of payments made on said bonds, as aforesaid, said Kansas Natural Gas Company has become solvent and its property worth more than the amount of its indebtedness, including its bonded indebtedness; so that the stockholders of said company, and its bondholders, have received a great benefit from the large sums of money paid to said Receivers by this defendant under said supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906. That by reason of all of which this defendant says that said Receiver Landon, either as the representative of said bondholders, or of the stockholders of said company, should not, in equity, be permitted to repudiate, but should be held bound by and estopped from repudiating said supply-contracts of November 17th and December 3d, 1906. That there is no necessity that said supply-contracts should be repudiated, so far as said bondholders are concerned, because the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company securing their remaining unpaid bonds is worth more than the amount of such bonds still remaining unpaid, and could be sold at any time at foreclosure sale for more than enough to pay off said bondholders and costs of foreclosure. The said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders are, in law and equity, bound and held by said supply-contracts and said Receiver Landon should be permitted, in equity, to cancel or repudiate said supply-contracts for the benefit of said company or its stockholders. That in equity said property should be administered by said Receiver for the benefit of all persons or corporations, including this defendant, having executory contracts with said Kansas Natural Gas Company, before any benefit should accrue therefrom to said company or its stockholders.

772 This defendant admits, as alleged in paragraph XVIII of said supplemental bill of complaint, that Exhibit "26" filed therewith, is a correct copy of the application of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the discharge of said Landon as Receiver, filed in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas. Also admits that the Attorney-General of the State of Kansas has filed a motion to discharge plaintiff as Receiver in said District Court of Kansas, and that Exhibit "27" attached to plaintiff's supplemental bill of complaint is a correct copy thereof.

XIII.

As to matters and things alleged in paragraphs XIX and XX of the supplemental bill of complaint, this defendant says it has no knowledge and therefore denies the same.

Wherefore, This defendant prays that the plaintiff's bill of complaint and supplemental bill of complaint herein be dismissed as to this defendant, and that this defendant be allowed its costs in this behalf incurred and expended.

THE INDEPENDENCE GAS COMPANY et al.

To the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and The Kansas City Gas Company, distributor of Natural Gas in said City:

You and each of you are hereby notified that on Thursday, June 29th, 1916, at the hour of Nine o'clock A. M. or as soon thereafter as the same may be heard, John M. Landon, as receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, will present to the above named court his special report as receiver and application for instructions to guide such receiver in the establishment of a rate for natural gas to be charged by the Kansas City Gas Company, the distributing company and said Receiver to consumers of natural gas in the city of Kansas City, Missouri.

That said application will be supported by affidavit and oral testimony, and said city and said distributing company are notified to be present at said time with such evidence they or either of them may have to present for the purpose of showing what rate should be charged and collected from consumers in said city for natural gas by the undersigned receiver and said distributing company.

EXHIBIT "B."

Letter of June 26, 1916.

"Kansas City Gas Company

June 26, 1916.

Mr. John M. Landon, Receiver, Kansas Natural Gas Company, Independence, Kansas.

DEAR MR. LANDON: Your circular letter addressed to the Kansas City Gas Company, suggesting a meeting on June 29th, 1916, at Independence, Kansas, before the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, at which time you as Receiver will report to the court and offer evidence 'for the purpose of showing what rates should be charged and collected from consumers in' Kansas City, Missouri, 'for natural gas,' has been referred to me by said Company for answer.

Replying will say, that the Kansas City Gas Company, together with the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and the Public Service Commission of Missouri, with whom it must deal in the matter of rates, was made a party defendant in the case of John M. Landon, Receiver, v. Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas et al., No. 136-N, pending in the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas; that the bill in said case alleged that it was dependent upon and ancillary to the cases entitled 'John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351,' and 'Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N,' pending in said court, and was brought for the purpose of protecting the property in the potential possession of that court in said causes and of enforcing the jurisdiction of said court; and said dependent bill further at-

776 tacked the legality and binding force of the supply contract existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver; that thereafter the Kansas City Gas Company filed its verified answer and counter-claim to said dependent bill in said cases, hereby referred to and made a part hereof; that said answer set up and exhibited said contract existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company under which the latter is obtaining gas, and set forth the ordinance under which the Kansas City Gas Company is distributing and selling gas in Kansas City, Missouri, and alleged and showed to the court that this Company was precluded from consenting to any change or modification in said supply-contract without the consent of the City given by ordinance; said answer and counter-claim further showed to the court the continuous default in the supply of gas under said contract and the losses sustained by this company by reason thereof, and prayed for the specific performance of said supply-contract; that on the hearing for a temporary injunction this Company appeared and argued said matter before the court and consistently insisted upon its contract rights as alleged in said answer; that on June 3d, 1916, the court, as then constituted for the sole purpose of considering the application for a temporary injunction, rendered its opinion and decree, in which it expressly stated that 'the court pretermits references to matters that are not indispensable to the determination of the crucial question in hand, as well as discussion of those that are indispensable to such question, and confines itself to a statement of the conclusions which the law and evidence in its opinion compel.'

777 Thereupon the court decreed a temporary injunction against the Kansas Commission interfering with all the parties putting into effect a reasonable rate, not exceeding 32c, leaving the other matters such as contracts and ordinances 'pretermitted' or passed over for the time by the court as then constituted to be later taken up by the court as usually constituted and adjudicated in the dependent and final foreclosure suits; the court expressly reserving 'jurisdiction of the subject-matter of the application for an injunction and the parties thereto, and reserves its power and authority to add to, take from, modify or supplement the injunction decreed, or any other provision of the decree at any time during the pendency of the suit,' and denies all other relief, and in its opinion the court expressly declines 'as at present constituted,' 'to determine the validity of the city ordinances, the contracts between the cities and the distributing companies and the Natural Gas Company and the duties and obligations of the Receiver under them.'

Further answering your communication will say, that this Company acknowledges the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri in the matter of rates to be charged and collected by it in the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and that under the ruling of the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas in the case of State v. Flannelly, 154 Pac. 235, denying the jurisdiction of the District Court of Montgomery County to summon the Kansas Commission before it, and under the ruling of the United States District Court for the District of Kansas in the case of John M. Landon, Receiver, v. the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas et al., 136-N, sustaining the power and jurisdiction of the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas 778 as to subpoena and bring the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri before it, the Kansas City Gas Company would be without protection as against the Public Service Commission of Missouri or the City of Kansas City, Missouri, if it should undertake to change or modify its supply-contract with the Kansas Natural Gas Company or put into force and effect any changes in existing rates.

By reason of the foregoing the status of the contract existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, under which you as Receiver of the latter are and have been furnishing gas to the Kansas City Gas Company, has been submitted to the United States District Court for the District of Kansas and that court has taken and reserved jurisdiction thereof in the original foreclosure suit and the aforesaid bill dependent thereon filed therein.

Further answering your communication, will say that under the circumstances, and after consultation with the city authorities, the Kansas City Gas Company is unwilling to undertake to procure the consent of the City of Kansas City, Missouri, to the recision, cancellation or modification of the supply-contract existing between the company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver; and until you as receiver, or the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or its successor, can definitely state the volume of gas which may reasonably be expected to be furnished to this company for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Missouri, it has been, is, and will be impossible and futile for this company to offer any evidence before the Public Service Commission of Missouri, or before any other court or tribunal 'for the purpose of showing what rate should be charged and collected from consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.'

Hoping that you will soon be able to advise us that you have an adequate and definite supply of gas as a basis for such evidence, we remain,

Very sincerely yours,

KANSAS CITY GAS COMPANY,

Letter of August 18, 1916.

"Kansas City, August 18, 1916.

John M. Landon, Receiver, Kansas Natural Gas Company, Independence, Kansas.

DEAR MR. LANDON: Your letter of August 4th, enclosing a proposed change in consumers' rates to 38 cents and $1.00 minimum bill; also your communication of August 11th, delivered through Mr. Atwood's office, suggesting an 18 cent price for gas metered and delivered to the Kansas City Gas Company at the city limits; also your letter of August 12th, further modifying the minimum charge, have all been turned over to me by the Company for answer.

Replying will say that the Kansas City Gas Company repeats and adheres to the statements made and the position taken in our letter to you dated June 26th, 1916, hereby referred to and made a part hereof.

Further answering your communications, will say that all of your suggestions contemplate modifications of the supply-contracts existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, under which you are and have been operating, dated November 17th and December 3rd, 1906, and that none of said suggestions, purporting to be notices to the Kansas City Gas Company, appear to have been sent by order of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and, as recently said by the Federal Court in the St. Joseph case, involving the same character of contract, 'until the question of such modification or abrogation of the 786 contract is presented to the court of which you are an officer, and determined by order of that court, neither the Receiver nor any one for him is authorized to make any binding agreements with reference to the same.'

We, therefore, construe your communications as merely suggestions or offers to modify the existing supply-contracts, which offers, for the reasons assigned in our letter of June 26th, 1916, and others sufficient for our purpose, we do not care to consider.

The Company will, therefore, continue to accept and receive natural gas and remit to you for the same under and pursuant to the terms and provisions of the supply-contracts existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver and the Kansas City Gas Company, dated November 17th and December 3rd, 1906; without, waiving, however, and saving and reserving, any and all rights, claims, demands and choses in action against you or the Kansas Natural Gas Company, which the Kansas City Gas Company now has or may hereafter have under said contracts or by reason of defaults or breach thereof.

EXHIBIT "G."

Letter of August 22, 1916.

"T. S. Salathiel,

Attorney at Law.

Independence, Kansas,

August 22, 1916.

The Kansas City Gas Company and Mr. J. W. Dana, Its Attorney, Kansas City, Mo.

DEAR SIRS: Your letter of August 18, 1916, which by reference makes your letter of June 26, 1916, a part thereof, written to Mr. John M. Landon, Receiver, of Kansas Natural Gas Company, Independence, Kansas, has been referred to me for reply.

In reply thereto, I will say that Mr. John M. Landon, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, does not now have, and he has not at any time, had contractual relations with the Kansas City Gas Company other than the implied relations that exist by virtue of his delivering gas to your company and accepting of a settlement therefor upon the former basis of dealing between the Federal Receivers and your Company.

Mr. John M. Landon, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, has never at any time recognized or adopted the contract or contracts referred to in your letter of August 18, 1916, as being dated November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, respectively, and does not have, and never has had, any liability, duty, or obligation to adopt, recognize, or perform said contracts or either of them or any part thereof.

Mr. John M. Landon, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, is not now and never has been under contractual obligations of any kind or character with the city of Kansas City, Missouri, and under no duty or obligation by virtue of any franchise or agreement entered into by and between McGowan, Small and Morgan, for and on behalf of your company, or any other person, to supply, or furnish to Kansas City, Missouri, or its inhabitants natural gas.

Kansas Natural Gas Company, a Delaware corporation, takes the position and asserts the fact to be, that it is not now and for four years last past has not had any contractual relation whatever with the Kansas City Gas Company, or McGowan, Small and Morgan. The Kansas Natural Gas Company takes the position and asserts the fact to be that the contract entered into on November 17, 1906, between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and McGowan, Small and Morgan, and the contract dated December 3, 1906, entered into between the Pipe Line Company and McGowan, Small and Morgan, no longer exist as binding contracts upon Kansas Natural Gas Company, or either of said corporations, for the reason that the said contracts have been fully performed by Kansas Natural Gas Company, for itself and for and in the interest of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Kaw Gas Company, and that by reason of the full and complete performance thereof, the said contracts have expired by their terms.

The said corporations further assert that all of the transactions carried on between the said companies, or either of them, and the Kansas City Gas Company, since on or about the month of July, 1911, have been wholly dehors the contract, and has been the mere carrying on of business in the customary way, as had been established under the contracts, but without the recognition, extensions, or further adoption of such contracts.

That in the contract of November 17, 1906, it is specifically provided that the Kansas City Pipe Line Company agrees to supply gas to McGowan, Small and Morgan, or for any corporation which they may organize, for the purpose of taking over the contract from the lands and leases in the gas belt of Kansas, and gas reasonably accessible to the pipe lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and said contract further provides that,

"The party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part shall be able to command or capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortage and interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient quantity of merchantable gas for all purposes."

That each, every, all and singular of the obligations and duties assumed by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company under said contract, and as defined and fixed by said clause in said contract, and each and every other clause, covenant or agreement therein has been fully performed.

Your Company as an instrumentality owned, controlled and dominated by the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, which United Gas Improvement Company at the same time owned one-half of the capital stock and all of the bonds of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and whose officers were likewise officers of and dominated and controlled the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, has, and since July, 1911, has had knowledge of the fact that natural gas in the gas fields of Kansas adjacent to and upon which the Kansas City Pipe Line Company's pipe line is dependent for a gas supply, and with reference to which your contract of November 17th was made, is exhausted and that natural gas is no longer reasonably accessible to the said pipe lines of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and that the Kansas City Pipe Line Company has no resources or means available, with which or by which it can acquire or obtain gas along its said pipe lines for supplying Kansas City Gas Company, or the city of Kansas City.

Further answering your communication of August 18, 1916, will suggest that John M. Landon, as Receiver for Kansas Natural Gas Company, has at no time suggested or contemplated any modification of any contract, for the reason that he does not recognize that he ever had any contract, and has not adopted the contract claimed by your company to exist between it and Kansas Natural Gas Company, and has no desire or intention of adopting the same, and, therefore, no intention of modifying the same; and each of his communications submitted to you has been for the purpose of advising you at what price and only at what price the Receiver will supply gas to your company for sale in Kansas City, and at which you will be required to pay for the same after the date fixed in such notices, and which we will enforce.

We deny that we have been operating under the contract of November 17, and December 3, 1906, or under any other contract, a fact of which you have full knowledge, and have had full knowledge at all times, and a fact which you presented to the Circuit Court of Appeals, argued strenuously, and which the Circuit Court of Appeals decided adversely to you.

You are not, therefore, authorized, justified, or encouraged in construing our communications as suggestions to modify existing contracts, but you are only authorized to construe those communications as the fixing of a definite price for natural gas, which you must pay at the gate of your plant.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN M. LANDON, Receiver,

Answer of the Kansas City Gas Company to the Joint Bill of Complaint or "Separate Answer" of George F. Sharritt, Receiver.

Now comes the defendant Kansas City Gas Company, by leave of court, and in answer to the joint bill of complaint denominated "Separate Answer" of George F. Sharritt, Receiver, filed herein, alleges, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That said George F. Sharritt is the Receiver appointed by the above entitled court in the case of John L. McKinney v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1351, in Equity, and Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, in Equity; that by the orders of this Court, hereby referred to 798 and made a part hereof, said George F. Sharritt has been and is now divested of any possession, control or management of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, its business, estates and properties, and the same is now lodged in John M. Landon as Receiver appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of The State of Kansas v. Wherefore, the premises considered, this defendant Kansas City Gas Company moves and prays this Honorable Court that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company take nothing by its Separate Answer or joint bill of complaint filed herein; that the relief therein demanded be denied; that said Separate Answer or joint bill be dismissed; that this defendant have and recover of and from the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company a decree for the specific performance of said supply-contract, as prayed for in its original Answer and Counterclaim filed herein on April 27, 1916, and such other and further relief as to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just, and for its costs herein expended.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al., Defendants.

Answer of the Kansas City Gas Company to the Joint Bill of Complaint Designated "Separate Answer of the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

Now comes the defendant Kansas City Gas Company, by leave of court, and in answer to the joint bill of complaint denominated "Separate Answer of the Kansas Natural Gas Company" filed herein, alleges, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That there is a misjoinder of parties defendant in said joint Bill of Complaint.

2. That there is a misjoinder of causes of action in said joint Bill of Complaint.

3. That the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company has no capacity to sue, bring or maintain said joint Bill of Complaint.

801 4. That the several causes of action sought to be joined in said joint Bill of Complaint are not joint, and the relief demanded and liability asserted therein is not one and the same relief and liability asserted against all of the material defendants, and no sufficient grounds appear for uniting the several causes of action against the several defendants in order to promote the convenient administration of justice; and the pretended cause of action alleged against this defendant by its co-defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, in said joint Bill of Complaint upon its contract with said defendant and the exercise of its rights thereunder, and the cause of action against the Kansas Public Utilities Commission and the Missouri Public Service Commission cannot be conveniently disposed of together.

5. That the Kansas Natural Gas Company is the real party in interest in any cause of action pretended to be alleged against this defendant in said joint Bill of Complaint and said Company should be joined as plaintiff, for the reason that its alleged Answer filed herein adopts all the allegations of the plaintiff's Bill and prays for the same relief, and said defendant is in truth and in fact the plaintiff and real party in interest and no showing is made that said defendant has refused to join as plaintiff.

6. That said joint Bill of Complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a valid cause of action in equity in favor of the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, and against this defendant, Kansas City Gas Company, as appears upon the face of said joint Bill of Complaint and the Bill of Complaint and Supplemental Bill of Complaint adopted by said defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the exhibits thereto attached and filed therewith and made a part thereof.

802 7. That it appears upon the face of said joint Bill of Complaint and the exhibits thereto attached and filed therewith and the Bills referred to and adopted therein, that the present and prior possession, jurisdiction and administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of the State of Kansas v. The Independence Gas Company, Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas Natural Gas Company, et al., is a bar to the relief demanded by the Kansas Natural Gas Company's joint Bill against this defendant, and this action in this court must be abated until such prior possession and jurisdiction is surrendered.

8. That this court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the action or the relief demanded by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company against this defendant.

9. This defendant further answering said defendant's joint Bill of Complaint and the Bill of Complaint and Supplemental Bill of Complaint referred to therein and made a part thereof, hereby refers to and adopts all the statements, allegations, averments and denials made by this defendant in its Answer and Counterclaim filed herein to the plaintiff's Bill of Complaint, and its "Amended Answer to the Bill of Complaint and Answer to the Supplemental Bill of Complaint" filed herein of even date herewith, and makes the same a part hereof as fully and completely as if written at full length herein.

10. Further answering said defendant's joint Bill of Complaint or "Separate Answer of Kansas Natural Gas Company," this defendant states:

(1) That it admits that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware and is a citizen of the State
803 of Delaware and is authorized to do business in the State of Oklahoma, as alleged in paragraph 1 of said "Separate Answer."

(2) That it admits, denies and pleads to the Bill of Complaint of plaintiff adopted by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company as shown by its "Answer and Counterclaim" and its "Amended Answer to the Bill of Complaint and Answer to the Supplemental Bill of Complaint" above referred to; and admits that the matter and amount in controversy herein exceeds, exclusive of interest and costs, the sum and value of $3,000.00, as alleged in paragraph 2 of said "Separate Answer."

(3) Defendant admits the averments of paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 of said "Separate Answer," but states that they are immaterial as to this defendant.

(4) Answering paragraph 6 of said "Separate Answer," defendant admits that on December 17, 1914, the Kansas Natural Gas Company joined with its several creditors and stockholders in executing a certain stipulation; but denies that it was a "Creditors' Agreement"; admits that "Exhibit A" attached to the original Bill of Complaint is a true and correct copy thereof except the designation "Creditors' Agreement" on the cover thereof, which does not appear on the original instrument on file; admits that at the time of entering into said stipulation the bonds of said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company secured by trust deeds were in default and that said trust deeds were subject to foreclosure and were in the process of foreclosure; admits that certain bonds of the Marnet Mining Company were in default, and that the trust deeds securing the same were subject to foreclosure; admits that certain of the bonds of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company were in default, and the trust deeds securing said bonds were subject to foreclosure; but denies that one of the 804 purposes of said stipulation was any advantage or benefit to said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company and denies that the purpose of said stipulation was to procure to said Kansas Natural Gas Company an extension of the time for the payment of said bonds of said defendant and the bonds of the Marnet Mining Company and of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and denies that said stipulation was intended to prevent the filing of foreclosure suits for foreclosing said trust deeds; and denies that said stipulation was intended to stay the prosecution of the said equity suits No. 1,351 and No. 1-N, pending in this court for the foreclosure of mortgages on said defendant's property; but this defendant avers that the purposes of said stipulation were to provide for the distribution of funds on hand and accruing during the receivership and to improve and continue the service and supply of natural gas to this defendant and others similarly situated and the public, as will appear from an examination of said stipulation.

(5) Defendant denies that said stipulation provided for the extension of the time for the payment of all said bonds including those in process of foreclosure in said equity suits over a period of six years from January 1, 1915, and denies that it provided for the payment and retirement of one-sixth of each of said first mortgage bonds each year, as alleged in paragraph 6 of said Separate Answer; admits that said stipulation contained the provision quoted in said paragraph; admits that "it is necessary in order to provide funds with which to meet the maturing obligations of the said several creditors of Kansas Natural Gas Company and comply with the terms of said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement for the payment of the same within the 6-year period, that additional gas supply be provided

805 sufficient to carry on said business during the 6-year period"; and admits that "it is necessary in order to procure said gas supply to make extensions of pipelines to new gas fields and to new gas wells and to construct and equip compressor stations"; admits that "large sums of money will be required to procure such additional gas supply greatly in excess of the sums of money provided in the said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement"; admits that "unless said extensions are made and funds provided for meeting the terms of said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement, to-wit, the payment of one-sixth of the first mortgage bonds of Kansas Natural Gas Company, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Marnet Mining Company each year, said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement will become forfeited and void and the parties thereto released from the obligations and terms thereof"; and admits that "they will be put in statu quo and permitted to prosecute said equity suits, and to institute actions to foreclose their respective claims"; and admits that "the property of said defendant may thereby be wasted and sacrificed by forced sale"; but denies that "the usefulness and utility of the pipeline system operated by the plaintiff as receiver will be destroyed by separate or joint foreclosure and sale"; and admits that the usefulness and utility of said pipeline system will be destroyed by the failure of said defendant or some other person to procure gas supply sufficient to operate the same. But defendant Kansas City Gas Company states that all said averments are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the price it is required to pay to the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company for its supply of gas is fixed and determined by said supply-contracts of November 17 and December 3, 1906, hereinbefore referred to.

806 (6) Defendant avers that it is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph 7 of said joint Bill or Separate Answer of the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company and leaves defendant to its proofs, but states that the same are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the price and rate it is required to pay for gas furnished by said defendant and its Receiver to this defendant is fixed, determined and measured by said supply-contracts.

(7) Defendant avers that it is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph 8 of said joint Bill or Separate Answer and leaves defendant to its proofs, but states that the same are immaterial as to this defendant, except that defendant denies that said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is being deprived of its property without compensation and without due process of law in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States in so far as the rates and prices paid for said gas by this defendant is concerned for the reason that said rates and prices are fixed, determined and measured by said contracts between this defendant and the said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company as aforesaid.

(8) Defendant is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraphs 9, 10 and 11 of said joint Bill or Separate Answer and leaves defendant to its proofs, but states that said averments are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that if said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is engaged in interstate commerce, the rates and prices which this defendant is required to pay to said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company for the gas furnished by it to this defendant are fixed, determined and measured by said contracts, 807 as aforesaid.

Wherefore, the premises considered, defendant Kansas City Gas Company moves and prays this Honorable Court that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company take nothing by its Separate Answer or joint Bill of Complaint filed herein; that the relief therein demanded by denied; that said Separate Answer or joint Bill be dismissed; that this defendant have and recover of and from the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company a decree for the specific performance of said supply-contracts and the terms and provisions of said lease of January 1, 1908, as prayed for in its original Answer and Counterclaim filed herein, and such other and further relief as to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just, and for its costs herein expended.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,

Amended Answer to Bill of Complaint and Answer to Supplemental Bill of Complaint by the Wyandotte County Gas Company.

Now comes the defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, by leave of court, and in further answer to the Bill of Complaint and in answer to the Supplemental Bill of Complaint filed herein alleges, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That there is a misjoinder of parties defendant in said Bills of Complaint.

2. That there is a misjoinder of causes of action in said Bills of Complaint.

809 3. That the several causes of action sought to be joined in said Bills are not joint, and the relief demanded and liability asserted in said Bills is not one and the same relief and liability asserted against all of the material defendants, and no sufficient grounds appear for uniting the several causes of action against the several defendants in order to promote the convenient administration of justice; and the cause of action alleged against this defendant upon its contracts and the exercise of its rights thereunder, and the cause of action against the Kansas Public Utilities Commission or the Missouri Public Service Commission cannot be conveniently disposed of together.

4. That this action is not prosecuted in the name of the real parties in interest, to-wit, the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders.

5. That the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its stockholders are the real parties in interest in any cause of action alleged against this defendant in said Bills and said Company should be joined as plaintiff for the reason that it has filed an Answer herein adopting the allegations of said Bills and praying for the same relief and no showing is made that it has refused to join as plaintiff.

6. That said Bills do not state facts sufficient to constitute a valid cause of action in equity in favor of the plaintiff, John M. Landon, as Receiver, and against this defendant. The Wyandotte County Gas Company, as appears upon the face of said Bills and the exhibits thereto attached and filed therewith and made a part thereof.

7. That it appears upon the face of said Bills and the exhibits thereto attached and filed therewith that the present and prior possession and jurisdiction and administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of the State of Kansas v. The Independence Gas Company, Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., is a bar to the relief demanded in the plaintiff's Bills against this defendant, and this action in this court must be abated until such prior possession and jurisdiction is surrendered.

8. That this court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the action or the relief demanded by the plaintiff against this defendant.

9. This defendant further answering said Bill of Complaint and Supplemental Bill of Complaint hereby refers to and adopts all the statements, allegations, averments and denials made in its "Answer" filed herein on March 9, 1916, and its "Petition to Dissolve Injunction and Supplemental Answer, Counterclaim and Cross Bill" filed herein on October 11, 1916, together with all the exhibits attached thereto and filed therewith, and makes the same a part hereof as fully and completely as if written at full length herein.

10. Further answering said Supplemental Bill of Complaint this defendant states:

(a) As to paragraph "I," it admits that plaintiff filed the bond required by this court and the same was approved, and the Clerk issued the writ of preliminary injunction ordered by the court on June 3, 1916, and that the plaintiff directed this defendant to put into force and effect on September 1, 1916, certain rates; but defendant denies that said direction was given in the due course of the administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by said Receiver, or was given by order or authority of any court or commission, and that this defendant is or was the agent of said Receiver or the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that said rates so demanded were reasonable and just, and that they were made or fixed in pursuance of the order of this court entered on June 3, 1916, and that the plaintiff is entitled to an average rate of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas transported and sold by him to this defendant, and that this court determined that any less than an average rate of 32 cents to the consumers of this defendant is non-compensatory and confiscatory; but defendant avers that all the allegations of said paragraph "I" are immaterial as to this defendant.

(b) As to paragraphs "II," "III," "IV," "V," "VI," "VII," "VIII," "IX," and "X" this defendant is without knowledge of the averments in said paragraphs and therefore leaves plaintiff to such proof as it may be advised is material, but avers that said allegations are immaterial as to this defendant.

(c) As to paragraph "XI" this defendant admits that on August 10, 1916, the City of Kansas City, Kansas, the City of Rosedale, Kansas, and this defendant as complainants filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas their Complaint re Gas Supply against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff as Receiver, praying for an order requiring said plaintiff and said Kansas Natural Gas Company to comply with the contract dated February 1, 1906, existing between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and requiring the plaintiff and said Company to make certain extensions of the pipe lines operated and controlled by him and it in the State of Oklahoma, and requiring the plaintiff and said company to do and perform other acts and things and improve the service to this defendant, as shown by said Complaint, and that the copy of said Complaint filed with said Supplemental Bill and marked "Exhibit 12" is a true and correct copy; and that upon the filing of said Complaint the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas made and entered an order requiring plaintiff herein to answer said Complaint and assigning the same for hearing on October 19, 1916, and that on October 2, 1916, the plaintiff filed a motion to said Complaint as shown by "Exhibit 13" to said Supplemental Bill, and that "Exhibit 13" is a true and correct copy of said motion; but defendant denies that the validity of said contract was and is involved in the determination of this suit, and that the extensions and relief demanded in said Complaint is or was a direct and substantial or any burden upon and an undue or any interference with the interstate commerce in which the plaintiff herein is engaged and engaging; and that said Complaint and the relief therein demanded was in direct or any conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, and that said decree reserved exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter or parties to said Complaint in this suit before said Commission; and defendant avers that all the allegations of said paragraph "XI" are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the rights, duties, obligations and liabilities as between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver are fixed, determined and measured by said contract dated February 1, 1906.

(d) As to Paragraph "XII," this defendant admits that on August 10, 1916, it filed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas a proposed New Schedule of Rates, wherein it sought to change the rates charged for natural gas in Kansas City, Kansas, from 28 cents per thousand cubic feet net to 30 cents per thousand cubic feet net, effective on and after November 19, 1916, as provided by and in conformity with the contract of February 1, 1906, between The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and The Wyandotte Gas Company which The Wyandotte County Gas Company claims is still existing and in force against the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff herein, and that hearing was had on said Application and Schedule of said The Wyandotte County Gas Company, at which the City of Kansas City, Kansas, appeared by its City Attorney, and that said hearing was had on the 21st day of September, 1916, and said City of Kansas City, Kansas, through its said Attorney, consented to the change of rates as proposed in said Schedule, and that the Commission has taken such application under advisement and has not yet given its decision thereon, and that "Exhibit 14" is a true and correct copy of said Application and 30-cent Schedule filed before the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas; but this defendant denies that it sought by said Application and Schedule to determine the validity of the contract of February 1,

1903, existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, and that said contract is one of the issues in this suit that has been reserved for consideration by this court; and defendant is without knowledge as to whether or not the action of this defendant so taken, if the same is consummated and said 30-cent rate put into effect, will prevent plaintiff from securing an average rate of 32 cents net on all natural gas which he purchases and produces in Kansas and Oklahoma and sells to consumers in Kansas and Missouri; but defendant denies that said action or said 30-cent rate if allowed or if put into effect by this defendant is a substantial or any burden and an undue or any interference with the interstate commerce business in which the plaintiff is engaged and engaging, and that such action and rate is in direct or any 814 conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, and that said decree reserved exclusive jurisdiction over the subject matter.

(c) Defendant further answering paragraph "XII" avers that it is required under the contract of February 1, 1906, existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver, to charge and put into force and effect and collect on and after November 19, 1916, a net rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet, and that in order to maintain and continue said contract in force and effect as between the parties thereto and their successors and assigns this defendant will on or before said date put into force and effect and thereafter charge and collect said 30-cent rate unless enjoined and restrained by some court of competent jurisdiction. This defendant avers that while the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas has not yet approved, ordered and allowed said 30-cent rate it believes said Commission will allow the same before November 19, 1916, so as to enable this defendant to continue the performance of its contract with the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff herein.

(f) Answering paragraph "XIII," this defendant admits that after the plaintiff undertook to make and publish schedules of rates in the several cities of Kansas the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas made and entered an order on the 13th day of September, 1916, requiring the plaintiff to file with said Commission a schedule of rates, that plaintiff herein complied with said order and filed with said Commission a schedule of rates, that "Exhibit 15" is a true copy of the Commission's order and that "Exhibit 16" is a true copy of the schedule so filed, that after said schedule was filed and on the 21st day of September, 1916, the Commission made and entered an order that upon its own motion it would enter into a general 815 investigation of the rates, joint rates, rules, services, regulations and practices of the plaintiff as shown by the schedule filed by him with said Commission, and that a hearing has been set for October 24, 1916, and that "Exhibit 17" is a true copy of the Commission's order; but defendant avers that the allegations of said paragraph are immaterial as to this defendant.

(g) Answering paragraph "XIV," defendant avers that it is without knowledge of the facts alleged therein and leaves plaintiff to his proofs, but states that said allegations are immaterial as to this defendant.

(h) Answering paragraph "XV," defendant denies that it has conspired together with the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, to prevent the putting into force and effect of the schedule of rates published by the plaintiff to be charged consumers of gas in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas; but avers that it has resisted said rates for the reason that they were in violation of and sought to repudiate the contract existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff, as will hereinafter more fully appear; and admits that it has since said time and always denied that it is the agent of the Receiver or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the sale and distribution of natural gas in said cities; and admits that it avers and asserts that it is a purchaser of natural gas; and admits that it refuses to put into force and effect the rates and prices ordered to be put into force and effect in said cities by the plaintiff; and denies that such course of action and position taken by it was taken at the instance and upon the advice and in furtherance of any plan entered into between it and said cities to prevent the plaintiff from obtaining and collecting compensatory rates for gas supplied to the inhabitants of said

816 cities; but avers that said course of action and position of this defendant is to prevent the Kansas Natural Gas Company, acting by and through the plaintiff herein, from unlawfully and without warrant or authority, repudiating its contract with this defendant; and admits that plaintiff after receiving notice from this defendant that it would not put into force and effect the rates for the selling of natural gas sought to be ordered and directed by the plaintiff, the plaintiff endeavored to fix and establish a price of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet to be charged this defendant for gas supplied for distribution and sale in said cities at the gate of the city plant where the gas passes from the pipe line of the plaintiff to the distributing plant of the defendant; and admits that plaintiff attempted to notify this defendant thereof; but defendant avers that said pretended order and direction and attempt to fix and establish a price of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet at the city gates to this defendant was done without authority or order of any court or commission and in violation and repudiation of the contract existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff and is a part of a plan and conspiracy entered into between the plaintiff and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and certain of its stockholders to unlawfully and wrongfully defraud this defendant and repudiate said contract; and denies that plaintiff has at all times demanded and insisted that this defendant pay for the natural gas delivered to it at the gates of the city at said rate of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet. Defendant admits that it has refused to pay

817 said rate of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet; and denies that there is any conspiracy between it and Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas. That defendant is without knowledge of the averment in paragraph "IV"

"That by inhibiting the plaintiff from selling said natural gas at a price of 18 cents per thousand cubic feet at the gate of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, the said defendants are preventing the plaintiff from securing an average rate of 32 cents per thousand cubic feet on all natural gas which he purchases and procures and sells to consumers in Kansas and Missouri. That it is necessary for plaintiff to obtain said rate of 18 cents in order to make any profit. That 62½ per cent of the 30 cent rate on natural gas delivered to consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, as measured at the meters of said consumers, is non-compensatory, confiscatory, and unreasonable," and leaves the plaintiff to his proofs, but states that said averment is immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the aforesaid contract, dated February 1, 1906, existing between this defendant and the plaintiff and Kansas Natural Gas Company binds and obligates the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff to furnish and deliver said gas to this defendant to be sold at a price of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet on and after November 19, 1916, and to accept and receive therefor 62½ per cent of the gross receipts from the sale of such gas at said 30-cent rate. Defendant denies that said 30-cent rate would directly and substantially or in any manner burden the interstate commerce business in which plaintiff is engaged in delivering natural gas to consumers in Kansas; and denies that said rate is so unreasonably low as to unduly interfere with and substantially burden the interstate commerce business conducted by 818 plaintiff in transporting and delivering natural gas to consumers in Kansas and Missouri, but states that said averments are immaterial for the reason that said 30-cent rate is fixed by contract, as aforesaid.

(b-1) Defendant admits "that the ordinances passed by the cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, have been superseded and repealed by the public utilities act and the power of said cities to contract as to rates has been taken away. That it has been decided in the case of State of Kansas v. The Wyandotte County Gas Company, 88 Kans. 165 (The Wyandotte County Gas Company v. State of Kansas, 231 U. S. 622), that the city of Kansas City, Kansas, being a city of the first class, never had the power to enact the ordinance" fixing rates; but defendant states that said averment is immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the right of this defendant to purchase gas from the plaintiff and the Kansas Natural Gas Company at a certain percentage of the gross receipts realized from the sale of gas at 30 cents per thousand cubic feet, is not determined by any ordinances of said city, but by the contract of February 1, 1906, existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and plaintiff. Defendant admits that said ordinances have been violated by the respective cities since January 1, 1911, and are not now and never have had any legal force and effect as between said cities and this defendant or as between said cities and the Kansas Natural Gas Company. Defendant admits that the contract between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas

Natural Gas Company and its predecessors in interest dated February 1, 1906, incorporates the said ordinances into the said contract and makes them a part thereof; but denies that, as the ordinances are no longer and never have been in force, the contract based on the 819 ordinances has been changed without the consent of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and denies that said contract is no longer in force as to it; but avers that said contract is in full force and effect and that said ordinances, though having no binding force and effect as contracts suspending the state's power of rate regulation, nevertheless name the schedule of rates and fix the price at which the Kansas Natural Gas Company has, by contract, agreed to furnish gas to this defendant for distribution and sale in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas.

(h-2) And defendant denies that said contract is not binding on said Receiver and that it has never been adopted by him; but states the fact to be that said Receiver and the receivers of this court have continued to operate under said contract and perform its terms and conditions and deliver gas thereunder and in the manner provided for therein and receive payment therefor from this defendant according to the terms and provisions of said contract from October 9, 1912, to the present time; that no order of court, state or federal, has ever been made disavowing or abrogating said contract; that this court at the time it appointed receivers, October 9, 1912, expressly reserved to itself the right to pass upon and not only disapprove and disavow, but approve said contract; and both this court and the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, ordered and directed their receivers to continue the business of said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company and perform said contract until the further order of the court, and the same has never been modified, cancelled or set aside by agreement of parties or decree or order of any court or commission and is still in full force and effect and binding upon the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver.

820 (h-3) Defendant further answering said paragraph "XV" states that the pretended notices and demands of the plaintiff and the Kansas Natural Gas Company referred to in said paragraph and this defendant's answers thereto were all in writing, and true and correct copies thereof are hereto attached and made a part hereof, marked exhibits, as follows:

(i) Answering paragraph "XVI," defendant denies that the acts and things which it has done as alleged in said paragraph substantially or in any manner burden and unduly or in any manner interfere with any interstate commerce business in which the plaintiff is engaged; and denies that said acts in any manner violate the decree of this court of June 3, 1916; but avers that said allegations are immaterial for the reason that the relations between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver are fixed, determined and measured by contract.

(j) Answering paragraph "XVII," defendant avers that it is without knowledge and leaves plaintiff to his proofs, but states that the allegations of said paragraph are immaterial as to this defendant.

(k) Answering paragraph "XVIII," defendant avers that it is without knowledge of the facts therein alleged and leaves plaintiff to his proofs, but states that said allegations are immaterial as to this defendant, except that this defendant objects to the carrying out of the plan of re-organization of said stockholders' committee in the interest of said stockholders and the Kansas Natural Gas Company in such a manner as will repudiate the contract existing between this defendant and said Kansas Natural Gas Company: that such re-organization would be a fraud upon this defendant and the public it serves, and unwarranted in law or equity.

822 (l) Defendant is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraphs "XIX" and "XX" and leaves plaintiff to his proofs, but avers that said allegations are immaterial as to this defendant.

11. Defendant further states and shows to the court that, if the plaintiff and the Kansas Natural Gas Company are engaged in interstate commerce, as alleged in plaintiff's Amended and Supplemental Bills, and if they are, by reason thereof, free from the jurisdiction, supervision and control of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas; nevertheless the rate and price that this defendant is required to pay the plaintiff and the Kansas Natural Gas Company for gas furnished to it by them is fixed and determined by said contract of February 1, 1906, filed with this defendant's original Answer, marked "Exhibit D," hereby referred to and made a part hereof; said rate and price being  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of the gross receipts realized from the sale of said gas at 27 cents net per thousand cubic feet at the present time and 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet on and after November 19, 1916; that this defendant is now collecting and receiving from consumers and paying to said plaintiff  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of 28 cents net per thousand cubic feet (1 cent in excess of said contract price); and this defendant will, on and after November 19, 1916, charge and collect from its consumers and pay to the plaintiff herein  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of the gross receipts from the sale of said gas at 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet; that by reason thereof, the rates now in force and collected by this defendant are fixed by contract and not by any order, rule or regulation of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and plaintiff herein is not entitled to a decree of injunction against said Commission, enjoining the rates now in force and collected by this defendant; but the 823 plaintiff and this defendant will be entitled to an injunction against said Commission if it should attempt to interfere with this defendant putting into force and effect said 30 cent net rate on and after December 19, 1916.

12. Defendant further alleges and shows to the court that, if the rate and price which plaintiff receives from this defendant for the natural gas furnished by plaintiff is noncompensatory and confiscatory, as alleged in plaintiff's Bill and Supplemental Bill of Complaint; nevertheless, said rate and price is fixed, determined and measured by said contract of February 1, 1906, existing between this defendant and the plaintiff and Kansas Natural Gas Company, and this defendant is now paying to plaintiff more than said contract price for the gas so furnished by him and said contract has never been disavowed, cancelled, set aside, abrogated or rescinded; by reason thereof, plaintiff is not entitled to any injunction against the rates now charged and collected by this defendant and the price now paid by this defendant to the plaintiff for the gas furnished by him; and will not be entitled to any injunction unless the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas fails, neglects or refuses to allow this defendant to charge and collect said 30-cent net rate on and after November 19, 1916, and interferes with this defendant charging and collecting said 30-cent net rate from its consumers.

13. Defendant further shows to the court that on October 16, 1916, the Kansas Natural Gas Company submitted to the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, a motion to discharge the Receiver, John M. Landon, as receiver in said case of "State of Kansas v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 13,476," pending in said court, and to restore the property of said company to the possession and control of said company; that there was also at the same time submitted to said court a motion by the State of Kansas to dismiss said cause and discharge said receiver, both of said motions alleging as the reason therefor that said Kansas Natural Gas Company is no longer insolvent and is no longer violating the anti-trust laws of said state; that said court, after hearing the testimony offered on said motion and argument of counsel, took the same under advisement and they are still undetermined by said court; that if either of said motions is sustained and said receiver discharged, said John M. Landon, as receiver in said cause, will no longer have any interest in this suit and no right to maintain the same and no right to question the legality and binding force of said supply-contract, either upon him as such receiver or upon said Kansas Natural Gas Company; wherefore, this court should proceed no further in this cause until the matter of discharging said receiver in said State Court is finally determined; that at the same time the receiver filed and presented a motion in said court and cause praying for instructions as to whether or not he should perform or disavow said supply-contract and the same, after hearing was taken under advisement and is still undetermined, by reason of which jurisdiction of the status of said contract has been assumed and taken by said State Court in said cause, and this court should proceed no further with the consideration thereof until said matter is finally determined by said court in said cause.

Wherefore, the premises and the original Answer filed herein by this defendant, and the Petition to Dissolve Injunction and Supplemental Answer, Counterclaim and Cross Bill filed herein, all considered, this defendant moves and prays the court, as follows:

825 1. That said Bill of Complaint and Supplemental Bill of Complaint be dismissed as to this defendant insofar as said Bills charge or attempt to charge any cause of action or demand any relief against this defendant and in favor of the plaintiff, John M. Landon, or the defendant the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

2. That any cause of action or complaint of the plaintiff or the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company against said contract of February 1, 1906, existing between this defendant and said plaintiff and defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, for the disavowal, cancellation or annulment of said contract be abated in this court, pending the exercise of jurisdiction over the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company and the plaintiff herein and the property, assets, contracts and affairs of said Kansas Natural Gas Company by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of State of Kansas v. The Independence Gas Company, The Consolidated Gas, Oil & Manufacturing Company, and Kansas Natural Gas Company, et al.

3. That the relief demanded in the plaintiff's original Bill of Complaint against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kan-sus be granted to the extent of enjoining said Commission from interfering with the collection of said 30-cent net rate provided for and agreed to in said contract of February 1, 1906, existing between this defendant and the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

4. That this defendant recover its costs herein expended.

Answer of the Wyandotte County Gas Company to the Joint Bill of Complaint or "Separate Answer" of George F. Sharritt, Receiver.

Now comes the defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, by leave of court, and in answer to the joint Bill of Complaint denominated "Separate Answer" of George F. Sharritt, Receiver, filed herein, alleges, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That said George F. Sharritt is the Receiver appointed by the above entitled court in the case of John L. McKinney v. 830 Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1351, in Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, in Equity; that by the orders of this court, hereby referred to and made a part hereof, said George F. Sharritt has been and is now divested of any possession, control or management of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, its business, estates and properties, and the same is now lodged in John M. Landon as Receiver appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of State of Kansas v. The Independence Gas Company, Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 13,476, pending in said District Court.

2. That this defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, hereby refers to and adopts all the allegations, statements and averments in its "Answer," its "Petition to Dissolve Injunction and Supplemental Answer, Counterclaim and Cross Bill," and its "Amended Answer to the Bill of Complaint and Answer to the Supplemental Bill of Complaint" filed herein, and makes the same a part hereof as fully and completely as if written at full length herein.

Wherefore, the premises considered, this defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, moves and prays this Honorable Court that the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company take nothing by its Separate Answer or joint Bill of Complaint filed herein; that the relief therein demanded be denied; that said Separate Answer or joint Bill be dismissed; that this defendant have and recover of and from the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company a decree for the specific performance of said supply-contract, as prayed for in its original Answer and Counterclaim filed herein on March 2, 831 1916, and such other and further relief as to this Honorable Court may seem equitable and just, and for its costs herein expended.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Answer of the Wyandotte County Gas Company to the Joint Bill of Complaint Designated "Separate Answer of the Kansas Natural Gas Company."

Now comes the defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, by leave of court, and in answer to the joint Bill of Complaint denominated "Separate Answer of the Kansas Natural Gas Company" filed herein, alleges, avers and states the following facts, to-wit:

1. That there is a misjoinder of parties defendant in said joint Bill of Complaint.

833 2. That there is a misjoinder of causes of action in said joint Bill of Complaint.

3. That the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, has no capacity to sue, bring or maintain said joint Bill of Complaint.

4. That the several causes of action sought to be joined in said joint Bill of Complaint are not joint, and the relief demanded and liability asserted therein is not one and the same relief and liability asserted against all of the material defendants, and no sufficient grounds appear for uniting the several causes of action against the several defendants in order to promote the convenient administration of justice; and the pretended cause of action alleged against this defendant by its co-defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, in said joint Bill of Complaint upon its contract with said defendant and the exercise of its rights thereunder, and the cause of action against the Kansas Public Utilities Commission and the Missouri Public Service Commission cannot be conveniently disposed of together.

5. That the Kansas Natural Gas Company is the real party in interest in any cause of action pretended to be alleged against this defendant in said joint Bill of Complaint and said Company should be joined as plaintiff for the reason that its alleged Answer filed herein adopts all the allegations of the plaintiff's Bill and prays for the same relief, and said defendant is in truth and in fact the plaintiff and real party in interest and no showing is made that said defendant has refused to join as plaintiff.

6. That said joint Bill of Complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a valid cause of action in equity in favor of the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, and against this de-834 fendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, as appears upon the face of said joint Bill of Complaint and the Bill of Complaint and Supplemental Bill of Complaint adopted by said defendants and the exhibits thereto attached and filed therewith and made a part thereof.

7. That it appears upon the face of said joint Bill of Complaint and the exhibits thereto attached and filed therewith and the Bills referred to and adopted therein, that the present and prior possession, jurisdiction and administration of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of the State of Kansas v. The Independence Gas Company, Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas Natural Gas Company, et al., is a bar to the relief demanded by the Kansas Natural Gas Company's joint Bill against this defendant, and this action in this court must be abated until such prior possession and jurisdiction is surrendered.

8. That this court has no jurisdiction of the subject of the action or the relief demanded by the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, against this defendant.

9. This defendant further answering said defendant's joint Bill of Complaint and the Bill of Complaint and Supplemental Bill of Complaint referred to therein and made a part hereof, hereby refers to and adopts all the statements, allegations, averments and denials made by this defendant in its "Answer" filed herein on March 9, 1916, to the plaintiff's Bill of Complaint, and its "Petition to Dissolve Injunction and Supplemental Answer, Counterclaim and Cross-Bill" filed herein on October 11, 1916, together with all the exhibits attached thereto and filed therewith, and the "Amended Answer to Bill of Complaint and Answer to the Supplemental Bill of 835 Complaint" by The Wyandotte County Gas Company, filed herein of even date herewith, and makes the same a part hereof as fully and completely as if written at full length herein.

10. Further answering said defendant's joint Bill of Complaint or "Separate Answer of Kansas Natural Gas Company," this defendant states:

(1) That it admits that the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware and is a citizen of the State of Delaware and is authorized to do business in the State of Oklahoma, as alleged in paragraph 1 of said "Separate Answer."

(2) That it admits, denies and pleads to the Bill of Complaint of plaintiffs adopted by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, as shown by its "Answer" and its "Petition to Dissolve Injunction, and Supplemental Answer, Counterclaim and Cross-Bill" and its "Amended Answer to Bill of Complaint and Answer to the Supplemental Bill of Complaint" above referred to; and admits that the matter and amount in controversy herein exceeds, exclusive of interests and costs, the sum and value of $3,000.00, as alleged in paragraph 2 of said "Separate Answer."

(3) Defendant admits the averments of paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 of said "Separate Answer," but states that they are immaterial as to this defendant.

(4) Answering paragraph 6 of said "Separate Answer," defendant admits that on December 17, 1914, the Kansas Natural Gas Company joined with its several creditors and stockholders in executing a certain Stipulation, but denies that it was a "Creditors' Agreement"; admits that "Exhibit A" attached to the original Bill of Complaint is a true and correct copy thereof except the designation "Creditors' Agreement" on the cover thereof, which 836 does not appear on the original instrument on file; admits that at the time of entering into said Stipulation the bonds of said defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, secured by trust deeds were in default and that said trust deeds were subject to foreclosure and were in the process of foreclosure; admits that certain bonds of the Marnet Mining Company were in default, and that the trust deeds securing the same were subject to foreclosure; admits that certain of the bonds of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company were in default, and the trust deeds securing said bonds were subject to foreclosure, but denies that one of the purposes of said Stipulation was any advantage or benefit to said defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, and denies that the purpose of said Stipulation was to procure to said Kansas Natural Gas Company an extension of the time for the payment of said bonds of said defendant and the bonds of the Marnet mining Company and of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and denies that said Stipulation was intended to prevent the filing of foreclosure suits for foreclosing said trust deeds; and denies that said Stipulation was intended to stay the prosecution of the said equity suits No. 1,351 and No. 1-N pending in this court for the foreclosure of mortgages on said defendant's property; but this defendant avers that the purposes of said Stipulation were to provide for the distribution of funds on hand and accruing during the receivership and to improve and continue the service and supply of natural gas to this defendant and others similarly situated and the public, as will appear from an examination of said Stipulation.

(5) Defendant denies that said Stipulation provided for the extension of the time for the payment of all said bonds, including those in process of foreclosure in said equity suits over a 837 period of six years from January 1, 1915, and denies that it provided for the payment and retirement of one-sixth of each of said first mortgage bonds each year, as alleged in paragraph 6 of said Separate Answer; admits that said Stipulation contained the provision quoted in said paragraph; admits that "it is necessary in order to provide funds with which to meet the maturing obligations of the said several creditors of Kansas Natural Gas Company and comply with the terms of said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement for the payment of the same within the six-year period, that additional gas supply be provided sufficient to carry on said business during the six-year period"; and admits that "it is necessary in order to procure said gas supply to make extensions of pipe lines to new gas fields and to new gas wells and to construct and equip compressor stations;" admits that "large sums of money will be required to procure such additional gas supply greatly in excess of the sums of money provided in the said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement;" admits that "unless said extensions are made and funds provided for meeting the terms of said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement, to-wit, the payment of one-sixth of the first mortgage bonds of Kansas Natural Gas Company, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and Marnet Mining Company each year, said (so-called) Creditors' Agreement will become forfeited and void and the parties thereto released from the obligations and terms thereof;" and admits that "they will be put in statu quo and permitted to prosecute said equity suits, and to institute actions to foreclose their respective claims;" and admits that "the property of said defendant may thereby be wasted and sacrificed by forced sale;" but denies that "the usefulness and utility of the pipe line system operated by the plaintiff 838 as Receiver will be destroyed by separate or joint foreclosure and sale;" and admits that the usefulness and utility of said pipe line system will be destroyed by the failure of said defendant or some other person to procure gas supply sufficient to operate the same. But defendant, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, states that all said averments are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the price it is required to pay to the defendant, Kansas Natural Gas Company, for its supply of gas is fixed and determined by said contract of February 1, 1906, referred to and made a part hereof.

(6) Defendant avers that it is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph 7 of said joint Bill or Separate Answer of the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company and leaves defendant to its proofs, but states that the same are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that the price and rate it is required to pay for gas furnished by said defendant and its Receiver to this defendant is fixed, determined and measured by said contract.

(7) Defendant avers that it is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph 8 of said joint Bill or Separate Answer and leaves defendant to its proofs, but states that the same are immaterial as to this defendant, except that defendant denies that said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is being deprived of its property without compensation and without due process of law in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States in so far as the rates and prices paid for said gas by this defendant is concerned for the reason that said rates and prices are fixed, determined and measured by said contract between this defendant and the said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, as aforesaid.

(8) Defendant is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraphs 9, 10 and 11 of said joint Bill or Separate Answer and leaves defendant to its proofs, but states that said averments are immaterial as to this defendant for the reason that if said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company is engaged in interstate commerce, the rates and prices which this defendant is required to pay to said defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company for the gas furnished by it to this defendant are fixed, determined and measured by said contract, as aforesaid.

Wherefore, the premises considered, defendant The Wyandotte County Gas Company moves and prays this honorable court that the defendants Kansas Natural Gas Company take nothing by its separate answer or joint bill of complaint filed herein; that the relief therein demanded be denied; that said Separate Answer or joint Bill be dismissed; that this defendant have and recover of and from the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company a decree for the specific performance of said supply-contract as prayed for in its original Answer and Counterclaim filed herein on March 9, 1916, and such other and further relief as to this honorable court may seem equitable and just, and for its costs herein expended.

and application to the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the cause wherein he was appointed Receiver of said court, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit No. 1, and made a part hereof.

That on the 17th day of October, 1916, the said District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, made an order on said report and application, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit No. 2, and made a part hereof. That said court directed your Receiver to present said order to this Honorable Court and ask this Court to make such order or orders as will effectuate the law applicable to the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the states of Missouri and Oklahoma, and thus bring the same in operative harmony with the property of said corporation in Kansas, to the end that the public may be served and the property preserved.

The Receiver makes reference to the matters and things set out in the bill of complaint and supplemental bill of complaint in Equity Cause No. 136-N in this court, both of which are made a part of this application.

Wherefore, this Receiver prays the court to make such order or orders as will enable him to secure compensatory rates during the process of rate making and thereafter, and obtain the benefit and protection of the decree of this court of June 3, 1916, which was made effective on August 1, 1916, by giving of the bond for $750,000.00, required by the court in this cause, and thereby conserve the property of Kansas Natural Gas Company in the hands of your receiver, and enable him to give adequate service to the public.

Report and Application of the Receiver for Instructions in Reference to Supply Contracts.

Comes now John M. Landon, and pursuant to the direction of the court heretofore made, reports to the court the following:

That he filed his bill of complaint in the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, First Division, against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and others, as heretofore reported to this court.

That in said suit, No. 136-N, the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, First Division, granted a preliminary injunction, as heretofore reported to this court.

That your Receiver, on October 11, 1916, filed a supplemental bill in such cause, No. 136-N, a copy of which is filed herewith, marked Exhibit No. 1, and made a part hereof by reference. That said cause comes on for final hearing on October 19, 1916, at Kansas City, Kansas. That at such hearing there will be submitted the question of the validity of the supply contracts between The Kansas Natural Gas Company and the various distributing companies, and 845 the question of whether or not your Receiver by his acts has adopted the same.

That your Receiver has been unable to collect a compensatory rate from some of the distributing companies since the decree of June 3, 1916, became effective because said distributing companies claim that the rates provided in the city ordinances and supply contracts are binding on your Receiver. That the question of whether said ordinances and supply contracts are valid and binding on your Receiver, is directly involved in the establishment of rates that can be charged by your Receiver. The rates cannot be definitely established until the validity of the contracts is first determined.

That the Federal Court in its decree of June 3, 1916, reserved the question of the validity of these contracts as not being necessary to the determination of the constitutionality of the 28-cent rate established by the Public Utilities Commission. That if it is not necessary for the said court in the final hearing to pass upon the validity of these contracts in order to determine whether the 28-cent rate should be enjoined, yet it will be necessary to determine the validity of said supply contracts in order to determine whether your Receiver shall be permitted during the process of rate making and thereafter to collect rates that will produce a fair return on the property employed in the service. That said court found that your Receiver was entitled to receive two-thirds of an average rate of 32 cents. That if the supply contracts with the Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company are held to be binding on your Receiver, he will receive but 62½ per cent of a 30-cent rate in said two Kansas Citys. That said rate will not only produce no profit on the interstate business in which your Receiver is engaged in 846 said two Kansas Citys, but it will compel your Receiver to transport and sell natural gas in said two Kansas Citys at a loss.

That he will be compelled, in order to obtain two-thirds of an average rate of 32 cents over the entire system, to charge rates in other cities in excess of the rates provided in the ordinances and supply contracts in such other cities. That the rates charged in said other cities in Kansas and Missouri will be higher than said cities ought in right to pay, considered by themselves.

That if said supply contracts in said two Kansas Citys are not binding on your Receiver, then the sale of natural gas in said cities at 30 cents per thousand cubic feet inhibits your Receiver from selling natural gas at a profit and is a substantial burden on and an undue interference with the interstate commerce business in which your Receiver is engaged and will depreciate and destroy the property in the custody of your Receiver.

That your Receiver is desirous of presenting to said United States District Court for the District of Kansas, in an amendment to said supplemental bill, the determination of this court in regard to said contracts.

Wherefore, your Receiver respectfully prays this court to inform your Receiver of its determination in these matters.

Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Order on the Validity and Adoption by the Receiver of the Supply Contracts Between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Various Distributing Companies.

Now on this 16th day of October, A. D. 1916, this cause comes on for hearing on the application of John M. Landon, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, for instructions regarding the supply contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the various distributing companies, whether the Receiver has by his acts adopted said contracts, and the motions of Wyandotte County Gas Company, the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the State of Kansas. And the court, after hearing the evidence and the argument of counsel, and being fully advised in the premises, makes the following findings, reserving for future determination the other questions submitted:

2. Certain of said contracts were declared illegal by the Supreme Court of Kansas on April 30, 1912, and Kansas Natural was enjoined from operating under them. (See Exhibit "A" hereto attached.) Except in the case of the Leavenworth Company, no new contracts were ever executed with the distributing companies. When the Receivers were appointed by the United States Court for Kansas Natural on October 9, 1912, there were no valid contracts with the distributing companies except with Leavenworth. This court on February 15, 1913, found all the contracts with the distributing companies to be illegal, and there appears to be no reason for changing its findings in that respect. (See pages 12, 13 and 24 of said findings as printed.) Neither the Receivers of this court, nor of the United States Court, appointed for Kansas Natural, have ever adopted any of said contracts, nor have any of said Receivers operated under them, but have continued to transport gas to said distributing companies under a method of dealing similar to that employed by the Kansas Natural. Such arrangement was temporary and not intended to be permanent or binding upon the said Receiver. In the distribution of natural gas through said distributing companies, the Receiver of this court, and of the said United States Court, treated the supply contracts the same as they did the lease of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and in Kansas 851 City Pipe Line Company v. Fidelity Title & Trust Company (217 Fed. 187, l. c. 195) the United States Circuit Court of Appeals held that this Receiver had not by his method of conducting the business adopted the lease-contract of the Kansas Natural with the Pipe Line Company.

3. That all of said distributing contracts contain provisions substantially as follows:

"That whereas the party of the first part is the owner of a large acreage of gas leases with a number of gas wells drilled thereon in the gas belt of Kansas, and desires to find a market for its product.
* * *

Now, therefore, this agreement witnesseth: That the party of the first part agrees to lay and complete * * * a pipe line for conveying natural gas from the gas fields of Kansas to a point at the city limits of the city of * * *.

However, as the production of gas from the wells, and the conveying of it over long distances, is subject to accidents, interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not, by this contract, undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such a supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines supplying gas to the parties of the second part are capable of supplying, and in case of its inability to fully supply all of the cities and towns with which it is connected, the gas supplied under this contract shall, at all times, be a pro rata share of the total deliveries of gas. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part and the party of the first part, that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury to the parties of the second part that may result directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions; but said party 852 of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the said parties of the second part with a constant and adequate supply of merchantable gas for all consumers * * *."

At the time these contracts were entered into and the franchises granted, it was a matter of common knowledge that the natural gas was to be transported from the gas field in and north of Montgomery county, Kansas. Since the execution of said contracts the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receiver have year by year been obliged to extend their pipe lines farther and farther south to secure an additional supply of gas, the production by the Receiver in Kansas having diminished to less than 5 per cent of all the gas furnished by him. The securing of natural gas in Oklahoma at the points where the Receiver is now securing the bulk of the natural gas supplied was not in contemplation of the parties at the time the contracts were made. These supply contracts are improvident, wasteful and destructive of the property under the control of the Receiver. It is no longer possible to furnish even an appreciable supply of gas from the wells of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or those under its control. It was the intention of the parties under the foregoing provisions that the supply mentioned under such contract was to be from the "wells and pipe lines" of the Kansas Natural in Kansas, and when the time came that the supply of gas did not come from the wells of the Kansas Natural, then the happening of the event mentioned in the above condition of the contract occurred and the contract by its own terms ceased to be binding upon the parties thereto.

853 4. The contracts with the Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company are almost identical in terms. These contracts were originally made with the Kansas City Pipe Line Company. The contract with the Wyandotte County Gas Company is dated February 1, 1906, while that with the Kansas City Gas Company is dated December 3, 1906, the latter contract supplanting the contract of November 17, 1906, between the same parties. Both of these contracts contain the provision mentioned in Finding No. 3, and also contain the following provision:

"So long as the party of the first part is able to supply the same, the party of the second part agrees to buy from the party of the first part all the gas it may need to fully supply the demand for domestic consumption in the said City of Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, and to pay to the party of the first part for the natural gas it shall receive from said party of the first part for all purposes during the first two years a sum equal to sixty per cent of its gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas in said City of Kansas City, or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, and thereafter a sum equal to sixty-two and one-half per cent of such gross receipts. The party of the second part makes no agreement with the party of the first part respecting the rates at which it shall sell natural gas to any consumers in Kansas City, Kansas, or elsewhere in Wyandotte County, but expressly reserves to itself the right to charge its consumers for natural gas any rates not exceeding those mentioned in said ordinance which it may agree upon with such consumers; but if it shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than 854 fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the party of the second part, as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligations to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices, and the party of the second part shall be at liberty to obtain the same from such other source as it may find available."

The contract with the Kansas City Gas Company substitutes the words "Kansas City, Missouri," for "Kansas City, Kansas," and "Jackson County" for "Wyandotte County." The further exclusive provision was inserted in the contract:

ing from the party of the first part all the natural gas it is distributing and selling in the said City of Kansas City, Kansas, and elsewhere in Wyandotte County, the said party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall furnish any natural gas to any person or corporation for use in supplying said city of Kansas City, Kansas, or any of its inhabitants, and any city, town or village, or their inhabitants elsewhere in Wyandotte County, with such gas, otherwise than under this agreement, then, and in any such case, the provision contained in Section No. 2 hereof in the following words: 'but if it shall at any time agree to sell gas to domestic consumers or any persons other than manufacturers at less than the maximum rates mentioned in said ordinance, or to sell gas to manufacturers at a less rate than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, and the party of the first part shall be unwilling to accept as its compensation therefor sixty 855 or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the party of the second part as aforesaid, for gas so sold, the party of the first part shall be under no obligation to furnish the gas so sold at such lower prices,' shall at once become inoperative and cease to have any effect, but the party of the first part, its assigns, lessee or lessees, shall be bound to supply and deliver to the party of the second part natural gas to fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption in said City of Kansas City, Kansas, and elsewhere in Wyandotte County, for sixty or sixty-two and one-half per cent, as the case may be, of the gross receipts of the party of the second part from the sale of natural gas in said City of Kansas City, Kansas, and elsewhere in Wyandotte County, at any prices for which the said party of the second part may choose to sell the same."

A like provision was inserted in the contract with the predecessors of the Kansas City Gas Company. Both of these distributing contracts containing exclusive provisions, are violative of the statutes of the State of Kansas and the United States and against public policy and therefore void.

5. The obligations of these two contracts were assumed by the Kansas Natural under the lease of January 1, 1908, between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Kansas Natural, the pertinent terms of said lease being as follows:

"The lessee agrees that if the gas wells hereby demised situated in the territory of the Lessor do not furnish a sufficient volume of gas, or if the pipe line of the Lessor shall not have a delivery capacity sufficient to supply the demands for gas in the cities of Kansas City,

Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri, it, the Lessee, will supplement said gas supply from its own wells up to an amount equal 856 to fifty (50) per cent of the gas which by the use of due diligence in connecting existing wells and drilling new ones, it may be able to produce from the territory now or hereafter controlled by it; and will construct at its own cost and expense, or, so far as any of the bonds of the Lessor in this lease referred to may be available for the purpose, at the cost and expense of the Lessor, the additional pipe lines necessary for the delivery of gas to supply such demands, whether from the Lessor's or the Lessee's territory. Provided, however, that if the expectation of continuance of the supply of gas shall not be sufficient to warrant the laying of an additional pipe line at any time, the Lessee shall not be required to do so, whatever the demand for gas in said cities; Provided, further, that it is the intent of the parties that the provisions of this clause shall not be so construed as to in effect require the Lessee to lay a line for manufacturing purposes mainly or only."

It appears from the foregoing that the Kansas Natural Gas Company only assumed to furnish gas so long as there was a supply available in the territory contiguous to the line of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company. There is now no natural gas available in appreciable quantities in such territory. By the terms of the lease with Pipe Line Company, the Kansas Natural agreed to supplement the supply of the gas from the gas wells situated in the territory of the lessor by natural gas produced from the wells drilled by Kansas Natural in territory controlled by it. The Kansas Natural has done so. The Receiver now, however, is producing no appreciable amount of gas from said territory, but the natural gas now furnished by him is nearly all purchased in Oklahoma at far distant points from producing 857 companies over which the Receiver has no control. Neither the Receiver nor the Kansas Natural is now able to furnish any appreciable supply of gas from either the wells situated in the territory of the Pipe Line Company or wells in territory controlled by the Kansas Natural.

6. The Kansas Supreme Court in the case of State v. Wyandotte County Gas Company, 88 Kan. 165, and the United States Supreme Court in Wyandotte County Gas Company v. State, 231 U. S. 622, decided that the City of Kansas City, Kansas, never had power to make the contract with the Wyandotte County Gas Company fixing rates, and that the ordinance passed by the City of Kansas City, Kansas, attempting to make such contract is void. Under these decisions the supply contract is invalid, the consideration having failed.

7. The Kansas Supreme Court in the case of State ex rel. v. Litchfield, 97 Kan. 592, decided that a distributing company, which is an agent of the Kansas Natural, cannot rely upon the franchise ordinance made for the purpose of fixing rates, it having been abrogated by the Public Utilities Act of Kansas, in so far as the question of rates is concerned. Since these supply contracts are all based upon the franchise ordinances (which are in general made a part of the supply contracts) and the consideration for the delivery of gas by the Kansas Natural is the collection by the distributing companies of the maximum rates prescribed in such ordinances in the respective cities, and such ordinances are now abrogated and the rates prescribed therein can no longer be collected, and have not been collected by the distributing companies for the several years last past, and since they have not made settlement with the Receiver on the basis of the franchise rates, these supply contracts are not binding on the Receiver.

1. That neither the Receiver of this Court, nor the Receivers of the United States Court have by their acts or otherwise adopted any of the supply contracts with the various distributing companies.

2. That the supply contracts with the distributing companies, whose plants are located within the State of Kansas, are invalid, illegal and void, being in violation of the laws of this state and of the United States, and are not binding on the Receiver.

3. That the supply contracts with the distributing companies, whose plants are located in the State of Missouri, are invalid, illegal and void, being in violation of the laws of the State of Missouri and of the United States, and are not binding on the Receiver.

4. That the conditions mentioned in the various supply contracts upon the happening of which the contracts were to become inoperative and void have long since occurred, and the Receiver is unable to furnish the distributing companies with gas under the terms of said supply contracts.

5. That the said supply contracts are improvident, wasteful and destructive of the estate of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and should be disavowed.

Order.

It is therefore considered, adjudged and decreed that none of the distributing contracts aforesaid are binding upon, or effective against, said Receiver, and that he should not, and is hereby forbidden to, deliver natural gas to any of said distributing companies under the distributing contracts formerly existing between the 859 Kansas Natural Gas Company and said distributing companies, respectively; and he is hereby ordered to deliver natural gas to such of said distributing companies as will receive the same at the rates and prices, and on the terms named in the schedule of rates and prices heretofore promulgated by said Receiver to said distributing companies, respectively; and the acts of said Receiver in promulgating said schedules are hereby approved.

And this Court, recognizing that its power does not extend beyond the State of Kansas, hereby directs said Receiver to present to the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, First Division, the foregoing findings of fact and conclusions of law and this order, and to pray said Federal Court for such orders as will effectuate the law applicable to the Kansas Natural property in Missouri and Oklahoma, and thus bring the same in operative harmony with the Kansas Natural property in Kansas, to the end that the public may be served and said property preserved.

THE STATE OF KANSAS on the Relation of John S. Dawson, Attorney-General of the State of Kansas, Plaintiff,

VS.

THE KANSAS NATURAL GAS COMPANY, a Corporation, Defendant.

Now, on this 30th day of April, 1912, this cause comes on for final hearing, and comes said plaintiff by John S. Dawson, attorney-general of the State of Kansas, by John Marshall of counsel for said plaintiff, and comes said defendant by John J. Jones and Eugene Mackey, its attorneys, it appearing to the court that a stipulation has been signed by the parties of this action providing that judgment may be rendered in favor of said plaintiff and against said defendant, ousting, prohibiting and restraining said defendant from exercising the corporate power and franchise of making, entering into, creating, executing or carrying out any arrangement, contract, agreement or combination with any person, firm or corporation to prevent, or which tends to, or does prevent, full and free competition in the importation, transportation or sale of natural gas in the State of Kansas, or which is designed to, or tends to, or does advance or control the price or cost of natural gas to the consumers thereof in the State of Kansas, and ousting, prohibiting and restraining the said defendant from exercising the corporate power and franchise of 869       making, entering into, creating, carrying out or executing any contract, or agreement, with any person, firm or corporation, by which the said defendant does now or shall agree to hereafter furnish natural gas exclusively to any persons, firms or corporation for use, distribution or consumption within the State of Kansas, and ordering that said defendant refrain from proceeding further under the exclusive clauses of its contracts heretofore made or written with any person, firm or corporation, by which the said defendant agrees to furnish natural gas exclusively to such person, firm or corporation, or by which any person, firm or corporation agrees to purchase natural gas exclusively from said defendant, or by which the said defendant does or undertakes to control or regulate the price at which any person, firm or corporation shall or may sell natural gas to any of the consumers thereof within the State of Kansas, and ordering that said defendant shall furnish natural gas at its pipe lines to any persons, firms or corporations within the State of Kansas on equal terms with any other person, firm or corporation in the same city or community, or to the successor, assignee or receiver or such person, firm or corporation within the State of Kansas, and that such gas shall also be furnished without discrimination as between such persons, firms or corporations, or the receivers thereof, but that nothing herein shall require the said defendant to furnish natural gas to any person, firm or corporation or receiver thereof, except at the pipe lines of the said defendant, and providing that said defendant shall pay the costs of this action, and the court being fully advised in the premises,

It is therefore by the court considered, ordered and adjudged that said defendant be ousted, prohibited and restrained from exercising the corporate power and franchise of making, entering into, creating, executing or carrying out any arrangement, contract, agreement or combination with any person, firm or corporation to prevent, or which tends to or does prevent, full and free competition in the importation, transportation or sale of natural gas in the State of Kansas, or which is designed to or tends to, or does advance or control the price or cost of natural gas to the consumers thereof in the State of Kansas, and that said defendant be ousted, prohibited and restrained from exercising the corporate power and franchise of making, entering into, creating, carrying out or executing any contract or agreement with any person, firm or corporation by which said defendant does now or shall agree hereafter to furnish natural gas exclusively to any person, firm or corporation for use, distribution or consumption within the State of Kansas.

It is by the court further ordered, that said defendant remake and rewrite all its contracts heretofore made or written by it, with any person, firm or corporation, by which the said defendant agrees to furnish natural gas exclusively to such person, firm or corporation, or by which any person, firm or corporation agrees to purchase natural gas exclusively from said defendant, or by which said defendant does or undertakes to control or regulate the price at which any person, firm or corporation shall or may sell natural gas to any of the consumers thereof within the state of Kansas, and that said defendant shall furnish natural gas at its pipe lines to any person, firm or corporation within the state of Kansas on equal terms with any person, firm or corporation in the same city or community, or to the successors, assigns or receiver of such person, firm or corporation within the state of Kansas, and that such gas shall be so furnished without discrimination as between such persons, firms, corporations, or the receivers thereof, but that nothing herein shall require said defendant to furnish natural gas to any person, firm or corporation or receiver thereof except at the pipe lines of the said defendant.

And it is further ordered, that said defendant pay the costs of this action, taxed at $—.

No. 136 N. Eq.

JOHN M. LONDON, as Receiver of The Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

v.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Motion to Dismiss and Dissolve Injunction as to The Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas.

Comes now the defendants the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and H. L. Caster, attorney for the said Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and moves that the court dismiss the above entitled action as to these defendants and dissolve the temporary injunction heretofore issued herein for the following reasons, to-wit:

That heretofore the stockholders of the The Kansas Natural Gas Company, entered into an agreement, by the terms of which a stockholders' committee, composed of G. T. Braden, W. W. Splane, L. C. McKinney and C. R. Rigden, was appointed to look after the interests of the stockholders of said company, and providing for the deposit of the stock held by the various stockholders of said company under a voting trust, subject to the control of said stockholders' committee, and that, in pursuance and execution of said agreement, a large proportion of the outstanding stock of the said The Kansas Natural Gas Company was so deposited and said stockholders' committee procured the execution of an underwriters' agreement, which was entitled an "Application of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for Leave to Pay its Debts, for the Discharge of the Receiver 873 in said Cause, and for other purposes."

That the said application — filed in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, on the 20th day of September, 1916, and was filed at the instance and request, and by the direction, of said stockholders' committee and as the result and in pursuance and execution of said stockholders' agreement.

That on or about the 26th day of October, 1916, the said stockholders' committee entered into an agreement with Henry L. Doherty & Company, by the terms of which not less than forty thousand shares of the stock of said The Kansas Natural Gas Company were to be sold to said Henry L. Doherty & Company, or to their nominees, a full, true and correct copy of said agreement is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit A" and made a part hereof. That in pursuance and execution of said agreement, there have been deposited, as plaintiff is advised and verily believes, more than ninety per cent of the shares of the capital stock of the said The Kansas Natural Gas Company, as required by said agreement, and the said Henry L. Doherty & Company has made the first payment thereon and now controls said stock, and that said agreement, under which said stockholders' committee was appointed, and said voting trust agreement, and said under-writers' agreement have been abandoned, and that said stockholders' committee and the stockholders represented by it have no longer control of said stock or the business of said Company.

Plaintiff further states that on the 4th day of November, 1916, said Henry L. Doherty & Company caused the Empire Gas & Pipe Line Company, its nominee, to make title to said stock under said agreement of October 26, 1916, and to file with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas an application for a certificate of convenience and necessity to do a public utility business in the state of Kansas, and that on the 20th day of November, 1916, such certificate was duly issued to said company by said Commission, and 874 on the same day there was issued by said Commission to said company a certificate authorizing said company to purchase and hold all or any part of the capital stock, bonds or other evidence or indebtedness of said The Kansas Natural Gas Company, and its subsidiaries.

That said certificates were issued because of agreements made by said The Empire Gas & Pipe Line Company, as follows:

That the case of John M. Landon, Receiver, v. The Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas et al., No. 136 N., pending in the United States District Court for the District of Kansas, First Division, be dismissed without prejudice at plaintiff's cost.

That all receivers appointed in the above entitled case be forthwith discharged.

That the above entitled case should be, with the consent of the plaintiff herein, dismissed at the cost of the defendant, The Kansas Natural Gas Company.

Plaintiff further states that said certificates were issued by said Public Utilities Commission upon the understanding that each of said agreements should be complied with by said Empire Gas & Pipe Line Company and said Henry L. Doherty & Company.

That The Attorney-General of the State of Kansas, in pursuance of said agreement, forthwith filed his motion to dismiss the suit of the State of Kansas ex rel. v. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, pending in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and to discharge the receiver in said action, plaintiff in this suit, and that each and all of the creditors of the said Kansas Natural Gas Company are willing and ready to accept the amount due them, in accordance with said agreements, and that each and all and every part of the said agreements have been complied with by all the parties thereto except the said Empire Gas & Pipe Line Company, and that said Empire Gas & Pipe Line Company is now the real party in interest in this litigation, and has by virtue of the aforesaid agreements consented to the putting into operation of the rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on 875 December 15, 1915, which are complained of in this suit, and have agreed that the same are compensatory and should be the legal rates in effect for said company in said state, and that the further prosecution of this action as against these defendants is inequitable and will result only in the trial and determination of most questions and will not result in granting any equitable relief to the complainant, and that it is impossible for the complainant and the said Empire Gas & Pipe Line Company, now the real party in interest herein, to present any questions of a judicial nature to this court, but all the questions in regard to rate making by reason and virtue of said agreements have become of a legislative nature and cannot present any matters of judicial controversy in this action.

Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.

This is a suit in equity brought by John M. Landon as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and numerous other defendants, praying for an injunction against said commission to prevent the enforcement of an order, commonly known as the 28 cent rate order, made by said Commission December 10th, 1915, establishing rates to be paid in numerous cities in Kansas for natural gas furnished by the plaintiff; also praying for various other relief partly against the above named defendant, partly against other defendants.

The application for a preliminary injunction was heard before an enlarged court of three judges, pursuant to Section 266 of the Judicial Code. A preliminary injunction was granted upon certain conditions. See 234 Fed. 152. The conditions were fulfilled. Thereafter the case was brought on for final hearing; evidence was introduced and submission had upon the issue as to the 28 cent 879 rate, and questions directly involved therein; and the issue as to Interstate Commerce; the other issues being expressly reserved for future hearing.

A brief summary of the history of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is necessary to a proper understanding of the present case. The Company was organized under the laws of the State of Delaware in April, 1904, with a capital stock of 6,000,000 dollars. In July, 1905, it obtained a license to do business in the State of Kansas. The principal business of the corporation was the production and sale of natural gas, but it was authorized under its charter to purchase the stock, business and property of other corporations. Its first gas fields were located in the State of Kansas. Prior to 1912, the Company had by purchase and consolidation with other companies, largely increased its initial holdings. It had by means of various contracts undertaken to supply gas through distributing companies to more than 30 cities in the State of Kansas, as well as certain cities in the State of Missouri, including the Cities of St. Joseph and Kansas City, Missouri. These contracts were of various types, but generally speaking covered a considerable period of years, and provided for increases in the rates at certain fixed dates. They provided further for a division of the price paid by the consumers between the distributing company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, generally on a basis of one-third to the distributing company, and two-thirds to the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

For the purpose of completing its lines to Kansas City, Missouri, the Company had caused to be incorporated the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and became owner of 50 per cent of the stock of said company, the other 50 per cent being owned by the United Gas Improvement Company. Shortly thereafter, in November, 1906, the Kansas City Pipe Line Company leased to the Kaw Gas Company (a subsidiary corporation of the Kansas Natural Gas Company), all of its property for ninety-nine years. In place of this lease a new lease was substituted between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company in January, 1908. For the purpose of extending its pipe lines into Oklahoma, the Kansas Natural Gas Company had caused the incorporation of the Marnett Mining Company, and through stock ownership controlled 880 said last named company. Two issues of bonds had been made by the Kansas Natural Gas Company: first mortgage series and second mortgage series; and one by the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and one by the Marnett Mining Company. The properties of the three mentioned companies were operated as a unit, and included a continuous pipe line, from the fields in Oklahoma to the two Kansas Cities, with other lines extending to various cities in Kansas and Missouri. The company, during the year 1912 was supplying natural gas to approximately 150,000 households, and selling for household and industrial uses upwards of 28 billion cubic feet of gas per annum.

The Kansas Natural Gas Company had, however, in acquiring its properties and extending its system, violated the Anti Trust Statute of the State of Kansas. And in January, 1912, suit was begun in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, by the Attorney General of the State of Kansas against the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the Independence Gas Company, and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company; amongst other relief prayed for was the ousting of the defendants from the exercise of certain corporate powers within the State, and the appointment of receivers. The case was heard and resulted, so far as the Kansas Natural Gas Company was concerned, not in a complete ouster, but in the appointment of receivers, one of them being the plaintiff in the present suit, the order being filed February 17, 1913. Said receivers were to "manage the corporate property and business of the said defendant until the perversion and abuses of privileges by said defendant are corrected so as to protect the rights of all parties, especially all the gas consumers of the defendant company, and all parties interested in the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, whether as bond holders, trustees of bond holders, distributors of gas or otherwise."

Meanwhile, in October, 1912, a suit (No. 1351 Equity) was commenced in United States District Court for the District of Kansas by John L. McKinney, a stockholder and a bondholder of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, alleging the insolvency of said company, and praying the appointment of receivers to take possession of and manage its property and assets. On October 9, 1912, Eugene Mackey,

Conway F. Holmes and George F. Sharritt were appointed 881 receivers. They immediately took possession of the property and began carrying on its business.

On February 3, 1913, another suit (No. 1-N Equity) was commenced in the United States District Court for the District of Kansas by the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, trustee under the first mortgage of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, to foreclose said mortgage; and on the same date the receivership theretofore existing in the McKinney suit was extended to the Trust Company suit, and the same persons were appointed receivers in the latter suit.

Immediately after the appointment of the receivers in the State Court, and acting under the suggestion of that court, the Attorney General of the State of Kansas and the receivers appeared in the Federal Court and urged the prior jurisdiction of the State Court, and prayed the Federal Court for an order directing its receivers to turn the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company over to the receivers appointed by the State Court. Litigation followed which finally resulted in all of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, whether located in the State of Kansas, Missouri or Oklahoma, being turned over by the Federal Court to the two receivers of the State Court, for the purpose of managing the property and carrying out of the decree of the State Court in the Anti Trust suit above mentioned. The history of this litigation may be found in 206 Fed. 772; 209 Fed. 300, and 217 Fed. 187. In the last mentioned case the Court in its opinion said: "The Court below (United States District Court for the District of Kansas) has the right to retain the foreclosure suit and await the progress and disposition of the action in the State Court, with power to make such orders and decrees as future exigencies may require."

On January 9, 1915, the United States District Court for the District of Kansas made an order appointing John M. Landon, the present plaintiff, ancillary receiver of the Federal Court for the properties located in Missouri and Oklahoma. At the present time John M. Landon is the sole receiver of the State Court, and is ancillary receiver of the Federal Court, and George F. Sharritt is receiver under the Federal Court in the McKinney and Fidelity Trust Company suits, the other receivers having either died or resigned.

882 By Chapter 238 of the laws of 1911 of the State of Kansas there was established the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and with control over the Public Utilities and common carriers doing business in the State. Included under the term "Public Utility" were companies operating plants for the conveyance of oil and gas through pipe lines, also the lessees and receivers thereof. By said act it was provided that the rates charged by public utilities should be published and filed with the Public Utilities Commission. It was further provided that said commission, either upon complaint of parties or upon its own initiative should have power to investigate such rates, and fix, and order substituted therefor other rates if found necessary. It was further provided that unless the commission should otherwise order, it should be unlawful for any public utility to collect a greater rate than that fixed on the lowest schedule of rates for the same service on the first of January, 1911.

The Federal Court, shortly after the appointment of its receivers in 1912, established a schedule of rates to be charged by the receivers, but this schedule was shortly thereafter suspended by the same court.

In January, 1913, application by the Attorney General of Kansas was made to the Public Utilities Commission to cause an investigation to be made and to fix rates to be charged by the receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. The receivers and numerous distributing companies appeared and asked for changes in the then existing rates. In July, 1913, the commission made its order denying any increases in rates, and approving and confirming the rates then in effect.

Upon a further hearing in July, 1913, the commission directed the receivers to make certain extensions of the pipe lines into the Oklahoma field, and thereupon the receivers applied to the Federal Court for directions as to their duties in respect to this order. Upon a hearing the receivers were directed not to comply with the order of the commission. See 219 Fed. 614. This application and order, it will be noticed, were made prior to the time when the Federal Court turned over to the receivers of the State Court all of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company. This was not completely effected until September, 1914.

883 In December, 1914, various of the parties before the court in District Court of Montgomery County in the suit brought by the State of Kansas (No. 13476), after consideration and investigation, entered into an agreement known as the creditors' agreement, covering certain phases of the financial management of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, while the same should be in the hands of receivers and under the control of the State District Court.

This creditors' agreement took the form of a stipulation filed in the State District Court in case No. 13476. It provided among other things for the scaling down of the outstanding stock of the Kansas Natural Gas Company from 12,000,000 dollars to 6,000,000 dollars. It also provided for the scaling down of certain of the issues of bonds above mentioned. It recited that the opinion of experts after investigation was that the life of the gas field would be six years. It, therefore, provided for the payment of the several bond issues during such period. It provided payment out of earnings for extensions which would be necessary during such period, if the property should be operated at compensatory rates. It provided that application might be made, with the consent of the State Court, to the Public Utilities Commission or other public authority when deemed advisable by the State Court. It provided that creditors and lien holders should defer their rights of foreclosure or as-section of liens during the above mentioned period, provided the agreement was being carried out, subject, however, to the order of the court. This agreement was consented to by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its auxiliary companies, by the receivers, by the great majority of the bond holders of the several companies, and by the State of Kansas through its Attorney General.

In April and May, 1915, the receivers, by direction of the District Court of Montgomery County, filed a petition with the Public Utilities Commission requesting the commission to establish a schedule of joint rates for the distribution and sale of gas by the complainants and the respondent's distributing companies. The schedule proposed by the receivers represented a decided advance in rates from the 25 cent rate then in force and ranged 20, 25, 30, 35, 37, 40 and 45 cents, according to the location of the cities served, distance being one of the elements recognized. A large amount of testimony was taken, and the commission filed findings July 16, 1915, to the effect that the rate ought to be raised in all markets where the price was 25 cents per thousand cubic feet to the flat rate 28 cents. Included in the evidence before the commission at that time was the creditors' agreement, and the findings of the commission were based to some extent at least upon the estimates and figures found in the creditors' agreement. No order was, however, made by the commission at this time, and the reason given is stated by the commission itself as follows:

"It developed upon the hearing that more than half the natural gas supplied and marketed by complainants is sold in the State of Missouri. It is conveyed, by means of pipe lines passing through Kansas, to Joplin, Kansas City, St. Joseph and other cities in our sister State. It would be manifestly unfair to permit complainants to advance the price of gas to their Kansas patrons, unless a corresponding increase were made to consumers in Missouri. It is conceded that an advance in Kansas without a similar one in Missouri would be unavailing for the purposes contemplated by complainants, and they do not desire any advance in Kansas except as it may be simultaneous with a corresponding one in Missouri.

The Commission, therefore, awaits the pleasure and action of the rate-regulating body or bodies of Missouri having jurisdiction of the subject matter; and if, in that state proper and necessary orders be issued establishing a schedule of rates as herein outlined, an order, effective, if possible, simultaneously, will be issued by this Commission in accordance with the views herein expressed."

Shortly after this decision, the receivers filed in the District Court of Montgomery County an application for an injunction restraining the Public Utilities Commission from putting into effect the joint rate proposed in their findings of July 16, 1915. Service having been attempted to be made upon the commission and the members thereof, special appearance was made on their behalf, and a motion made to quash the summons and the service thereof. Said motion being overruled, a demurrer was interposed by the commission, also challenging the jurisdiction of the State District Court.

885 The demurrer was overruled, and the Utilities Commission elected to stand upon its demurrer. Thereupon testimony was introduced on behalf of the receivers, and on the 27th of August, 1915, the State District Court entered its findings to the effect that the 28 cent rate was unreasonably low, and not sufficient to carry out the requirements of the creditors' agreement; and authorized a 30 cent rate to be temporarily established. The Court also expressed the opinion that the receivers were engaged in interstate commerce; and furthermore entered an order enjoining the Public Utilities Commission from putting into effect the rates proposed by it in its findings of July 16, 1915. An appeal to the State Supreme Court was taken by the Utilities Commission from the order overruling the demurrer above mentioned. Meanwhile, on August 17, 1915, the Public Utilities Commission filed in the State Supreme Court an application for an alternative writ of mandamus against the Judge of the District Court of Montgomery County and the receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, praying that said Judge be directed to vacate and set aside the order making the Public Utilities Commission a party defendant to the injunction suit; also to set aside the temporary restraining order; and also to dismiss the suit itself; and also that the receivers be compelled to perform their legal and public duty.

An answer was interposed by the receivers in the mandamus proceedings. These two matters, the appeal of the Public Utilities Commission from the order of the State District Court overruling their demurrer, and the mandamus proceedings brought by the Public Utilities Commission in the Supreme Court, were heard together in that court. On October 4th, 1915, the order of the District Court overruling the demurrer was reversed, the Supreme Court holding that no jurisdiction had been obtained over the commission. The writ of mandamus was denied, the court holding that inasmuch as the commission had made no order, a writ of mandamus could not properly issue. The court concluded its opinion as follows: "The demurrer of the Public Utilities Commission to the receivers' petition is sustained, and the injunction against the Commission is set aside. No writ of mandamus will issue at this time. The action in this court is dismissed as to Honorable Thomas J.

886 Flannelly, but is retained as to the defendants John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield for such orders and judgments as may be hereafter made."

October 7, 1915, the receivers filed with the Public Utilities Commission a petition for rehearing. Further testimony was introduced and the entire matter was considered de novo. December 10, 1915, the Commission filed its findings and order; again finding that 28 cents, with certain exceptions, was a sufficient rate, and authorizing such a schedule to be filed. December 28, 1915, the receivers filed the authorized schedule which was approved on the same day, and thereafter, on December 29, 1915, the receivers by direction of the District Court of Montgomery County filed the bill of complaint in this court in the present suit, said suit being designated 136-Equity.

On the 3rd day of January, 1916, the Public Utilities Commission presented an application in the mandamus proceeding above referred to, asking the State Supreme Court for an injunction restraining the receivers from prosecuting the present suit, in the Federal Court. On January 7, 1916, the receivers filed a petition for removal of the mandamus proceedings from the State Supreme Court to the Federal Court. On the 3rd day of January, 1916, the Public Utilities Commission also filed a supplemental petition in the mandamus proceedings, asking that the receivers be compelled to perform their official duties and furnish their customers efficient and sufficient service.

On January 16, 1916, the State Supreme Court filed a decision denying the petition of the receivers for removal, denying the petition of the Public Utilities Commission for an injunction, and dismissing the mandamus proceedings.

The bill of complaint in the present suit, 136-N, alleges that it is dependent upon and ancillary to the suits above mentioned pending in this court, the McKinney suit No. 1351 and the Trust Company suit No. 1-N Equity.

At the hearing upon the application for a preliminary injunction before the enlarged court, the jurisdiction of the court was challenged by the Public Utilities Commission as well as by other defendants upon various grounds set forth at length either in their answers, or in separate motion papers. The Court held that it had jurisdiction; its opinion upon that question is found in Vol. 234 Fed. 152, 887 154. Upon the final hearing the jurisdiction of the court has again been challenged, largely upon the same grounds. So far as the grounds are the same, I do not deem it necessary to make any statement, except the reference to the prior decision already mentioned.

But motions to dismiss on the part of the Public Utilities Commission have also been made from time to time, during the final hearing and upon the final argument, on further grounds, some of them arising since the hearing on the application for the preliminary injunction. Among them are the following: "That subsequent to the order granting the preliminary injunction an order has been made by the State District Court having control of the receivers, instructing the receivers as to the rates to be charged by them; that this order changes the basis of the rate making, and so affects the present suit as to render it impracticable, if not impossible, for the court to proceed to a decision as to the character of the 28 cent rate. As has been already intimated upon the hearing it is my opinion that the order of the State District Court in question was not of the character attributed to it by counsel for the Commission. It was an order fixing rates to be charged by the receivers temporarily. By the preliminary injunction the rates fixed by the Commission were enjoined, and the rates fixed by the Statute of 1911, being the ones in force upon January 1st of that year, were also enjoined. It therefore became necessary for new rates to be temporarily fixed, so that the receivers might continue to carry on business. Upon application by the Receiver the court made the order above mentioned. That this course of procedure, suspending the alleged confiscatory rate during the period of investigation, and fixing temporary new rates is proper, see Love v. Railway Company, 175 Fed. 321; Telephone Company v. Utilities Commission, 97 Kan. 136.

A further ground for dismissal is that subsequent to the granting of the preliminary injunction, the control of the stock and bonds of the Kansas National Gas Company changed hands, and that the new owners entered into certain agreements with the Utilities Commission, amongst others, that the suit in the State District Court in which receivers had been appointed should be dismissed; also that the present suit in this court should be dismissed. It appeared, however, upon the argument that the new owners of the stock and 888 bonds of the Kansas Natural were not parties to the present suit, nor had application been made by them to be made parties, nor was application made by the Utilities Commission that said owners should be made parties.

It further appeared that there was a dispute as to what agreements had in fact been entered into between the new owners and the Utilities Commission. It appeared further that no order of dismissal had been entered by the State District Court. These facts were deemed sufficient for denying the motion to dismiss the present suit in this court.

Still another ground urged for dismissal was that the evidence showed that the relief really sought by the receivers was not judicial but administrative, and that they were seeking to be relieved from carrying out their obligations in respect to the character of the service to be rendered, fixed by certain franchise contracts, and that no relief should be granted in equity until the obligations under the franchise contracts were completely fulfilled. In reference to this contention it is to be observed that the extent of the obligations under the franchise contracts referred to is far from clear, and has not been judicially determined; in fact, a judicial determination thereof has been by some of the parties interested studiously avoided, and the Utilities Commission itself has made no order defining the extent of those obligations.

Furthermore, in my judgment, the extent of the service actually rendered by plaintiff is of so large and substantial a character that the failure in some degree to render full and adequate service, especially since this has not been definitely ascertained, ought not under the peculiar circumstances of the present case, to debar the plaintiff from seeking a determination as to whether the 28 cent rate is confiscatory. To this may be added, that it is claimed by the Utilities Commission that never since 1911 has the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receivers rendered full and adequate service. Nevertheless this has not prevented the fixing of rates by the Commission for such service as has been rendered.

A further ground for dismissal is that the creditors' agreement above referred to, really provided for an arbitration as to rates by the Utilities Commission, and that this was binding and not ing of the creditors' agreement will show that it is not open to such a construction.

It is also urged on the part of the defendants that the bill should be dismissed for want of equity, because the plaintiffs have not charged for gas in Montgomery County the rate which they were authorized to charge by the order of the Commission, and that the plaintiff cannot be heard to complain of a confiscatory rate so long as they are not charging as high a rate as they are authorized to charge. It is further claimed that the plaintiffs deceived the Supreme Court of Kansas, and led that Court to believe that the rate fixed by the order of the commission of December 10, 1915, had been put into force and effect, when, as a matter of fact, this was not true, and that the State Supreme Court relinquished its jurisdiction of the mandamus case, being induced by the deception practiced upon it by the plaintiffs. Counsel for defendant commission claim that this state of affairs was called to the attention of the Federal District Court shortly after the present suit was filed, and again at the hearing for the preliminary injunction before the enlarged court, and still again upon the final hearing. If it be true that deception was practiced upon the State Supreme Court, and if that court was led by means of a fraud to relinquish its jurisdiction of the mandamus case, the proper place to make these facts known in the first instance would be in that court itself. Further, even after the present suit had been begun in this court the defendants might, (at any time before final submission upon the hearing for the preliminary injunction) by proper procedure under Section 266 of the Judicial Code have taken action in the State Court by mandamus or otherwise, and this court upon being advised of such action, would have held the present suit in abeyance; but no such course was pursued. Further, the record shows that the rates in question in Montgomery County were competitive rates, and it does not appear that gas could have been sold in that territory by the receiver at a rate higher than 20 cents, the rate then in force; nor does it appear that if the gas had been brought to Kansas City and sold at 28 cents there would have been any greater profit for the receiver than by selling it in Montgomery County at 20 cents. Finally, it appears that the rate in Montgomery County prescribed by the Commission in its order of December 10, 1915, was called to the attention of the State District Court shortly after the rates were promulgated, and the District Court upon application of certain cities in Montgomery County enjoined the receivers from collecting in those cities the rates authorized by the order of the commission of December 10, 1915. It will be presumed that the State District Court in charge of the receiver took the action above mentioned after due deliberation, and that it was duly authorized and for the best interests of all parties concerned, including the financial interests of the receiver.

Passing to the merits. Thousands of pages of testimony and hundreds of exhibits have been introduced, covering almost every possible question that could arise in a rate controversy. Questions involved in the valuation of the plant; questions as to the character and extent of the business, including the available supply of gas, and the life of the gas fields; questions as to extensions; questions touching the cost of operation and maintenance; the rate of return proper to be allowed; and the amount of income necessary to meet requirements have all been covered with great fullness and particularity, both in the evidence and in the arguments of counsel.

It must be borne in mind, however, that this suit is not one for the fixing of a rate to be charged by the plaintiffs for natural gas, but it is a suit to determine whether the 28 cent rate already fixed by the commission is confiscatory. Bearing this in mind it becomes apparent that it is not necessary to discuss or determine many of the questions investigated before the commission and upon which evidence and argument have been offered in this suit. It will not be necessary to determine whether the commission adopted the best and most scientific method in fixing the 28 cent rate; if that rate is not confiscatory, the method by which it was determined is immaterial here. After determining the value of the plant for rate-making purposes the commission allocated this value between the States of Missouri and Kansas on a certain percentage basis. The commission also adopted a flat rate as distinguished from a distance rate, to cover a great many cities in Kansas. The commission further divided 891 the valuation of the property into two parts, one covering that portion used for production purposes, and the other that portion used for transportation purposes. Without passing specifically upon the conclusions of the commission with respect to these several matters, it may be assumed for the purposes of the present discussion that they were justified, but mention of certain matters in connection with some of them will be made later. It will be necessary, however, to consider briefly certain of the matters passed upon by the commission, in fixing the 28 cent rate.

The value of the property is one of the important elements, and the evidence as to this varied widely, especially as to the value which should be amortized. The evidence shows that the appraisers appointed under the direction of this court in the fall of 1912, found the value of the physical property to be $14,803,200; this did not include anything for intangibles, going value or working capital.

In 1913, Mr. Witt, engineer for the Commission, valued the property as of January 1, 1913, at $10,275,046. This also omitted the above mentioned items.

Mr. Wyer, employed as an expert engineer by the receivers, fixed the value in 1912 at $14,520,686, excluding the above mentioned items.

In 1915 Mr. Strickler, engineer for the Commission, valued the properties at $8,994,811, excluding the same items; he also valued the properties at $8,602,993, by further excluding the distributing plant at Independence, and the supply lines at Elk City, Independence and Joplin.

Later, Mr. Wyer made a reappraisal as of January 1, 1916, fixing the value at $12,000,000 exclusive of the intangible, going value, working capital, and stock supplies; excluding also the Independence plant and the supply lines at Independence, Joplin and Elk City.

In July, 1915, the Commission found the value of the physical property to be $8,994,811, and estimated the salvage value as of December 31, 1920, at $2,317,951, which would leave for amortization $6,676,860. In August, 1915, the State District Court in reviewing the figures of the Commission, pointed out certain alleged errors on the part of the Commission in arriving at the salvage value, and estimated that value as of December 31, 1920, at 892 $867,229, which would leave for amortization, $8,127,584. Both of these valuations included the leasehold.

In December, 1915, the Commission fixed the valuation of the property used in transportation (which excluded leaseholds and certain other property) at $7,083,605, amortizing the same on the basis of twelve years; going on the assumption that there would be no salvage at the end of that time. In reference to this matter, the Commission said:

"In providing for depreciation, nothing has been deducted for the salvage value of the property at the end of the estimated life, nor has anything been deducted for the warehouse stock assigned to the transportation branch of the business. In the computations it has been assumed that the entire plant, including the warehouse stock, will be wiped out at the end of the 20-year period. This, of course, is an assumption. At that time, it may still be a valuable going concern, or it may be junk."

It would seem that this method of procedure is open to criticism. It is hardly supposable that the property in question could be used and useful in transportation and distribution of gas up to a given date, and then overnight become junk.

Upon a careful consideration of all the evidence bearing upon this question of valuation, I have reached the conclusion that the present fair value of the physical property used in transportation is at least $7,000,000.

Whether anything should be added to the value of the physical property for "going value" is not free from doubt. The term "going value" has been used in many of the reported cases, as covering a number of different matters, among them: good will; organization costs, such as legal expenses, taxes and interest during construction; the cost of attaching customers to a complete plant; loss during early lean years of the business. The expressions "enhanced value" and "development cost" are frequently found in the reported cases, and are helpful in elucidating what is meant by the "going value" for which an allowance has quite properly been made. It will serve no useful purpose to review the numerous cases on the subject; suffice it to say (1) it seems to be held by the weight of authority that

893 "good will" should not enter into the valuation of a public utility. (2) Overhead expenses during construction period and organization charges are not properly included in "going value," but are a constituent part of the cost of the plant. (3) The other two items mentioned, viz., cost of attaching customers and losses during early years are legitimate elements of "going value." "Going value" thus understood, might well be added to the physical valuation provided the evidence is sufficiently definite so that the amount can be fixed with reasonable certainty; and in the absence of countervailing circumstances.

Mr. Wyer, a witness for the receiver, has estimated "going value" at $2,000,000. Mr. Walker, witness for the Commission, has estimated it at $535,000. It appears from the evidence that there was a deficit in the early years; it also appears that no dividends have been paid to the stockholders. But it also appears from the evidence that in the early history of the company, upward of $3,000,000 of earnings, instead of being distributed as dividends, was reinvested in the company as capital.

Upon a consideration of all the evidence on the subject I have reached the conclusion that it is very doubtful whether any allowance for "going value" would be justified, and have therefore omitted the same.

Another important element to be considered is the supply of gas. The figures as to this matter which were used by the commission in December, 1915, in arriving at the 28 cent rate, were approximately the figures for the year 1914, namely, 25,671,445 thousand cubic feet. It was considered by the Commission that the receiver would be able to procure the same amount of gas for the year 1915, and thereafter, the same figures were adopted as a basis by the enlarged court in the hearing for the preliminary injunction. It is now claimed, however, that the evidence shows that the supply of gas obtainable is very much greater than the figures above mentioned. It is true that the evidence introduced upon the trial has shown the development of new fields having apparently large quantities of gas. Whether these fields will be fairly permanent, or come to a sudden end, no one can foretell. Few of the fields discovered are available 894 to the receiver by the expenditure of a reasonable amount of money; most are available only by the expenditure of a very large amount. The experience of the receiver in making an expenditure of nearly $700,000 under the direction of this court, for the purpose of reaching new fields and increasing the supply, and the results obtained by him, lead to the conclusion that even the best informed men are liable to be sadly mistaken as to future supply. In October the receiver and Mr. Bartlett, who is connected with the Braden interests, both testified as to bright prospects for a very largely increased supply of gas to be obtained by the Kansas Natural Gas Company within the next 60 or 90 days. At the hearing in February these expectations had given way to certainty; but the certainty was that there would not be an increase, at least to any considerable extent, in spite of diligent efforts.

A consideration of all of the testimony, including the report of this last experience on the part of the receiver, has convinced me that the Commission sitting in December, 1915, and the court sitting in June, 1916, were both justified in taking the figures of 1914 as the maximum supply probably attainable except upon the expenditure of several times the amount of money they then considered necessary.

It is true that Mr. Doherty testified upon the final hearing that he had reasonable grounds for believing that he could furnish a supply largely in excess of the figures of 1914. This expectation, however, was based upon the condition that from $2,000,000 to $2,500,000 should be expended at once in making the necessary extensions, and that further considerable expenditure thereafter would also be made.

One of two conclusions appears to be inevitable, either that the supply of 1914 will be the maximum upon the expenditure of such sums as this court in June, [1916] thought necessary; or, the alternate conclusion that to secure a substantially increased supply will necessitate a very large initial expenditure, followed by others of not inconsiderable amounts.

The life of the fields is also a very important element. This, like the element of supply, is also uncertain. The Commission, in December, 1915, in fixing the 28 cent rate, proceeded upon the assumption that the life of the fields would be twelve years. The experts upon whose opinion the creditors' agreement was based, estimated the life of the fields at six years in December, 1914. In July, 1915, the Commission acted upon the assumption that the life of the fields would be six years. The testimony of the experts at the final hearing seemed to be based partly upon known facts, and partly upon hopes. Mr. Bartlett, in October, 1916, testified that he thought there was gas enough to last five or six years, and that possibly the field might exist for ten years. His testimony was given at a time when he also testified that he as representing the Braden interests was expecting to furnish the receiver within the next thirty or sixty days 40,000,000 cubic feet per day. That he was badly mistaken in this latter estimate has been definitely demonstrated within a period of four months. Instead of furnishing 40,000,000 cubic feet a day, the average for the past three months has been less than 18 million.

Mr. York estimated the life of the field under present conditions of use at four or five years.

Mr. Doherty, a man commanding perhaps the fullest information as to gas matters in the Mid-Continent field, testified that he was reasonably certain of being able to furnish the Kansas Natural system a supply of gas very largely in excess of the figures of 1914 for at least two years; that he had hopes that it might continue for three years thereafter; and that it was not improbable that with further investigations in the Texas and Louisiana fields a supply might be available for even a longer period.

Taking all the evidence together and assuming the present conditions of unrestricted use as between different classes of consumers to continue, the most reasonable conclusion is that the life of the field cannot be fairly estimated at more than five years from the present time for a supply equal to that of 1914, and a fortiori not longer for a supply to any considerable extent greater.

As to the cost of gas to the receiver, the Commission in its investigation leading up to the 28 cent rate, concluded that 4 cents per thousand cubic feet would be sufficient. This court upon the hearing for the preliminary injunction under the evidence then before it, concluded that 6 cents should be allowed. Considerable additional evidence has been introduced touching the price paid 896 for gas in different localities in Kansas and Oklahoma. Mr. Bartlett testified that the price which the receiver would have to pay the Braden interests for gas purchased from them would probably be 7 cents, although it had not yet been definitely fixed. It appears that a royalty of 3 cents exists in the Osage field, where a considerable part of the supply is now obtained by the receiver. While there was evidence that at certain points gas was sold at the mouth of the well for as low as 2 and 3 cents, yet in most if not in all of these instances, the wells were not where they were available to the lines of the receiver. It is also in evidence that industrial plants are in active competition at many points with purchasers who are seeking to transport gas to consumers at a distance for domestic purposes, and that in some instances these industrial plants pay as high as 10 or 12 cents for their gas. Viewing the situation as a whole, and taking into consideration all of the evidence bearing upon the matter, the figure of 6 cents adopted by this court in June, 1916, does not, in my opinion, require to be lowered.

As to the rate of return upon investment the court upon the hearing for the preliminary injunction, held that eight per cent was not excessive, in view of the nature of the business, the risks, hazards, and prevailing rates in other similar lines of activity. I see no reason for departing from that conclusion, and need not repeat what was then said.

One additional observation may be made. It is conceded by all parties that continued extensions into fields outside of Kansas will be imperative. It has been held that the Public Utilities Commission has no power to order extensions outside the State. It therefore becomes necessary to attract capital to make these extensions. This can be done only upon the basis of a reasonable return in view of the character and risks of the business.

It is to be noted that the 28 cent rate fixed by the commission was a joint rate; that is, a rate covering both the compensation to the receiver and to the distributing companies, which joint rate was to be paid by the ultimate consumer. Under the contracts made by the Kansas Natural Gas Company with the various distributing companies, a division of the rate to be paid by the ultimate consumer was provided for, which division was generally two-thirds of the Kansas Natural Company and one-third to the distributing company, although, in a few instances this proportion was different; in the two Kansas Cities it was 62½ per cent to the Kansas Natural.

These contracts between the Kansas Natural and the various distributing companies were never adopted by the receivers appointed by the State Court, and the order of the Federal Court, appointing the original Federal Receivers, provided that these contracts should not become binding upon the receivers, except by the express order of the court. No such order has ever been made. The receivers, however, continued to distribute gas to the various distributing companies, and to collect therefor upon the ratio of the division of rates fixed by the contracts.

At the hearing before the Public Utilities Commission it was assumed that any joint rate fixed by the commission would be divided between the receiver and the distributing companies upon the same basis; namely, two-thirds and one-third. At the hearing before the enlarged court, upon the application for a preliminary injunction, the same assumption was made. When the case came on for final hearing, however, the attorneys for the Commission took the position that the assumption would no longer be acquiesced in by the Commission. This, of course, left the question open whether the receiver could reasonably expect to secure a greater percentage of the joint rate fixed by the Commission, than the two-thirds. It became necessary to determine this question because, even though it might be established that two-thirds of a 28 cent rate would be confiscatory to the receiver, it would not follow that five-sixths or seven-eighths would be confiscatory. In the absence of an assumption that two-thirds was all that could be obtained, evidence was required as a basis for a finding with regard to the matter. Accordingly, considerable evidence was introduced touching the financial status of the various distributing companies, the valuation of their plants, the character and extent of their business, their operating expenses and other allied matters. This evidence was introduced, not for the purpose of ascertaining with accuracy what would be a just and fair rate to be charged by the various distributing companies, but solely for the purpose of ascertaining whether there was any 898 reasonable grounds for holding that the receiver could obtain more than two-thirds of the 28 cent joint rate. This evidence was taken and the inquiry made on the basis of laying aside temporarily the contracts between the Kansas Natural Company and the distributing companies, and without undertaking to pass upon the validity of those contracts as between the original parties.

Without reviewing this evidence in regard to these various distributing companies, but after a full and careful consideration thereof, I am clearly of the opinion that there is no reasonable basis for holding that the receiver could obtain more than two-thirds of the 28 cent joint rate, in case that rate should be established.

The commission in its decision of December 10, 1915, presented a table showing its estimate of the requirements of the Receiver for the year 1915, and the estimated revenue under the 28 cent rate. The table follows:

900 The enlarged court in its opinion in granting the preliminary injunction, pointed out wherein it thought the foregoing table should be revised. It said:

"Turning now to the table of the commission quoted above the result is that, laying aside other considerations and conceding the substantial correctness of the commission's other findings for the purpose of the decision of this application for injunction, its estimates of the requirements of the company and of the receiver for the first and the succeeding five years of the life of the gas company as a going concern were too low by the following amounts:

On account of estimating twelve years instead of six years as the life of the going concern by . . . . .	$590,300.00
On account of lack of allowance for extensions by . . .	247,916.00

Upon the final hearing counsel for the commission has prepared a table which is found on page 99 of their brief, which is a revision of the table set forth in the decision of the commission based "upon the assumption that the receiver will provide for his consumers 30,000,000 M cubic feet instead of 18,000,000 thousand cubic feet of gas per annum. This table thus prepared by counsel is as follows:

In this re-revised table no allowance for going value has been included, for the reasons heretofore stated.

Furthermore no valuation is included for leaseholds. The commission made no allowance for these leaseholds in the valuation fixed by it for rate making, but it made an allowance of four cents per thousand cubic feet for whatever gas was obtained from wells covered by the leases.

It is claimed on the part of the plaintiff that this method of dealing with the leaseholds was not only unscientific, but also worked a great detriment to the plaintiff. It must, I think, be conceded, if all gas required by the receiver could be bought at the price of four cents per thousand cubic feet, that it might be fairly argued that the receiver should not make use of gas obtained from the leasehold upon a higher basis than four cents; but, if as the evidence shows, not only all the gas that could be purchased at 4 cents was needed, but also in addition thereto all the gas produced from the leaseholds, then it might or might not — fair and just to allow four cents for gas obtained from the leaseholds. If this last increment of gas from the leaseholds was needed to make up the supply, a reasonable return should be allowed for it, though this return exceeded the price paid for the rest of the gas. In other words, the leaseholds should logically be valued, and this value amortized, and the valuation added to the capital account upon which returns should be figured. In the present case if this were done and the valuation used which was placed upon the leaseholds by the expert of the commission, it will be found that the four cent allowance for gas from leaseholds was not equivalent to placing the valuation of the leaseholds in the capital account, and amortizing the same, and giving a fair return upon the capitalization. However, when, as in the foregoing table six cents is allowed as the cost price of gas to the receiver, and this is made also the basis of return for gas obtained from the leaseholds, the difference between the two foregoing methods of handling the leaseholds becomes of very little importance. For this reason it is not thought necessary to make a change in the table of the Commission in this respect.

Allowance has been made for salvage at the end of the five year period. Fifteen per cent on the present valuation of $7,000,000 and 50 per cent on the extensions and additions immediately necessary.

The estimated cost of these immediate changes has been reduced by the value of new pipe recently bought by the receiver and not yet received, amounting to something over $200,000. The balance of the amount recently expended by the receiver under order of court amounting to over $400,000, though unsuccessful as an investment, must nevertheless be provided for either by being placed in capital account and amortized, or by being charged to maintenance, proper allowance to be made in either case for salvage. This would increase the deficit above shown.

It is further to be noted that in the foregoing re-revised table no allowance is included for extensions after the large initial one. This omission is not due to a conclusion that no such expenditure would be necessary. On the contrary, the testimony shows that it would be necessary; but from the evidence I am unable to deduce any definite figure as to amount. Whatever sum would be necessary to be expended would of course increase the deficit to a still greater extent.

Extensions to new gas pools do not stand on the same footing as new branch lines of railway. The one is normally short-lived, the other is normally enduring. The former are usually necessary to maintain the present business, the latter are usually built for the purpose of getting new and additional business. Whether extensions on such a business as the natural gas business should be charged to capital account and amount (less estimated salvage at the end of the life of the field) be amortized, or whether they should be charged immediately to maintenance (subtracting, however, from each installment of investment an amount for estimated salvage), makes very little difference, provided a return is allowed on the capital actually invested during the time it is tied up. In the first instance, however, the feasibility of attracting capital into the extensions may be a determining factor as to how the account should be made up.

Finally the experience of the receiver for the year 1916 is instructive and valuable. During the first eight months of the year the 28 cent schedule was in force, the average return to the receiver on gas sold for domestic purposes was 18.27 cents. The total amount of gas sold during the year on the whole system for domestic consumption was 14,170,692 thousand cubic feet. Applying the above rate to this amount we have given an income of $2,608,824. Income derived from sale of boiler gas, gas for engines, etc., gives $523,700, a total income of $3,132,524.

905 Against this were the following:

Gas purchased .....	$1,203,547
Operating expenses .....	910,030
Depreciation or amortization, $7,083,605 on six-year basis adopted by court in June, 1916 .....	1,180,600
8 per cent on investment of $7,083,605 .....	582,698
Total necessary revenue .....	$3,876,868
Total income above .....	3,132,524
Deficit. ....	$744,344

In fairness, owing to the abnormally large expenditures for extensions, the figures for operating expenses, $910,030, might well be reduced by $300,000, thus approximating a normal year, leaving a deficit of $444,344.

The foregoing findings and conclusions, though perhaps containing errors, have nevertheless been reached after the most careful consideration of the evidence and the arguments of counsel that I have been able to give. It is accordingly held that the 28 cent rate is not and will not be compensatory, but on the contrary that it is unreasonably low, and confiscatory, and violative of the Constitution of the United States.

Interstate Commerce.

The question of interstate commerce remains to be considered. It is claimed by the plaintiff and by several of the defendants who ask for similar relief, that the transactions carried on by the receiver namely the transportation of gas from Oklahoma to Kansas or Missouri, or from Kansas to Missouri, and the sale thereof, at points of destination, constitute interstate commerce; and further that under the facts disclosed by the record the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas in fixing the 28 cent rate has attempted to directly regulate and control this interstate commerce, and has imposed a substantial burden thereon, and for these reasons the enforcement of its order should be enjoined.

On the other hand, counsel for the commission state their position thus:

906 "Our position is, however, that the receiver being a public utility under the laws of Kansas, and actually engaged in a domestic and local business within the State, and employing local franchise in the local sale and distribution of gas, thereby commingling its property with the general property of the state, is unquestionably engaged in intrastate commerce, and has unquestionably taken away from the transaction of importing gas into the State and the sale of the same to customers, all of the interstate features which might have existed had the company not employed local agencies for the sale of gas in said state."

It is further claimed on the part of the commission that the question in interstate commerce is res adjudicata, having been passed upon by the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas in the case of the State ex rel. v. Flannelly, 96 Kan. 372.

This contention on the part of the defendant that the question of interstate commerce is res adjudicata was presented to the enlarged court, and argued at length, upon the application for a preliminary injunction. That court in its opinion took occasion to discuss the matter, and reached the conclusion that the question was not res adjudicata. It is not necessary to repeat what was then said, but it will be sufficient simply to make reference thereto. See 234 Fed. 152.

It is earnestly contended, however, by counsel for the commission that sufficient consideration was not given by the court to the fact that the State Supreme Court of Kansas upon the first hearing in the mandamus matter, No. 21324, though denying the writ, nevertheless retained jurisdiction. The position of counsel for the commission seems to be that the retention of jurisdiction by the State Supreme Court involved necessarily a finding on the question of interstate commerce, and rendered that question res adjudicata.

There are at least two answers to this contention. First, the retention of jurisdiction by the State Supreme Court in the mandamus matter was not necessarily based upon such a finding as is now claimed, for there was in the mandamus proceeding another independent matter which did not necessarily involve the question of in-

907     terstate commerce, namely, the character of the service which the receiver should be compelled to furnish. The mandamus petition contained a distinct prayer for relief in regard to this latter matter. On the first hearing the court could grant no relief in respect to this matter for the same reason that it could grant no relief in regard to the rate matter, namely, that there was before it no order made by the commission. That the Supreme Court retained jurisdiction in the mandamus proceeding, partly at least on account of this matter of service is apparent from the opinion of the court rendered on the second hearing. At this time also it appeared that the commission had made no order in regard to the character of the service. The Supreme Court said:

“Since it is now conceded that the Public Utilities Commission has made no order requiring the defendants to furnish better or more efficient service the court would not be justified in granting the writ nor in longer retaining the proceeding.”

Second, there was in the mandamus proceeding no “final judgment” entered of such a character as would render any question in the proceedings res adjudicata, or which could be carried by the receiver to the Supreme Court for review.

See Louisiana Nav. Co. v. Oyster Commission, 226 U. S. 99.

McLish v. Roff, 141 U. S. 661.

Furthermore the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, trustee under the mortgage made by the Kansas Natural Gas Company, was not a party to the mandamus proceeding, and was not bound by the judgment entered therein; and it might in subsequent litigation to which it was a party, raise any of the questions involved in the mandamus proceeding. See

Keokuk Western R. R. v. Missouri, 152 U. S. 301.

Old Colony Trust Co. v. Omaha, 230 U. S. 100.

Louisville Trust Co. v. Cincinnati, 76 Fed. 296.

Williamson v. City of Clay Center, 237 Fed. 329.

The Trust Company is a party to the present suit, and has at all stages insisted that the business carried on by the receiver is interstate commerce, and not subject to the regulation or control of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas.

908     It is also claimed by the defendant commission that the plaintiff is estopped, because the proposition of law contended for by him as to interstate commerce, and the authority of the defendant commission, have been settled in this suit. The case relied upon by counsel for the commission in support of this contention, is McKinney v. Landon, 209 Fed. 300. A careful reading of the decision in that case will show that the questions therein involved and decided were by no means identical with or decisive of the questions involved in the case at bar touching interstate commerce.

The questions in reference to this matter of interstate commerce arising in the present case are: (A) is the plaintiff in transacting the business of transporting and selling gas, engaged in interstate commerce? (B) If the business thus transacted is interstate commerce, is it nevertheless of such a local character that the State may impose regulations and burdens upon the same? (C) Is the fixing of the 28 cent rate at which gas may be sold, in fact imposing upon interstate commerce a burden or a regulation such as the State is not authorized to impose?

(A) In determining the question whether the transactions carried on by the receiver constitute interstate commerce, it will be helpful to have clearly in mind just what those transactions are. The Supreme Court of the State of Kansas in State ex rel., Flannelly, supra, has stated the matter as follows:

"The gas sold by the receivers is produced in both Kansas and Oklahoma. It is transported from the wells through pipe lines beginning in Oklahoma, entering the State of Kansas near Coffeyville, at which place gas is first distributed and sold to consumers. The remainder is transported north through pipe lines into which gas from wells in Kansas is conveyed, and the gas from Oklahoma and Kansas is then transported through the same pipe lines and through compressing stations to Independence and north and east throughout this state, and after supplying the consumers in this state, it is transported into the state of Missouri, where it is sold to other consumers. After the gas from this state is discharged into the pipe lines with the gas from Oklahoma, it is impossible to distinguish one from the other or to separate one from the other. About 85 per cent 909 of the gas sold is produced in Oklahoma, and 15 per cent is produced in Kansas. About 60 per cent of the gas sold is sold in Missouri and 40 per cent is sold in Kansas. The gas sold in Kansas is delivered to the consumers thereof, in the several cities by distributing companies operating under franchises obtained by the distributing companies from the cities, fixing the rates charged customers for gas. These distributing companies act as agents for the Kansas Natural Gas Company in the distribution and sale of gas. The price received for gas is divided between the distributing companies and the receivers on a percentage basis. The gas is not sold by the receivers to the distributing companies. It is delivered from the pipe lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, under the control of the receivers, into the pipe lines of the distributing companies, and is through these pipe lines conveyed from the pipe lines of the Kansas Natural Gas Company to the consumers. The gas is consumed as fast as it is sold, and is consumed immediately after passing through the meter measuring the gas to consumers."

Since the decisions in Haskell v. Kansas Natural Gas Co., 224 U. S. 217; West v. Kansas Natural Gas Co., 221 U. S. 229 and Haskell v. Cowhan 187 Fed. 403 it can no longer be open to question that natural gas is a subject of interstate commerce. And it seems to have been admitted by the Supreme Court of Kansas in State ex rel., Flannelly supra, and also seems to be admitted by counsel for the commission on the case at bar, that transportation of natural gas by the receiver from Oklahoma into Kansas and thence into Missouri, or from Kansas into Missouri, is interstate commerce; but it is claimed that at some point before the gas reaches the final consumer the transaction has ceased to be interstate commerce, and has lost its character as such. Just at what point this interstate commerce transaction loses its character as such, the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas and counsel for the commission are not in harmony. The State Supreme Court in the case above cited, adopted the original package idea, and attempted to apply it to the transaction in question. It said:

910 "The original package of gas is broken when the first gas is taken out of the pipe lines, and sold in this State. Thereafter the gas ceases to be an article of interstate commerce."

And again:

"Interstate commerce is at an end when the bulk of the imported gas is broken up for indiscriminate distribution to individual purchasers at retail sale."

Counsel for the commission, however, have repudiated the original package idea, and in their brief state:

"There is no original package where the transportation is conducted by means of a pipe line. Gas so conducted is not susceptible of delivery in original package."

The position of counsel for the commission appears to be that the transaction loses the character of interstate commerce when the gas passes from the pipe lines of the receiver to the lines of the local distributing companies. Nor do counsel for the commission appear to lay much stress on the fact that about six per cent of the gas distributed in Kansas originates in the same state. In their brief they state:

"We say simply that the character of this service cannot be destroyed or explained away by the fact that any amount, or indeed, all the amount of the gas distributed locally by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its agents was obtained in other states than Kansas. Such service is still a local service not interstate in its character and is subject to local regulation."

Bearing in mind the character of the business actually carried on by the receiver and the contentions of the parties in reference to the same, let us examine some of the adjudicated cases:

Most of the cases which involve the question whether a particular transaction constitutes interstate commerce deal with three separate parties: A shipper, a carrier, and a consignee. The language used in the cases is usually framed in reference to that state of affairs. However, as will be noted later on, the existence of three such separate parties, is not essential to an interstate transaction.

911 The following propositions which have a bearing upon the instant case, seem to be well established:

(1) Interstate commerce begins when the goods are delivered to the carrier for transit from a point in one state to a point in another state, or are actually started on their ultimate passage.

(2) Interstate commerce ends when the shipment reaches its intended destination, and except where Congress has expressly otherwise provided, the protection afforded to an interstate shipment includes the right to sell by the person introducing the goods; at least, up to the time when they have become commingled with the general property of the state; and where the goods are introduced in the original packages; commingling does not take place until the original package is broken.

(3) The intent and purpose of the party making the shipment have an important if not controlling bearing upon the question of where the interstate journey ends.

(7) The time and place at which the title to the goods passes as between the seller and buyer is not controlling upon the character of the shipment.

T. & New Orleans R. Co. v. Sabine Co., 227 U. S. 111.

(10) The exact destination need not be fixed at the time of the shipment provided the intent and purpose is to continue the journey beyond the limits of the state in which the journey begins.

Ohio R. R. Co. v. Worthington, 225 U. S. 101.

T. & N. O. R. Co. v. Sabine Co., 227 U. S. 111.

913      Reverting to the character of the business transacted by the receiver, it is to be noted:

(a) That the shipment is started on its journey from one state to another, (b) with the purpose that it shall be delivered to a consumer, (c) that it moves continuously from a point of shipment in one state to the consumer in another state, (d) that it is moved part of the way in the pipe lines of the receiver, and part of the way in the pipe lines of the distributing company; whether as agent of the receiver or as connecting carrier is immaterial. (e) The destination of the shipment is intended at the time of the shipment to be beyond the state, although the name of the particular consumer for any specific portion of the gas shipped is not known. (f) There is no stoppage in transportation. (g) The title to the gas remains in the receiver until delivery to the ultimate consumer.

In substance and effect there are continuing orders by the consumers to the receiver through the distributing company to supply them with gas from the Oklahoma fields. Such transactions have the character of interstate commerce at their inception, and this character continues until final delivery.

Crenshaw v. Arkansas, 227 U. S. 389 and cases cited.

Even though the shipment is started before a definite order for a specific amount is given, still, the continuous and usual course of business determines the character of the shipment.

Swift & Co. v. United States, 196 U. S. 375.

Grand Union Tea Company v. Evans, 216 Fed. 791.

Applying the foregoing principles to the facts in the case at bar, the conclusion follows that the transportation of gas carried on by the receiver is interstate commerce, and that the character of the business inheres from the beginning of the journey in Oklahoma to the termination thereof at the burner tips in Kansas or Missouri.

(B) It is claimed, however, by the commission, as above noted, that though the business of transporting gas by the receiver from Oklahoma to Kansas and Missouri may be interstate commerce, in its inception, nevertheless, it loses that character by reason of the 914 local service in distributing the same in Kansas. This contention cannot be sustained. Local incidental service at the initial point of the journey does not prevent the interstate character from attaching to the shipment; nor does a similar incidental local service at the end of the journey destroy that character.

So. Pac. Term. Co. v. I. C. C., 219 U. S. 498.

United States v. Ill. Cent., 230 F. 940.

Penn. R. Co. v. Clark Co., 238 U. S. 456, 465-8.

So. Ry. v. Prescott, 240 U. S. 632.

Penn. Ry. Co. v. Sonman, 242 U. S.

Grand Union Tea Co. v. Evans, 216 F. 791.

City Lee Summit v. Jewel Co., 217 Fed. 965.

Nor is the business carried on by the receiver though interstate commerce in character, of such inherent local nature, that it is subject to the regulation and control that is sought to be imposed by the state in the instant case. It is not always easy to determine where the line must be drawn between that exertion of state power in reference to interstate commerce, which is allowable on the one hand, and that which is forbidden on the other.

In Leisy v. Hardin, 135 U. S. 100, the court said in its opinion on page 119:

"Where the subject is national in its character and admits and requires uniformity of regulation, affecting alike all the states such as transportation between the States, including the importation of goods from one State into another, Congress can alone act upon it and provide the needed regulations. The absence of any law of Congress on the subject is equivalent to its declaration that commerce in that matter shall be free. Thus the absence of regulations as to interstate commerce with reference to any particular subject is taken as a declaration that the importation of that article into the States shall be unrestricted. It is only after the importation is completed and the property imported has mingled with and become a part of the general property of the State, that its regulations can act upon it, except so far as may be necessary to insure safety in the disposition of the import until thus mingled."

915 It is true that property, though started as an interstate shipment, may, between the point of shipment and the point of ultimate destination cease to be the subject of interstate commerce, and become subject to state action. The length and the purpose of the interruption of the transit are to be considered in determining the question.

Incidental stoppage is immaterial:

Kelly v. Rhoads, 188 U. S. 1.

Swift & Co. v. United States, 196 U. S. 375.

It is also true that though the shipment at its destination be unsold and still retain its character of interstate shipment, it may nevertheless be subject to certain State action; for example, taxation in connection with taxation of general property throughout the state.

Also to inspection. But this must not be of such a character as to unduly burden interstate commerce.

But state action is not permissible in certain other directions; for example, prohibition of the sale of the goods, except by express authority through congressional enactment.

Even in the matter of taxation state action is not allowable which places taxation upon "the occupation of doing a business" interstate in character.

Asher v. Texas, 128 U. S. 129.

The distinction between permissible and non-permissible state action lies in "the nature and operation of the particular exertion of state authority."

Am. Steele & Wire Co. v. Speed, 192 U. S. 500.

In the case of the State Freight Tax, 15 Wall. 232, the rule was announced in the following language:

916 "Whenever the subjects over which a power to regulate is asserted are in their nature national, or admit of one uniform system or plan of regulation, they may be justly said to be of such a nature as to require exclusive legislation by Congress. Surely, transportation of passengers or merchandise through a state or from one state to another, is of this nature.

In the case of South Covington Ry. Co. v. Covington, 235 U. S. 537, the court in passing upon a municipal ordinance governing and regulating street cars running between that city and Cincinnati, Ohio, said with reference to one of the sections making it unlawful for the company to permit to ride in its cars more than one third of the number of passengers over and above the number for which seats were provided therein, stated as follows:

"If Covington can regulate these matters, certainly Cincinnati can, and interstate business might be impeded by conflicting and varying regulations in this respect, with which it might be impossible to comply. On one side of the river one set of regulations might be enforced and on the other side quite a different set, and both seeking to control a practically continuous movement of cars. As was said in Hall v. De Cuir 95 U. S. 485, 489, 'commerce cannot flourish in the midst of such embarrassments.' "

"We need not stop to consider whether Congress has undertaken to regulate such interstate transportation as this, for it is clearly within its power to do so, and absence of Federal regulation does not give the power to the State to make rules which so necessarily control the conduct of interstate commerce as do those just considered."

As to the character of the business of transportation of natural gas, the Circuit Court of Appeals of this circuit has spoken as follows in the case of Haskell v. Cowham 187 Fed. 403, 408.

"Interstate commerce in natural gas including therein its transportation among the states by pipe line is a subject national in its character and susceptible of regulation by uniform rules. The silence or inaction of Congress relative to such a subject is a conclusive indication that it intends that interstate commerce therein shall 917 be free and any law or act of a state or its officers which prohibits it or substantially restrains its freedom is violative of the constitution and void. Welton v. State of Missouri 91 U. S. 275, 282, 23 L. Ed. 347; Brown v. Houston 114 U. S. 622, 631 5 Sup. Ct. 1091, 29 L. Ed. 257; Walling v. Michigan, 116 U. S. 446, 455, 456, 6 Sup. Ct. 454, 29 L. Ed. 691; Case of the State freight tax 15 Wall. 232, 21 L. Ed. 146."

This case was cited with approval in West v. Kansas Natural Gas Company 221, U. S. 229.

If anything further than the foregoing statement as to the character of the business actually carried on, and the application thereto of above cited authorities, were necessary in order to establish that the business carried on by the receiver is interstate in its character, and of such a nature as not to be properly susceptible of or subject to local state regulations such as the 28 cent rate order, we have the statement of the Public Utilities Commission itself in its opinion of July, 1915, which opinion concluded with the following language:

"It developed upon the hearing that more than half the natural gas supplied and marketed by complainants is sold in the State of Missouri. It is conveyed by means of pipe lines passing through Kansas City, St. Joseph and other cities in our sister state. It would be manifestly unfair to permit complainants to advance the price of gas to their Kansas patrons unless a corresponding increase were made to consumers in Missouri. It is conceded that an advance in Kansas without a similar one in Missouri would be unavailing for the purposes contemplated by complainants, and they do not desire any advance in Kansas except as it may be simultaneous with a corresponding one in Missouri."

"This Commission, therefore, awaits the pleasure and action of the rate-regulating body or bodies of Missouri having jurisdiction of the subject matter; and if in that State proper and necessary orders be issued establishing a schedule of rates as herein outlined, an order, effective, if possible, simultaneously, will be issued by this Commission in accordance with the views herein expressed."

918 The same conclusion was apparently reached by the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas, in ex rel. Flannelly 96 Kansas, 372, when in its opinion the court said:

"The last question for our consideration concerns the legality of the rates, both those that are in existence at the present time and those named in the opinion of the commission. The commission finds that where the net price of gas to consumers is now 25 cents per thousand cubic feet, the rate should be increased to 28 cents. This, in effect, is a finding that the rates now in existence are not compensatory. It then became the duty of the commission to fix compensatory rates, taking into consideration the gas sold in Missouri, assuming that compensatory rates will be fixed in Missouri. However, we may say that obedience to law in making rates in Kansas cannot legally be made dependent on obedience to the same law in Missouri."

The State of Kansas itself has thus realized that the business carried on by the receiver is of such character that the fixing of rates thereon is not a merely local matter.

Furthermore, control over the supply of gas is not within the power of the commission. The supply is an important element, however, in the fixing of rates. This state of affairs militates strongly against a conclusion that the business is of such character as to be properly subject to state control in the matter of rates.

The case of Manufacturers Heat & Light Company v. Ott, 215 Fed. 940, relied upon by the defendant commission, must be disregarded if it conflicts with the decisions above cited, for these decisions are binding upon this court. It may, however, in my opinion, be distinguished by the fact that the great bulk of the business transactions considered in that case were concededly intrastate, and the portion claimed to be interstate of very minor importance; whereas in the instant case exactly the reverse of those facts is true.

It is true that about six per cent of the gas delivered by the receiver in Kansas is produced in Kansas, but this cannot alter the general situation.

Where a substantial part of a business is interstate commerce, the imposition of burdens and regulations thereon by state action cannot be justified by the fact that a portion of the business thus sought to be controlled and regulated is intrastate.

See

Le Loup v. Port of Mobile, 127 U. S., 640, 647.

Norfolk Ry. v. Penn. 136 U. S., 114-119.

Crutcher v. Ky. 141 U. S., 47, 59.

Galveston Ry. v. Texas, 210 U. S., 217, 228.

W. U. Co., v. Kansas, 216, U. S., 1.

Williams v. Talladega, 226 U. S., 404, 419.

It is claimed by the defendant commission that the inaction of Congress, in view of the character of the business, is an indication that it was intended that state action such as is involved in the instant case, might properly be exercised. Here again it is not always easy to draw a hard and fast line between cases in which, in the absence of congressional action, the State may properly act, and those in which it may not act.

In the Minnesota Rate cases, 230 U. S., 352, the court in reference to this subject used the following language:

"The principle which determines this classification underlies the doctrine that the State cannot under any guise impose direct burdens upon interstate commerce. For this is but to hold that the states are not permitted directly to regulate or restrain that which from its nature should be under the control of the one authority and be free from restriction save as it is governed in the manner that the national legislature constitutionally ordains."

Even in the absence of congressional action, the exercise of state authority over interstate commerce does not extend to the fixing of rates for the transportation of goods in such commerce. This doctrine was announced before the establishment of the interstate commerce commission, and applies not merely to cases where that commission has jurisdiction in reference to rates, but also in the absence of such jurisdiction.

Wabash Ry. Co. v. Ill. 118 U. S. 557.

L. N. R. v. Eubank, 184 U. S. 27.

Ohio Ry. Comm. v. Worthington 225 U. S. 101.

In the case of Railroad Commission of Ohio v. Worthington 225 U. S. 101, the following language is used:

920 "It is not necessary to review the cases in this court which have settled beyond peradventure that the national government has exclusive authority to regulate interstate commerce under the Constitution of the United States; nor to do more than reaffirm the equally well settled proposition that over interstate commerce transportation rates the state has no jurisdiction and that an attempt to regulate such rates by the state or under its authority is void.

The conclusion reached therefore, is that the interstate commerce in which the receiver is engaged is not of a local nature; and is not, even in the absence of action by Congress subject to burdens or regulations imposed by state action, which are substantial rather than incidental in their nature.

(C) Is the fixing of the 28 cent rate by the Public Utilities Commission in the present controversy a burden or a regulation upon interstate commerce such as the state is not authorized to impose.

It is not necessary to review the many cases deciding what constitutes a burden upon or a regulation of interstate commerce. Reference may simply be made to the following amongst a great number.

State Freight Tax cases 15 Wall. 232.

Western U. Tel. Co. v. Kansas 216 U. S. 1.

International Text Book Co., v. Pigg 217 U. S. 91.

Bucks Stove Co. v. Vickers, 226 U. S. 205.

Minn. Rate cases 230 U. S. 352.

Sioux Remedy Co. v. Cope. 235 U. S. 197.

It appears from the evidence in the case that gas transported by the receiver from Oklahoma costs at the initial point five to seven cents per thousand cubic feet. The difference between this cost price and the selling price to the consumer is largely, if not wholly, made up of the cost of transportation. It would seem to require no argument to establish that any states or order fixing the price at which gas may be sold to the ultimate consumer is, under the circumstances disclosed by the present record, in fact, a fixing of rates for the transportation of the gas. If this be the case, then under the authorities heretofore cited, state action fixing such rates is not authorized. It being a direct burden upon and a direct attempt to regulate interstate commerce.

921 It is true the cases cited involved rates by common carriers, but as already noted, interstate commerce is equally protected whether engaged in by a common carrier or by individuals.

That the 28 cent rate is in reality a transportation rate and so intended by the commission is also shown by the method adopted by the commission in fixing the rate, viz: First, dividing the property used by the receiver in his business into two parts, that used in production, and that used in transportation, and then using the valuation of the latter only as a basis for fixing the rate.

In its opinion upon the preliminary injunction the enlarged court used the following language:

"That the enforcement by a state through its officers of any legislative act preventing interstate commerce in this article of interstate commerce, either by a direct prohibition of such commerce in this article by state law, or by an inhibition of a sale of the article in the state at any rate price whatever, or at any price above a price so low that the laws of trade made it impossible to purchase or procure it in another state and to sell and deliver it in the prohibiting state at that price with profit, substantially burdens and unduly interferes with interstate commerce, in violation of the commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States."

To the foregoing statement may be added, perhaps as a corollary, that whenever a state under the guise of fixing prices at which an article of interstate commerce brought into the state may be sold by the introducer upon its arrival at destination, in reality thereby necessarily fixes or regulates the rate of transportation of such article from its initial point to the point of destination, such action by the state in fixing the sale price is an attempt to directly burden and regulate interstate commerce, and is, therefore, unauthorized.

When tested by either or both of the last stated principles, the 28 cent rate order of the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, dated December 10, 1915, made under an assumed authority from the state, is found to be an attempt to directly and unduly burden and regulate interstate commerce, and is therefore, unauthorized.

922 This does not necessarily mean that the receiver or the company after the receivership can fix rates at their discretion. There still remain remedies for unreasonable rates.

See Covington Bridge Co. v. Ky. 154 U. S., 204, 222.

To sum up the foregoing, it is held:

First, that the rates in force on January 1, 1911, under the laws of Kansas 1911, Chapter 238, Section 30, for the sale and delivery of natural gas by the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company to consumers in Kansas, either directly or through intermediaries, were on December 10, 1915, and still are noncompensatory, unreasonably low, confiscatory, and violative of the Constitution of the United States.

Second, that the new rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas by its order of December 10, 1915, known as the 28 cent rate order, for the sale and delivery of natural gas by the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, either directly or through intermediaries were on said date and still are non-compensatory, unreasonably low, confiscatory and violative of the Constitution of the United States.

Third, that Section 30, Chapter 238, Laws of Kansas, 1911, in so far as it attempted to fix rates for the sale and delivery of natural gas, by the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, to consumers in Kansas, either directly or through intermediaries, was an attempt directly and unduly to burden and regulate interstate commerce, and therefore, unauthorized and void.

Fourth, that the so-called 28 cent rate order by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, dated December 10, 1915, made under an assumed authority from the state, is an attempt to directly and unduly burden and regulate interstate commerce and is, therefore, unauthorized and void.

Plaintiff is entitled to have the preliminary injunction heretofore granted made permanent.

The court expressly reserves jurisdiction over the parties to the suit and over the other issues involved therein until further order is made in reference thereto.

923 A decree may be prepared in accordance with the foregoing decision.

This cause came on to be further heard at this term and was argued by counsel. And thereupon, upon consideration thereof it was Ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:—namely:

First. That the rates in force on January 1, 1911, under the laws of Kansas, 1911, Chapter 238, Section 30, for the sale and delivery of natural gas by the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company to consumers in Kansas, either directly or through intermediaries, that is to say, to consumers at the following places and the cents below named:

were on December 10, 1915, and thereafter and still are non-compensatory, unreasonably low, confiscatory and violative of the first clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Second. That the new rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas by its order of December 10, 1915, known as the "twenty-eight cent rate" order for the sale and delivery directly or through intermediaries, of natural gas by the Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company to consumers in Kansas, that is to say, for domestic gas in Montgomery County, 23 cents per thousand cubic feet except at Elk City, where the present rate of 25 cents is to remain; boiler gas in said county 10 cents per thousand cubic feet. In all other counties or cities, except those supplied by the Gunn pipe line 28 cents per thousand cubic feet; in the cities supplied by the Gunn pipe line, the present rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet; and on all boiler gas, except in Montgomery County, 12½ cents per thousand cubic feet," were on said date and still are, non-compensatory, unreasonably low, confiscatory, and violative of the First Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Third. (a) That the great bulk of the business transacted by the Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is interstate commerce of a national character, and not of a local nature.

(b) That Section 30, Chapter 238, Laws of Kansas, 1911, in so far as it attempts to fix rates for the sale and delivery of natural gas by the Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, either directly or through intermediaries, to consumers in Kansas, was and still is an attempt directly and unduly to burden and regulate interstate commerce, and therefore, unauthorized and void; and

(c) That the so-called twenty-eight cent rate order issued by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, dated December 10, 1915, made under assumed authority from the State of Kansas, is an attempt to directly and unduly burden and regulate interstate commerce and is unauthorized and void.

Fourth. That the preliminary injunction heretofore granted herein, was proper and providently issued.

Fifth. That because the rates above specified are non-compensatory, unreasonably low, confiscatory, and violative of the first clause of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and

Because Section 30, Chapter 238, Laws of Kansas, 1911, insofar as it attempts to fix rates for the sale and delivery of natural gas by the Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company either directly or through intermediaries to consumers in Kansas; and the so-called 28-cent rate order issued by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, dated December 10, 1915, are each of them an attempt to directly and unduly burden and regulate interstate commerce; the plaintiff and the cross-complainants, Kansas Natural Gas Company, George F. Sharitt as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the Fidelity Title & Trust Company and L. G. Treleven as receiver of the Consumers Light, Heat & Power Company, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, and other defendants seeking the same relief, and each of them are entitled to have the preliminary injunction heretofore granted made permanent.

Sixth. That the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley, and John M. Kinkel as members of said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, H. O. Caster, as Attorney of said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, S. M. Brewster as Attorney General of the State of Kansas, and all other parties to this suit, and all the agents, attorneys, servants and employees of each and all of them, are hereby perpetually enjoined and prohibited from putting into force or maintaining in effect, or attempting to put in force and maintain in effect, by legal proceedings or otherwise, against John M. Landon as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Kansas Natural Gas Company, or George

F. Sharitt, Receiver thereof, or the Fidelity Title & Trust
928 Company, or L. G. Treleaven, as Receiver of the Consumers

Light, Heat & Power Company, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, or other parties hereto seeking the same relief as plaintiff, the rates prescribed in the Commission's order of December 10, 1915, or the rates in force on January 1, 1911, prescribed by Section 30, Chapter 238 of the Laws of Kansas, 1911, or any other rates hereafter prescribed by said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas or the state of Kansas, for the sale or distribution of natural gas transported from the State of Oklahoma to consumers within the State of Kansas, and from enforcing or causing the enforcement of by legal proceedings or otherwise, against the plaintiff, The Kansas Natural Gas Company, George F. Sharitt, Receiver, or the Fidelity Title & Trust Company or L. G. Treleaven as receiver of the Consumers Light, Heat & Power Company, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, or other parties hereto seeking the same relief as plaintiff, or their agents, attorneys, servants or employees, any penal provisions of Section 28, Chapter 238 of the Laws of Kansas, 1911, or any laws of the State of Kansas on account of the failure or refusal by them or either of them to put into force or maintain in effect such rates or any of them.

Seventh. That this court reserves jurisdiction to make upon proper showing, any or all of the other defendants herein, at any time during the pendency of this suit, subject to the terms of the permanent injunction hereby granted.

Eighth. That the plaintiff, and the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, recover from the defendants, the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, C. F. Foley, and John M. Kinkel, as members of said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, H. O. Caster, as attorney of said Public Utilities Commission of 929 Kansas, S. M. Brewster as attorney general of the state of Kansas, their costs herein expended, including the cost of final record, taxed at $— but that the clerk's costs and charges against plaintiff be paid in the first instance by plaintiff.

Ninth. That this court reserves jurisdiction over all the parties to the suit and over the other issues involved herein until further order is made in reference thereto.

Nothing contained in this decree, nor in the opinion upon which it is based, shall be construed as determining the rights of any of the Missouri defendants, touching the question of interstate commerce, or the status of the Distributing Companies' contracts in Kansas or Missouri.

Assignment of Errors

On Behalf of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel, and C. F. Foley, Members of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and H. O. Caster, Attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas.

And now come Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel and C. F. Foley, commissioners of the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas, for the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas, and H. O. Caster, attorney for said Commission, appellants, and make and file this their assignment of errors in their appeal herein:

I.

The district court of the United States for the district of Kansas erred in refusing to dismiss the bill of complaint in this action in said court for the reason that said court had no jurisdiction of said case.

II.

The said district court erred in refusing to direct the dismissal of said complaint for the reason that it appeared from said complaint and upon the record therein that a suit in which all of the matters sought to be drawn in controversy by said complaint were involved was pending in the supreme court of the state of Kansas at the time of the filing of said bill of complaint by the complainants therein, and that complainants had not and did not fully pursue the 931 remedies available to them in said suit in the supreme court of the state of Kansas before filing the bill of complaint in the district court of the United States, and that the bill of complaint was defective and void for want of equity for said reasons.

III.

That the United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in not giving judgment for these defendants in the court below, now appellants, for the reasons mentioned in the foregoing assignment numbered II, upon the evidence adduced by the parties and the record in the final trial of said case.

IV.

That the United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in the case below in granting a temporary injunction in said cause as against these defendants, now appellants, on the ground that the rate fixed by the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas for the distribution of gas by the complainant receiver to its patrons in the cities, towns, or other places in the state of Kansas was confiscatory and in violation of the constitution of the United States, in that the observing and putting into effect of said rate for the distribution of natural gas would amount to the taking of the property of the complainant receiver and the estate under his charge and control without due process of law and without compensation.

V.

The United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in the court below in giving judgment in favor of the complainants, now appellees, and against the appellants, in the final trial of said cause upon the evidence adduced and the record, for the reason given by the court that the rates fixed by the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas for the distribution of natural gas to the patrons of the complainant receiver in the cities, towns and other places in the state of Kansas were confiscatory and in violation of the constitution of the United States, and that the putting into effect of said rates would amount to the taking of the property of the said complainant receiver without due process of law or compensation, in violation of the constitution of the United States, and that 932 said rates were unreasonable and arbitrary and were unreasonably and arbitrarily fixed by the appellant Commission in violation of law and the constitution of the United States when judgment should have been rendered in favor of these appellants.

VI.

That the said United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in the court below in holding that the sale and distribution of gas in the manner in which the complainant receiver was engaged therein within the state of Kansas constituted interstate commerce and the engagement therein by the complainant receiver in the transactions involved in said case, and that the acts and conduct of said receiver involved in the transportation and sale of said natural gas to his patrons in the towns and cities of the state of Kansas and in other places therein constituted interstate commerce, and that the said business of transporting and selling natural gas to his patrons in the state of Kansas was not subject to the control of the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas within and under the local laws of the state of Kansas.

VII.

That the United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in determining that the rates prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas for the distribution of natural gas to the patrons of the complainant receiver were arbitrary, unreasonable and confiscatory and in violation of the constitution of the United States, as aforesaid, in that, in addition to other errors herein complained of, the court erroneously held that the cost and price of gas to the complainant receiver, delivered by vendors of the same to him at his pipe lines in Oklahoma and Kansas, was six cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, so delivered, whereas such findings were not supported by the evidence.

VIII.

The said United States district court for the district of Kansas, in the case below, erred in holding in the final trial of said cause, for the purpose of amortizing the value of the property of the complainant receiver and hence determining the validity of the rates prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas for the transportation, delivery and distribution of gas by 933 the complainant receiver, as aforesaid, that the probable life of the property of the complainant receiver then in his control was of the probable duration of five years, when in truth and in fact the value of said property and the just and legal amortization thereof for the purpose of fixing a return thereon should have been determined by the actual physical value and condition of said property, and the findings of the court were not sustained by the evidence adduced in said cause and the record therein.

IX.

The United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in refusing to dismiss the complaint of the complainants in the case below in so far as the question of interstate commerce was involved and material and in refusing to consider said question and to determine said cause against complainants on the questions involved as to interstate commerce, for the reason that said questions of interstate commerce had been fully determined in cases previously brought and prosecuted between the same parties, who were parties to the case below, and because said question of interstate commerce and all the facts and circumstances relating thereto, as it appeared from the evidence adduced in said cause and the record therein, had become res adjudicata.

X.

That the United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in holding the rates prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas for the sale and distribution of gas by the complainant receiver within the state of Kansas to be arbitrary, unreasonable, confiscatory and in violation of the constitution of the United States, as aforesaid, in addition to the other errors complained of herein, in that said court held and considered the cost of making extensions to the property owned by and in control of the complainant receiver for the purpose of improving the supply of gas to be chargeable as operating expenses in the maintenance of said property, whereas such expenses and cost of extensions of the pipe lines of the complainant receiver and other permanent improvements were properly and legally chargeable to the capital account of the said property and should not have been charged in the estimates made by the said court as against said property and its patrons as operating expenses.

XI.

That the United States district court for the district of Kansas erred in the case below in that it appeared from the evidence adduced by the parties in said case and the record therein that the rates in controversy in said suit and complained of by the complainant receiver were voluntarily put into effect by said receiver, and that the receiver did not exact from his patrons within the state of Kansas as high a rate for the transportation and distribution of natural gas to them as he was entitled to charge for such services, and that for said reason the said complainant receiver should not have been permitted by the court in the case below to have contended that said rates were arbitrary, unreasonable, or confiscatory, or in violation of the constitution of the United States, and that the evidence in said case showed that said rates were reasonable, legal, and were not confiscatory or unconstitutional, but were fair and just to said complainant receiver and his patrons throughout the state of Kansas.

Bond of the Public Utilities Commission on Appeal.

(Bond No. 615,329.)

Know All Men by These Presents: That the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas and the Fidelity and Casualty Company of New York is held and firmly bound unto John M. Landon, receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, in the full and just sum of three thousand dollars to be paid to the said John M. Landon, his successors and assigns, to which payment, well and truly to be made, we bind ourselves, our successors and assigns jointly and severally by these presents. Sealed with our seal- and dated this 26th day of May, A. D. 1917.

935       Whereas, Lately, and on the 21st day of April A. D. 1917, in the district court of the United States for the district of Kansas, first division, in a suit pending in such court between John M. Landon, receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, vs. the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas, and Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel, and C. F. Foley, members of said Commission, and H. O. Caster, its attorney, et al., judgment was rendered against the defendants, and the said defendants, The Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel and C. F. Foley, members of said Commission, and H. O. Caster, its attorney, has obtained an order of the said court allowing an appeal from the decision of the said court to reverse the judgment in the aforesaid suit, and a citation directed to the said John M. Landon, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, George F. Sharitt, receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, citing and admonishing them to be and appear in the supreme court of the United States, at the city of Washington, sixty days from and after the date of said citation:

Now the condition of the above obligation is such, that if the said The Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas, Joseph L. Bristow, John M. Kinkel and C. F. JOHN M. LONDON and GEORGE F. SHARITT, Receivers of the Kansas
Natural Gas Company, Plaintiffs,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF KANSAS et al., Defendants.

Supplemental Answer of Kansas City Gas Company.

Now comes the Kansas City Gas Company, and further answering the plaintiffs' bill of complaint and amended bill of complaint filed herein, states that the receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, George F. Sharitt, Conway F. Holmes and Eugene Mackey, receivers appointed by the above entitled court in the case of John L.
McKinney, plaintiff, vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No.

1351-N, and the case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company vs. The Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., and the successors of said Sharitt, Holmes and Mackey, to-wit: John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, appointed receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, in the case of State of Kansas vs. Independence Gas Company and Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 13,476, and John M. Landon, ancillary receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company appointed by the above entitled court in said case of John L. McKinney vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., and said case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., and John M. Landon, re-appointed as acting receiver of said Kansas Natural Gas Company

941 by the above entitled court in said McKinney and Fidelity Title & Trust Company cases, have each and all, by their acts, conduct and course of business and by their performance and acquiescence in the performance of the supply-contracts dated November 17 and December 3, 1906, existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company, accepted and adopted said contracts; and said receivers and their successors in possession, right, title and interest in and to the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company are estopped and barred by their said acts, conduct and acquiescence from denying or controverting the binding force and effect of said contracts upon said receivers and their successors in possession, right, title and interest of the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

That the above entitled court has, by its orders in said case of John L. McKinney vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company and said case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., adopted said contracts.

That the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas by its orders made and entered in said case of State of Kansas vs. The Independence Gas Company and Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 13,476, has adopted said supply-contracts.

That the Kansas City Gas Company did, from the appointment of the above named receivers on October 9, 1912, to the present time, pay to said receivers on account of said contracts and in strict compliance with and performance thereof the sum of —.

That the order of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, hereto attached by reference to report of receiver filed herein on October 18, 1916, and made a part hereof purporting to pass upon said contracts is void and of no effect, for the reason that the said court had never acquired jurisdiction over the Kansas 942 City Gas Company and said company was not a party to said suit in which said pretended order was entered.

That the above named receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company have, during their operation of said properties and performance of said contracts and other similar contracts existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and other distributing companies and said receivers, earned sufficient funds to pay the entire operating costs of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and said receivers, together with large expenditures for capital account, and have in addition thereto paid interest on the entire bonded indebtedness of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and have paid and discharged the principal of the bonded indebtedness of said company and its subsidiary companies in the total sum of —.

That during said receiverships and the distribution and sale of said gas under said supply-contracts by this defendant, and by reason of the failure and default of said receivers to furnish the supply of gas contemplated in said contracts or the supply of gas necessary to meet the demands of this defendant, this defendant has been unable to earn any return upon the reasonable value of its properties used in the distribution of said gas or anything for depreciation or amortization of said properties; and for the past two years has been unable to earn even operating costs.

Defendant further states that a large majority, exceeding eighty per cent, of all the stock and a large majority, exceeding eighty percent, of all the bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its subsidiary companies and a portion of the first mortgage bonds of said Kansas Natural Gas Company have been purchased and 943 acquired by one and the same party, to-wit: Henry L. Doherty & Company, a co-partnership consisting of Henry L. Doherty and Frank Frucauff, and are now held and owned by said party; that there are not to exceed $350,000 of outstanding first mortgage bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company owned for which said Fidelity Title & Trust Company, trustee, commenced the above mentioned suit; that said Kansas Natural Gas Company's properties, including its subsidiaries covered by the mortgage securing said bonds, exceeds the value of seven million dollars; that by reason thereof it is not necessary to abrogate or disavow said supply-contracts in the interest of said bondholders.

That the mortgage securing said first mortgage bonds has been extended by agreement and stipulation of the creditors in what is known as the "Creditors' Agreement," and said foreclosure suit should no longer be maintained as the basis and ground for the above entitled dependent case.

That plaintiffs' claim of right to abrogate or disavow said supply-contracts is by reason of the premises wholly without equity, in violation of this defendant's rights and will work a great and irreparable injury and damage to this defendant.

Wherefore, this defendant prays that the plaintiff take nothing by its suit against this defendant and that said case be dismissed as to this defendant with its costs.

No. 136-N.

JOHN M. LANDON, Receiver, Plaintiff,

vs.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF KANSAS et al., Defendants.

The further hearing of this case came up on the 30th day of July, 1917, at the Federal Building, Minneapolis, Minnesota, the respective parties being represented by their several attorneys.

The Court: I had supposed until this morning that there was to be simply an informal conference by the Receiver and his counsel in case 1351 Equity with reference to the question of the advisability of making a change in the rates for the coming winter and as to what those rates should be, but I am advised that the parties interested have been notified, and I think, wisely so, as the conference might well take a broader scope than what I had supposed it was to take, because the question is one in which a good many parties are interested. It is also a question upon which the court desires to get all the light possible before making any definite order.

It might very likely be of advantage if not to all, at least to some of you to know what decision has been reached upon the issues which were tried and submitted at Kansas City a few weeks ago in case 136-N Equity. I have not been able to prepare a written opinion for filing with regard to these issues but I have, 947 however, reached certain conclusions, and I think perhaps it would be just as well that I should state what these conclusions are at this time, and then, if I think it advisable, I will reduce them later to writing and have them filed. If this is the desire of the attorneys, I will follow this plan because I think it may have some bearing upon the discussion as to what rates the court may order, and also have some bearing as to the position the attorneys may take up on one side or the other and especially those representing Missouri defendants.

By a former decision which was filed in April and by a decree that was entered upon that decision, the issues in case No. 136-N so far as they related specially to the Missouri defendants and also the issue as to the status of the supply contracts were held open for taking further evidence and for further consideration.

The jurisdictional questions raised by the Missouri defendants do not require further discussion. They have been disposed of by the former decisions, viz: The decision of the enlarged court found in 234 Fed. 152, and the decision of this court filed April 21, 1917.

The principal issues in which the Missouri defendants are interested involve two main questions. First, whether the acts of the Missouri Commission and of the Missouri defendants or of certain of them have been of such a character as to call for an injunction against them on behalf of the Receiver. That question resolves itself into two subordinate questions. (a) Whether the business which is being carried on by the Receiver, viz: The transportation of natural gas from Oklahoma and sale thereof in Missouri constitutes interstate commerce; (b) Whether the acts of the Missouri Commission or any of them can be held to be acts which in effect 948 deprive the Receiver of the property of the company without due process of law. The second main question and one in which not only the Missouri defendants but also the Kansas defendants are interested, is the question as to the status of the supply contracts originally made by the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its predecessor with various distributing companies or their predecessors. This question again is divisible into two subordinate questions; (a) As to the Status of the supply contracts as between the original parties or their assignees, and (b) the status of the supply contracts as to the receiver. The relief sought by the Receiver is:

First, by way of injunction against the defendants, and especially against the Missouri Commission, restraining them from interfering with the carrying on of the business of transportation and selling of natural gas from Oklahoma into Missouri. The claim of the plaintiff is that the business thus carried on is interstate commerce, and that the Missouri Commission and some of the other defendants have attempted to unduly and directly burden this interstate commerce and to place restrictions upon it; and further it is claimed that the acts of the Missouri Commission in effect take away the property of the Receiver without due process of law. Secondly, by way of injunction as against all of the defendants to prevent them or any of them from instituting any suits or proceedings or taking any steps without the consent of this court to enforce the provisions of the so-called supply contracts, which they claim, or which some of them claim, are still in force as against the Receiver; the Receiver claiming: (1) that these supply contracts were invalid in their inception; (2) that even if they were valid yet, nevertheless, by reason of the changed circumstances, and by reason of the provisions in the contracts themselves looking towards a change of circumstances, they are no longer binding upon the original parties to these contracts; (3) that even if the contracts were valid in their inception and still are existing valid contracts between the original parties, yet they are not at this time binding upon the receiver.

949 Similar relief is also sought by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and by several of the distributing companies. Several of the distributing companies and some of the cities take the position that these supply contracts are at present valid existing contracts upon the Receiver as well as upon the original parties. Others of the distributing companies take the position that while the contracts may be valid and existing between the original parties, yet they do not contend that they are binding upon the Receiver.

Now, as to the question of interstate commerce, I have gone over the record as well as I could within the time that I have been able to give to it, and in my judgment the facts upon which this issue stands in regard to the Missouri defendants are substantially the same as in the case against the Kansas defendants. The differences in them are not vital, and most of them in my judgment are immaterial. The question of storage has been presented and pressed with great earnestness, as being a very important factor to be taken into consideration in determining this question of interstate commerce. But to my mind the evidence shows that such storage as exists is merely incidental to the transportation of the gas, and in fact that it is a necessary incident to the proper and efficient transportation of the gas. Hence, this storage being merely incidental, it seems to me that it does not change the character of the business from interstate commerce to intrastate commerce.

Kelly v. Rhoads, 188 U. S. 1.

Swift & Co. v. United States, 196 U. S. 211, 229.

Western Oil Co. v. Lipscomb U. S. Sup. Cr. June 4, 1917.

McFadden v. Ry. Co., 241 F. 562.

950        Arguments have been made and pressed with great earnestness which are in substance to the effect that the court erred in holding in the former decision that the business was interstate commerce; and that in fact the entire business transacted by the Receiver whether relating to the state of Kansas or to the state of Missouri is not interstate commerce. I have given to this matter all the attention which I have been able to give it, and also to the arguments of counsel upon this question. While I admit that there may be possible doubt as to the correctness of the conclusion reached, yet I do not see any reason at this time for reversing the decision as to the Kansas defendants; and I hold as to the Missouri defendants that the business transacted by the Receiver in transporting natural gas from Oklahoma and selling it in Missouri is interstate commerce.

It has been suggested by counsel that the situation presents a clash between the principle that a state may control public utilities doing business within its boundaries, and the principle that a state may not directly impose a burden on interstate commerce. If there is such a clash between these two principles, then I am clearly of the opinion that the decision must be in favor of the principle that the state may not directly burden or interfere with interstate commerce. That principle must prevail rather than the principle that the state under all circumstances must have the fullest control over a public utility doing business within its borders. Whether there is such a clash between these two principles is not necessary for me to determine at this time.

The Missouri Commission has made no orders fixing general rates for the sale of gas by the Receiver within the state of Missouri, as was the case in regard to the Kansas defendants. But the Missouri Commission has done certain specific acts; amongst others it has suspended schedules of rates which were agreed upon by the Receiver and the distributing companies and has threatened the dis-951        tributing companies with further action against them if they should undertake to enforce those rates. It has also taken the position through its counsel in open court that it would recognize no rates as valid unless those rates were first submitted to the Commission for its approval and approved by it. Not only that, it has taken jurisdiction over complaints by the distributing companies and in some instances I think by the cities as to rates, but instead of proceeding to hearing upon these complaints it has suspended the hearings from time to time without attempting to reach any definite conclusion. It has attempted by order made in August, 1916, to establish a new rate for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri. In these various acts the defendant cities have severally participated. The result of all this is that the Receiver is seriously hampered in his business, and the distributing companies are also seriously hampered in their business in attempting to put in a schedule of rates for the various cities in Missouri. In my judgment these acts on the part of the Missouri Commission constitute an attempt to directly interfere with and directly burden interstate commerce. I am likewise of the opinion that they also in effect constitute the taking of the property of the Receiver without due process of law.

Now, as to the second main question, namely the question of the supply contracts. These supply contracts were entered into by the original parties during the years from 1905 to 1908 or 1909 and perhaps later. As far as I have been able to examine them, they all contain one clause which is very similar, and I do not know but it is identical in its wording: "However, as the production of gas from the wells and the conveying of it from long distances is subject to accidents and interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not under this contract undertake to furnish the parties of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period 952 named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such a period of time as the wells and pipe lines of the party of the first part and such other resources as the party of the first part shall be able to command are capable of supplying. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the parties of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage or injury that may result either directly or indirectly from such shortages or interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply the parties of the second part with a constant and sufficient supply of merchantable gas for all consumers."

All the contracts which I have examined contain a provision similar to that quoted. They all contain, also, or at least those which I have examined contain certain provisions restrictive on the parties to the contract; restrictive as to the right of the parties furnishing the gas to furnish it to any other person or corporation doing business in the zone or district specified; and restrictive as against the distributing companies to prevent them from purchasing gas from any other person or corporation than the person named in the contract who is furnishing the gas, except under certain conditions.

In April, 1912, the Supreme Court of Kansas had occasion to review these contracts, and while there is a difference amongst counsel as to just what the judgment of that court was in its effect, I think it must be conceded by all that the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas took the view that there were certain clauses at least in these contracts that were contrary to the statutes of the State of Kansas, and also contrary to public policy. It may very well be doubted whether those same restrictive clauses were not also a violation of the statutes of the United States against trusts and monopolies.

State v. Kansas Natural Gas Co., No. 17977.

Montague & Co. v. Lowry, 193 U. S. 38.

953 With full knowledge of these facts the United States District Court of the State of Kansas made an order in October, 1912, touching these contracts, and the gist of that order was that these contracts should not be binding upon the receiver except upon further express order of the court. The Circuit Court of Appeals for this Circuit in a decision in a case arising out of this general gas controversy upon a contract, not a supply contract, but a lease contract, also held that that contract was not binding upon the receiver and took occasion in its decision to refer to the above mentioned express order of the United States District Court of Kansas. K. C. Pipe Line Co. v. Fidel. Co., 217 Fed. 187. On two separate occasions the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, has held that these supply contracts are not merely not binding upon the receiver but invalid in their inception, as being against the statutes of the State of Kansas, and being also against the statutes of the United States as well as against public policy.

There never has been any formal adoption by the receiver of these supply contracts. In such case it is not the law that a contract shall be binding upon the receiver until it is disavowed by him, but the law is that it is not binding upon the receiver until it is accepted by him; and while it is true that ordinarily the law requires the receiver to indicate within a reasonable time whether or not he will accept a contract, in this particular case the court relieved the receiver of any necessity for taking any action by expressly ordering that the contract should not be binding upon the receiver until the court by its order made it binding. It was not necessary for the receiver to take any action on his part. If the other parties to the contract wished to have these contracts made binding upon the receiver the court was open to them to make an application, and upon that application the court would have made such an order as was deemed necessary. No such action was ever taken and the order of the court made in October, 1912, still stands that these contracts are not binding 954 upon the Receiver until the further orders of the court may make them so.

Now, whether these contracts were originally valid or invalid, and whether they became functus officio even if they were valid in their inception, are questions that it is not necessary for the court to decide them at this time. The Kansas Natural Gas Company has in its pleadings prayed to have these contracts set aside as to it. I do not deem it advisable at this time to make any decision with regard to the validity of the contracts as between the original parties to them: Whether they are still valid, whether they have ceased to be valid or whether they were invalid in their inception. While I shall deny the prayer of the Kansas Natural Company at this time it will be without prejudice to any action on the part of that company that it may see fit to take, whether in the cases that are pending in this court No. 1351 Equity, or No. 1 Equity, or otherwise. If it should see fit to take proper action to determine the validity of these contracts this decision will not prejudice it from so doing.

The conclusions which I reach are: that the business transacted by the Receiver in Missouri is interstate commerce, that the supply contracts are not binding upon the Receiver; that the Missouri Commission should be enjoined, and that such of the other defendants as have done acts or made any threats towards commencing any suit or proceedings, looking towards the enforcement of the supply contracts as against the receiver, should also be enjoined. A decree may be prepared accordingly.

Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al., Defendants.

956

Decree.

This cause came on to be further heard at this term and was argued by counsel and thereupon upon consideration thereof it was Ordered, adudged and decreed as follows: viz:

First, That Frank W. McAllister, now the Attorney General of the State of Missouri, and Zach D. Patterson, General Counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, William G. Busby, David E. Blair, Noah W. Simpson, and Edward Flad, who, with Edwin J. Bean, now constitute the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and in open court by agreement of their counsel, James D. Lindsay, and the plaintiff, no objection being made by any of the parties to this cause, were substituted as defendants; Frank W. McAllister in place of John T. Barker, who was Attorney General, Zach D. Patterson in place of William G. Busby who was counsel of the Public Service Commission; William G. Busby, 957 David E. Blair, Noah W. Simpson, Edward Flad in place of John M. Atkinson, John Kennish, Howard B. Shaw, and Eugene McQuillan, who, with Edwin J. Bean constituted the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri at the time this cause was begun.

Second. That the business transacted by the plaintiff to-wit, the transportation of natural gas from Kansas and Oklahoma to Missouri, and the distribution and sale therein of said gas in said state by plaintiff and distributing companies above mentioned is interstate commerce of a national character and not of a local nature.

Third. That the following orders of the Public Service Commission of Missouri suspending rates and schedules for natural gas, to-wit the order of suspension of rates and charges of the Weston Gas & Light Company entered on the 18th day of September, 1916, in case No. 1083; the order suspending the rates and charges of the Joplin Gas Company, entered on the 17th day of August, 1916, in case No. 1055; the order entered on the 13th day of September, 1916, in case No. 1075 suspending the rates and charges of the Fort Scott & Nevada Light, Heat, Water & Power Company; the order suspending the rates of the Carl Junction Gas Company entered on August 17, 1916, in case No. 1057 and the subsequent orders made by said commission extending the periods of suspension; and the order made on the 10th day of August, 1916, in case No. 1050 establishing a new rate for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, effective November 19, 1916; and the threats made by said commission and the statements made in open court by counsel for the Commission that other similar orders will be entered whenever plaintiff or the distributing companies above mentioned shall attempt to establish new schedules of rates for the sale and distribution of natural gas in any of the cities in Missouri, are attempts directly and unduly to burden and regulate interstate commerce and are, therefore, unauthorized and void. 958

Fourth. That the Public Service Commission Act of the State of Missouri and particularly Section 69, subdivision 12, and Section 70 thereof authorizing said commission to suspend the enforcement of natural gas rate schedules filed with said commission, and defer the use of rates, charges, forms of contract and agreements for a period of 120 days beyond the time when such rates, charges, forms of contract and agreements would otherwise go into effect; and further authorizing said commission to extend the time of suspension for a further period of six months and further providing that no change shall be made in rates, charges, forms of contract on agreements established until after thirty days' notice to the commission and publication thereof for 30 days by order of the commission, together with the construction placed upon said Public Service Commission Act by said Commission and the acts and proceedings of said Commission thereunder, as hereinbefore set forth, constitute the taking of the property of the plaintiff and the distributing companies above named without due process of law and without just compensation and deny to the plaintiff and said distributing companies the equal protection of the law, all in contravention of the Constitution of the United States.

Fifth. That the following described contracts heretofore existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its predecessors and the defendant distributing companies or their predecessors are not binding upon the plaintiff, to-wit:

1. The contract dated November 17, 1906, between McGowan, Small & Morgan, grantees, predecessors of the Kansas City Gas Company, and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company which was assumed by the Kaw Gas Company, predecessors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by lease dated November 19th, 1906, between said Kaw Gas Company and Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and the contract dated December 3rd, 1906, between said McGowan, Small & Morgan and said Kansas City Pipe Line Company which was assumed by said Kaw Gas Company by agreement dated December 5th, 1906, both of which contracts dated November 17, 1906, and December 3rd, respectively were further assumed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company under the lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company.

which this defendant will ask for a hearing before the final hearing of this cause upon facts; and, second, a statement in answer to the averments of said bill and a denial of such matters as are denied by this defendant; and, third, a statement of affirmative matters which it is averred by this defendant constitute defense to the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs herein.

First.

(a) This defendant avers that it is and was at all times mentioned in the bill a municipal corporation organized and existing under a freeholder's charter framed and adopted under and in accordance with Sections 16 and 17, Article IX, of the Constitution of Missouri, which reads as follows:

"Sec. 16. Large Cities May Frame Their Own Charters; How Adopted and Amended.—Any city having a population of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants may frame a charter for its own government, consistent with and subject to the Constitution and laws of this state, by causing a board of thirteen freeholders, who shall have been for at least five years qualified voters thereof, to be elected by the qualified voters of such city at any general or special election, which board shall, within ninety days after such election, return to the chief magistrate of such city a draft 968 of such charter, signed by the members of such board or a majority of them. Within thirty days thereafter such proposed charter shall be submitted to the qualified voters of such city, at a general or special election, and if four-sevenths of such qualified voters voting thereat shall ratify the same, it shall, at the end of thirty days thereafter, become the charter of such city, and supersede any existing charter and amendments thereof. A duplicate certificate shall be made, setting forth the charter proposed and its ratification, which shall be signed by the chief magistrate of such city and authenticated by its corporate seal. One of such certificates shall be deposited in the office of the Secretary of State, and the other, after being recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds for the county in which such city lies, shall be deposited among the archives of such city, and all courts shall take judicial notice thereof. Such charter, so adopted, may be amended by a proposal therefor, made by the lawmaking authorities of such city, published for at least thirty days in three newspapers of largest circulation in such city, one of which shall be a newspaper printed in the German language, and accepted by three-fifths of the qualified voters of such city, voting at a general or special election, and not otherwise; but such charter shall always be in harmony with and subject to the Constitution and laws of the state.

Sec. 17. Provisions of Such Charters—Alternative Sections May Be Submitted to Voters.—It shall be a feature of all such charters that they shall provide, among other things, for a mayor or chief magistrate, and two houses of legislation, one of which at least shall be elected by general ticket; and in submitting any such charter or amendment thereto to the qualified voters of such city, any alternative section or article may be presented for the choice of the voters, and may be voted on separately, and accepted or rejected separately, without prejudice to other articles or sections of the charter or any amendment thereto," and is a governmental agency of the 969 State of Missouri, located wholly within and a resident of the County of Jackson, State of Missouri, and that the subpoena in this suit was served upon this defendant in said Jackson County, Missouri, outside of the state and district of Kansas, as shown by the return, of service thereof indorsed on or attached thereto, to which subpoena and return reference is now made, for which reasons said subpoena and the service thereof on this defendant was, and is, without authority of law and void, and this court does not have jurisdiction of this defendant in this suit.

Therefore, this defendant respectfully asks that said subpoena and return of service thereof be quashed and this suit dismissed as to this defendant.

(b) This defendant avers that said bill shows on its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action and of parties therein:

1. For that plaintiffs in Divisions I to XX, both inclusive, and also in Divisions XXVIII to XXXII, both inclusive, of the bill have alleged facts which are therein alleged to constitute causes of action and grounds of relief against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, an administrative agency created and existing by, and acting under, the laws of the State of Kansas alone, because of certain proceedings in the bill alleged to have been had and taken before and orders alleged to have been made by said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas; and that said bill also shows on its face that this defendant was not a party to any such proceedings and is, and was, not within the jurisdiction of said Public Utilities Commission, and that all matters and things in said divisions of the bill complained of are outside of any power or authority possessed by this defendant; and that no relief is prayed against this defendant 970 because of any averments contained in said divisions of the bill.

2. And for that in Divisions XXI to XXVII, both inclusive, of the bills plaintiffs have alleged facts which are therein alleged to constitute causes of action and grounds of relief against the Public Service Commission of Missouri, an administrative agency created and existing by, and acting under, the laws of the State of Missouri alone, because of certain proceedings in the bill alleged to have been had and taken before orders and statements alleged to have been made by the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and that said bill also shows on its face that this defendant was not a party to any proceedings by or before the Public Service Commission of Missouri, or to any order or declaration in the bill alleged to have been made by it, and that said Public Service Commission has not made, or been asked to make, any order or take any proceedings in relation to, or in any wise affecting, the rate, sale or delivery of gas in Kansas City, Missouri; and that the matters and things in said Divisions

XXI to XXVII, both inclusive, of the bill complained of are wholly outside of the control and of any power, right or authority possessed by this defendant.

3. And for that the plaintiffs, in Division XXIX to XXXII, both inclusive, have attempted to allege facts therein alleged to constitute joint causes of action and grounds of relief against said Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and said Public Service Commission of Missouri, and it is also shown on the face of the bill that the matters and things alleged in said Divisions I to XXXII, both inclusive, are entirely outside of the control and of any power, right or privilege possessed by this defendant, and it also appears from the face of said bill that this defendant was not a party to, and was not affected by, and that none or all averments in said Divisions I to 971 XXXII of the bill relate to or affect the rate, sale or delivery of gas in Kansas City, Missouri, and it also appears from the face of said bill that no relief against this defendant is prayed because of any matters or things alleged or averments of law contained in said Divisions I to XXXII of the bill.

(4) And for that the plaintiffs, in Division XXXIII of the bill, appear to have attempted to make a statement of facts for the purpose of showing that they have alleged causes of action against the municipalities located within the State of Kansas and municipalities located within the State of Missouri, which are named as defendants in this suit, and against the distributing companies named as defendants in this suit, some of which are doing business wholly within the State of Kansas and some wholly within the State of Missouri; but it is not apparent, and this defendant cannot determine, whether plaintiffs have attempted to state in said Division XXXIII joint causes of action against said municipalities and distributing companies, or separate causes of action against said municipalities and said distributing company, or separate causes of action against each of said municipalities and each of said distributing companies. As against the distributing companies it is averred in said Division XXXIII (Bill of Complaint, p. 61), "That said gas was originally furnished by the Kansas Natural Gas Company to said distributing companies under and pursuant to certain supply contracts of record in this court in said creditors' suit and foreclosure suit upon which this bill is dependent as aforesaid," which contracts are improvident, wasteful and destructive of the estate in the hands of plaintiff and 972 fraudulent and void and have not been adopted by plaintiffs.

Said contracts are not otherwise pleaded or identified and this defendant is not a party to said suits, or either of them.

The parties to said contracts are not set out or stated in the bill and it cannot be determined from anything averred in the bill whether or not the parties to said supply contracts are parties to this suit.

As against said cities, it is in said Division XXXIII averred "That natural gas is furnished by plaintiffs and distributed and sold as aforesaid in each and all of said defendant cities, under and pursuant to certain ordinances granting to said distributing companies the right to the use of the public ways of said cities therefor," which said alleged ordinances are not otherwise pleaded or identified in the bill.

It is further alleged in said Division XXXIII "That said cities have heretofore exercised governmental power of rate regulation by the passage of certain ordinances purporting to establish, regulate and fix the price of and rate for the sale of natural gas in said several cities," which said ordinances are not otherwise pleaded or identified in said bill.

It is further averred in said Division XXXIII "That certain of said ordinances are in excess of powers conferred upon said cities by the State Legislature, and all of said ordinances and rates therein established and fixed are unreasonable, non-compensatory and confiscatory of the estate and property in the custody of plaintiffs and of this court, and the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and an interference with interstate commerce," which said alleged ordinances are not otherwise pleaded or identified in the bill.

It is further averred in said Division XXXIII that said cities are claiming the power to fix, regulate and establish the rates, 973 charges and compensation which plaintiffs shall receive for natural gas furnished by them, and that said cities, and their respective city officials, are, and for more than three years have been, conducting or threatening injunctions and prosecutions with the purpose, design and intent to establish, regulate, control and fix said prices, and "that all of said acts, threats, ordinances and prosecutions and threatened prosecutions are an interference with interstate commerce conducted and carried on by plaintiffs to usurpation and abuse of power by said cities," which said alleged ordinances, acts, prosecutions or threats are not otherwise pleaded, identified or specified in said bill.

This defendant avers that it appears from the face of said bill that the matters and things therein averred do not constitute a cause of action in favor of the plaintiffs or against this defendant and do not entitle the plaintiffs to the relief prayed for or to any relief against this defendant; and that if it be held by the court that a cause of action against this defendant is stated in the bill, this defendant says that the averments in said Division XXXIII of the bill are so confused and indefinite and uncertain that the defendant cannot make proper answer or make, or prepare to make, defense thereto; and that said averments are so confused, indefinite and uncertain that in the event the court grant an injunction herein against this defendant, as prayed in the bill of complaint, this defendant will not know what ordinances it may or may not enforce without violation of the injunction, and will not know what acts it is required to do or refrain from doing in order to comply with such injunction.

Wherefore, this defendant prays the court to dismiss the bill of complaint as to it; and if its prayer that the bill be dismissed as to it be by the court denied, then it prays that plaintiffs be required 974 to make the bill of complaint definite and certain in the respects in which it is hereinbefore in this division of this answer averred to be indefinite and uncertain, to the end that the defendant will be enabled to make proper answer and defense and prepare to make its further proper defense thereto.

(c) This defendant avers that the bill of complaint shows on its face that this Court is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the pretended causes of action in the bill alleged, for the reason that it appears on the face of the bill that plaintiffs are not without adequate remedy in the due course of law for any rights or remedies due them or for the redress of any wrongs complained of under the laws of the State of Missouri, or ordinances of Kansas City, Missouri, and that said plaintiffs have not pursued remedies provided by law for them, and that, therefore, said bill fails to show any cause for equitable relief in favor of the plaintiffs and against this defendant.

(d) This defendant, to avoid prolixity and expense, adopts Division VI and VII, Part First, of the answer of the Public Service Commission of Missouri this day filed herein to the bill of complaint of the plaintiffs as the further answer of this defendant as to plaintiffs' right to the relief prayed for in the bill or to any equitable relief in this suit.

Second.

This defendant, having pleaded its objections to the jurisdiction of the Court, based upon illegal process and illegal service thereof, and want of legal process and legal service thereof, on this defendant in this suit and objections arising upon the points of law disclosed upon the face of the bill of complaint, and having moved to dismiss this suit for the reasons therein stated, further answering, says:

This defendant, further answering, to avoid prolixity and expense, adopts, as a part of this its answer herein, Division I, Part Second, of the answer of the Public Service Commission of Missouri this day filed herein to the bill of complaint of plaintiffs, and, in addition thereto, this defendant, making further answer of matters peculiar to itself, specifically denies that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has fixed any rate regulating or controlling the disposition of natural gas by plaintiffs within the corporate limits of Kansas City, Missouri.

This defendant states that it does not now purchase or procure, and has never at any time purchased or procured, natural gas of the plaintiffs or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and that neither the plaintiffs nor the Kansas Natural Gas Company has, or ever had the right of lawful authority to sell or deliver gas to any consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, and that if plaintiffs, as such receivers, have sold or delivered, or are now selling or delivering natural gas to consumers within the corporate limits of said city, they were and are trespassers and wrongdoers and are not entitled to be protected therein by a court of equity.

II.

Further answering, this defendant admits the statement of facts in the first, second and third paragraph- of Division II of the bill of complaint; and of the fourth paragraph thereof, except the allegation that the Attorney General of Missouri is charged by the law of the State of Missouri with the duty and obligation of executing and enforcing the laws of said state affecting public utilities, which allegation this defendant denies.

976 This defendant admits that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and from 1904 to 1912 was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas and that it has been admitted to do business in the State of Kansas as a foreign corporation; and admits that an order was made and entered September 22, 1914, in the case of John L. McKinney et al. v. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N, Equity, as stated in the last paragraph of said Division II.

This defendant denies that George F. Sharritt is in possession or control, actual or potential, of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or of the property under lease by it within the States of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, as receiver, by virtue of such order, or otherwise.

Further answering, this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save such as is derived from the bill of complaint and answers of other defendants herein as to the incorporation of Fidelity Title & Trust Company and its trusteeship under mortgages of Kansas Natural Gas Company; and as to the incorporation of Delaware Trust Company and its trusteeship under mortgage of Kansas Natural Gas Company; and as to Fidelity Trust Company and its trusteeship under mortgages of Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and as to incorporation of the latter and lease by it of its property to Kansas Natural Gas Company, and as to possession and operation thereof by receivers of the latter Company; and as to the value thereof unless operated in conjunction with the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company; and as to the incorporation of Marnet 977 Mining Company and as to its property and pipe line and operation and value thereof as separated from the pipe line system operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company; and as to John F. Overfield and appointment of him as receiver of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and as to the system of pipe lines owned or operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company, location thereof and of its terminals, and leaves plaintiff to make such proof of all such alleged facts, and prays that he may be required to make strict proof.

III.

Further answering, this defendant admits that said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs, were, and that said John M. Landon now is, in actual possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and property under lease by it within the State of Kansas, as receiver of said Company appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas.

This defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save such as is derived from the bill as to possession and control of pipe line system of Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leased lines located in the States of Oklahoma and Missouri as alleged in the second paragraph of Division III of the bill and leaves plaintiff to make such proof thereof, and prays that he be required to make strict proof.

IV.

This defendant admits all the averments of Division IV of the bill of complaint.

V.

Further answering, this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save such as is derived from the bill as to the alleged "Creditors' Agreement" referred to in Division V or as to the parties thereto or as to the approval thereof by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and denies the matters and things set up in said "Creditors' Agreement," and states that even if said "Creditors' Agreement" was made as alleged in the bill, this defendant did not have notice of the making thereof, did not participate therein, is neither a party thereto nor in any wise bound thereby.

Further answering, this defendant admits that the Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of receivers, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas and carrying on its said activities in the States of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri; that after the appointment of the receivers in this Court, the receivers continued and carried on said business after the manner the same had been theretofore conducted by said Company, and after the delivery of the property aforesaid to said state receivers, they continued to carry on said business theretofore conducted by said federal receivers and by said Kansas Natural Gas Company; and admits that in carrying on said business the plaintiff receiver carries on and conducts the same by the use of instrumentalities consisting of pipe lines, gas wells, compressor stations, gathering lines, feed lines, measuring stations, regulation stations and other devices commonly used in the gas business.

Further answering, this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save that derived from the bill as to the location and routes of said pipe lines and terminals thereof in Kansas and

Oklahoma, and, therefore, leaves the plaintiff to make such proof thereof as he may be advised.

This defendant admits that the gas is taken from wells where it is produced in the States of Oklahoma and Kansas and conducted through pipe lines from Kansas and Oklahoma to Missouri, and that it is transported through said pipe lines by the use of compressors and that compressor stations are an essential and necessary part to said transportation system.

This defendant, further answering, specifically denies that natural gas is transported through said pipe lines controlled or operated by the plaintiffs to consumers in the State of Missouri, and especially in Kansas City, Missouri, and denies that said natural gas, from the time it leaves the gas wells in Oklahoma until it is delivered to consumers in the States of Kansas and Missouri and by them consumed, is in continuous course of transportation, or at no time stored or its transportation suspended; and denies that plaintiffs begin in Oklahoma such transportation of natural gas with the intent and purpose that said natural gas shall be continuously moved and transported without interruption until it is delivered to consumers in Kansas and Missouri, and denies that the same is true of natural gas transportation from Kansas to consumers in Missouri.

This defendant states, on the contrary, that gas is stored in said pipe lines, and is, and at all times during the operation of said business has been, stored therein in large quantities whenever the supply in possession of Kansas Natural Gas Company or of plaintiffs required or permitted the same to be stored, and that the storage capacity of the pipe lines from Ottawa, Kansas, to Kansas City, Kansas, is approximately 7,000,000 cubic feet at a pressure of 300 pounds, in excess of their normal delivery, and that said pipe lines operated by the plaintiffs, carrying a pressure of 300 pounds, afford very large storage capacity for small space, and that in the natural gas business it is not considered good business and is not customary to build holders for storage of natural gas for the reason that the same amount of money expended in pipe lines gives additional storage capacity as well as increased transportation facilities.

Further answering, this defendant denies that natural gas is delivered by plaintiffs to consumers in the several cities through distributing companies under written contracts, and especially denies that natural gas is so delivered by plaintiffs to any consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

Further answering, this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save that derived from the bill as to ownership of compressor stations operated by the plaintiff or as to whether or not each compressor station is a part of the unit system of transportation owned and operated by the plaintiffs, or as to whether or not said pipe lines constitute one complete system which cannot be operated separately or otherwise than as one unit. This defendant admits that none of the natural gas transported by plaintiffs is produced in Missouri, and leaves plaintiffs to make such proof thereof as they may be advised.

Further answering, this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save that derived from the bill as to the percentages of the gas obtained and transmitted by plaintiffs obtained in Oklahoma or in Kansas, or as to whether the gas procured in Kansas may be controlled without interfering with the control and management of the gas procured in Oklahoma.

This defendant denies that gas procured either in Kansas or in Oklahoma is transmitted through and by means of said pipe lines from the wells in Oklahoma in one continuous and uninterrupted journey to consumers in Kansas or to consumers in Missouri, and especially to any consumer in Kansas City, Missouri.

This defendant, further answering, denies that the business carried on and conducted by plaintiff is the carrying on of business and commerce among different states of the Union, to-wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and denies that it is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States as confided

981 to it by Section 8 of Article 1 of the Constitution of the United States and not subject to control or regulation of the States of Kansas or Missouri, and alleges that the said business conducted by the plaintiff receiver is subject to the control and regulation of the States of Kansas and Missouri, respectively.

This defendant, to avoid prolixity and expense, adopts for its further answer to Division V of the bill, all, except only the first paragraph of Division V, Part Second, of the answer of the Public Service Commission of Missouri this day filed herein to the bill of complaint of plaintiffs.

VI.

This defendant admits that the statement of fact in Division VI of the bill as to Section 238, Laws of Kansas, 1911, and as to rates in effect in Kansas January 1, 1911, as shown by schedule marked Exhibit "C" and made part of the bill.

This defendant admits that an order was entered in the receivership suits pending in this Court wherein an attempt was made to increase and fix the rates at which the federal receivers were authorized to sell natural gas, and that on January 4, 1913, said order was modified and, in effect, completely suspended.

This defendant states that said order was made January 2, 1913, as of December 30, 1912, and that thereby the receivers were ordered to shut off the supply of gas from all parties served by them who failed, within ten days after January 2, 1913, to enter into contract, in writing, to continue to take gas at the rate specified in said order and to shut off gas immediately from any party who refused, within such ten days, to enter into such written agreement; that said order was made in the very middle of the winter, ex parte, without notice to consumers, at a time when it was not possible for consumers of 982 gas to make arrangements for other or different fuel, and the enforcement thereof would have caused intense suffering and distress to thousands of consumers who were dependent upon natural gas alone for cooking, lighting and heating purposes; that the court which made the order as of December 30, 1912, recognizing that the order was made without authority and was null and void, by its said order of January 4, 1913, suspended the enforcement, and has never pretended to enforce it.

VII.

This defendant states that it was not a party to any of the proceedings or to the alleged Creditors' Agreement referred to in Division VII of the bill, and is not bound or concluded by any order, judgment, decree or contract therein referred to, and is not sufficiently advised to make, as of its own knowledge, full answer thereto; but has no doubt that the statements contained in Division VII of the answer heretofore filed herein of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are correct, and hereby refers to said answer and adopts Division VII thereof as its full answer to the matters of fact alleged in Division VII of the bill.

VIII.

This defendant states that it was not a party to any of the proceedings referred to in Division VIII of the bill and is not bound or concluded by any order, judgment or decree therein referred to, and is not sufficiently advised to make full answer, as of its own knowledge, to the matters of fact in said Division VIII alleged, but has no doubt that the statements contained in Division VIII of the answer heretofore filed herein of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are correct, and hereby refers to said answer and adopts Division VIII thereof as its full answer to the matters 983 of fact alleged in Division VIII of the bill.

IX.

This defendant states that it was not a party to any proceedings in Division IX of the bill referred to and is not bound or concluded by any order, judgment or decree therein referred to; that this defendant is not subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, which has no jurisdiction or authority outside of the territorial limits of the State of Kansas.

Further answering, this defendant states that it is not sufficiently advised to make full answer, as of its own knowledge, as to the matters of fact set up in said Division IX of the bill, but has no doubt that the statements contained in Division IX of the answer heretofore filed of the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri are correct, and hereby refers to said answer and adopts Division IX, Part Second, thereof as its answer to the matters of fact alleged in said Division IX of the bill.

X.

This defendant says that it has no knowledge or information save only as derived from the bill as to the assessed value of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including operated and leased property, in the State of Kansas or in the State of Missouri or in the State of Oklahoma for the year 1915, or at any other time, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof and asks that he be required to make strict proof.

This defendant denies that the assessed valuation of the property for purposes of taxation is the true or correct valuation on which to base rates for services rendered by public utilities such as that operated by plaintiffs.

XI.

This defendant, further answering to the bill of complaint, to avoid prolixity and expense, adopts as part of this its answer, Division XI, Division XII and Division XIII, Part second, of the answer of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, this day filed herein to the bill of complaint of plaintiffs with the same force and effect as if herein set out as Division XI and Division XII and Division XIII of this, its answer.

XV.

This defendant states that it has no knowledge or information as to the correct amount of revenue which the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas will produce in the State of Kansas, or as to the revenue which the rates in existence will create in the State of Missouri, or the correctness of the table in Division XV of the bill, or as to the amount of additional revenue and increase of one cent per thousand cubic feet in the rate charged for natural gas sold in Kansas and Missouri, and leaves plaintiff to make proof thereof and asks that he be required to make strict proof.

This defendant denies that $5,140,696.00 revenue is required for the year 1916, and $4,698,845.00 for the year 1917 and each year thereafter during the remaining years of the life of the plant, and denies that the present rates fall short of producing the required revenue by $2,339,464.00 for the year 1916, and $1,897,613.00 for the year 1917 and each year thereafter, and denies that a rate of thirty-seven cents at all points in Kansas north of Montgomery County, and at all points in Missouri except St. Joseph, will not be sufficient to give plaintiff a fair return on the property em-

985 employed in said business, and alleges that the rates fixed December 10, 1915, by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas and the rates now in effect in Missouri, are sufficient to give plaintiff a fair return on the property employed in such business.

XVI.

This defendant denies that the table set out in Divisions XIII and XV of the bill are typical of the years of the remaining life of said plant, and denies that any lower schedule of rates in the State of Kansas than those set out in Exhibit "F" of said bill will be unreasonable, unremunerative, non-compensatory or confiscatory, or that plaintiffs, receivers, have been deprived of property without just compensation or without due process of law, or that they will continue to be so deprived of property in the transportation of gas to consumers in the State of Kansas unless the rates set out in said Exhibit "F" are put into effect; and denies that the order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void or in contravention of the 14th Amendment of the Constitution of the United States or an interference with interstate commerce; and states that it has been finally judged that the business conducted by the plaintiffs is not interstate commerce as fully set forth in Division VI, Part First, of the answer of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri.

This defendant does not know whether the Kansas Natural Gas Company or said Federal Receivers or the plaintiffs herein, or any of them, have or do deliver or sell gas to domestic consumers in the State of Oklahoma or conduct or carry on any business of or as a public utility therein.

XVII.

This defendant states that the order of December 10, 1915, of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas is without force or effect outside of the boundaries of the State of Kansas, and do not bind or in any wise control this defendant; but this defendant has no doubt that the statements contained in Division XVII, Part Second, of the answer heretofore filed herein of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas are correct and hereby refers to said answer and adopts said Division XVII thereof as its full answer to the matters of fact alleged in said Division XVII of the bill.

XVIII.

This defendant denies that adequate relief at law was not, or is not, available to the plaintiff for any wrong complained of in his bill, or that his resources and efforts would be absorbed in unnecessary or burdensome litigation because of any matter of fact in his bill set out; and denies that the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company would be appropriated without due process of law.

XIX.

This defendant, having once denied each and all of the matters of fact stated in Division XIX of the bill, again denies every allegation of fact contained in Division XIX of the bill.

XX.

This defendant denies that by said opinion of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas no return is provided on 54.52 per cent of the property used by plaintiff in transportation of natural gas, and denies that the Public Service Commission of Missouri, in fixing rates for natural gas delivered in that state, cannot 987 take into consideration property used by plaintiff located in the State of Kansas; and denies that if the rates for natural gas in Kansas are fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of that state and rates in Missouri are fixed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri, any part of the property of plaintiff used in production and transportation of natural gas, cannot be considered by either Commission in determining the fair value of the property employed in said business, and denies that plaintiff will be deprived of property without due process of law or that he will not be afforded equal protection of the law.

This defendant denies that the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas erred in fixing a rate for service rendered to consumers in Kansas upon the value of the property used or useful in rendering such service; and denies that the property and plant operated by the plaintiff is such that it cannot be operated or considered for any purpose except as one unit; and denies that the court of appeals for this circuit in the case of Kansas City Pipe Line Company v. Fidelity Title & Trust Company, 217 Federal 189, held that said property and plant must be considered and treated as one unit for rate making purposes, and that a rate ought to be fixed for service rendered in Kansas without regard to the fact that the same property, or a very large part thereof, was also used in rendering like service outside of the State of Kansas, or that a rate should be fixed in Missouri for like service, if any, rendered by plaintiff in Missouri without regard to the fact that the same property, or a very large part thereof, was also used in rendering like service in Kansas.

This defendant admits that it is not bound by the percentages of allocation fixed by the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, and admits that the demand of consumers of natural gas in Kan-988 sas and Missouri is increasing, requiring the building, by plaintiff, of extensions to pipe lines if he is permitted to continue to operate said property, and admits that no such extensions can be made by plaintiff without the consent of the court.

This defendant states that the plant now operated by plaintiff is not, and never has been of sufficient capacity to produce or transport, and never has produced or transported to Kansas City, Missouri, an amount of gas reasonably sufficient to supply the demand therein; and that said Kansas Natural Gas Company, in 1911 and prior thereto and since that date, and up to the time its property was placed in the hands of receivers, and the receivers since that time, failed and refused to procure or produce or to transport and deliver to the distributing company in Kansas City, Missouri, sufficient amount of gas to reasonably supply the demand in said city, and that the capacity of the said pipe lines at this time is not sufficient to transport to Kansas City, Missouri, more than 65 per cent of the volume of gas reasonably necessary to supply the demand therein; that ever since the use of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, was first begun the supply thereof and pressure has been inadequate and insufficient to reasonably supply the demand, and on a great many days and for days at a time, at many different times, the supply and pressure was so inadequate and insufficient as to be practically worthless, food could not be cooked, homes heated or lighted by use thereof, and thereby great suffering and injury to the health of consumers and their families resulted.

This defendant has no knowledge as to the comparative value of property operated by the receiver, located in Kansas, and elsewhere, or as to the value of such property which is within the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, or what action, 989 if any, the Public Service Commission of Missouri has taken with regard to the observance of rates fixed by franchises in the cities of Missouri, and alleges that said Public Service Commission of Missouri has not taken, or been asked to take, any action with regard to rates, or fixed or required observance of any rates charged for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri.

XXI.

This defendant denies that John M. Atkinson, as Chairman of said Missouri Public Service Commission, or for said Commission, announced on the 27th day of December, 1915, or at any other time, that the Public Service Commission of Missouri would not permit higher rates to be charged in the cities in the State of Missouri than was charged in border cities in the State of Kansas; and denies that said Missouri Public Service Commission has since said date, at any time, adhered to any such policy or has refused to permit an increase in the rates charged in cities served by the plaintiff receiver in the State of Missouri because the rates charged in Kansas had not been raised.

On the contrary, this defendant states that the Public Service Commission of Missouri has since said date approved a rate of forty cents for the sale of natural gas in the city of St. Joseph, Missouri, and that said rate is higher than any rate at any time charged, or permitted by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas to be charged, in any city in the State of Kansas.

This defendant again alleges that the Public Service Commission of Missouri has not taken, and has not been asked to take, any action with regard to rates for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri.

This defendant states that it does not know what orders or action, if any, the Public Service Commission of Missouri has 990 taken with regard to rates in Oronogo or Carl Junction, Missouri, or what orders or other action it has taken with reference to rates in St. Joseph, Missouri, other than as hereinbefore in this division of this answer stated, and leaves plaintiff to make proof thereof and asks that he be required to make strict proof.

This defendant denies that 26  $\frac{2}{3}$  cents per thousand cubic feet is unreasonably low, non-compensatory, unremunerative or confiscatory for the service and property employed by plaintiff in transporting gas to St. Joseph, Missouri.

XXII.

This defendant denies that any schedule or rate below 37 cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in the State of Missouri except St. Joseph, and 26 2/3 cents for plaintiffs' portion of gas delivered in St. Joseph is and will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory or confiscatory, and denies that any rate which has been prescribed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri is unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory or confiscatory; and denies that plaintiffs have been deprived of the property without compensation or without due process of law, or that they will continue to be deprived of the property without compensation or without due process of law in the transportation of gas to consumers in the State of Missouri.

This defendant states that it does not have any knowledge or information as to the transportation by plaintiff of any gas to any consumers in the State of Missouri or what, if any, orders have been made by the Public Service Commission of said state regulating or fixing the rate of gas to consumers except as stated in 991 Division XXI of this answer.

This defendant states that the plaintiff has never sold or delivered, or had any right to sell or deliver, any natural gas to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

XXIII.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff has no adequate remedy in the premises except such relief as may be obtained by appealing to a court of equity for any wrong alleged in the bill to have been sustained by him by reason of any action of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff has the right or authority to fix rates for the sale of natural gas in Missouri, and denies that he has the right or authority to sell or deliver natural gas to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri; and denies that the present rates in effect in Kansas City, Missouri, were prescribed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri, and denies that they are unreasonable, or unremunerative, non-compensatory or confiscatory.

This defendant states that the rates for furnishing and delivering natural gas, and the obligation to furnish the same, to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, are fixed and prescribed by ordinance contract more specifically referred to in Division — of this answer.

This defendant denies that it has any knowledge, as to the alleged desire of plaintiffs, receivers, to put into effect reasonable rates for natural gas sold in Missouri and leaves him to make proof thereof.

XXIV.

This defendant states that it has no knowledge or information as to what action the Public Service Commission of Missouri will 992 take with regard to the basis of allocation of property used in the transportation of gas as between Kansas and Missouri.

This defendant denies that the rates charged Missouri cities (except Kansas City) supplied with natural gas will necessarily be higher than the rates charged border cities in Kansas on account of the distance, or value of property used, or leakage.

This defendant again denies that the Public Service Commission of Missouri has announced a policy to suspend the schedules of rates proposing or attempting to put into force in Missouri cities rates higher than rates collected in the border cities of Kansas; and denies that if said Commission should adopt such policy, the plaintiff would be compelled to violate any Act of Congress or subject plaintiff to suits or needlessly dissipate the property in his control.

This defendant states that it does not know what action, if any, the Public Service Commission has taken with reference to rates in the City of St. Joseph except as hereinbefore in Division XXI of this answer set out.

This defendant denies that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has threatened, or does now threaten, to suspend any rate or schedule proposed or attempted to be put into force in Missouri by plaintiff receiver, or his agents, prescribing a higher rate than 28 cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers at Kansas City and all other points in the State of Missouri supplied by the plaintiff receiver.

This defendant states that the rate prescribed by said contract ordinance No. 33887 now being paid by consumers of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, is reasonable, remunerative and compensatory, 993 and even more than they should, in justice, be required to pay for the kind and character of service they receive.

This defendant denies that the Public Service Commission of Missouri has taken, or has been asked to take, or threatened to take, any action whatsoever with reference to the rates for natural gas furnished to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

XXV.

This defendant admits that Sections 70, 83 and 85 of the "Public Service Commission Act" approved March 17, 1913, are as set out in Division XXV of the bill.

This defendant states that by Section XII of the Act of the General Assembly of Missouri approved March 17, 1913, and known as Public Service Commission Act (Laws of Mo. 1913, p. 556, l. c. 642), it was and is provided that any order of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri may be stayed pending a writ of review thereof by any Circuit Court having jurisdiction to review such order, and to which application for writ of review shall have been made, by the applicant filing with the court and by its consent, a bond approved by it and conditioned to pay all damages caused by delay in enforcing the order of the Commission and of all money which any person or corporation may be compelled to pay in excess of the charges fixed by the Commission in case its order be sustained; and that by Section 14 of said Act (Laws of Mo. 1913, p. 644), it is provided that the judgment of the Circuit Court rendered on review of any order or judgment of said Commission may also be suspended pending an appeal to the Supreme Court by the applicant giving like bond with conditions as required in the bond given pending review in the Circuit Court.

XXVI.

This defendant denies that any penalties provided by said Public Service Commission Act or by Section 70, Section 83 and Section 85, or any of them, are excessive or unusually severe, and denies that plaintiff was, or is, intimidated by any penalty in said Act prescribed; and denies that, under the provisions of said Act, the fines and penalties provided for failure by plaintiff to comply, for a period of one year, with any order of said Commission, in event it should be judicially determined that plaintiff had wrongfully failed to comply therewith would approximate the sum of $29,272,540,000.00, or any excessive sum; mate the sum of $29,272,540.00, or any excessive sum; and states that even if the allegations set out in Division XXVI of the bill were true, it would still be within the power of the plaintiff, under the provisions of said Act, to comply with the provisions of said Section 112 and said Section 114 thereof which are reasonable and liberal and thereby avoid liability to any fines or penalties in any manner whatever.

This defendant denies that plaintiff has furnished, or is now furnishing, or has ever had the right to furnish, natural gas to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, through distributing companies, or otherwise.

This defendant has no knowledge as to the number of consumers in Missouri, and leaves plaintiff to make proof thereof and asks that he be required to make strict proof.

XXVII.

This defendant again denies that the penalties provided in the Public Service Commission Act are unusual, oppressive or unreasonable, and denies that plaintiff has been constrained or intimidated thereby or prevented thereby from challenging, in the courts,

995 any other order of said Public Service Commission of Missouri, or forced to keep in effect requirements or schedules prescribed by said Commission; and denies that plaintiff has been, or is now, denied the equal protection of the law in contravention of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, by reason of any law of the State of Missouri, or of anything done, or order or judgment made or rendered, by the Public Service Commission of said state; and denies that adequate relief at law from any wrong stated or complained of in the bill is not available to plaintiff, or that the resources and efforts of plaintiff would be absorbed in unnecessary or burdensome litigation; and denies that the properties of the Kansas Natural Gas Company would be appropriated without due process of law; and denies that by reason or by virtue of any facts stated in the bill or of any Acts of the Public Service Commission of Missouri or of any penalties prescribed by the statutes of said state, plaintiff is deprived of property without due process of law or compelled to transport gas to consumers in Missouri for less than the natural cost of said services or at an actual loss for gas so supplied or delivered.

This defendant again denies that plaintiff supplies or delivers gas to any consumer in Kansas City, Missouri.

XXVIII.

This defendant admits the matters of fact stated in Division XXVIII of the bill.

XXIX.

This defendant denies any knowledge of any rate fixed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri except only as stated in Division XXI of this answer.

This defendant denies that the rates prescribed by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or either of them, will 996 take all, or any part, of the property now in the actual possession of the plaintiff, as such receiver, before the end of the six-year period as set out in said Creditors' Agreement, Exhibit "A," as the duration of their control and possession or leave nothing to turn over to George G. Sharritt as receiver of this court; and denies that any rates prescribed by either of said Commission- is an interference with the possession and control of this court over property, potentially or otherwise, in its charge or custody.

This defendant states that the parties to said Creditors' Agreement had neither right or authority to fix therein the duration of the control and possession of the receivers, and that any such provision in said agreement is of no force and effect.

XXX.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff is without adequate remedy at law in the premises in his bill set forth or that he will suffer irreparable injury unless accorded injunctive relief as prayed for therein.

This defendant states that the plaintiff has full and adequate remedy at law for each and every alleged wrong stated in his said bill if, in fact, any wrong has been done, or threatened to be done.

XXXI.

This defendant has already hereinbefore answered in full each and every statement of fact in Division XXXI of the bill contained, and now again denies that any of the circumstances or that all the circumstances enumerated in the bill deprived the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or the plaintiff, of property without due process of law or take property of said Company or of the plaintiff without compensation or deny to it, or to him, equal protection of the law, and specifically denies the matter of fact stated in paragraphs (a), (c) and (f), and in each of them, in Division XXXI of the bill contained. This defendant, upon information and belief, denies each and every statement of fact contained in paragraphs (b), (d) and (e), and each of them, in said Division XXXI of the bill contained.

XXXII.

This defendant, upon information and belief, denies that the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas has refused to permit plaintiff receiver to put into force and effect a schedule of reasonable rates in the State of Kansas; and denies that any order or judgment referred to in the bill as having been made by the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void for any reason stated in Division XXXII of the bill, or for any other reason.

This defendant states that it has no knowledge concerning any orders, if any, made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, suspending the schedule of rates sought to be put into effect at Oronogo or Carl Junction, and has no knowledge of any order made by said Public Service Commission concerning rates or division of rates in St. Joseph, Missouri, except as stated in Division XXI of this answer, and leaves plaintiff to make proof thereof and asks that he be required to make strict proof.

This defendant again denies that the Public Service Commission has at any time announced a policy to allow no higher rate to be charged in Missouri than in the cities of Kansas, and denies each and every statement of fact contained in paragraphs (a), (c) and (e), and each of them, of Division XXXII of the bill; and denies that any order made by said Public Service Commission is void for the reason stated in said paragraphs (a), (c) and (e) of the bill, or any of them.

998 This defendant, upon information and belief, denies the facts stated in paragraphs (b) and (d), and each of them, in said Division XXXII of the bill, and denies that any order made by the Public Service Commission is void for any reason stated in said paragraphs (b) or (d).

XXXIII.

This defendant states that it has no knowledge, except as in this answer hereafter set out, as to which of the twenty-one distributing companies named as defendants in the bill distribute, deliver or sell gas to the forty-five cities and towns, respectively, named as defendants in the bill, thirty-seven of the latter being in Kansas and eight in Missouri, or as to how many of said distributing companies obtain the gas so sold, delivered and distributed now from the plaintiffs or originally from the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or as to what alleged supply-contracts are of record in the suits referred to in the bill, to neither of which this defendant is a party, or as to the terms or provisions of such contracts or respective obligations, duties, advantages or disadvantages of the parties thereto, or as to the adoption by plaintiffs of such contract, or as to the method or result of doing business under or in accordance with them, or as to the circumstances under which such contracts were made or what the parties thereto then thought, or whether or not each of said contracts contained the provisions in the bill set out and alleged therein to be so contained, or as to the necessities of such distributing companies or their dependence upon supply companies, or as to what franchises plaintiffs refer to in their bill, or the terms or provisions of such franchises, or as to what ordinances plaintiffs intend to refer to, or as to what cities and distributing companies knew at the time such ordinances were passed or accepted, or as to the result to plaintiffs or to Kansas

999 Natural Gas Company of continuing to furnish natural gas to such distributing companies under said contracts or ordinances, or as to the ordinances referred to in the bill as granting to such distributing companies the right to use the public ways of said cities under and pursuant to which it is alleged that natural gas is furnished by plaintiffs and distributed and sold in each of said cities, or as to gas so furnished by plaintiff or so distributed or sold, or as to the enactment by said cities of ordinances referred to in the bill as purporting to establish or fix the price or rate for sale of natural gas in said several cities, or as to which of said ordinances are intended to be referred to in the averment "that certain of said ordinances are in excess of powers conferred upon said cities by the State Legislatures," or as to the rates established or fixed by said ordinances or effect thereof upon the property in the custody of the plaintiffs, or as to the powers claimed by said cities, or any of them, to fix, regulate, determine or establish rates or compensation which plaintiff shall receive for natural gas furnished by them, or as to any injunctions, prosecutions or police regulations conducted or threatened by said cities, or their respective mayors or city officials, or any of them, for the purpose, design or intent to regulate, control or fix the price at which plaintiffs may sell natural gas furnished by them, and leaves plaintiffs to make proof of such of said allegations as may be material, and prays that they be required to make strict proof.

Except that this defendant denies that it has ever granted to plaintiffs, as such receivers, or that they have, or ever had, any right or privilege to sell or distribute natural gas to or in Kansas City, Missouri; and denies that plaintiffs sell or distribute gas to or in said city; and denies that any ordinance enacted by it regulating or fixing any price or rate for the sale of natural gas in said city is in 1000 excess of its powers, or that any rate so fixed by it is unreasonable, non-compensatory or confiscatory; and denies that it now claims or has the right to fix, regulate, determine or establish rates, charges or compensation for the sale of natural gas, except by contract; and denies that its mayors, city counselors or common councils, or any of them, are or have been conducting or threatening injunctions, prosecutions or police regulations with the purpose, design or intent to regulate, control or fix the price at which plaintiffs may sell natural gas, and denies that it has done or threatened any act or thing, or passed any ordinance, which interferes with the lawful or legitimate management and operation by plaintiffs of the property and business in their hands as receivers, or is a usurpation or an abuse by it of power; and denies that the business conducted or carried on by plaintiffs in the operation, as such receivers, of the property and business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company is interstate commerce; and denies that this defendant, or any of its officers, unless restrained and enjoined by this Court, will subject plaintiffs or any of the defendant distributing companies to a multiplicity of suits, injunctions or prosecutions in state or municipal courts, or subject plaintiffs or any of said distributing companies to irreparable damage, loss or expense, and denies that any distributing company delivers plaintiffs' gas to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

This defendant states, on the contrary, that it has not only not harassed or injured plaintiffs, or the property in their possession, by suits, threats or otherwise, but has, at all times, when practicable, aided, assisted and endeavored to co-operate with plaintiffs.

On information and belief, this defendant avers that since the proceedings before the Public Utilities Commission of Kansas, begun in January, 1913, and shortly thereafter concluded as stated in Division VI of the bill, plaintiffs have not been involved 1001 in any suits or proceedings in any judicial or administrative tribunal in the State of Kansas or in the State of Missouri other than such as were instituted by themselves, except only the continued proceedings in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and in this Court in the suits in which the receivers were appointed, and in those courts only upon their own initiative, and the proceedings in the Supreme Court of Kansas in case entitled State of Kansas on Relation of H. O. Caster et al. v. Thomas J. Flannelly et al., which last named proceedings were made necessary by aggressive and wrongful action and proceedings of receivers themselves in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas.

This defendant denies that the Kansas City Gas Company, one of the defendants in the above entitled suit, is, or was at any time, a distributing company, or an agent or distributing company of the plaintiffs or of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company; on the contrary, this defendant avers that said Kansas City Gas Company is, and was at all times mentioned in the bill, an independent corporation actually engaged in the business of buying, selling and delivering to Kansas City and other consumers natural gas in said city; and is, and since its organization has been, owned and controlled by the United Gas Improvement Company, a corporation, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and has not herein asked, or joined the receivers in asking, an increase of the rate or price of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri.

Third.

This defendant, having fully traversed and answered the bill of complaint filed herein, further answering, says:

I.

On January 13, 1912, there was begun, and is now pending, in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, Missouri, at Kansas City, a suit, No. 63201, on the docket of said court, wherein Kansas City, Missouri, a municipal corporation, this defendant, is plaintiff, and Kansas City Gas Company, a corporation, one of the defendants in this suit, is defendant, wherein said Kansas City sues for itself and all consumers who may elect to join therein, and alleges that the Kansas City Gas Company had repeatedly failed, neglected and refused to supply, furnish and deliver to said city and other consumers of natural gas therein which it had agreed to furnish and was under obligation to furnish under ordinance of said city No. 33887, approved September 27, 1906, and known as the Natural Gas Franchise, and had constantly and continuously failed to meet its obligations thereunder, and prayed the court for an accounting with the defendant, and that the court ascertain and determine the value of gas furnished and delivered by the defendant, and to restrain and enjoin the defendant from shutting off the gas from any consumer who refused to pay the charges made by the Kansas City Gas Company, for the reason that the Kansas City Gas Company had failed to furnish the volume of gas under the pressure required by said franchise contract in reasonable compliance therewith, in which suit a restraining order and, subsequently, a temporary injunction was granted, and plaintiff gave and filed therein, as required by the court, an injunction bond in the sum of $25,000.00, which still remains in full force and effect.

II.

That on the — day of January, 1912, there was begun, and is now pending, in the District Court of the United States for the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri, a suit wherein said Kansas City Gas Company is complainant and said Kansas City, its then mayor and city counsel and other city officials are defendants, and numbered 3793 on the docket of said court, wherein the plaintiff complained that a certain ordinance therein complained of and theretofore passed by said city prescribing the pressure to be maintained within the corporate limits by said Kansas City Gas Company in furnishing and delivering gas under its said franchise was unreasonable and confiscatory, and prays that the city be restrained and enjoined from enforcing said pressure ordinance; that a temporary injunction was therein granted as prayed for and said Kansas City Gas Company gave and filed therein an injunction bond as required by the court; that this defendant subsequently filed in said cause, in the District Court of the United States for the Western Division of the West District of Missouri, its amended and supplemental answer and counter-claim, wherein, among other things, it alleges that the United Gas Improvement Company, a corporation; Kansas City, Missouri, Gas Company, a corporation; Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation; Kaw Gas Company, a corporation; Marnet Mining Company, a corporation; W. F. Douthirt, Charles E. Small and Randall Morgan are necessary parties to said suit, to the end that the issues therein may be fully and properly presented, and that said United Gas Improvement Company is the owner of a certain Ordinance No. 6125, approved January 10, 1895, wherein Robert M. Snyder and others therein named were granted a franchise to construct and maintain gas works for the purpose of manufacturing and selling gas to said city and its 1004 citizens; and that said United Gas Improvement Company is also the owner of a certain other ordinance of said city, No. 6658, which became a law without the signature of the mayor August 24, 1895, wherein Milton J. Payne and others therein named were granted a franchise to acquire, construct and maintain gas works in said city for the purpose of manufacturing and selling gas to said city and its citizens; and also of a certain other Ordinance No. 8033, which became a law without the signature of the mayor February 13, 1897, which authorized and permitted the two gas franchises hereinbefore named to be consolidated, and that said United Gas Improvement Company is the owner of all said franchises, rights and privileges thereunder, and is also the owner of said Ordinance No. 33887, known as the Natural Gas Franchise, and of all franchises, rights and privileges thereunder, and is, in fact, operating under said franchises and doing business in Kansas City, Missouri, in the name of Kansas City Gas Company; that said United Gas Improvement Company caused to be organized said Kansas City Pipe Line Company and said Kaw Gas Company, and is the owner of the stock of said companies and of bonds of Kansas City Pipe Line Company and of stock and bonds of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and of stock and bonds of the Marnet Mining Company, and of certain pipe lines and compressor stations and other property held in the name of Kaw Gas Company, of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company and of the Wyandotte County Gas Company, the grantee of a natural gas franchise in Kansas City, Kansas, and is the sole owner of all of said corporations except the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and directs, dominates and controls all of them, and that said corporations had formed a trust, pool or

of them, respectively; that said United Gas Improvement Company be decreed to be the owner of said franchises and of the several corporations which it is therein alleged to own, and that all the obligations and liabilities of said Kansas City Pipe Line Company be decreed to be the obligations and liabilities of said United Gas Improvement Company, and that the parties thereto be enjoined from complying with or enforcing any of the terms or provisions of any pool, trust, combination or understanding with each other or with any other to fix or control the price of gas or the amount of natural gas to be furnished to said city and inhabitants thereof, or to control or fix the price of natural gas to be paid to producers and that said artificial and natural gas franchises be adjudged and decreed to be forfeited or that said United Gas Improvement Company be compelled to keep and perform the obligations thereof, and at all times to procure and supply to Kansas City, Missouri, and its inhabitants for all domestic purposes such as cooking, lighting and heating, and for public purposes, natural gas in reasonably sufficient quantity and of reasonably suitable quality and at reasonably adequate pressure for such purposes, and that a receiver or receivers be appointed for said Kansas City Gas Company, Kansas City, Missouri, Gas Company, United Gas Improvement Company, Kansas City Gas Company, incorporated in November, 1906; Kansas City Pipe Line Company, Kaw Gas Company and Kansas 1006 Natural Gas Company, and of the property of each of them, to the end that further violations of the law may be prevented and the property cared for and preserved.

This defendant states that neither of the plaintiffs is a party either to the suit pending, as aforesaid, in the Circuit Court of Jackson County, or to the suit pending in the District Court of the United States for the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri; and that none of the parties thereto have asked or have joined the plaintiffs in asking that any such proceedings be enjoined; that both of said suits were pending before either of the suits, to which this suit is alleged to be dependent, were filed in this court, and that it will be inequitable to enjoin this defendant from prosecuting its said cause of action in either of said suits and to prevent it from obtaining such relief in said suits, and each of them, as the respective courts in which said suits are pending may finally determine to be just and equitable, and especially to enjoin it at the suit of the plaintiff herein.

That said amended and supplemental answer and counter-claim of Kansas City was filed in said United States District Court on or about April 20, 1914, and writs of subpoena forthwith issued for the new parties therein named and duly served upon said United Gas Improvement Company, Kansas City Gas Company, Kansas City, Missouri, Gas Company, Charles E. Small and W. F. Douthirt.

III.

This defendant denies that the plaintiffs are entitled to any relief whatever, or any part of the relief in their said bill demanded, and alleges that plaintiffs have no standing in this Court or in any court of equity.

1007 And defendant prays in all things the same benefit and advantage of this, its answer, as if it had pleaded or demurred to said bill of complaint.

And this defendant denies all and all manner of threats, wrongful or unlawful acts whatsoever, whereof it is in any wise by said bill of complaint charged; all of which matters and things this defendant is ready and willing too prove as this Honorable Court shall direct, and prays to be hence dismissed with its reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Now comes Kansas City, Missouri, appearing especially for the purposes of this motion only, and moves the court to quash the writ of subpoena issued upon the bill of complaint in the above entitled cause against it, and vacate and set aside the return of service of said writ on Kansas City, Missouri, for the following reasons:

Because Kansas City, Missouri, is, and was at the time said subpoena was issued and served, a municipal corporation duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the constitution and laws of the State of Missouri, and is a governmental agency of the State of Missouri.

Because Kansas City, Missouri, is, and was at the time said subpoena was issued and served, a citizen and resident of the District of Missouri, Western Division, and not a citizen or resident of the District of Kansas.

Because said subpoena was served upon Kansas City, Missouri, as shown by the Marshal's return, outside of the District of Kansas and in Jackson County, State of Missouri, and is and was not a valid and legal service of process upon Kansas City, Missouri, in the above entitled cause, and this court has not jurisdiction of the defendant, Kansas City, Missouri.

Motion by Defendant Kansas City, Missouri, That Its Defenses in Point of Law Be Separately Heard and Disposed of Before the Trial, and to Dismiss the Bill of Complaint as to It.

Now comes Kansas City, Missouri, one of the defendants in the above entitled suit, and respectfully shows to the court that in its answer filed herein to the bill of complaint, it pleaded defenses in point of law arising upon the face of the bill, as follows:

- (a) Misjoinder of parties.
- (b) Misjoinder of causes of action whereby the bill is multifarious.
- (c) Insufficiency of fact to constitute a valid cause of action in equity against Kansas City, Missouri.
- (d) That this court is without jurisdiction of the defendant, Kansas City, in this suit for the reason that the process served upon it herein was not authorized by law and no process has been authorized by law by which this court may acquire jurisdiction of the defendant, Kansas City, in this suit.
- (e) That the plaintiff is not without adequate remedy in the due course of law and his bill fails to show cause for equitable relief against Kansas City, Missouri.

Wherefore, this defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, prays the court to separately hear and dispose of its said defenses before the trial of the principal case and to dismiss this suit as to this defendant 1011 and that it may have judgment for its costs expended and incurred in this suit.

Kansas City, Missouri, one of the defendants in the above entitled suit, for answer to the supplemental bill of complaint of plaintiff herein, says that it saves and here again pleads its several defenses in points of law arising upon the face of the original bill and of said supplemental bill, and prays leave to refer for more particularity to its answer filed herein to the original bill of complaint.

I.

Further answering, it denies that the rates alleged to have been established by the Receiver were fixed or established by him in pursuance of the order of this court entered June 3, 1916, or that such are graduated according to distance or that such rates will produce an average rate of about 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of domestic gas applied by him to consumers in cities of Kansas and Missouri, and avers that such average price is substantially in excess of 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

It denies that plaintiff is entitled to an average rate of 32 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of gas transported and sold by him, and denies that this court has, at any time, determined that anything less than an average rate of 32 cents to the consumer will be compensatory and confiscatory.

1013 This defendant says that it has no knowledge or information save only as derived from the supplemental bill as to the directions alleged to have been given by plaintiff to distributing companies, and leaves him to make proof thereof.

II.

This defendant denies that this court, by its decree of June 3, 1916, in this case, reserved exclusive jurisdiction over all matters and things in controversy in this suit.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the supplemental bill, as to the complaint alleged to have been filed by Kansas City Gas Company with the Public Service Commission of Missouri, or of any order made by it thereon, and leaves plaintiff to make proof thereof.

III.

This defendant admits that the Kansas City Gas Company filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, a new schedule of rates to be charged and collected by said Company for natural gas supplied by it to Kansas City, Missouri, and its inhabitants; that Kansas City, by its counselor, approved and consented thereto and that said Public Service Commission made an order putting the said new schedule of rates into effect after October 19, 1916, whereby the rate will be increased from 27 cents to 30 cents per 1,000 feet.

It states that said change of rates was consented to on its behalf for the reason that the franchise ordinance and contract, more particularly referred to in its answer to the original bill in this suit, by which the Kansas City Gas Company is authorized to supply natural gas to said city and its inhabitants provides, among other things, in Section XIII thereof, that the grantees therein "shall be entitled to charge and collect from consumers of such gas, during the period of five years from and after natural gas is first furnished hereunder at the rate of not to exceed 25 cents per thousand cubic feet, and during the period of the 5 years next thereafter at the rate of not to exceed 27 cents per thousand cubic feet, and thereafter, during the period of the aforesaid grant at the rate of not to exceed 30 cents per thousand cubic feet."

Natural gas was first furnished under said ordinance in Kansas City, Missouri, on November 19, 1906, and that said 25 cent rate obtained during said first five years, and until November 19, 1911, whereupon said 27 cent rate was put into effect and has obtained to the present time and the five years mentioned for such rate will expire on November 19, 1916; at which date said increase in the rate is authorized by said ordinance contract.

It denies that the order of the Public Service Commission putting said new schedule into effect was, or is, an interference with the Interstate commerce business, if any, in which plaintiff is engaged, or is engaging, or is in conflict with the decree of this court of June 3, 1916.

IV.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division IV of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

V.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division V of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

VI.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division VI of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

VII.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division VII of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

VIII.

1015 It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division VIII of the supplemental bill, and leave the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

IX.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division IX of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

X.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division X of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof;

Except that it denies that the acts of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, as set out in Division III of the Supplemental Bill, were done for the purpose, aim or desire to intimidate any party in any respect whatever, or that any such acts interfered with plaintiff in the administration of his trust or in the performance of his duties as Receiver, or with Interstate Commerce, or that the new schedule thereby approved and authorized to be put into effect October 19, 1916, has been determined by this court to be unreasonable, non-compensatory or confiscatory.

XI.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XI of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

XII.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XII of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

1016

XIII.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XIII of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

XIV.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XIV of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

XV.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XV of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

XVI.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XVI of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

XVII.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XVII of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof;

Except it admits that the City Counselor wrote to the plaintiff a letter, as stated in Division XVII of the supplemental bill.

It denies that it is necessary for plaintiff to obtain 18 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas delivered by him to the Kansas City Gas Company in order to make a profit.

XVIII.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XVIII of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

1017

XIX.

It says that it has no knowledge or information, save only as derived from the bill, as to the facts alleged in Division XIX of the supplemental bill, and leaves the plaintiff to make proof thereof.

XX.

This defendant admits that it has, at all times, by and through its officers and agents, counseled and advised consumers of natural gas within its corporate limits, that the price to them of natural gas is fixed by said Franchise Ordinance, and that the plaintiff is wholly without authority to change or modify it, and further advised and encouraged such consumers to refuse to pay any price in excess of said rate until and unless a different rate be legally established by another contract or by competent authority.

It denies that the rates fixed by said contract, and thereunder paid, are confiscatory, unreasonably low or non-compensatory; and states that such rates have been patiently paid notwithstanding the consumers know, and now know, that any charge at all is exorbitant for the kind of service they receive practically all the time whenever the temperature has been below 20 degrees above zero.

It denies that the rates which the plaintiff attempted to establish are reasonable, and states that they are unreasonable and exorbitant.

It denies that it has, at any time or in any manner, sought to render nugatory or ineffective the orders or decrees of this court, or that it has, by suit or application to any Commission, threat or otherwise, sought to intimidate any distributing company.

It has refused to violate or to consent to the violation of its said Franchise Contract.

It denies that the plaintiff is, or will be, without adequate remedy at law.

XXI.

This defendant denies that the plaintiff is entitled to any part of the relief in his original bill or in his supplemental bill demanded, or to any relief whatever, against this defendant.

And defendant prays in all things the same benefit and advantage of this its answer as if it had pleaded or demurred to said bill of complaint.

All of which matters and things this defendant is ready and willing to prove as this Honorable Court shall direct, and prays in its answer to said original bill that said original bill and also the supplemental bill be dismissed as to this defendant and it be hence dismissed with its reasonable costs and charges in this behalf wrongfully sustained.

JOHN M. LONDON, as Receiver for the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

VS.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF STATE OF KANSAS et al., Defendant-.

Answer of the City of Joplin, Missouri.

Comes now the City of Joplin, Missouri, and for its separate answer to plaintiff's supplemental bill filed herein, reserves all its rights and exceptions to the jurisdiction of this court as set forth in its answer to the original bill filed in this case, and says:

I.

That as to the allegations in division No. 1 of said supplemental bill, defendant has no positive information and neither affirms nor denies said allegations, and asks that proof be made of same, except that as to that part of division No. 1 which is an extract from the opinion delivered by this court, which said defendant admits.

II, III, IV, V.

That as to the allegations contained in paragraphs 2, 3, 4 and 5 relative to the Kansas City Gas Company and suits it brought and the Weston Gas and Light Company, this answering defendant has no information and therefore neither denies nor affirms the allegations therein.

VI.

Said answering defendant admits that the Joplin Gas Company on or about the — day of August, 1916, filed with the Public Service Commission a new schedule of rates wherein it proposed to 1020 change the rate for the sale of natural gas in the city of Joplin, effective September 1st, 1916. That said new rate would be thirty cents (30¢) per thousand cubic feet, with a minimum charge of sixty cents (60¢). That thereafter the city of Joplin filed a complaint before the Public Service Commission of the state of Missouri. That said complaint was attached to said supplemental bill as "Exhibit 6." That the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri suspended said proposed new rates from going into effect until 120 days from September 8th, 1916.

That this answering defendant, the city of Joplin, alleges that there is a contract in full force and effect between the receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, the plaintiff in this case, and the Joplin Gas Company, wherein said Joplin Gas Company buys and the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company sells gas to be used in the city of Joplin, Missouri. That the title to all gas used in the city of Joplin, Missouri, is vested in the Joplin Gas Company as soon as it is delivered into the pipes of the Joplin Gas Company, and that the said receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company loses all control over said gas as soon as it is so delivered into the pipes of the Joplin Gas Company. That said contract further provides that the Joplin Gas Company shall have the right to sell said gas to the consumers in Joplin, Missouri, for any price it shall fix, provided, however, that it shall not sell for less than twenty-five cents (25¢) per thousand cubic feet. That said Joplin Gas Company has sold to the consumers in Joplin for the last ten years for 25¢ per thousand cubic feet and a minimum charge of fifty cents (50¢) per month, and this answering defendant has not been informed and does not now believe that the Joplin Gas Company has elected to have any higher price than twenty-five cents per thousand cubic feet, and alleges now upon belief that it has elected upon its contract to sell gas to the consumers of Joplin, Missouri, for twenty-five cents (25¢) per thousand cubic feet, with a minimum of fifty cents (50¢) per month.

1021 Said answering defendant further alleges that under and by virtue of said contract above referred to, the Joplin Gas Company has been buying gas from the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and paying for it under and by virtue of the terms of said contract, i. e., two-thirds of said amount goes to the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and one-third to the Joplin Gas Company, and that by the acts and conduct of the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, he has elected to affirm said contract made by the Kansas Natural Gas Company or by its predecessor. That a copy of said contract is hereto attached and marked "City of Joplin's Exhibit No. 1."

Further answering said allegations in paragraph 6 of said supplemental bill, wherein it says that E. F. Cameron, city attorney of the city of Joplin, Missouri, threatened to have the officers of the Joplin Gas Company arrested 7,200 times per month in case they attempted to violate the orders of the Public Service Commission and that the punishment would be not less than $100 nor more than $200. This allegation, the said City of Joplin denies. That it never at any time threatened or notified the officials of the Joplin Gas Company that they would be arrested as alleged in said supplemental bill, for violating the orders of the Public Service Commission.

The said answering defendant says that it is not an interference with interstate commerce in which said plaintiff is engaged when the City of Joplin attempts to interfere with the Joplin Gas Company in putting into effect any rate that has not been approved by the Public Service Commission for the reason that the Joplin Gas Company is not selling gas to the citizens of Joplin, Missouri, as an agent of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receiver, and that the commerce of selling gas by the Joplin Gas Company to the citizens of the city of Joplin, Missouri, is not interstate commerce but wholly intra-state commerce, over which the Public Service Commission of the state of Missouri has exclusive control.

VII, VIII, IX.

That as to paragraphs 7, 8 and 9, relative to allegations of the Fort Scott and Nevada Light, Heat, Water and Power Company, and the Carl Junction Gas Company in paragraph 8, and the Oronogo Gas Company in paragraph 9, this answering defendant has no information and, therefore, neither denies nor affirms the allegations therein.

X.

That as to the allegations in paragraph 10 of said supplemental bill of complaint, in so far as relates to the city of Joplin, Missouri, this answering defendant says that such acts as have been done by the City of Joplin have not been done to interfere with the interstate commerce in which the said plaintiff is engaged. That it has never at any time filed any complaint, bill or communication or made any statement that in any way interfered with the interstate commerce in which said plaintiff is engaged, but all of its allegations, statements and complaints have had reference to the intra-state commerce in which the said Joplin Gas Company is engaged, and at no time has it directed any complaint, statement or allegations against the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receiver. This answering defendant says and alleges that the Joplin Gas Company is engaged in intra-state commerce and that it sells all of its product to the citizens of the city of Joplin, Missouri. That the public service commission of the state of Missouri has exclusive control over its rates and that before any raise in the price of gas to citizens of the city of Joplin, Missouri, should be made, a proper inventory and appraisal of the things and property and effects used by the Joplin Gas Company which are used and useful in the distribution and sale of natural gas in the city of Joplin, Missouri, should be made as alleged in defendant's original bill and marked "Exhibit 6" and that any act that this defendant does in attempting to prevent the Joplin Gas Company from raising its rates to thirty cents (30¢) per thousand cubic feet, is not preventing the plaintiff herein from securing an average per cent of thirty-two cents (32¢) per thousand cubic feet, which 1023 he purchases in Kansas and Oklahoma and sells to consumers in Kansas and Missouri.

XI, XII, XIII, XIV, XV, XVI, XVII.

That as to the allegations in paragraph 11, relating to the city of Kansas City, Kansas, the city of Rosedale, Kansas, and the Wyandotte County Gas Company, and as to the allegations in paragraph 12, relating to the Wyandotte County Gas Company, and as to the allegations in paragraph 13, relating to an order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and as to the allegations in paragraph 14, relating to a suit filed by the Public Utilities Commission before the Supreme Court of Kansas, and as to the allegations in paragraph 15, relating to the consumers of gas in cities of Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, and the Wyandotte County Gas Company, and as to the allegations in paragraph 16, relating to the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and as to the allegations in paragraph 17, relating to the Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company, and the sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, notifying the receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company that it was not its agent, as to all such allegations, this answering defendant has no information and neither affirms nor denies such allegations.

XVIII.

That as to the allegations in paragraph 18, relative to the financing of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by various persons and stockholders of the company for four and a half million dollars, this answering defendant has no information and neither admits nor denies same. That exhibit No. 26, which is a true and correct copy of the application of the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the discharge of its receiver as filed in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, this defendant has no information and said exhibit No. 26 is not attached to the supplemental bill of complaint furnished to it by the plaintiff herein.

XIX.

1024 That said answering defendant denies all the allegations in paragraph 19 of said supplemental bill of complaint.

XX.

That as to the allegations in paragraph 20 of said supplemental bill of complaint, this answering defendant denies each and every allegation therein contained.

Wherefore, said defendant having fully answered, prays to be discharged with its reasonable costs herein incurred, and especially asks that no injunction be granted against the city of Joplin, Missouri, in interfering with the Joplin Gas Company in putting into effect any rate until same has been approved by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and prays that this court adjudge and determine the force and effect of the contract attached to this answer, marked "City of Joplin's Exhibit No. 1" and for such other and further orders as to the court may seem meet and just in the premises.

MINA M. FOSTER,
Notary Public.

My term expires May 5, 1917.

1025 "City of Joplin Exhibit One," Consisting of Seven Pages.

This agreement, made and entered into this 19th day of January, A. D. 1905, by and between T. N. Barnsdall of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, party of the first part, and the National Gas Electric Light and Power Company, a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Jersey, party of the second part.

Witnesseth: Whereas, the party of the first part is the owner of a large acreage of gas leases with a number of gas wells thereon, in the gas belt of Kansas, and desires to find a market for his product, and mains and pipes for the distribution of gas in the city of Joplin, Missouri, and desires to secure a supply of natural gas for the use of said city of Joplin and its inhabitants.

Whereas, the party of the second part is the owner of a system of

Now, therefore, this agreement witnesseth: That the party of the first part hereby agrees to lay and complete or cause to be laid and completed on or before July 1st, 1905 (unavoidable delays excepted) a pipe line for conveying natural gas from the gas fields of Kansas to a point on the city limits of the city of Joplin, Missouri, and to install and maintain at said point a reducing and regulating station for the delivery of gas into the mains and pipe line system of the party of the second part in the said city of Joplin, Missouri.

That it will for and during the term of twenty (20) years from and after July 1st, 1906, supply and deliver through its said pipe line or lines and through said reducing and regulating station natural gas in sufficient volume to maintain a pressure not to exceed eight (8) ounces on the principal main lines of the low pressure system in said city, that they will at all times supply the demands for all purposes of the consumption as provided in this contract, and at such prices per thousand cubic feet as are hereinafter agreed upon, or may hereafter be agreed upon, in accordance herewith.

1026 However, as the production of gas from wells and the conveying of it over long distances is subject to accidents, interruptions and failures, the party of the first part does not by this contract undertaken to furnish the party of the second part with an uninterrupted supply of gas for the period named therein, but only to finish such a supply of gas to the party of the second part as the wells and pipe lines supplying gas to the party of the second part are capable of supplying, and in the case of its inability to fully supply all of the cities and towns with which it is connected, the gas supplied under this contract shall at all times be pro rata share of the total deliveries of gas. And it is expressly understood and agreed by the party of the second part that the party of the first part shall not be liable for any loss, damage, or injury to the party of the second part that may result directly or indirectly from such shortage or interruptions, but said party of the first part agrees to use diligence to supply said party of the second part with a constant and adequate supply of merchantable gas for all consumers and that the party of the second part may secure within the corporate limits of the city of Joplin, Mo., as the said limits now exist or hereafter be established by law.

Said party of the second part in consideration of the covenants and agreement of the party of the first part hereby covenants and agrees to and with party of the first part to reconstruct and adapt its existing system of mains and pipes in said city of Joplin for the distribution of such natural gas as may be necessary to supply said city and all its inhabitants who may desire to purchase and use natural gas for any purposes with such gas. And the low pressure system of said pipe lines in said city shall be of a sufficient size to deliver an ample supply of said gas to the said city of Joplin and all its inhabitants at all times, with a pressure not to exceed eight (8) ounces on the principal main lines of said low pressure system. To construct and maintain all necessary appliances and connections and service pipes; to keep said appliances, lines and pipe connections in good repair, and serviceable condition to prevent leakage, waste or escaping gas, and to extend its mains for new consumers whenever they can secure an average of one responsible consumer for each one hundred (100) feet of such extension; to make proper connections with and attachments to the pipe line of said party of the first part at said reducing and regulating stations of the said party of the first part. To locate and furnish an office at some convenient point in said city to be selected by it, the said party of the second part; to employ and pay all necessary clerks and employees required to conduct and carry on the business of supplying natural gas to all consumers in said city; to make all contracts for supplying natural gas to said consumers, to use its best endeavors to secure customers and consumers, and to build up and extend said business by advertising, soliciting by agents and otherwise, and to do all things necessary, and to manage and conduct said business and furnish natural gas to all consumers in said city during the continuance of this contract.

Said party of the second part further agrees to assume all expense, cost, labor and risk incurred in the construction, operation and management of said pipe line and business within the corporate limits of said city from its connections with the pipe line of the party of the first part, to pay all taxes and assessments of every kind whatsoever on all of the property within said city, that it will (unavoidable delays excepted) have said plant so to be constructed, fully completed, and will receive gas from the said party of the first part, and begin the distribution of same to consumers upon the completion of the said first party's line to the city limits, as herein agreed not later than July 1st, 1905.

It is also further covenanted and agreed by and between said party of the first part and said party of the second part, that the prices to be charged and collected for all natural gas furnished and sold to consumers within the said city under this contract during the 1028 continuance of the same shall be regulated and fixed by said party of the second part, but that the price to be fixed shall be in no case less than thirty (30) cents per thousand cubic feet subject to discount of five (5) cents per thousand cubic feet when payment be made on or before the 10th of the month for gas consumed during the preceding month.

The said party of the second part shall pay to the said party of the first part at the general office of the said party of the first part wherever the same be located, on or before the 10th day of each and every month during the continuance of this contract, sixty-six and two-thirds ( $66 \frac{2}{3}$ ) per cent of the gross earnings from the sales of natural gas during the preceding month for domestic purposes less the amounts of uncollectable bills when the delinquent party has been shut off for default in payment thereon within thirty (30) days after the maturity of such bill or bills and all reasonable efforts have been made to collect such delinquent bills without success. If at any such subsequent time or times any bill or bills which are deemed uncollectable shall be paid in whole or part, said party of the second part shall pay to said party of the first part sixty-six and two-thirds ( $66 \frac{2}{3}$ ) per cent thereof as hereinbefore stipulated to be paid by it, the said party of the second part, save and except that during the first year after the introduction of gas into said city under this contract, the party of the second part shall pay to the party of the first part sixty (60) per cent of the gross earnings from sales of gas on or before the 10th day of each month during said year.

It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the party of the first part and the party of the second part, that the said party of the second part will make service connections free of cost to the consumers; furnish all meters to be used by consumers and set same free of cost to the consumer; require all consumers to sign a contract for gas before connections are made with its pipe line or gas 1029 turned into the house or service pipes of such consumer, that all gas sold shall be supplied through meters of approved design; that such meters shall be read and inspected once each month and shall be kept in such working order and efficiency by said second part- that each meter shall register within two per cent of the actual amount of gas passed through it. That the party of the second part will at all times permit the officers or authorized agents of the party of the first part to inspect its main pipes, regulators, meters and appliances for the purpose of determining or verifying its monthly statements as herein provided and for the purpose of determining the condition of said mains, pipes and regulators, meters and other appliances and further that it, the party of the second part will forward to the party of the first part a weekly record of the number of contracts made and cancelled and the number of meters set, connected and disconnected together with the total number of consumers at the end of each week and will make and keep at its office a copy of such contract together with full and complete record of the same, and of all meters used and will also keep at its office such book accounts as will clearly and fully show all accounts, and contracts with consumers and all other transactions and matters relating to the business of the party of the second part, and which together with any and all other papers relating to or connected to and with the business matters of the party of the second part, under this agreement and contract, shall at all reasonable and proper times, — open to examination and inspection by the officers, agents, attorneys and employees of the said party of the first part and that it, the said party of the second part, will by their agents and employees aid and assist said officers, agents, attorneys and employees of the said party of the first part in making such examination and inspection, whenever requested to do so by him.

While this agreement shall remain in force, the party of the second part shall purchase of the party of the first part all the gas necessary to supply said city of Joplin and its inhabitants 1030 and the business houses and manufacturing plants therein except that in the event of the party of the first part failing to supply gas as herein provided, and said party of the second part may secure gas from other sources until the first party shall supply gas as herein provided; the party of the first part shall not supply gas to any other firm, corporation or individual which may be a competitor of the said second part- in selling and distributing gas in the said city of Joplin.

It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the said party of the first part and the said party of the second part, that said party of the second part will, at the end of each and every calendar month during the continuance of this contract deliver to said party of the first part at the general office of said party of the first part a statement showing in detail the amount collected for gas sold and delivered to consumers during said month and also the amount of all bills for gas sold and delivered during said month which have not been paid.

It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the said party of the first part, and the said party of the second part, that if the party of the second part, shall for a period of thirty (30) days neglect and fail to pay said party of the first part any money due him under this contract or shall neglect to perform faithfully and fully each and every covenant and agreement herein stipulated to be performed by it, the said party of the second part, this contract shall at the option of the said party of the first part be cancelled and annulled and all rights of said party of the second part forfeited, and said party of the first part shall in such case have the right to enforce by actions at law or in equity the payment of any money due or to become due to him, the said party of the first part, and all claim or claims for damages or other claim or claims that he, the said party of the first part may have against the said party of the second part by reason of these presents.

It is further covenanted and agreed by and between the parties hereto, that all the terms and conditions herein contained shall 1031 extend to and be mutually binding upon the heirs, successors and assigns of the respective parties hereto.

In Testimony Whereof, the said T. N. Barnsdall, party of the first part, by J. C. McDowell, his agent, thereunto duly authorized so to do, has signed this agreement in triplicate and the said National Gas, Electric Light and Power Company has, on its behalf, caused its corporate seal to be affixed and these presents to be signed in triplicate by J. T. Lynn, its president, and F. K. Pelton, its secretary, the day and year first hereinbefore written.

No. 136-N.

JOHN M. LANDON and R. S. LITCHFIELD, as Receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION FOR THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Answer of the Defendant the City of St. Joseph, Missouri.

Charles L. Faust and Merrill E. Otis, Attorneys for Defendant City.

This answering defendant, City of St. Joseph, now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving to itself all and all manner of benefits and advantages of exceptions, which may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, imperfections and insufficiencies in parties, in said Bill of Complaint contained, and for answer thereunto, or unto so much of such parts thereof as this defendant is advised that — is material, or necessary for it to make answer unto, answering says:

That this answer is divided into three principal parts, the first consisting of such defenses, in point of law, as arise upon the face of the Bill of Complaint on account of misjoinder and insufficiency of fact, to constitute a valid cause of action in equity, as hereinafter more particularly appears, and upon which this defendant above named will ask for a hearing before the final hearing of this cause, upon the facts;

second, a statement in answer to the averments of said Bill of Complaint, and a denial of such matters as are denied by this defendant, and, third, a statement of affirmative matters, which it is averred by this defendant constitutes a defense to the Bill of Complaint of plaintiffs herein.

First.

A.

This answering defendant, above named, further answering the Bill of Complaint of the plaintiffs herein, avers that said Bill of Complaint shows upon its face, that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein for that the plaintiffs, in paragraphs I to XX, both inclusive, of their Bill of Complaint, as well as in paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said Bill of Complaint, has attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact which the said plaintiffs, intended as grounds for relief in equity against this answering defendant, based on a certain order made by The Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28th, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory, and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

This defendant further answering avers that in the paragraphs of plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint, after paragraph XX, including paragraphs XXVIII to XXXIII, heretofore mentioned, avers and sets forth that because the pipe lines and other property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company extend into Oklahoma and Missouri, that the same should be treated as a whole, or as one unit, and that the character of defendant's business is wholly Interstate, and not of a local character in Kansas or Missouri, and that said Commission of the State of Kansas and Missouri are jointly interested in allocating the value of the property used in such states for supplying gas for the purpose of determining what is a legal charge or rate thereon for such service, and that in paragraph XXI of said Bill of Complaint, 1034 it is averred that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri is determined that it will allow no rates or charge for supplying gas in the western cities of Missouri higher than is charged in the eastern cities of Kansas, and that said Public Service Commission of the state of Missouri has suspended certain rates sought to be put into operation by the plaintiffs herein as receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and it is averred in paragraphs XXII to XXVII of said Bill of Complaint, that the aforesaid acts of the Missouri Public Service Commission are unlawful and confiscatory, and that because of said facts so averred, in the said paragraph, after paragraph XX of said Bill of Complaint, show that the causes of action and grounds for relief in equity attempted to be set forth as against the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas, and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and their several attorneys and officers are related to each other and of joint interest and concern to the plaintiffs and these several defendants, but this answering defendant avers that said pretended causes of action are not related to each other to any extent that would allow them to be joined in one Bill of Complaint in this Court, and that the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, or its attorneys or officers are not responsible for, nor interested in any way, in any action of the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri, or its attorneys or officers, and that this answering defendant has no common interest in the cause or causes of action or the subject or subjects of the action, or the relief demanded in said Bill of Complaint, as to the causes of action attempted to be set up in said Bill of Complaint against said Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, or its attorneys or officers, or the other Kansas defendants joined in said bill, and that there are no other averments or allegations in said Bill of Complaint which show that said causes of action or any other causes of action attempted to be set forth in plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint, or any other of the several causes of action and grounds for complaint can be properly joined in one Bill of Complaint in this court, and this defendant asks that upon hearing of the points of law so arising upon the fact of the Bill of Complaint, that said Bill of Complaint for this reason be dismissed against this answering defendant, because of said misjoinder of causes of action therein.

This defendant, further answering the Bill of Complaint herein, avers that it does not appear from said Bill of Complaint why the Hon. John T. Barker, as attorney general of the State of Missouri, is made a party to said Bill of Complaint except upon the theory of law that it is the official duty of said Attorney General, under the general laws of said state, as its chief law officer, to enforce the laws thereof, and all legal orders made by the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, establishing rates for public service corporations and public utilities.

But this answering defendant says that the Public Service Commission Act of the State of Missouri, approved March 17, 1913, provides that all such orders of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, shall be enforced and defended by the counsel of said commission, and that by reason thereof the defendant, John T. Barker, as such attorney general, is not a necessary or proper party defendant herein, and this defendant, for this reason says, that there is a misjoinder of causes of action for the reasons alleged, and that the Bill of Complaint should be dismissed as against this answering defendant.

C.

This answering defendant above named, further answering the Bill of Complaint of the plaintiffs herein, avers that said Bill of Complaint shows upon its face that there is a misjoinder of causes of action herein, and that the plaintiffs in paragraph I to XX, both inclusive, of their Bill of Complaint, as well as in paragraph XXVIII to XXXIII, inclusive, of said Bill of Complaint, have attempted to set forth facts which constitute causes of action and averments of law and fact, which the said plaintiffs intended as grounds for relief in equity against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and other Kansas defendants, based on a certain order made by the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas on December 28th, 1915, allowing the said plaintiffs to put into effect certain rates for supplying gas to their patrons in Kansas, and establishing the same as the legal rates, and alleging that said rates are unlawful and confiscatory and that all proceedings prior and relative to the establishment thereof are illegal and void.

This answering defendant further avers that in paragraph XXXIII of the plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint, it is averred and set forth that the Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of the plaintiffs receivers herein had been delivering gas to certain distributing companies in Kansas and Missouri, under and by virtue of certain written contracts made by the Kansas Natural Gas Company with said distributing companies, and certain contracts which are alleged to be typical ones are set forth and described in said paragraph of the Bill of Complaint, and it is further averred that said contracts were made the basis of certain franchises granted by the defendant cities in the states of Missouri and Kansas to said distributing companies, and to the Kansas Natural Gas Company for the purpose of delivering and distributing gas in said Missouri and Kansas cities, and that said cities, both in Missouri and Kansas, are attempting to regulate, control and fix the price at which the plaintiffs may sell natural gas furnished by them to their patrons in violation of said contracts, and it is further averred and set forth that said contracts are illegal and unreasonable and should be set aside, and the plaintiffs relieved from complying with the terms thereof, both as to the Kansas cities and towns situated in the State of Missouri.

This answering defendant further avers that this defendant has no common interest in the cause of action or the subject thereof, or the relief demanded, based on the facts averred in said paragraph XXXIII of the Bill of Complaint, as to the defendant cities in the State of Missouri, and that neither in said paragraph XXXIII, nor in any other part of the bill is it disclosed that the plaintiff is entitled to any relief, in equity against the cities and distributing companies of the State of Missouri, in which this answering defendant is interested or in any way related, and this defendant asks that upon the hearing of the points of law so arising upon the face of the Bill of Complaint, that it be held that there is a misjoinder of causes of action, as to the matters herein set forth, and that the Bill of Complaint, for this reason be dismissed as against them.

This answering defendant, for its further defense, avers that the Bill of Complaint and the record herein reveals that it is and was at the time the subpoena herein was issued and served upon it, a municipal corporation of the State of Missouri, performing its duties under and by virtue of authority delegated to it by the State of Missouri, and that it is and was, at such times, a citizen and within the boundary of the Western District of Missouri, and was not a citizen nor within the boundaries of the District of Kansas, and that said subpoena was served upon it outside of the District of Kansas, and in Buchanan County, State of Missouri, and is not and was not a valid, legal service of process upon this defendant in this cause; that this Court is without jurisdiction of this defendant, and this defendant moves a dismissal of this cause for that reason.

E.

This defendant further answering said Bill of Complaint avers that said bill reveals upon its face that this Court is without jurisdiction to hear and determine the pretended causes of action herein averred, for the reason that it appears from said bill that the plaintiffs are not without adequate relief in due course of law for any rights or remedies due them, or for the redress of any wrongs complained of under the laws and statutes of the State of Missouri, and that said plaintiffs have not pursued the remedies provided for them by said laws, and that therefore said Bill of Complaint fails to show any equitable cause for relief in favor of the plaintiffs, and against this answering defendant.

F.

This answering defendant for its further defense avers that the Bill of Complaint and record in this case, reveal that the plaintiffs cannot recover and are not entitled to the relief prayed for in said Bill of Complaint, on the grounds that the plaintiffs' receivers are engaged wholly in Interstate Commerce, and that the properties of said company are instrumentalities of Interstate Commerce, and not subject to the local laws of the States of Missouri and 1038 Kansas, the police power thereof, and not within the jurisdiction of the defendant Public Utilities Commissions of said states for the following reasons, to wit:

First. That it appears from said Bill of Complaint that said receivers were appointed in a proceeding had in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, upon a petition filed by the Hon. John S. Dawson, Attorney General of said state, January 5, 1912, against the Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., which said petition and all files and proceedings of this case, to wit, No. 13476, are made a part of the Bill of Complaint, and the record in this case at Paragraph 3 thereof; that suit was begun by the Attorney General of the State of Kansas for the purpose of enforcing the criminal laws and the other statutes of Kansas imposing penalties against persons and corporations who, being engaged in local business in said state, had formed or entered into combinations with others in said local business in the restraint of trade, or for the purpose of securing a monopoly therein, as well as for other purposes more fully set out in said Bill of Complaint at paragraph 4 thereof, and that said petition contains the following allegations, to wit:

"That plaintiffs allege that the above named defendants, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a corporation, et al., and each of them, have entered into a series of unlawful arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts, combinations with each other, in violation of the laws of the State of Kansas, with a view to prevent, and are done to prevent full and free competition in the production and sale of natural gas within the State of Kansas, which product is an article of domestic raw materials produced in large quantities in Montgomery County, Kansas, and elsewhere in Southern Kansas, and is an article of trade and commerce, and is an aid to commerce, which arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts and combinations are in restriction and restraint of the full and free operation of divers and various lines of legitimate business, authorized and permitted by the laws of the State of Kansas, and are a perversion, misuse and abuse of the corporate powers and privileges granted to them and each of them by the State of Kansas, as above set forth, and all of which is more particularly set forth as follows:"

That said petition after alleging the purchase of The Independence Gas Company, a corporation, and the Consolidated Gas, 1039 Oil and Manufacturing Company, a corporation, by the defendant Kansas Natural Gas Company, contains the following allegations:

"That said The Independence Gas Company, and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, defendants, were at all times mentioned herein public service corporations of the State of Kansas, and were without authority under the law to sell and dispose of their entire properties, franchises and means of performance of their duties to the public, in and about the production, transportation, delivery and sale of natural gas to the inhabitants of the State of Kansas, * * * and the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, in pursuance of said unlawful wrong agreement, understanding, arrangement, purpose and intent, has ever since been and is now in exclusive possession and control and claims to own all gas, gas leases, franchises and property of every kind and character as aforesaid, that were used, owned and employed by said other corporations, defendants, and said partnership in and about the production, transportation, distribution, delivery and sale of natural gas to the said inhabitants of the State of Kansas, but said possession and control by said Kansas Natural Gas Company, defendant, is merely as agent or trustee."

To which petition the Kansas Natural Gas Company, on May 21st, 1912, filed its answer in which it denied each and every, all and singular, the allegations and averments of the said petition, and these defendants aver that thereupon an issue was joined in said case, as to whether the Kansas Natural Gas Company was engaged in domestic or interstate commerce, in the State of Kansas, and that whether being so engaged, it had violated the laws of the State made in conformity to and in pursuance of its police power prohibiting combinations in restraint of said trade.

The plaintiffs further aver that a trial of said issue was had, with the other issues of said cause, beginning September 30, 1912. The attorney general for the State of Kansas, as the attorney for the plaintiffs in said cause, in defining the issues of said cause, made the following statement:

"These defendants are charged civilly with perversion of their corporate privileges, because they have entered into a combination and trust to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas, which product is an article of domestic raw material, an article of trade and commerce, and in aid to commerce in this state."

The attorney for the defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, in said cause, in his opening statement, said:

1040 "We particularly deny that anything that is shown or that will be shown has any of the elements of a combination or trust or monopoly. I do not care to add anything further but the questions to be read will show, in detail, I think, more accurately than I could say it, just exactly what has transpired."

This defendant further avers that on a trial of said cause, the Hon. T. J. Flannelly, Judge of said Court, who presided at said trial, determined all of the issues arising upon the pleadings and statements of the defendants against the contentions of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and held and determined it to be guilty of violating the laws and police regulations of the State of Kansas, made for the purpose of prohibiting trusts and combinations in domestic commerce, and in passing upon the particular question raised by said pleadings as to whether said company was engaged in domestic commerce and had made a combination in restraint of said trade, the said Hon. T. J. Flannelly, in his opinion and findings, filed in said cause, said:

"Is the defendant, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a monopoly, and has it, and other defendant corporations entered into a trust and combination to prevent competition in the production, distribution and sale of natural gas?"

"Sec. 5185, General Statutes of Kansas, Chapter 257, Laws of 1889, provides: 'That all arrangements, contracts, agreements, trusts or combinations between persons, or corporations made with a view, or which tend to prevent full and free competition in the importation, transportation or sale of articles imported into said state, or in the product, manufacture or sale of articles of domestic growth or products of domestic raw material, or for the loan or use of money or to fix attorneys' or doctors' fees, and all arrangements, agreements, contracts, trusts or combinations between persons or corporations designed, or which tend to advance, reduce, or control the price or the cost to the producer or to the consumer of any such products or articles, or to control the cost or rate of insurance or which tend to advance or control the rates of interest for the loan or use of money to the borrower, or any other services are hereby declared to be against public policy, unlawful and void.'

"This act was followed by the act of 1897, which the Supreme Court of the State of Kansas, in the case of State vs. Lumber Company, 83 Kans., 399, said was intended by the legislature to supplement, not repeal, the law of 1889. In section 5142, General Statutes of Kansas, 1909, being section 1 of Chapter 265, Laws of 1907, the legislature defines a trust as follows:

1041 "A trust is a combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, corporations or associations of persons, or either two or more of them, for either any or all of the following purposes: First, to create or carry out restrictions in trade or commerce, or aids to commerce, or to carry out restrictions in the full and free pursuit of any business authorized or permitted by the laws of this state; second, to increase or reduce the price of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to control the cost or rates of insurance; third, to prevent competition in the manufacture, making, transportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or commodities, or to prevent competition in aids to commerce; fourth, to fix any standards or figures whereby its price to the public shall be in any manner controlled or established, any article or commodity of merchandise, produce or commerce intended for sale, use, or consumption in this state; fifth, to make or enter into or execute, or carry out any contract, obligation or agreement of any kind or description by which they shall bind or have to bind themselves not to sell, manufacture, dispose of or transport any article or commodity, or article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption, below a given standard figure, or by which they shall agree, in any manner, to keep the price of such articles, commodity or transportation at a fixed or graded figure, or by which they shall in any manner establish or settle the price of any article, or commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others, to preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or others in the transportation, sale or manufacture of any such article or commodity, or by which they shall agree to pool, combine or unite any interests they have in connection with the manufacture, sale or transportation of any such article or commodity that a price may in any manner be affected.'

"Section 2, of the same act, provides:

"All persons, companies or corporations within this state are hereby denied the right to form or to be in any manner interested, either directly or indirectly, as principal, agent, representative, consignee, or otherwise, in any trust, as defined in Section 1 of this act.'

"The decisions of the United States Supreme Court with reference to the National Anti-Trust Act, have direct force and application in interpreting our own Anti-Trust laws. The statutes of this state in regard to monopolies and trusts is as broad in its terms as the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

"That statute' (the Sherman act) says the Supreme Court of Kansas, 'differs in verbal phraseology, but not in essential particular or effect from ours,' citing State vs. Smiley, 65 Kans. 240. A violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act itself by a corporation doing business in this state would be a perversion and abuse of its 1042 corporate privileges. The laws of the United States, as far as civil suits are concerned, are a part of the State's system of jurisprudence,' citing Mondou vs. N. Y. H. R. Co., 32 Supreme Court, 169, and Clafflin vs. Housman, 93 U. S. 130.'

"One cannot read this record and examine these contracts to which attention has been called in the foregoing statement, without reaching the conclusion that the whole purpose and design of the Kansas Natural Gas Company from the very inception has been to monopolize the production, transportation, sale and distribution of natural gas in the Kansas field. Not only was it the purpose and design to secure a monopoly, but the plans were successful, the purpose was accomplished, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company almost completely dominates the situation; it practically controls the field of production, the field of transportation, and the sale and distribution of natural gas in Kansas."

This defendant avers that the said Court thereafter rendered its judgment upon said finding of facts and conclusions of law, and as a part thereof, appointed the plaintiffs receivers to receive and control the property in controversy herein, as the officers of said court; that said judgment is unappealed from, and in full force and effect, and that said receivers have acquiesced in the said judgment, and the rules of law declared by the said Court, and acted in conformity therewith, and that, therefore, and thereby, the fact that said corporation, the Kansas Natural Gas Company, was, prior to the appointment of said receivers, and said receivers since then, as the representatives of said corporation, in continuing its said business, have been engaged in local or intrastate commerce, and that the properties controlled by them are, therefore, not such instrumentalities of interstate commerce, as withdrew all business done by the use of said properties in said states of Kansas and Missouri, from the control of the local laws of said states, the police power thereof, or, from the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas or the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri; that said facts having been fully adjudicated by the said Court, and the said receivers having acted in conformity therewith, and in pursuance of the principles of law, followed and announced by the said court, and which thereby became the law of said case, are now estopped and barred from asserting anything contrary thereto in this cause.

1043 This defendant further answering avers that as a part of said judgment, the plaintiffs' receivers, John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, were directed to appear in the case of John L. McKinney et al. vs. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, No. 1-N in equity, which case is fully referred to and set out in the Bill of Complaint herein, for the purpose of recovering the control and management of the physical property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, as is fully set out in the Bill of Complaint herein, at paragraphs 3 and 4, and else-here in said bill; that for the purpose of said appearance in said cause, the Attorney General, acting for and in behalf of said receivers, and under the direction of the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, prepared and filed therein, a petition for said purposes, which said petition contained the following averments, to wit:

"First, that on January 5, 1912, the State of Kansas, by its Attorney General, brought an action in the nature of quo warranto in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, against The Independence Gas Company, and the Consolidated Gas, Oil and Manufacturing Company, Kansas Corporations, and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, a Delaware corporation, authorized to do business in Kansas, charging said corporations with misuse, perversion and abuse of their corporate privileges, and with having connived and engaged in various illegal combinations in restraint of trade, and in violation of the anti-trust laws of the State of Kansas, and in violation of the national anti-trust laws, which are a part of the civil jurisprudence of the State of Kansas, by which unlawful combinations, said Kansas Natural Gas Company had secured a monopoly of the sources of gas supply and a monopoly of the sale and distribution of gas to the people of Kansas, by which unlawful combination, the selling price of gas, a product of domestic raw material, and an article of commerce, and an aid to commerce, had been advanced and controlled by the said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and a true copy of the petition filed by the State of Kansas in said action is contained in an abstract filed herewith and made a part hereof.

"That thereafter the complainant in said cause, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company appeared in said cause, and contested the averment of the petition filed by the said Attorney General on and in behalf of the plaintiffs, receivers herein, and that said John McKinny, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company filed as paragraph 10 of their answer, the following averments, to wit:

"These complainants further allege that although the defendant the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is engaged in operating a 1044 pipe line within the State of Kansas, for the transportation of natural gas from the various sources of supply, from localities within the State of Kansas, to respective towns and cities within the State of Kansas, the pipe line of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its system likewise, extends into the adjacent states of Missouri and Oklahoma for the purpose of receiving and transporting gas through the pipe lines to cities in said states, and is therefore an interstate carrier, subject to the Act of Congress, February 7, 1887, and its amendments; that by the judgment and order appointing receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, by the District Court of Montgomery County, State of Kansas, in the proceedings by the State of Kansas, instituted by the Attorney General as aforesaid, for a claimed violation of the penal statute of the state constitute an exertion of the power of the State of Kansas, acting through and under the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, over interstate commerce, and is invalid and violative of the commerce clause of the Constitution of the United States, and the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, was without jurisdiction to appoint receivers over the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company in said proceedings by reason of said fact."

And this defendant avers that by a filing of said petition and answer, an issue was made in said cause as to whether said Kansas Natural Gas Company, at the time of the filing of the petition in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, by the State of Kansas, through its Attorney General, heretofore referred to, was engaged in domestic commerce and not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and whether by reason of said fact, the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, had the right, authority and jurisdiction, because of the violation of the local laws of said Kansas, by said corporation, to bind the plaintiffs' receivers as the officers of said court, to take possession of said property, and whether, as such officers, they were now entitled to the possession of the property of said Natural Gas Company as against certain receivers theretofore appointed in the said cause of John L. McKinney et al. vs. The Kansas Natural Gas Company, heretofore set out and referred to in this answer and in the Bill of Complaint of the plaintiffs.

That said cause came on for trial on June 5, 1913, on said issues of law and fact before the Hon. John A. Marshall, District Judge of the United States, sitting as such Judge of the District Court for the District of Kansas. After hearing testimony adduced 1045 by the said parties and being wholly advised in the premises, the Court found in favor of the said petitioners, the plaintiffs herein, and against the said John L. McKinney, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, the complainants in said original action.

That as a part of said decision, the Court filed written findings and a written opinion as to the law controlling said case, and as to this question the Court said:

"Under the Kansas Anti-Trust Act (Gen. Stat. 1909, Sec. 5146), which provides that every person or corporation within or without the state violating its provisions within the state, shall be denied the right to do business in the state, and authorizes the enforcement of such provision 'by injunction or other proceeding'; a State Court has power to appoint receivers of the property within the state of a foreign corporation charged with violation of the act, and under the state practice such remedy is not precluded because the legal relief of ouster is sought in the action. The appointment of a state court of a receiver of the property within the state of a foreign corporation engaged in interstate commerce does not amount to an unlawful interference with the rights of such corporation to transact interstate commerce." (206, Fed. 777.)

This defendant further answering avers that the said John L. McKinney, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, complainants, as aforesaid, excepted to the findings of the Court and regularly took their appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals of The Eighth District of the United States in said cause, and that thereafter said cause came regularly on for hearing and was decided by said court December 4, 1913, and it was there held and decided by the Honorable Circuit Court of said district that the opinion and decision of the District Court of the United States heretofore set forth should be affirmed and in determining the questions arising on said appeal the Court, speaking by the Hon. William C. Hook, Circuit Judge, said:

"A foreign corporation engaged in interstate and local commerce may be adjudged guilty of a violation of the anti-trust laws of the state, its license to do business in the state may be cancelled, and a receiver for all its property therein appointed under the general laws in aid of the enforcement of the judgment, and it is no defense that such property included instrumentalities used by it in conducting its interstate business, or that the corporation, by the same course of conduct, has also violated similar laws of the United States." (209 Fed. 300.)

And again, at pages 306-7, inclusive, the Court further said:

"There remains for consideration the contention that as applied to this case, the anti-trust statute of the state conflicts with the Sherman Act (Act July 2, 1890) (C. 647, 26 Stat. 209) (U. S. Comp. 1046 1901, page 3,200) and hence must give way. In this action it is unimportant that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is a Delaware corporation instead of a corporation of Kansas. The character of its trade and commerce, interstate or local, determines the applicability of the anti-trust laws of the nation or state, but not the origin of its corporate existence. The term 'interstate corporation' is a convenient colloquialism, but hardly accurate. In respect of the contention now being considered, the case would not be different had that company been organized under the laws of Kansas, nor is it material that it transports some of the gas it deals in, from Oklahoma into Kansas, and from Kansas into Missouri by pipe lines. By express exemption, it is not a common carrier subject to the Interstate Commerce Act (Act June 29, 1906, C. 3391) (U. S. Comp. Stat. Supp. 1911, page 1284) (34 Stat. 584), Sec. 1, even would it matter were it otherwise.

"The point urged by counsel rests on the fact that the company is engaged in both interstate and local commerce, and upon the assertion that the two are so intricately interwoven as to be inseparable.

"The claim of inseparable intricacy is not tenable. The two kinds of commerce are no more interwoven than with most railroads of the country and many manufacturing and mercantile concerns. Whatever may be the origin and admixture of the commodity dealt in, or the common use of the same plant and equipment and instrumentalities, the two kinds of commerce are distinguishable. The company is in no better position than if it were an ordinary industrial and mercantile concern of Kansas producing, buying, shipping and selling locally and in other states grains, oils, or other commodities which lose their particular identity in the mass of that which is dealt in.

"Again, the property and business of the company which are wholly within the state of Kansas, are not negligible incidents to which the state anti-trust statutes are being forced. Much of its property, including that obtained from the other corporations, is located there, and much of its business is there transacted. The action of the state of Kansas was directed to a violation of the state statutes. The decree of the State Court was expressly confined to the matters within its jurisdiction, and subject to its local laws. There was no attempt to enforce the Sherman Act."

This defendant therefore further avers that by the aforesaid decision and holding of the courts, it has been fully determined and adjudicated that the plaintiffs' receivers are engaged in intra-state commerce, subject to the local laws and police power of the 1047 state of Kansas, and the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for said state, and that the plaintiffs are not engaged wholly in interstate commerce, and that the property under their control are not instrumentalities of interstate commerce of such note as to deprive the defendant Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas of jurisdiction over it, and that said plaintiffs have acquiesced in said holding and principles of law announced by the courts in the said cases, and having in this cause alleged that this case is dependent upon and ancillary to the case of John L. McKinney et al. vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company, and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N Equity, as averred in plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint, paragraph 1, which this defendant in no wise admits, and that said findings and principles of law, having become the law of said cases and of this case and all of said matters having been fully determined, the plaintiffs are estopped from averring to the contrary herein, and from causing a re-trial of said issues in this suit.

G.

This answering defendant above named further answering the Bill of Complaint, avers that said bill reveals upon its face that the plaintiffs cannot recover and are not entitled to the relief prayed for in said bill for the reason that it appears from said bill, and particularly in paragraph XXII and the prayer thereof that plaintiffs ask this honorable court to exercise a power beyond its jurisdiction, to wit, the power of rate-making, which is exclusively a legislative power and function.

This defendant further avers that in paragraph XXII of the plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint, it is averred and set forth that any schedule of rates for natural gas below thirty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in the State of Missouri, except St. Joseph, Missouri, the answering defendant, and twenty-six and two-thirds cents for plaintiffs' proportion of the revenue for gas delivered at St. Joseph, is and will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory, and it is further averred and set forth and particularly in sub-paragraphs "c" and "h" of said Bill of Complaint that this answering 1048 defendant be restrained from interfering with plaintiffs putting into effect reasonable rates and of putting into effect the rates provided in "Exhibit F," of said Bill of Complaint, and similar rates for other cities in Missouri.

This defendant further avers that it thus appears from the face of plaintiffs' said bill, that plaintiffs are not invoking the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court for the purpose of having declared the present rates and charges for natural gas supplied in the cities of the State of Missouri, confiscatory, non-compensatory and undemunerative, but for the purpose of having this Honorable Court by its order and decree fix and establish rates for natural gas to be hereafter, and in the future, charged and exacted from the consumers in the said cities of Missouri, which said purpose and proposed action so averred and prayed for this answering defendant avers is not properly within the jurisdiction of this Honorable Court, but it is exclusively a legislative function and power, and that therefore said Bill of Complaint fails to show any equitable cause for relief properly cognizable by this Honorable Court.

Second.

This defendant having objected to the jurisdiction of this Court, arising upon the points of law disclosed upon the face of the Bill of Complaint, and having moved to dismiss this action for want of such jurisdiction, begs leave to refer to the answer herein of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, which conforms in many particulars to the answer of the defendant, further answering says:

I.

This defendant denies that the Bill of Complaint herein is dependent upon and ancillary to the causes entitled John L. McKinney et al. vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351, Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N Equity, now pending in this court, and further denies that this action is brought for the purpose of protecting the property now in the potential possession of this court in said causes, and of enforcing the jurisdiction of this Court in said causes.

1049 This defendant specially denies that the matter and amount in controversy in this cause exceeds the sum or value of three thousand dollars, exclusive of interest and costs.

This defendant specially denies that the cause of action, if any such be stated in the Bill of Complaint, filed here, arises under the Constitution or Laws of the United States.

This defendant does not know for what purpose the Bill of Complaint was filed herein, but nevertheless denies that the Public Service Commission of Missouri has fixed rates which are unreasonably low or that are unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory, or which amount to the taking of the property in the possession and control of these plaintiffs without due compensation and without due process of law or that the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri has issued any order interfering with Inter-state Commerce.

This defendant denies that there is any relationship and acts of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, or the attorneys and counsel of said commissions, either now or at any time, such that it is practicable to present, hear and determine said causes in one suit in this court, but alleges that plaintiffs' pretended causes of action against the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are wholly different and cannot be joined as one cause of action, nor can the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas and the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri be joined as parties defendant in the same cause of action, nor are the pretended causes of action against the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas such that they can be joined in one cause of action, nor can the counsel for the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and the attorney for the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas be joined in one cause of action, such as attempted in the suit at bar.

II.

Further answering this defendant admits the statement of fact in the first, second and third paragraphs of Division II of the Bill of Complaint, and in the fourth paragraph thereof, except the 1050 allegation that the Attorney General of Missouri is charged by the law of the State of Missouri, with the duty and obligation of execution and enforcing the laws of said state affecting public utilities, which allegation this defendant denies.

This defendant admits that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Delaware, and from 1904 to 1912 was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas, and that it has been admitted to do business in the state of Kansas as a foreign corporation, and admits that an order was made and entered September 22, 1914, in the case of John L. McKinney et al. vs. Kansas Natural Gas Company, No. 1351 Equity, and Fidelity Title and Trust Company, versus Kansas Natural Gas Company and Delaware Trust Company, No. 1-N. Equity, as stated in the last paragraph of said Division II.

This defendant denies that George F. Sharritt is in possession or control, actual or potential, of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or of the property under lease by it within the states of Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri, as receiver, by virtue of such order or otherwise.

This defendant further denies that it has any knowledge or information, saving and excepting such as is derived from the Bill of Complaint and the answers of other defendants herein, as to the incorporation of Fidelity Title and Trust Company and its trusteeship under mortgages of Kansas Natural Gas Company, and as to the incorporation of Delaware Trust Company and its trusteeship under mortgages of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and as to Fidelity Trust Company, and its trusteeship under mortgages of Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and as to incorporation of the latter, and lease by it, of its property to Kansas Natural Gas Company, and as to possession and operation thereof by receivers of the latter company, and as to value thereof unless operated in conjunction with the balance of the system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and as to the incorporation of the Marnet Mining Company, and as to its property and pipe line and valuation thereof, as separated from the pipe line system operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and as to 1051 John F. Overfield and the appointment of him as receiver of the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and as to the system of pipe lines owned or operated by the Kansas Natural Gas Company, location thereof, and of its terminals, and leaves plaintiffs to make such proof of all such alleged facts as they may, and prays that they be required to make strict proof.

III.

This answering defendant admits that said John M. Landon and R. S. Litchfield, plaintiffs, were at the time of the filing of this Bill of Complaint in the actual possession and control of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and property under lease to it, within the State of Kansas, as receivers of said Company, appointed by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas.

This defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save such as is derived from the Bill of Complaint, as to possession and control of the pipe line system of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, including the leased lines located in the states of Oklahoma and Missouri, as alleged in the second paragraph of Division III, of the Bill of Complaint and leaves plaintiffs to make such proof thereof as they are advised, and prays that they be required to make strict proof.

IV.

This defendant admits all of the averments of Division IV of the Bill of Complaint.

V.

Further answering this defendant denies that it has any knowledge and information save such as is derived from the Bill of Complaint, as to the alleged "creditors' agreement" referred to in Division V of said Bill or as to the parties thereto, or as to the approval thereof by the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and denies the matters and things set up in said "creditors' agreement," and states that even if such "creditors' agreement" was made as 1052 alleged in the bill, this defendant did not have notice of the making thereof, did not participate therein, and is neither a party thereto, nor in any wise bound thereby.

The defendant further answering admits that the Kansas Natural Gas Company, prior to the appointment of receivers, was engaged in the business of producing, purchasing, transporting, distributing and selling natural gas, and carrying on its said activities in the states of Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri; that after the appointment of the receivers of this court, said receivers continued and carried on said business after the manner the same had theretofore been conducted by Kansas Natural Gas Company, and after the delivery of the property aforesaid to said state's receivers as aforesaid, they continued to carry on said business theretofore conducted and carried on by said Federal Receivers, and by said Kansas Natural Gas Company, and admits that in carrying on said business, the plaintiffs receivers carried on and conducted the same, by the use of instrumentalities, consisting of pipe lines, gas wells, compressor stations, and other devices commonly known and used in the gas business.

Further answering this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save that derived from said Bill as to the location and routes of said pipe lines and terminals thereof, in Kansas and Oklahoma, and therefore leaves the plaintiffs to make such proofs thereof as they may be advised.

This defendant admits that the gas is taken from wells where it is produced in the states of Oklahoma and Kansas, and conducted through pipe lines from Kansas and Oklahoma to Missouri, and that it is transported through said pipe lines by the use of compressors, and that compressor stations are an essential and necessary part of said transporting system.

Further answering this defendant specifically denies that natural gas is transported through said pipe lines controlled or operated by the plaintiffs to consumers in the State of Missouri, and especially in St. Joseph, Missouri, and denies that said natural gas, from the time it leaves the wells in Oklahoma until it is delivered to consumers in the states of Kansas and Missouri, and by them consumed, is in continuous course of transportation, or at no time stored or its transportation suspended, and denies that plaintiffs begin in Oklahoma such transportation of natural gas with the intent and purpose that said 1053 natural gas shall be continuously moved and transported without interruption, until it is delivered to consumers in Kansas and Missouri, and denies that the same is true of natural gas transportation from Kansas to consumers in Missouri. On the contrary, this defendant states that gas is stored in said pipe lines, and is, and at all times during the operation of said business has been stored therein, in large quantities whenever the supply in possession of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or of plaintiffs required or permitted the same to be stored.

That in the natural gas business, it is not considered good policy and is not customary to build holders for storage of natural gas for the reason that the same amount of money expended in pipe lines gives additional storage capacity, as well as increased transportation facilities.

It is admitted that the natural gas is delivered to consumers in the defendant City of St. Joseph through a local and independent company under a written contract entered into by said independent company with said Kansas Natural Gas Company, but this answering defendant denies that as a municipality it had any part in the making of said contract, or that it is a party thereto, or that it participated in any way in entering into the contractual agreement, and that it is neither a party thereto, nor in any wise bound thereby.

This defendant further sets out a complete copy of said contract attached to this answer, and marked "Exhibit A."

Further answering this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save that derived from said bill as to the ownership of compressor stations operated by the plaintiffs, or as to whether or not each compressor station is a part of the unit system of transportation owned and operated by the plaintiffs, or as to whether or not said pipe lines constitute one complete system which cannot be operated separately or otherwise than as one unit.

This defendant admits that none of the natural gas transported by plaintiffs is produced in Missouri.

Further answering this defendant denies that it has any knowledge or information save that derived from said bill as to the percentages of gas obtained and transmitted by plaintiffs in Oklahoma, or in Kansas, or as to whether the gas procured in Kansas may be controlled without interfering with the control and management of the gas procured in Oklahoma.

1054 This defendant denies that gas procured either in Kansas or in Oklahoma is transmitted through and by means of said pipe lines from the wells in Oklahoma, in one continuous and uninterrupted journey to consumers in Kansas or to consumers in Missouri, and especially to any consumer in the City of St. Joseph, Missouri.

This answering defendant further denies that the business carried on and conducted by the plaintiffs, is the carrying on of business and commerce among different states of the Union, to wit, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, and denies that it is exclusively under the control of the Congress of the United States as confided to it by Section 8, of Article 1, of the Constitution of the United States, and not subject to the control or regulation of the states of Kansas and Missouri, and alleges that said business conducted by the plaintiffs receivers, is subject to the control and regulation of the states of Kansas and Missouri, respectively.

This defendant, to avoid prolixity and expense, adopts for its further answer to Division V of the said Bill, all except only the first paragraph of Division V, part Second of the answer of the Public Service Commission of Missouri, filed herein to the Bill of Complaint of plaintiffs.

VI.

This defendant admits all of the allegations of fact contained in sub-division VI of the Bill of Complaint herein except with reference to the alleged orders of this Court purported to have been made on December 30, 1912, and on January 4, 1913, with reference to which orders this defendant alleges that this Court had no power, authority, or jurisdiction to make any such alleged order, and that, if such orders were made, as alleged in said Bill of Complaint, they were wholly illegal and void, and this Court recognizing that said orders of December 30, 1912, and of January 4, 1913, were made without jurisdiction and were wholly null and void, has never pretended to enforce the same.

VII.

This defendant states that it was not a party to any of the proceedings, or to the alleged "creditors' agreement" in Division VII of said

Bill, and is not bound or concluded by any order, judgment, 1055 decree or contract therein referred to, and is not sufficiently advised to make, as of its own knowledge, full answer thereto, and therefore asks that the plaintiffs be held to make strict proof of any material allegation therein contained.

VIII.

This answering defendant states that it was not a party to any of the proceedings referred to in Division VIII of said bill and not bound or concluded by any order, judgment or decree therein referred to, and is not sufficiently advised to make full answer, as of its own knowledge, to the matters of fact in said Division VIII alleged, and therefore asks that plaintiffs be held to make strict proof of the allegations therein contained.

IX.

This defendant states that it was not a party to any proceeding in Division IX of the bill referred to and is not bound or concluded by any order, judgment or decree therein referred to; that this defendant is not subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, which has no jurisdiction or authority outside of the territorial limits of the State of Kansas.

Further answering the defendant states that it is not sufficiently advised to make full answer, as of its own knowledge to the matters of fact set up in Division IX of said bill, and asks that the plaintiffs be required to make strict proof of material allegations in said Division IX.

X.

This defendant does not know, and therefore unable to state the facts concerning the alleged valuations of the property of the Kansas Gas Company in the states of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, as set up in sub-division X of said Bill of Complaint, and leaves the plaintiffs to make such proof thereof as they may be advised.

XI.

This answering defendant states that it is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph XI of the Bill of Complaint and 1056 therefore asks that the plaintiffs be held to strict proof of the material allegations therein contained.

XII.

This defendant specifically denies that there has been any decrease in gas pressure in the year 1915, as compared with the year 1914, and denies that the miscellaneous revenues of 1915, are less than those of 1914, and denies that future years will be less than the previous years, and denies that the table set out in the Twelfth sub-division of the Bill of Complaint correctly shows a comparison of the miscellaneous revenues for ten months of 1915, as compared with the same period of 1914.

XIII.

This defendant further answering to the Bill of Complaint, to avoid prolixity and expense, adopts, as part of its answer, the answer of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri to Division XIII of the Bill of Complaint filed herein, with the same force and effect, as is herein set out, as Division XIII of this defendant's answer.

(No sub-division XIV appears in the Bill of Complaint.)

XV.

This defendant denies that the table set out in Division XV of plaintiffs Bill of Complaint shows the correct amount of revenue, which the order of December 10, 1915, will produce in the State of Kansas, and the revenues which the rates now in existence will produce in the State of Missouri.

This defendant admits that the rate now charged at the defendant City of St. Joseph is forty cents per thousand cubic feet, and denies that said rate is not sufficient to give plaintiffs a fair return on the property employed.

This defendant further denies all the other allegations of Division XV of the plaintiff's Bill of Complaint.

XVI.

This defendant denies that the table set out in sub-divisions XIII and XV of said bill are typical of the years of the remaining life of said plant, and denies that any lower schedule of rates in the 1057 state of Kansas than those set out in "Exhibit F" of said bill will be unreasonable, unremunerative, non-compensatory or confiscatory, or that plaintiffs' receivers have been deprived of property without just compensation or without due process of law, or that they will continue to be so deprived of property in the transportation of gas to consumers in the state of Kansas, unless the rates set out in "Exhibit F" are put into effect, and denies that the order of the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas is void or in contravention of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, and an interference with interstate commerce, and states that it has been finally adjudged that the business conducted by the plaintiffs is not interstate commerce, as fully set forth in Division F, Part First, of this answer.

This defendant does not know whether the Kansas Natural Gas Company or said federal receivers, or the plaintiffs herein, or any of them, have or do deliver or sell gas to domestic consumers in the state of Oklahoma, or conduct or carry on any business of or as a public utility therein.

XVII.

This answering defendant is without knowledge of the facts alleged in paragraph XVII of the bill and asks that plaintiffs be held to strict proof of the same.

XVIII.

This answering defendant says that it has no knowledge or information save only as derived from said bill as to the facts alleged in paragraph XVIII in said Bill of Complaint, and leaves the plaintiffs to make proof thereof, and asks that they be required to make strict proof thereof.

XIX.

This defendant further answering, says that it is without knowledge of the facts stated in paragraph XIX of said Bill of Complaint, and leaves the plaintiffs to make proof thereof and asks that they be required to make strict proof.

1058

XX.

This answering defendant specifically denies every allegation of fact in sub-division XX of the Bill of Complaint.

XXI.

This answering defendant admits that John M. Atkinson and John Kennish, two of the five members of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, held a conference with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Kansas on the 27th day of September, 1915, but denies that after, or as a result of, such conference, said John M. Atkinson, either for himself individually, or for the Missouri Public Service Commission, announced, or was authorized to announce, that the said Missouri Commission would not permit a higher rate to be charged in cities in the State of Missouri, than was charged in the border cities of the State of Kansas, and this defendant denies that the said Missouri Commission has ever since such conference, or announcement, maintained or adhered to an arbitrary policy of not permitting an increase in rates in such Missouri towns and cities over and above such rates charged in Kansas towns and cities; that the said statement or announcement of the said John M. Atkinson as made and published in the Kansas City Times and Kansas City Journal, on September 26th, 1915, was simply that no increase in gas rates in the State of Missouri, would be authorized by the said Missouri Commission until the Missouri cities and towns using natural gas were notified and had a day in Court, and then only when such increased rates were justified by the facts before the commission.

This defendant further answering says that the Public Service Commission law of the State of Missouri, approved March 17, 1913, precribes the manner and procedure necessary to be followed in promulgating, entering and publishing reports, decisions and orders of said commission; that it is provided by said law that such reports, decisions and orders shall be recorded in the office of the commission and served upon every person and corporation to be affected thereby in the manner provided by such law and shall be published in accordance with the provisions of such law and the rules of the commission; and that the alleged announcement of the policy of the commission by the verbal statement of the said John 1059 M. Atkinson, was not made, recorded, served nor published in the manner nor in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the said law and rules of the said commission, and was not the official legal finding, ruling, order or announcement of said commission.

This defendant further alleges that Section 82, of said Public Service Commission law of the State of Missouri, provides that before the said Commission may fix the rates to be charged by any gas corporation, it shall hold a hearing, after having given all persons or corporations affected thereby notice and an opportunity to be heard; that in determining the rates to be charged for gas, the commission shall consider such evidence as is before it, with due regard, among other things, to the reasonable average return upon the capital actually expended, and to the necessity of making reservation of the income for surplus and contingencies; that said commission is without power or authority under said law to fix or establish rates to be charged for gas, save and except in the manner provided in said Section 82 of said law, and that the alleged announcement of the said John M. Atkinson was not made as the official announcement of the said Missouri commission, but is the announcement of the individual view and opinion of the said John M. Atkinson.

This answering defendant is not sufficiently advised of its own knowledge, as to the matters of fact set up with reference to the establishing or suspending of rates for the towns of Oronogo and Carl Junction, Missouri, but has no doubt that the statements with reference thereto in Division XXI, of the answer of the Public Service Commission for the State of Missouri are correct, and this defendant hereby refers to said answer and adopts said portions thereof as this defendant's answer, and the matters of fact so alleged with reference thereto.

This defendant further answering denies that the St. Joseph Gas Company is or was an agent or distributing company of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or of these plaintiffs' receivers, at the City of St. Joseph, Missouri, but this defendant alleges the fact to be that the said St. Joseph Gas Company is and was at all the times mentioned in plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint, a local and independent gas company at said city, purchasing its supply of gas from these plaintiffs' receivers, and itself distributing and selling the same to the consumers in the City of St. Joseph, Missouri.

This defendant further answering admits that on September 29, 1914, the St. Joseph Gas Company filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, a proposed new schedule, to be effective November 1, 1914, whereby it sought to raise the rate for natural gas in said defendant City of St. Joseph from forty cents to sixty cents per thousand cubic feet, and admits that on October 19, 1914, the Missouri Public Service Commission issued an order suspending said rate and made further orders from time to time extending the suspension of said rates pending an investigation and determination of the propriety of the same, until on November 27th, 1915, when the said Missouri Commission, after a hearing, rendered its finding and opinion that the said St. Joseph Gas Company had failed, by its evidence, to justify such increase of the rate at St. Joseph, Missouri, and refused to issue its order permitting such increase.

This defendant further denies that the said Missouri Commission found that the return on the property employed by the said St. Joseph Gas Company, in the public service in the distribution and sale of natural gas alone, was nearly 2.42 per cent, and denies that the said commission refused the said increase of gas rates at St. Joseph, Missouri, because of any policy on the part of said Commission to not allow higher rates in the State of Missouri than in the State of Kansas, and denies that the said Missouri Commission, in its said order, directed the St. Joseph Gas Company to cancel its contract with these plaintiffs' receivers, or with the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and this defendant alleges that it is without knowledge of the fact, save as appears on the face of the Bill of Complaint, that the St. Joseph Gas Company ever instituted suit in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, to cancel said contract with the plaintiffs' receivers, or with the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and states that if such suit has been filed or prosecuted as alleged, it was done without notice to this answering defendant, or to the consumers of gas in St. Joseph.

This defendant further answering denies that the sum of 26 2-3 cents per thousand cubic feet, which the St. Joseph Gas Company has been paying plaintiffs' receivers as said receivers' proportion of the forty cent rate charged at St. Joseph, Missouri, is the same as paid by other local gas companies for such gas to the plaintiffs' receivers. It denies that the seventeen cents which the said Missouri Commission found was a reasonable price for the St. Joseph Gas Company to pay the plaintiffs, receivers, for the gas consumed at St. Joseph, Missouri, is unreasonably low, non-compensatory, unreasonable or confiscatory or would amount to an undue preference in favor of consumers of gas at St. Joseph, Missouri, in violation of the Act of Congress called "The Clayton Law." It denies that by reason of the longer haul or transportation of gas to St. Joseph, Missouri, there is any considerable difference in the leakage or in the cost of transportation, than in the transportation of such gas by the plaintiffs, receivers, to Atchison, Kansas, and other towns and cities located similarly with St. Joseph, Missouri, and denies that the rate of twenty-six and two-thirds cents to the plaintiffs, receivers, per thousand cubic feet is unreasonable, non-compensatory, unremunerative and confiscatory as alleged by the plaintiffs.

XXII.

This defendant specifically denies that any schedule or rate for natural gas below thirty-seven cents per thousand cubic feet for gas delivered to consumers in all other cities in the State of Missouri, except St. Joseph, Missouri, with twenty-six and two-third cents per thousand cubic feet for plaintiffs' proportion of the gas delivered in St. Joseph, is or will be unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory, and this defendant specifically denies that the rates now prescribed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri are unreasonably low, unremunerative, non-compensatory and confiscatory.

This answering defendant specifically denies that the plaintiffs have been or will be deprived of property without due process of law in the schedule of rates or orders now obtaining in the State of Missouri, and denies that the schedule of rates and orders made by the Public Service Commission of said State of Missouri are void or are in contravention of the Constitution of the United States.

XXIII.

This defendant denies that plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law in the State of Missouri, and specifically denies that the present rates in effect in Missouri, prescribed by the Public Service Commission of Missouri are unreasonable, or are unremunerative, non-compensatory or confiscatory.

XXIV.

This defendant denies all the allegations made in Division XXIV of the Bill of Complaint.

XXV.

This answering defendant admits that in March, 1913, the legislature of the State of Missouri enacted a certain law designated as the Public Service Commission Act, and that said law is now in force and effect in the State of Missouri, and that said sections 70, 83 and 85 quoted in the Bill of Complaint are correct copies of said sections in the Missouri Public Service Commission Act.

XXVI.

This answering defendant states that it has no knowledge save as derived from the face of the Bill of Complaint as to how many consumers in the State of Missouri are served by the plaintiffs' receivers, per day, and leaves said plaintiffs to make such proof thereof as they may be advised. This defendant denies that the plaintiffs are prevented or intimidated from putting into effect a schedule of rates for gas supplied to points in Missouri, because of the penalties provided in the Public Service Commission Act of the State of Missouri, and denies that said penalties are excessive or unusually severe, or that they constitute any restraint upon the actions of plaintiffs' receivers.

XXVII.

This defendant denies that the penalties for violation of the order of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are unusually oppressive or unreasonable, or that the plaintiffs are 1063 precluded from asserting their rights, by reason of constraint and intimidation from said penalties.

This defendant specifically denies that the plaintiffs have no adequate remedy in the premises, except such relief as may be obtained by applying to a Court of Equity, or that the plaintiffs, receivers, are being deprived of their property without due process of law, and are compelled to transport and deliver gas to consumers in Missouri for less than the actual cost of said service and this defendant alleges the fact to be that these plaintiffs, receivers, have never made complaint before the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, and have never asked of said commission a change in the schedule of rates for gas supplied by them to Missouri consumers, nor in any way have availed themselves of said Public Service Commission Act of the State of Missouri.

XXVIII.

This defendant does not know and cannot state what orders if any, have been made by the Public Utilities Commission for Kansas in 1912, or the effect of such orders, or what other proceedings were had, if any, before said Public Utilities Commission for Kansas, but denies that any orders that have been made by the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas are material to any cause of action presented in the Bill of Complaint against this defendant.

XXIX.

This defendant does not know what rates, if any, have been prescribed for the sale and distribution of gas in the State of Kansas, but alleges that the rates permitted by the Public Service Commission of Missouri are just and reasonable and will yield plaintiffs a just and reasonable return upon their property used and useful and devoted to the public use in supplying natural gas to consumers in Missouri, and does not interfere with the possession and control of this court over property potentially in its charge and custody.

XXX.

This defendant denies that the plaintiffs are without adequate remedy at law in the premises, as in the Bill of Complaint set 1064 forth, and denies that the plaintiffs will suffer irreparable injury unless accorded the injunctive relief herein prayed for.

XXXI.

This defendant specifically denies all allegations made in Sub-Division XXXI of said Bill of Complaint, and alleges that said sub-division of plaintiffs' Bill of Complaint consists of mere conclusions based upon previous averments of fact in said Bill of Complaint, all of which said averments of fact have been fully answered by this defendant herein.

XXXII.

This defendant denies knowledge of the acts or orders of the Public Utilities Commission for the State of Kansas, and asks that as to all such averments in sub-division XXXII, the plaintiffs be required to produce strict proof.

Further answering, this defendant states that the allegations of sub-division XXXII of the Bill of Complaint, so far as the same relates to the orders of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri are merely conclusions based upon allegations of fact theretofore made in said Bill of Complaint, all of which said allegations of fact have been fully answered by this defendant, and all of which allegations are here again, now, specifically denied.

XXXIII.

This defendant further answering states that it has no knowledge except as in this answer hereinafter set out, which of the twenty-one distributing companies named as defendants in the said Bill of Complaint distribute, deliver or sell gas to the forty-five cities and towns respectively named herein, as defendants, thirty-seven of the whole number being in Kansas, and eight in Missouri; or as to how many of said distributing companies obtain the gas so sold, delivered and distributed now from the plaintiffs, or originally from the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

This defendant specifically denies that it has ever granted to plaintiffs, as such receivers, or that they have ever had any 1065 right or privilege to sell or distribute natural gas to or in St. Joseph, Missouri, and denies that plaintiffs sell or distribute gas to or in said City of St. Joseph, and denies that any ordinance enacted by it regulates or fixes any price or rate for the sale of natural gas in said city; denies that it now claims or has the right to fix, regulate, determine or establish rates, charges or compensation for the sale of natural gas except by contract; denies that its Mayor, City Counselor or Common Council, or any of them, are or have been conducting or threatening injunctions, prosecutions or police regulations with the purpose, design or intent to regulate, control or fix the price at which plaintiffs may sell natural gas, and denies that this defendant city has done or threatened any act or thing, or passed any ordinance which interferes with the lawful or legitimate management or operation by the plaintiffs of the property and business in their hands as receivers, or is a usurpation or abuse by it of power; denies that the business conducted or carried on by plaintiffs in the operation as such receivers of the property and business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, is inter-state commerce, and denies that this defendant or any of its officers, unless restrained and enjoined by this court, will subject plaintiffs, or any of the defendant distributing companies, to irreparable damage, loss or expense.

This defendant states that on the contrary, it has not only not harassed or injured plaintiffs or the property in their possession, by suits, threats or otherwise, but has at all times, when practicable, aided, assisted and endeavored to co-operate with plaintiffs.

On information and belief, this defendant avers that since the proceedings before the Public Utilities Commission for the state of Kansas, began in January, 1913, and shortly thereafter concluded, as stated in sub-division VII of the Bill of Complaint, plaintiffs have been involved in any suits or proceedings in any judicial or administrative tribunal in the state of Kansas, or in the state of Missouri, other than such as were instituted by themselves, except only the continued proceedings in the District Court of Montgomery County, Kansas, and in this court, in which suit the receivers were appointed, and in those courts only upon their own initiative, 1066 and that if the receivers had devoted to the open and legitimate management and operation of the property and business in their hands as such receivers, the energy and effort which they have devoted and sacrificed to scheming and manipulation, litigation and controversy, initiated by them, the business would be in much better condition than it is, and its alleged distresses much less serious than alleged to be.

As to all other matters and things in said sub-division XXXIII, not specifically denied, this defendant denies knowledge, asks that the plaintiffs be put upon their proof as to such allegations and averments.

Third.

This defendant, having fully traversed and answered the Bill of Complaint filed herein, further answering says:

That the City of St. Joseph as a municipal corporation and governmental agent of the State of Missouri, has never had and does not now have any relations, contractual or otherwise, with the plaintiffs, receivers, nor with the Kansas Natural Gas Company, nor with any other company that transports from the wells to the consumer the article or commodity known as natural gas, and this defendant states the fact to be that the citizens of the City of St. Joseph, Missouri, purchase from the St. Joseph Gas Company all natural gas that is consumed in said city; that said St. Joseph Gas Company is a local independent gas company of said city; that it purchases its supply of natural gas from these plaintiffs, receivers, under and by virtue of a written contract, to which the St. Joseph Gas Company, and the Kaw Gas Company were the original contracting parties, and to which said contract the City of St. Joseph is not a party, did not participate in the making of said contract, has no interest therein, and is not bound thereby; that a copy of said contract, between the St. Joseph Gas Company, and the Kaw Gas Company is appended hereto, marked "Exhibit A."

This defendant further answering avers that the St. Joseph Gas Company operates a system of pipes and mains in and through the City of St. Joseph under and by virtue of two franchises known as the Nash Franchise and the McGuire Franchise respectively; that said franchises were granted by the City of St. Joseph to the 1067 original holders thereof for the sole purpose of transportation, sale and distribution of gas to the inhabitants of St. Joseph, for manufactured or artificial gas; that said franchise in no wise contemplated the transportation, delivery or sale of natural gas, but do constitute the only rights and authority of the St. Joseph Gas Company to the use and occupancy of the streets of the City of St. Joseph for the purpose of furnishing gas to the inhabitants of said city; that a copy of the franchises referred to as the Nash Franchise and marked "Exhibit B" and the McGuire Franchise, marked "Exhibit C" are hereto appended and made a part hereof.

This answering defendant further avers that all of the natural gas delivered by the plaintiffs, receivers, to the St. Joseph Gas Company is transported through the mains of the Kansas Natural Gas Company to a point just inside the city limits of the City of St. Joseph; that it is transported from said place to the holder of the St. Joseph Gas Company through the mains of said St. Joseph Gas Company, and that none of said gas is distributed or delivered by the plaintiffs, receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or the St. Joseph Gas Company, to any consumer until and after the said gas is deposited in said holder of the St. Joseph Gas Company; that the said St. Joseph Gas Company, after the delivery to it and acceptance by it, of the natural gas so purchased by it from the Kansas Natural Gas Company and these plaintiffs, receivers, transports, sells and distributes to its consumers, in the City of St. Joseph, the natural gas so purchased by it, and that at no time do the plaintiffs, receivers, sell, transport or deliver to consumers in the City of St. Joseph, any kind of gas whatever.

That said defendant city has at no time claimed or attempted to exercise any power to fix, regulate, determine or establish rates or compensation which plaintiffs have received for natural gas furnished by them, nor has it threatened injunctions, prosecutions or police regulations for the purpose, design or intent, to regulate, control or fix the price at which plaintiffs may sell natural gas furnished by them, and has at all times treated and considered that it was not a party to nor participant in any contract or agreement by and between the plaintiffs, receivers, or the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and the St. Joseph Gas Company, and this defendant further states that it has never granted to plaintiffs, as receivers, nor have they ever had any right or privilege to sell or distribute natural gas to or in St. Joseph, Missouri, and avers that plaintiffs do not sell or distribute gas to or in said City of St. Joseph, and avers that no ordinance has been enacted by this defendant city regulating or in any manner fixing any price or rate for the sale of natural gas in said city, and avers that it does not claim the power or the right to fix, regulate or determine rates, charges or compensation for the sale of natural gas.

This defendant further answering denies that the plaintiffs are entitled to any part of the relief in said Bill of Complaint demanded, or to any relief whatsoever, as against this defendant, and alleges that the plaintiffs have no standing in this court or in any court of equity, and this defendant prays, in all things, the same benefits and advantages of this, its answer, as if it had moved to dismiss said Bill of Complaint, and that a hearing be granted it upon the issues of law arising upon the face of the Bill of Complaint as set forth in the First Division of this answer, and that the Bill of Complaint be dismissed against this defendant; that should the Bill of Complaint not be dismissed as against this defendant before final hearing of the cause, this defendant prays that the Bill of Complaint be dismissed as against it at that time and that it go hence without day, and that it have judgment for its costs.

"EXHIBIT A."

Agreement made and entered this thirtieth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and five, by and between the Kaw Gas Company, a corporation duly created, organized and now existing under the laws of the State of West Virginia, hereinafter called the "Kaw Company," party of the first part, and the St. Joseph Gas Company, a corporation duly created, organized and now existing under the laws of the State of Missouri, hereinafter called the "St. Joseph Gas Company," party of the second part.

2. Whereas, the said Kaw Company is the owner of leases of large quantities of natural gas producing lands in the gas belt of the State of Kansas, with gas producing wells developed, and is desirous of marketing its gas product; and

3. Whereas, the St. Joseph Company is the owner of a system of pipes for the distribution and sale of gas in the city of St. Joseph, Missouri, and is desirous of securing a supply of natural gas for said city and the inhabitants thereof;

4. Now This Indenture Witnesseth, that for and in consideration of the sum of one dollar each to the other paid, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, and for other valuable considerations and the mutualities hereinafter named, the said Kaw Company hereby agrees to lay and complete on or before December 1, 1905, unavoidable delays excepted, a sixteen inch pipe line for conveying natural gas from the gas belt of Kansas to a point at the city limits of the city of St. Joseph, Missouri, to be hereinafter mutually agreed upon by the two parties of this contract, and to install and maintain at such point a reducing and regulating station for the delivery of natural gas into the mains and pipes of the St. Joseph Company at a pressure of substantially ten pounds per square inch, and the said Kaw Company agrees to continue to thus deliver natural gas at this point to the St. Joseph Company for a period of twenty years from and after December 1, 1905, and the St. Joseph Company agrees to purchase, receive and pay for the natural gas so delivered as the gas shall be demanded by its consumers, and to distribute the same through its system of pipes in the City of St. Joseph; the quantity of gas so purchased shall be ascertained by monthly readings of meters in use with or by the consumers of gas supplied by the St. Joseph Company, and the quantities so ascertained shall be paid for by the St. Joseph Company at the rate of twenty cents per thousand cubic feet and 1070 such payments to be made on or before the twentieth day of the month succeeding the month in which the gas is used.

5. The price of twenty cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas to be paid by the St. Joseph Company is based on a general price of thirty cents net per thousand cubic feet to the St. Joseph Company's consumers. But should the St. Joseph Company at any time obtain a higher price for natural gas than thirty cents net per thousand cubic feet for any part or all of the gas purchased from the Kaw Company, then, and in that event the price to be paid the Kaw Company shall be, for all natural gas sold at the higher price, twenty cents per thousand cubic feet, plus two-thirds of the excess price obtained by the St. Joseph Company. In the event that any natural gas is sold at less than thirty cents per thousand cubic feet, as hereinafter provided, to the St. Joseph Company's consumers, then the price to be paid the Kaw Company shall be twenty cents per thousand cubic feet less two-thirds of the reduction made by the St. Joseph Company from its regular price of thirty cents per thousand cubic feet. The Kaw Company shall receive two-thirds of the amounts collected from the consumers failing to take advantage of the discount allowed for prompt payment.

6. The said Kaw Company further agrees that it will, for and during the term of twenty years from December 1, 1905, supply and deliver through its said pipe line and through its said reducing and regulating station, natural gas at a pressure of substantially ten pounds and in sufficient volume to maintain a pressure of substantially four ounces on the principal main lines of the low pressure system in the said city, and at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption as provided for in this contract. However, as the production of gas from wells and the conveying of it over long distance is subject to accidents, interruptions or failures, the Kaw Company does not by this contract undertake without qualification to furnish the St. Joseph Company with an uninterrupted supply of natural gas for the period named herein, but only to furnish such supply for such period of time as its wells and pipe line conveying gas to the St. Joseph Company are capable of supplying.

7. The Kaw Company agrees that it will at all times make reasonable efforts to supply the St. Joseph Company with all the natural gas needed to meet the demands of its consumers, and will as far as lies within its power furnish an uninterrupted supply of gas at the pressure above stated, and will keep its pipe lines, regulating stations, etc., free from any interruption or any known menace which might cause interruption, but that it will not be liable to the St. Joseph Company for any unavoidable interruptions to the supply, or for an insufficient supply due to accidents and unavoidable causes.

1071 8. The St. Joseph Company agrees that it will use diligent efforts to develop the sale of natural gas by solicitation, advertising and other means, and that it will keep its mains, services and meters and all other appliances free from excessive leakage; that it will make extensions to its mains to accommodate such profitable business as may be secured; that it will lay free services to the curb for new consumers of gas; that it will keep its meters in good condition for accurate registration, and that it will be ready to accept and deliver to its consumers the natural gas purchased by December 1, 1905; Provided any and all necessary consent from the City of St. Joseph has been obtained; and that it will also keep its records complete, so that the conditions of this contract can be accurately determined, and that it will grant said Kaw Company access to its records at any and all reasonable times; that it will maintain its distributing system adequate for the maximum sale of gas with substantially four ounces pressure on low pressure mains; that all gas sold shall be registered by meters; that the Kaw Company shall have the right at any and all reasonable times to inspect the mains, lines and meters of the St. Joseph Company for the purpose of discovering leaks and ascertaining whether they are kept in the condition provided for by this contract, and so long as said Kaw Company is able to supply all gas needed by the St. Joseph Company and will supply gas at prices and on terms and conditions as favorable as any other person or company, that the St. Joseph Company will purchase all of its gas from the said Kaw Company.

9. As a basis for settlement between the parties hereto, it is agreed that, subject to whatever, if any, consent may be necessary on the part of the City of St. Joseph, natural gas will be sold by the St. Joseph Company for domestic use at a minimum price of thirty cents per thousand cubic feet net, during the first five years to December 1, 1910, and at a minimum price of forty cents per thousand cubic feet, net, thereafter; the minimum gross price being thirty-five cents and forty-five cents respectively, with a discount of five cents per thousand cubic feet for payment of bills by the tenth day of the succeeding month in which the gas was used.

10. It being understood, however, that the Kaw Company shall not be required under this contract to furnish gas for domestic purposes at less than thirty cents per thousand cubic feet, net, for the first five years of this contract following December 1, 1905, or at less than forty cents, net, per thousand cubic feet for the remaining years of this contract. Natural gas may be sold for manufacturing and other special purposes at a less price than those mentioned above, but not less than fifteen cents, net, per thousand cubic 1072 feet, without the consent of the Kaw Company; and the rules and conditions under which said special contracts are taken shall be subject to the approval of the Kaw Company, and upon sales made for manufacturing and other special purposes at less than fifteen cents per thousand cubic feet, the division of receipts shall be three-fourths to the Kaw Company and one-fourth to the St. Joseph Company, instead of two-thirds, and one-third, as above provided in case of receipts from other sales.

11. In the event of the supply of natural gas diminishing, the St. Joseph Company may supply the deficiency by the distribution of manufactured gas, or gas obtained from other sources, and the quantity of gas so supplied shall be carefully measured at the works or at the station by large meters, and the quantity so ascertained shall be deducted from the total amount sold as indicated by the consumers' meters, to ascertain the quantity of natural gas for which the Kaw Company shall be paid; provided, however, that in ascertaining the amount of manufactured gas, or gas obtained from other sources, which has been sold, provision shall be made for leakage thereof. This shall be based each year upon the same percentage of leakage as for the last preceding year in which manufactured gas was supplied in said town.

12. Or, if the Kaw Company so elect, they may at their own expense provide accurate meters to measure the natural gas supplied to the St. Joseph Company, and in that event they shall be paid on the percentage of the registration of their meters to the sum of the gas registered by the station meters of both the St. Joseph Company and the Kaw Company. In the event of an inadequate supply of natural gas for the domestic consumers connected with its system of pipe lines throughout Kansas and Missouri, all special rate contracts shall be discontinued at the option of the Kaw Company, and the original contracts made by the St. Joseph Company shall be so worded as to permit of this cancellation.

13. Should the Kaw Company fail to supply the maximum quantity of gas required by the St. Joseph Company for the use of its consumers, as provided in this contract, during each heating season, it shall be the duty of the said St. Joseph Company to notify said Kaw Company of such default on or before the first day of the succeeding April, and if said Kaw Company shall in the succeeding heating season again fail to supply the maximum quantity of gas required by the St. Joseph Company's consumers, then and in that event the St. Joseph Company may, if they so elect, terminate this contract by giving six months' written notice of its desire so to do; however, accidents due to unavoidable causes, and which are promptly repaired shall not constitute a default as specified in this clause.

14. In the event the Kaw Company shall be unable to deliver to all of the companies with whom it has contracts, all of the natural gas required by said companies, then the available gas shall be divided between these companies each day proportionately to the purchase of gas made by each of these companies for the previous year.

15. During the life of this contract the Kaw Company binds itself not to supply to any person, firm or corporation other than the St. Joseph Company, who will use or sell gas in St. Joseph or within a radius of five miles thereof, gas at prices or on terms or conditions more favorable than to the St. Joseph Company, and at all times to give the St. Joseph Company prices as low, and terms and conditions as favorable as are given by the Kaw Company or any other person, firm or corporation in said city or radius.

16. Should the St. Joseph Company fail to accept the natural gas and distribute the same through its distributing system in the said City of St. Joseph, Missouri, on or before December 1, 1905, unavoidable delays excepted, this contract at the opinion of the Kaw Company may be cancelled.

17. The St. Joseph Company is now supplying gas for lighting to the city buildings free of cost, and the Kaw Company agrees they may continue to do this and no charge will be made for the gas.

18. It is understood that the St. Joseph Company shall not be required to pay for gas sold delinquent parties when such parties have been shut off for default in payment within fifteen days after maturity of their bill or bills, and all reasonable efforts have been made to collect the same without success; but if the bill of any delinquent so shut off should afterwards be paid or collected in whole or in part, the Kaw Company shall be entitled to receive two-thirds of such payment or collection.

19. This contract is executed in duplicate.

20. In Witness Whereof the said The Kaw Gas Company has caused this instrument to be signed by its President and its corporate seal to be hereto affixed and the same attested by its Secretary, and the St. Joseph Gas Company has caused this instrument to be signed by its President and its corporate seal to be hereunto affixed and the same attested by its Assistant Secretary on this the day and year first above written.

It is further ordained, that if in any case, or under any circumstances, the said grantees under any name, or their assigns, consolidate with any other party, person, concern, or corporation, then the gas furnished by the consolidation shall not be charged for at a price to exceed that named in this ordinance.

Section 9. It is further ordained, that in all cases and for all uses the gas furnished under this ordinance, shall be made odoriferous, so that its escape from joints, pipes, connections and etc. may be immediately and distinctly detected.

Section 10. The gas furnished under this franchise, shall be of the following defined quality or qualities as to producing light. The gas shall, when consumed or used at the rate of five (5) cubic feet per hour, be at least equal in illuminating power to sixteen standard candles burning at the rate of 1211 grains of sperm per hour, the production of light by incandescents.

Section 11. The City of St. Joseph shall always have the right by and through such experts as they may select, to go through all the houses and buildings in which the gas manufactured by the holders of this franchise shall be made, and shall have the right to 1079 examine into the methods of such manufacture and to ascertain the ingredients used and to require that the quality of such gas shall always be kept and maintained up to the test prescribed in section ten, and a failure to comply herewith shall give the Common Council of St. Joseph the right to repeal this franchise.

This ordinance having been returned by the Mayor with his objections thereto, and, after reconsideration, having passed the Common Council by a vote of two-thirds of all the members elected, as provided and required by law, has become a law this 28th day of February, A. D. 1890.

Sharitt is interstate commerce of a national character and not of a local nature, and enjoining said Kansas City Gas Company from interfering with said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers establishing and maintaining without the consent & over the objection of the Kansas City Gas Company natural gas rates approved by the Court for the patrons and consumers of the Kansas City Gas Company in Kansas City, Missouri, as appears from paragraphs "second," "seventh," "ninth," and "tenth" of its Decree entered August 13, 1917, for the following reasons, to-wit:

(e) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have no right contractual, legal or equitable, to establish and maintain rates for the Kansas City Gas Company, without its consent, to be charged by said Company for gas sold to its consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

1082 Assignment No. 2. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the business transacted by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, to-wit, the transportation of natural gas from Kansas and Oklahoma to Missouri and the distribution and sale of said gas in said state by said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, is interstate commerce of a national character and not of a local nature, and enjoining the Kansas City Gas Company from interfering with said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers establishing and maintaining over the objection of the Kansas City Gas Company natural gas rates approved by the Court for the patrons and consumers of the Kansas City Gas Company in Kansas City, Missouri, as appears from paragraphs "second,"

"seventh," "ninth," and "tenth" of its Decree entered August 13, 1917, for the following reasons, to-wit:

(a) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers are doing a business affected with the public interest; their participation or interest, if any, in the distribution and sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, is a local public utility service of and for the State of Missouri.

(b) Said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have no franchise upon the public streets of Kansas City, Missouri, but deliver, market and sell their natural gas by and through the instrumentality of the Kansas City Gas Company, which is a licensed agency of the State of Missouri and a public utility corporation under its laws and rendering a local public service under franchises duly granted by the State and its municipalities, by reason of which said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have devoted their property and natural gas to the public use of the State of Missouri and submitted to state regulation and control thereof.

(c) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have voluntarily made and maintained physical connections between their pipe-lines and the distribution plant of the Kansas City Gas Company and aid and contribute to the local public service rendered by the Kansas City Gas Company and thereby submitted to state regulation and control.

(d) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have since 1906 furnished gas to the Kansas City Gas Company under contracts voluntarily entered into and assumed providing for a supply of gas by the former to the latter at certain specified prices and thereby aid and contribute to the local public service rendered by the Kansas City Gas Company and submitted to state regulation and control.

(e) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers cannot change or modify those contracts and establish and maintain natural gas rates to the consumers of the Kansas City Gas Company without the consent of said Company.

1084 (f) The purchase of gas by consumers, the sale of gas to consumers and the delivery of gas to consumers are all local transactions between the consumer and the Kansas City Gas Company, made, done and consummated locally.

(g) The purchase of gas by the Kansas City Gas Company and the sale of gas by the Kansas Natural Gas Company or Receivers to the Kansas City Gas Company and the delivery of gas to said latter Company are local transactions between the Kansas City Gas Company and said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, done and performed in the State of Missouri.

(h) When a consumer elects or determines to buy gas, delivery is made to him in instanter out of the stock on hand stored in the pipes of the Kansas City Gas Company in the State of Missouri.

(i) The maintenance of service pipes on the consumer's premises filled with gas and a meter to record the measurement thereof, constitute an implied standing offer to sell, measure and deliver locally on the consumer's premises at reasonable, customary or authorized price; the turning of the gas cock by the consumer constitutes an acceptance of that offer and the receipt of the gas on the premises locally and a promise to pay a reasonable, customary or authorized price.

1085 (j) There is no contractual relation existing between the consumer and the Kansas Natural Gas Company or Receivers. The consumer deals exclusively with the Kansas City Gas Company. The consumer gives no advance orders for gas to be delivered in the future, but takes gas instanter from the pipe extending into his premises according to his needs from time to time.

(k) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers are more than carriers; they are local merchants or dealers constantly offering gas for sale locally and for delivery locally in Missouri to the Kansas City Gas Company. The price as between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company or Receivers is fixed by contract or must hereafter be fixed by contract.

(l) The contracts between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company under which the business was commenced in 1906, and under which the Receivers have long continued to operate, obligate the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its successors "to supply gas" and "to furnish gas" at Kansas City in the State of Missouri to the Kansas City Gas Company. Transportation was and is merely incident to that undertaking. It was and is a necessity to the business of "furnishing" and "supplying" gas. It is wholly immaterial as between the parties where the gas is found, produced or obtained, whether in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas or Louisiana. The obligation undertaken and the course of business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers always 1086 was, is and ever must be to "furnish" and "supply" gas to the Kansas City Gas Company at Kansas City in the State of Missouri.

(m) The Kansas City Gas Company has dedicated its properties to a local public use and engaged in a business affected with a local public interest, and undertaken to perform a service to which the general public may resort at will and receive instantaneous, uniform and equal service without discrimination at a uniform, reasonable and compensatory, and authorized rate.

(n) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers have voluntarily devoted their pipe-lines and their natural gas in aid of the local public service performed by the Kansas City Gas Company and pro tanto have consented and submitted to state regulation and control.

1087 Assignment No. 3. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the following described gas-supply-contracts existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Gas Company are not binding upon the Receivers, John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt, and permanently enjoining the Kansas City Gas Company from enforcing the said supply-contracts or rates fixed or referred to therein against said Receivers, to-wit, the contract dated November 17, 1906, between McGowan, Small and

Morgan, grantees, predecessors of the Kansas City Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, which was assumed by the Kaw Gas Company, predecessors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by lease dated November 19, 1906, between said Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and, the contract dated December 3, 1906, between said McGowan, Small and Morgan and said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company which was assumed by said Kaw Gas Company by agreement dated December 5, 1906, both of which contracts dated November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, respectively, were further assumed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company under the lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as appears in paragraph "fifth" sub-division 1, and paragraph "seventh" of said Decree entered August 13, 1917, for the following reasons, to-wit:

1088 (a) That said supply-contracts, among other things, provide and obligate The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and its successors and assigns, the Kansas Natural Gas Company and said Receivers, to supply and deliver to the Kansas City Gas Company at a pressure of 20 pounds at the point of delivery at Kansas City, Missouri, natural gas in such amount as will at all times fully supply the demand for all purposes of consumption for the consideration, at this time, of  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of the gross receipts from the sale of such natural gas at the specified rate of 30 cents net per thousand cubic feet, thereby securing to the Kansas City Gas Company a supply of gas at  $62\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of 30 cents or  $18\frac{3}{4}$  cents, measured at the consumers' meters; that the rate in force at the time of entering the foregoing Decree was 30 cents per thousand cubic feet and the Kansas City Gas Company was paying and had been paying to said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers said agreed consideration, to-wit,  $18\frac{3}{4}$  cents per thousand cubic feet, for said gas, according to the terms and provisions of said contracts; that the order above complained of deprives the Kansas City Gas Company of the benefits of said contracts without a hearing on the validity of said contracts and without any showing that the disapproval, disavowal or cancellation of said contracts is necessary, equitable or proper in the interest of prior contracting parties, lienholders and creditors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and was made in a proceeding collateral to the case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, Equity, pending in said Court, the same being the receivership and foreclosure suit in which such administrative order alone could legally be made.

1089 (b) The Court had no jurisdiction under the pleadings filed and the issues joined in the above entitled cause and the evidence offered to make said order for the reason that said suit was an action in personam and not an action in rem and John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt were not Receivers or in possession of any property by virtue of the above entitled case but were plaintiffs in an independent action and were not entitled to administrative orders affecting the property in their possession or the rights and liabilities of third parties with reference to said property or the legal or equitable owners thereof.

(c) Plaintiffs' petition and supplemental petition and the evidence offered on the trial do not state or show facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action in favor of plaintiffs John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt and against this defendant the Kansas City Gas Company entitling said plaintiffs to such relief, to-wit, the disapproval, disavowal and cancellation of said supply-contracts by said Receivers or the Court in the interest of creditors or lienholders. The pleadings and record show that the Kansas Natural Gas Company is perfectly solvent; that its assets exceed $7,000,000, and its total liabilities are approximately $3,050,000; and that the claim of the plaintiff in the case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, Equity, upon which the above entitled cause No. 136-N, Equity, is dependent, is approximately $350,000; and that no creditors, secured or unsecured, had intervened in the above entitled cause No. 136-N praying the Court to disavow and cancel said contracts in the interest of creditors or lienholders.

1090 (d) That no order disavowing or cancelling said supply-contracts had ever been entered in the case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, Equity, the foreclosure case upon which this cause is dependent; and the Kansas City Gas Company had never been cited or brought before said court in said cause No. 1-N, Equity, on any application to disavow and cancel said contracts; but on the contrary the Receivers John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt and their predecessors in possession of said property, George F. Sharitt, Conway F. Holmes and Eugene Mackey, had continued to carry on the business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company under and pursuant to the terms and provisions of said contracts since their original appointment on October 9, 1912.

(e) That the order originally appointing said Receivers or their predecessors in said cause No. 1-N, Equity, continued said contracts, among others, in full force and effect until the further order of the court in said cause No. 1-N, Equity, by providing and ordering as follows:

"Third. That upon the filing and approval of the said bonds, the said Receivers (or each of them as fast as his respective bond is filed and approved) be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to take immediate possession of all and singular the pipe lines, compressor stations, leases and other property above described or referred to, wherever the same may be situate or be found and, until the further order of this Court, to continue the operation of the present pipe line system and natural gas business of the defendant company and every part or portion thereof, and to run, manage, conduct and operate such pipe lines and property as the defendant company holds, controls or operates under leases, contracts, arrangements or otherwise. All of which is to be done, until the further order of the Court, as heretofore done, run or operated by the defendant Company;".

1091 (f) That no order has ever been entered in said cause No. 1-N, Equity, disapproving, disavowing or cancelling said contracts or either of them; that said Receivers have continued to carry on the business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and deliver gas to the Kansas City Gas Company under said contracts and arrangements and have done, run and operated the business of said defendant company as done, run and operated by said company prior to their appointment in reference to the supply of gas to the Kansas City Gas Company; and said Kansas City Gas Company has never been cited or summoned to appear in said court and cause upon any application to change, modify, disapprove, disavow or cancel said contracts or either of them.

(g) That said contracts were originally executed by The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and later assumed by the Kaw Gas Company, predecessors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, and later assumed and their obligations undertaken by the Kansas Natural Gas Company under a certain lease dated January 1, 1908, under which the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers now hold all the properties and pipe-lines of The Kansas City Pipe Line Company constituting approximately 50 percent of the main trunk pipeline system now operated by said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers; and said The Kansas City Pipe Line Company is perfectly solvent and has no creditors demanding the disapproval, disavowal and cancellation of said gas-supply-contracts.

1092 (h) Neither the Kansas Natural Gas Company nor its Receivers are entitled in law or in equity to the injunction and decree above complained of enjoining the Kansas City Gas Company from enforcing said gas-supply-contracts against said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers upon any alleged or assumed Federal constitutional right to engage in interstate commerce for the reason that their right to sell and market natural gas to the Kansas City Gas Company direct or by the use of the Kansas City Gas Company's distribution plant to the ultimate consumers is a matter of private contract between the Kansas City Gas Company and said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers and the relation cannot be created nor maintained by injunctions and decrees.

(i) Neither the Kansas City Gas Company nor its Receivers are entitled in law or in equity to the injunction and decree above complained of enjoining the Kansas City Gas Company from enforcing said gas-supply-contracts against said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers and authorizing said Receivers to establish and maintain other and different rates for the consumers of the Kansas City Gas Company without its consent upon any alleged or assumed Federal constitutional right to due process of law or just compensation for the reason that the compensation paid to the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers for said gas is fixed and determined by said supply-contracts voluntarily entered into and said contracts may not be changed or modified and other rates and compensation for said gas established and enforced by said Receivers without the consent of the Kansas City Gas Company.

1093 Assignment No. 4. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the performance by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers of certain contracts described in paragraph "fifth," sub-paragraph 2, of its Decree entered on August 13, 1917, and the enforcement of said contracts by the Kansas City Gas Company against said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers constituted an invasion or denial of the right of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers to engage in interstate commerce and resulted in the confiscation of the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers in violation of the Federal constitution.

1094 Assignment No. 5. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the order of the Public Service Commission of Missouri made on the 10th day of August, 1916, in case No. 1050 establishing a net rate for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, effective November 19, 1916, for and on the application of the Kansas City Gas Company was an attempt directly and unduly to burden and regulate interstate commerce and was unauthorized and void, as being violative of the Federal constitution, as appears in paragraph "third" of said final judgment and decree entered August 13, 1917, for the reason that said order was made immediately on the application of the Kansas City Gas Company to enable it to charge and collect from its own consumers the net rate of 30 cents per thousand cubic feet for natural gas in conformity with the aforesaid supply-contracts existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, under which the Receivers had operated since their appointment on October 9, 1912, and by the terms of which said Kansas Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, agreed to furnish and sell natural gas to the Kansas City Gas Company for the consideration of 62½ percent of the gross receipts realized from the sale of said gas at said 30-cent rate.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,

Assignment of Errors on Appeal by the Wyandotte County Gas Company.

Now comes The Wyandotte County Gas Company and assigns the following errors in the above entitled cause, to-wit:

Assignment No. 1. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the business transacted by The Wyandotte County Gas Company, to-wit, the distribution and sale of natural gas in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, furnished to it by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt is interstate commerce of a national character and not of a local nature, and enjoining said Wyandotte County Gas Company from interfering with said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers establishing and maintaining without the consent & over the objection of The Wyandotte County Gas Company, natural gas rates approved by the Court for the patrons and consumers of The Wyandotte County Gas Company in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, as appears from the Order entered on July 5, 1917, and the final Judgment and Decree entered 1096 on August 13, 1917, in paragraphs "second," "seventh," "ninth," and "tenth" for the following reasons, to-wit:

(a) The Wyandotte County Gas Company is a Kansas corporation, chartered to do a public utility service in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, and is doing a business affected with a local public interest under franchises duly granted by the State of Kansas and its municipalities granting the use of the public streets of said Cities for such purpose.

(b) The Wyandotte County Gas Company has purchased its supply of natural gas from the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its Receivers since 1906 under and pursuant to a written contract dated February 1, 1906, fixing the price that the Wyandotte County Gas Company should pay said Kansas Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, for said gas.

(c) There has been no agreement between the Kansas City Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its Receivers providing for any alteration, modification, change, rescission or cancellation of that contract.

(d) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have no franchise to furnish, sell or distribute gas in Kansas City, Kansas, or Rosedale, Kansas, and no right to lay and maintain pipes in its streets and have, own or control no pipes in said Cities.

1097 (e) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have no right contractual, legal or equitable, to establish and maintain rates for The Wyandotte County Gas Company, without its consent, to be charged by said Company for gas sold to its consumers in Kansas City, Kansas and Rosedale, Kansas.

Assignment No. 2. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the business transacted by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, to-wit, the transportation of natural gas from Oklahoma to Kansas and the distribution and sale of said gas in said state of Kansas by said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, is interstate commerce of a national character and not of a local nature, and enjoining The Wyandotte County Gas Company from interfering with said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers establishing and maintaining over the objection of said Wyandotte County Gas Company, natural gas rates approved by the Court for the patrons and consumers of The Wyandotte County Gas Company in Kansas City, Kansas and Rosedale, Kansas, as appears from said Order entered on July 5, 1917, and paragraphs "second," "seventh," "ninth," and "tenth" of its final Judgment and Decree entered on August 13, 1917, for the following reasons, to-wit:

(a) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers are doing a business affected with a public interest; their participation or interest, if any, in the distribution of natural gas in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, is a local public utility service of and for the State of Kansas.

1098 (b) Said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have no franchise upon the public streets of Kansas City, Kansas or Rosedale, Kansas, but deliver, market and sell their natural gas by and through the instrumentality of The Wyandotte County Gas Company, which is a licensed agency of the State of Kansas and a public utility corporation under its laws and rendering a local public service under franchises duly granted by the State and its municipalities, by reason of which said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have devoted their property and natural gas to the public use of the State of Kansas and submitted to state regulation and control.

(c) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have voluntarily made and maintained physical connections between their pipe-lines and the distribution plant of The Wyandotte County Gas Company and aid and contribute to the local public service rendered by The Wyandotte County Gas Company and thereby submitted to state regulation and control.

(d) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers have since 1906 furnished gas to The Wyandotte County Gas Company under a contract voluntarily entered into and assumed, providing for a supply of gas by the former to the latter at certain specified prices and thereby aid and contribute to the local public service rendered by The Wyandotte County Gas Company and submitted to state regulation and control.

1099 (e) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers cannot change or modify that contract and establish and maintain natural gas rates to the consumers of The Wyandotte County Gas Company without the consent of said Company.

(f) The purchase of gas by consumers, the sale of gas to consumers and the delivery of gas to consumers are all local transactions between the consumer and The Wyandotte County Gas Company, made, done and consummated locally.

(g) The purchase of gas by The Wyandotte County Gas Company and the sale of gas by the Kansas Natural Gas Company or Receivers to the Wyandotte County Gas Company and the delivery of gas to said latter Company are local transactions between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers, done and performed in the State of Kansas.

(h) When a consumer elects or determines to buy gas, delivery is made to him instantan out of the stock on hand stored in the pipes of The Wyandotte County Gas Company in the State of Kansas.

(i) The maintenance of service on the consumer's premises filled with gas and a meter to record the measurement thereof, constitute an implied standing offer to sell, measure and deliver locally on the consumer's premises at a reasonable, customary or authorized price; the turning of the gas cock by the consumer constitutes an acceptance of that offer and the receipt of the gas on the premises locally and a promise to pay a reasonable, customary or authorized price.

1100 (j) There is no contractual relation existing between the consumer and the Kansas Natural Gas Company or Receivers. The consumer deals exclusively with The Wyandotte County Gas Company. The consumer gives no advance orders for gas to be delivered in the future, but takes gas instantan from the pipe extending into his premises according to his needs from time to time.

(k) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers are more than carriers; they are local merchants or dealers constantly offering gas for sale locally and for delivery locally in Kansas to The Wyandotte County Gas Company. The price as between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company or Receivers is fixed by contract or must hereafter be fixed by contract.

(l) The contracts between The Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Wyandotte County Gas Company under which the business was commenced in 1906, and under which the Receivers have long continued to operate, obligate the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its successors "to supply gas" and "to furnish gas" at Kansas City and Rosedale in the State of Kansas to The Wyandotte County Gas Company. Transportation was and is merely incident to that undertaking. It was and is a necessity to the business of "furnishing" and "supplying" gas. It is wholly immaterial as between the parties where the gas is found, produced or obtained, whether in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas or Louisiana. The obligation undertaken and the course of business of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers always was, is and ever must be to "furnish" and "supply" gas to The Wyandotte County Gas Company at Kansas City and Rosedale in the State of Kansas.

1101 (m) The Wyandotte County Gas Company has dedicated its properties to a local public use and engaged in a business affected with a local public interest, and undertaken to perform a service to which the general public may resort at will and receive instantaneous, uniform and equal service without discrimination at a uniform, reasonable and compensatory, and authorized rate.

(n) The Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers have voluntarily devoted their pipe-lines and their natural gas in aid of the local public service performed by The Wyandotte County Gas Company and pro tanto have consented and submitted to state regulation and control.

Assignment No. 3. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the following described gas-supply-contract existing between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Wyandotte County Gas Company is not binding upon the Receivers, John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt, and permanently enjoining The Wyandotte County Gas Company from enforcing the said supply-contract or rates fixed or referred to therein against said Receivers, to-wit, the contract dated February 1, 1906, between The Wyandotte Gas Company, predecessors of The Wyandotte County Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, which contract was assumed by the Kaw Gas Company, predecessors of the Kansas

1102 Natural Gas Company under the lease dated February 2, 1906, between said Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and again assumed by said Kaw Gas Company under the lease dated November 17, 1906, between the Kaw Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and which was again assumed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company under the lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as appears from paragraph "fifth" sub-division 2, and paragraphs "seventh" and "eighth" of said final Judgment and Decree entered August 13, 1917, and said Order and Judgment entered in said cause on July 5, 1917, for the following reasons, to-wit: The Wyandotte County Gas Company refers to the reasons set forth in paragraphs lettered A, B, C, D, E, F, G, H, and I of Assignment No. 3 of the Kansas City Gas Company and adopts the same as its reasons and grounds for the foregoing assignment of error as fully and completely as if written at length herein for the reason that said supply-contract existing between The Wyandotte County Gas Company and the Kansas Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, is similar in form and identically in substance and terms to the supply-contracts existing between the Kansas City Gas Company and said Kansas Natural Gas Company, its successors and assigns, referred to in the reasons given by said Kansas City Gas Company for its Assignment of Errors No. 3.

1103 Assignment No. 4. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the performance by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers of said gas-supply-contract described in paragraph "fifth," sub-paragraph 2 of its Decree entered on August 13, 1917, and the enforcement of said contract by The Wyandotte County Gas Company against said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers constituted an invasion or denial of the right of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers to engage in interstate commerce and resulted in the confiscation of the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers in violation of the Federal constitution.

Assignment of Errors on Appeal by Fidelity Trust Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company Jointly.

Now comes the Fidelity Trust Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and assign the following errors in the above entitled cause, to-wit:

Assignment No. 1. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the business transacted by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers and the business transacted by the Kansas City Gas Company and The Wyandotte County Gas Company, to-wit, the transportation of natural gas from Kansas and Oklahoma to Missouri and Kansas and the distribution and sale of said

1105 gas in said states by either the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers or the Kansas City Gas Company and The Wyandotte County Gas Company is interstate commerce of a national character and not of a local nature, and enjoining the Fidelity Trust Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company and their co-defendants from interfering with said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers establishing and maintaining without the consent & over the objection of said Trust Company and Kansas City Pipe Line

Company, natural gas rates approved by the Court for the patrons and consumers of the Kansas City Gas Company in Kansas City, Missouri, and the patrons and consumers of The Wyandotte County Gas Company in Kansas City, Kansas, and Rosedale, Kansas, as appears from the order and judgment of said Court entered on July 5, 1917, and the final judgment and decree of said Court entered on August 13, 1917, and particularly from paragraphs "second," "seventh," "ninth," and "tenth" of said final judgment and decree, for all the reasons set forth in Assignments Nos. 1 and 2 in the Assignments of Errors by the Kansas City Gas Company and The Wyandotte County Gas Company, hereby referred to and adopted by these defendants.

1106 Assignment No. 2. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the following described gas-supply-contracts are not binding upon the Receivers John M. Landon and George F. Sharitt and permanently enjoining the Fidelity Trust Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company from enforcing the said supply-contracts or rates fixed or referred to therein against said Receivers, to-wit, (1) the contract dated November 17, 1906, between McGowan, Small and Morgan, grantees, predecessors of the Kansas City Gas Company, and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company which was assumed by the Kaw Gas Company, predecessors of the Kansas Natural Gas Company by lease dated November 19, 1906, between said Kaw Gas Company and Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and the contract dated December 3, 1906, between said McGowan, Small and Morgan and said Kansas City Pipe Line Company which was assumed by said Kaw Gas Company by agreement dated December 5, 1906, both of which contracts dated November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, respectively, were further assumed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company under the lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company; and (2) the contract dated February 1, 1906, between the Wyandotte Gas Company, predecessor of The Wyandotte County Gas Company, and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company which contract was assumed by the Kaw Gas Company, predecessor of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, under the lease dated February 2, 1906, between said Kaw Gas Company and the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and again assumed by said Kaw Gas Company under the lease dated November 19, 1906,

1107 between said Kaw Gas Company and said Kansas City Pipe Line Company and which was again assumed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company under the lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as appears in paragraph "fifth," sub-paragraphs 1 and 2, and paragraphs "second," "seventh," "eighth," "ninth," and "tenth" of said final judgment and decree entered August 13, 1917, and the order and judgment entered on July 5, 1917, for the following reasons:

(a) For all the reasons set forth in Assignment No. 3 in the Assignments of Errors by the Kansas City Gas Company and The Wyandotte County Gas Company.

(b) For the further reason that the gas-supply-contracts above referred to were attached to and made a part of a certain lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas Natural Gas Company and this defendant The Kansas City Pipe Line Company under which the Kansas Natural Gas Company leased and obtained the use of all the properties, compressor stations and pipe-lines owned by this defendant The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, constituting approximately 50 per cent of the main trunk pipe-line system now operated by said Kansas Natural Gas Company or its Receivers under orders of the United States District Court for the District of Kansas in the case of Fidelity Title & Trust Company v. Kansas Natural Gas Company et al., No. 1-N, Equity, ordering and directing said Receivers to take over and operate said lease as a part of the Kansas Natural's estate as was done by the Kansas Natural Gas Company until the further order of the Court; and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company has intervened in said court and cause demanding the surrender of said properties or the adoption of said lease and the performance of said supply-contracts attached thereto by said Receivers, their successors and assigns, and said matter is still pending in said court and cause undetermined and said Receivers are still in possession of and using and reaping the benefit of said leased property and contracts.

Assignment No. 3. The Court erred in holding, adjudging and decreeing that the performance of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers of certain contracts described in paragraphs "fifth" sub-paragraphs 1 and 2 of said Decree entered on August 13, 1917, and the enforcement of said contracts by The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, Kansas City Gas Company or The Wyandotte County Gas Company against said Kansas Natural Gas Company and its Receivers constituted an invasion or denial of the right of the Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers to engage in interstate commerce and resulted in the confiscation of the property of said Kansas Natural Gas Company and Receivers in violation of the Federal constitution.

Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,

Order of Severance.

Now on this 5th day of November, 1917, this cause came on to be heard upon the joint motion of the Kansas City Gas Company, the Wyandotte County Gas Company, Fidelity Trust Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, and the motion of the City of Kansas City, Missouri, and the motion in open Court of the Public Service Commission of Missouri for an order of severance on appeal in the above entitled cause and was argued by counsel and thereupon, upon consideration thereof;

It is Found by the Court that demand in writing has been duly made by the above named parties upon all their co-defendants to appeal or join in appeals from the final judgment and decree entered in the above entitled case to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that all said co-defendants have been duly notified in writing to appear and show cause why order of severance should not be made, and have failed to appear, or have appeared and have refused to join in the appeals of the parties above named, and,

It is Further Found that the Kansas City Gas Company, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, Fidelity Trust Company, The Kansas City Pipe Line Company, the City of Kansas City, Missouri, the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri and its members, Frank W. 1130 It is Further Found and Ordered That the rights of the Kansas City Gas Company, The Wyandotte County Gas Company, Fidelity Trust Company and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company are so separate from the rights of all their co-defendants that they are entitled to and are hereby granted a severance from all their co-defendants for the purposes of prosecuting a joint appeal from the final judgment and decree of this Court in this cause, entered on August 13th, 1917, to the Supreme Court of the United States.

JOHN M. LANDON, as Receiver of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, Plaintiff,

vs.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF KANSAS et al.,
Defendants.

Assignments of Errors.

Assignment of Errors by the City of Kansas City, Missouri, Defendant and Appellant in the Above Entitled Cause.

Comes now the City of Kansas City, Missouri, defendant and appellant in the above entitled cause, and says that in the record and proceedings of said court in the above entitled cause and in 1136 the final decree made and entered therein the court erred in the following particulars:

I.

The court erred in holding that Section 56 of the Judicial Code authorized the issuing and executing of the process of subpoena against Kansas City, Missouri, in this suit.

II.

The court erred in refusing to dismiss the bill of complaint and the supplemental bill for the reason that the court did not have jurisdiction of this cause.

III.

That the court erred in holding that it had jurisdiction of defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, in said cause and in overruling the motion of said defendant to dismiss the bill of complaint as to it, because:

(a) The writ of subpoena was served upon Kansas City, Missouri, in the State of Missouri, outside of the jurisdiction of the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, and without authority of law, and said court did not have jurisdiction of the defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, in said cause.

(b) The facts stated in said bill of complaint do not constitute a cause of action or ground of relief in equity in favor of the plaintiff and against Kansas City, Missouri.

(c) The bill of complaint is multifarious in that it is exhibited against a multitude of defendants for many distinct matters and causes, in many of which, as appears by said bill, Kansas City, Missouri, is in no way interested.

IV.

That the court erred in denying and overruling each of the defenses in point of law arising upon the face of the bill of complaint, and on the face of the supplemental bill of complaint, pleaded by Kansas City, Missouri, in its answer to the bill of complaint, and in its answer to the supplemental bill of complaint.

(a) That the subpoena in this suit was served upon Kansas City, Missouri, a municipal corporation of said state, in Jackson county, Missouri, outside of the State and District of Kansas, for which reasons said subpoena and service thereof on this defendant was, and is, without authority of law and void, and this court does not have jurisdiction of this defendant in this suit.

(b) That there is a misjoinder of parties defendant in said suit.

(c) That there is a misjoinder of causes of action in said bill of complaint whereby it is multifarious.

(d) That it appears on the face of the bill of complaint that the matters and things therein averred do not constitute a cause of action in favor of the plaintiff or against the defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, and do not entitle the plaintiff to the relief prayed for or to any relief against it.

(e) That the plaintiff, for reasons appearing on the face of the bill, is not without adequate remedy in due course of law for redress of any wrongs complained of.

(f) That it appears on the face of the supplemental bill of complaint that the matters and things therein averred do not constitute a cause of action in favor of plaintiff and against the defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, and do not entitle the plaintiff to the relief prayed for or to any relief against it.

V.

That the court erred in holding that the bill of complaint and supplemental bill of complaint, or either of them, states a cause for relief in a court of equity against Kansas City, Missouri.

VI.

That the court erred in holding that the contract dated November 17, 1906, between Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, grantees in Ordinance No. 33887 of Kansas City, Missouri, and The Kansas City Pipe Line Company is not binding on the receivers of the Kansas Natural Gas Company.

VII.

That the court erred in holding that the contract dated December 3, 1906, between Hugh J. McGowan, Charles E. Small and Randal Morgan, grantees under said Ordinance No. 33887 of Kansas City, Missouri, is not binding on the receivers of Kansas Natural Gas Company.

VIII.

That the court erred in holding that the indenture of lease dated January 1, 1908, between the Kansas City Pipe Line Company, as lessor, and Kansas Natural Gas Company, as lessee, is not binding on said receivers.

IX.

The court erred in its final decree in that it granted to plaintiffs rights without requiring them to perform their duties to the public or to perform their duty under said contracts dated November 17, 1906, and December 3, 1906, and under the said lease dated January 1, 1908.

X.

That the court erred in granting a permanent injunction against Kansas City, Missouri, in said final judgment, after the enlarged court had decided on the application for a temporary injunction that the plaintiff was not entitled to any relief as against Kansas City, Missouri, the evidence at the two said hearings being substantially the same.

XI.

That the court erred in enjoining Kansas City, Missouri, from enforcing its ordinance contract rates against the Kansas City Gas Company, because in that respect the decree is broader than the issues made by the pleadings in the cause.

XII.

That the court erred in its final decree in granting a permanent injunction against Kansas City, Missouri, because

(a) The evidence showed that Kansas City, Missouri, had not passed any ordinance or instituted or prosecuted any suit or proceeding against the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receivers, and had not done or threatened to do any act or thing to impair any right possessed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, or to hinder the exercise of any such right.

(b) The evidence showed that neither the Kansas Natural Gas Company nor its receivers have any right, license or franchise, of any character, to do business within the corporate limits of Kansas City, Missouri, and that neither the Company nor its receivers own any property within the corporate limits of the city.

1140 (c) That the evidence showed that Kansas City Gas Company is an independent dealer in natural gas and is not the agent, for any purpose, of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or of its receivers.

(d) That the supplemental bill of complaint alleges, and the evidence showed, that all natural gas sold by the receivers to the Kansas City Gas Company is delivered at or near the city limits of Kansas City, Missouri, and that thereafter the Kansas City Gas Company has complete and undivided control and direction of the sale, disposition and distribution of said gas.

XIII.

The court erred in its final decree in holding that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, or any of them, are engaged in selling or delivering natural gas to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri.

XIV.

That the court erred in holding that the sale and delivery of gas to consumers in Kansas City, Missouri, is interstate commerce.

XV.

That the court erred in holding that the transportation of gas from Oklahoma to Kansas City, Missouri, is interstate commerce of a national and not of a local character.

XVI.

That the court erred in holding that the business of selling and delivering gas carried on by the Kansas City Gas Company in Kansas City, Missouri, is interstate commerce.

XVII.

That the court erred in holding that the order made by the Public Service Commission of the state of Missouri, August 10, 1916, in cause No. 1050, on the petition of the Kansas City Gas Company, authorizing new rates for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, was an illegal attempt to burden and regulate interstate commerce, because the rates authorized by said order are the rates fixed in said Ordinance Contract No. 33887.

XVIII.

That the court erred in holding that the order of the Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri, August 10, 1916, authorizing new rates for natural gas in Kansas City, Missouri, was the taking of property without due process of law because said rates are the rates fixed by said Ordinance Contract No. 33887, of Kansas, City, Missouri.

XIX.

The court erred in its final decree in granting relief to the complainants against defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, because no ground for relief is stated either in the original bill or in the supplemental bill, and no ground for relief was shown by the evidence against said defendant.

XX.

That the court erred in its final decree in enjoining Kansas City, Missouri, from enforcing against the Kansas City Gas Company the Ordinance Contract rates for natural gas, because thereby the city is deprived of its property without due process of law in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Wherefore, said defendant, Kansas City, Missouri, prays that the decree may be reversed and the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, First Division, be directed to dismiss this suit as to said defendant.

Assignment of Errors by the City of Joplin, Missouri, Defendant and Appellant in the Above Entitled Cause.

Comes now the City of Joplin, Missouri, defendant and appellant in the above entitled cause, and says that in the record and proceedings of said court in the above entitled cause and in the final decree made and entered therein the court erred in the following particulars:

I.

The court erred in holding that Section 56 of the Judicial Code authorized the issuing and executing of the process of subpoena against Joplin, Missouri, in this suit.

1143

II.

The court erred in refusing to dismiss the bill of complaint and the supplemental bill for the reason that the court did not have jurisdiction of this cause.

III.

That the court erred in holding that it has jurisdiction of defendant Joplin, Missouri, in said cause, because:

(a) The writ of subpoena was served upon Joplin, Missouri, in the State of Missouri, outside of the jurisdiction of the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, and without authority of law, and said court did not have jurisdiction of the defendant Joplin, Missouri, in said cause.

(b) The facts stated in said bill of complaint do not constitute a cause of action or ground of relief in equity in favor of the plaintiff and against Joplin, Missouri.

(c) The bill of complaint is multifarious in that it is exhibited against a multitude of defendant- for many distinct matters and causes, in many of which, as appears by the bill, Joplin, Missouri, is in no way interested.

IV.

The court erred in holding that the bill of complaint and supplemental bill of complaint, or either of them, states a cause for relief in a court of equity against Joplin, Missouri.

V.

The court erred in granting a permanent injunction against Joplin, Missouri, in said final judgment, after the enlarged court had decided on the application for a temporary injunction that the plaintiff was not entitled to any relief as against Joplin, Missouri, the evidence at the two said hearings being substantially the same.

VI.

That the court erred in enjoining Joplin, Missouri, from enforcing its ordinance contract rates against the Joplin Gas Company, because in that respect the decree is broader than the issues made by the pleadings in the cause.

VII.

The court erred in its final decree in granting a permanent injunction against Joplin, Missouri, because

(a) The evidence showed that Joplin, Missouri, had not passed any ordinance or instituted any suit or proceeding against the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receivers, and had not done or threatened to do any act or thing to impair any right possessed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, or to hinder the exercise of any such right.

(b) The evidence showed that neither the Kansas Natural Gas Company nor its receivers have any right, license or franchise of any character to do business within the corporate limits of Joplin, Missouri, and that neither the company nor its receivers own any property within the corporate limits of the city.

(c) The evidence showed that Joplin Gas Company is an independent dealer in natural gas and is not the agent, for any purpose, of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receivers.

(d) The evidence shows that all natural gas sold by the receivers to the Joplin Gas Company is delivered at or near the city limits of Joplin, Missouri, and that thereafter the Joplin Gas Company has complete and undivided control and direction of the sale and distribution of said gas.

VIII.

The court erred in its final decree in holding that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, or any of them, are engaged in selling or delivering natural gas to consumers in Joplin, Missouri.

IX.

That the court erred in holding that the sale and delivery of gas to consumers in Joplin, Missouri, is interstate commerce.

X.

That the court erred in holding that the transportation of gas from Oklahoma to Joplin, Missouri, is interstate commerce of a national and not of a local character.

XI.

That the court erred in holding that the business of selling and delivering gas to consumers in Joplin, Missouri, is interstate commerce.

XII.

The court erred in its final decree in granting relief to the complainants against defendant Joplin, Missouri, because no ground for relief is stated either in the original bill or in the supplemental bill, and no ground for relief was shown by the evidence against said defendant.

XIII.

The court erred in its final decree in enjoining Joplin, Missouri, from enforcing against the Joplin Gas Company the Ordinance Contract rates for natural gas, because thereby the City is deprived of its property without due process of law, in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

XIV.

The court erred in its final decree in holding that the rate of twenty-five cents in effect in the City of Joplin was a rate confiscatory of the property of the Kansas Natural Gas Company or the Joplin Gas Company, for the reason that said rate was the rate provided by the franchise contract existing between the City of Joplin and the Joplin Gas Company.

Wherefore, said defendant Joplin, Missouri, prays that the decree may be reversed and the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, First Division, be directed to dismiss this suit as to said defendants.

Comes now the City of St. Joseph, Missouri, defendant and appellant in the above entitled cause, and says that in the record and proceedings of said court in the above entitled cause and in the final decree made and entered therein the court erred in the following particulars:

I.

The court erred in holding that Section 56 of the Judicial Code authorized the issuing and executing of the process of subpoena against St. Joseph, Missouri, in this suit.

1147

II.

The court erred in refusing to dismiss the bill of complaint and the supplemental bill for the reason that the court did not have jurisdiction of this cause.

III.

That the court erred in holding that it had jurisdiction of defendant St. Joseph, Missouri, because:

(a) The writ of subpoena was served upon St. Joseph, Missouri, in the State of Missouri, outside of the jurisdiction of the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, and without authority of law, and said court did not have jurisdiction of the defendant St. Joseph, Missouri, in said cause.

(b) The facts stated in said bill of complaint do not constitute a cause of action or ground of relief in equity in favor of the plaintiff and against St. Joseph, Missouri.

(c) The bill of complaint is multifarious in that it is exhibited against a multitude of defendants for many distinct matters and causes, in many of which, as appears by said bill, St. Joseph, Missouri, is in no way interested.

IV.

The court erred in holding that the bill of complaint and supplemental bill of complaint, or either of them, states a cause for relief in a court of equity against St. Joseph, Missouri.

V.

The court erred in granting a permanent injunction against St. Joseph, Missouri, in said final judgment, after the enlarged court had decided on the application for a temporary injunction that the plaintiff was not entitled to any relief as against St. Joseph, Missouri, the evidence at the two said hearings being substantially the same.

1148

VI.

The court erred in its final decree in granting a permanent injunction against St. Joseph, Missouri, because

(a) The evidence showed that St. Joseph, Missouri, had not passed any ordinance or instituted any suit or proceeding against the Kansas Natural Gas Company or its receivers, and has not done or threatened to do any act or thing to impair any right possessed by the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, or to hinder the exercise of any such right.

(b) The evidence showed that neither the Kansas Natural Gas Company nor its receivers have any right, license or franchise of any character to do business within the corporate limits of St. Joseph, Missouri, and that neither the company nor its receivers own any property within the corporate limits of the city.

(c) The evidence showed that St. Joseph Gas Company is an independent dealer in natural gas and is not the agent, for any purpose, of the Kansas Natural Gas Company, or its receivers.

(d) The evidence shows that all natural gas sold by the receivers to the St. Joseph Gas Company is delivered at or near the city limits of St. Joseph, Missouri, and that thereafter the St. Joseph Gas Company has complete and undivided control and direction of the sale and distribution of said gas.

VII.

The court erred in its final decree in holding that the Kansas Natural Gas Company and its receivers, or any of them, are engaged in selling or delivering natural gas to consumers in St. Joseph, Missouri.

1149

VIII.

That the court erred in holding that the sale and delivery of gas to consumers in St. Joseph, Missouri, is interstate commerce.

IX.

The court erred in holding that the transportation of natural gas from Oklahoma to St. Joseph, Missouri, is interstate commerce of a national and not of a local character.

X.

The court erred in its final decree in granting relief to complainants against defendant, St. Joseph, Missouri, because no ground for relief is stated either in the original bill or in the supplemental bill, and no ground for relief was shown by the evidence against said defendant.

Wherefore, defendant St. Joseph, Missouri, prays that the decree may be reversed and the District Court of the United States for the District of Kansas, First Division, be directed to dismiss this suit as to said defendant.
